Immediate Aid With Less Talk Is Urged on Senate Committee

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Hearing Concludes With Hearing of London Emissary—LaGuardia Reveal Keynote of American Defense

WASHINGTON, D.C., February 11: (CP)—The Senate foreign relations committee concluded its hearing on the "Aid to Britain" bill this afternoon by listening to what Wendell Willkie had to say following his return from England. While Willkie, it was known, would go "all out" in support of Britain, nevertheless the capital awaited with considerable interest the exact nature of his testimony and the first hand information an impression as to Great Britain which he had to convey.

Bulletins

Willkie told the committee that the only way Congress can aid Britain "quickly enough" is to enact British aid legislation with modifications. As an example of immediate aid he told the committee: "If we are to aid Britain effectively, we should provide her with some five to ten destroyers per month. We should be able to do this directly and swiftly rather than through a rigmarole of dubious legalistic interpretations."

Earlier today Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York told the committee that complete plans for joint defence of Canada and the United States are now in existence. LaGuardia, who is chairman of the joint defence commission, said these plans embraced tactics, questions of territory and co-ordination of forces and are based on the assumption equipment and personnel being available to carry them out. He declared that the "British aid bill" was "part of the national defence program" of the United States.

Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard University, told the committee that enactment of the "Aid to Britain" measure was essential because the maintenance of the free way of life depended upon the defeat of Nazism and the Axis powers. This conclusion was unescapable. There was deadly peril of succumbing to Nazi philosophy if Great Britain fell.

OSTEND IS BOMBARDED

British Navy Drops Salvoes Into Belgian Coast Town—Boulogne is Target for Aircraft

LONDON, Feb. 11: (CP)—The Admiralty announced today that British warships had bombed Ostend on the German-held Belgian coast early this morning. The communiqué said that salvoes fell on harbor works and many fires were observed. No damage or casualties were suffered by British forces.

Heavy explosions, apparently in the direction of Boulogne, were heard this afternoon at a southeast English coast town after planes had earlier been heard flying out to sea above the fog.

Large Increase in Sitka Spruce Production Accounts For Expansion Of Output

Timber scaling in Prince Rupert forestry district for January this year totalled 7,818,762 board feet as compared with 1,535,544 board feet in the same month last year. The increase was largely due to the impetus which the war has given to the output of airplane spruce.

PLANNING TO SALVAGE BATTERED HULL; BRING IT TO PRINCE RUPERT

Weather and Time Will, However, Determine Success or Otherwise of Spectacular Operation With Wrecked United States Army Transport

Salvage equipment is being organized at Prince Rupert and Vancouver and is expected to be at Sisters Island at the southern entrance of Finlayson Channel and just north of Milbank Sound before the end of this week to undertake salvage of the hull of the 200-foot United States Army transport motorship Kvichak which ran up on a reef in an exposed position there two weeks ago.

Capt. Paul Armour, manager of the Armour Salvage Co., was in Prince Rupert yesterday and today in connection with the making of preparations for the salvage job which presents considerable difficulty and promises to be a somewhat spectacular undertaking. There is no assurance that the vessel, the entire superstructure of which has already been carried away by huge seas which swept clear over her funnel and masts, may not break up completely. Weather and time are important factors in connection with the salvage job but Capt. Armour is hopeful of being able to deliver the battered hull safely to the Prince Rupert Dry dock within the next couple of weeks or so. Negotiations for the salvage are now being conducted with the United States Army.

Capt. Armour, who flew north from Vancouver to the wreck aboard a United States Army amphibian plane ten days ago and incidentally had an arduous flight through fog, dense rain and poor visibility, has since then been at the scene of the wreck. He arrived in Prince Rupert yesterday aboard the power tug Pachena and left this afternoon on the Catala for Vancouver.

The salvaging of heavy mechanized United States Army equipment from the deck of the Kvichak was in itself an arduous task but, bad weather notwithstanding, there was success during three days' operations in safely removing eight large full-diesel driven dump trucks as well as a large diesel steam shovel complete with clamshell, pile driver and dragline equipment. This had just been accomplished when a gale came up and swept off all the upperworks of the vessel as well as 100,000 feet of heavy timber, 57,000 feet of which was later picked up by Indians.

The hull is now settled on the reef on which it is working when seas are rough, presenting the possibility of breaking up should there be really bad weather. The position is exposed to the open sea of Milbank Sound. The possibility of salvage, therefore, depends upon weather and the time element is important.

Capt. Armour reported that a diver had already examined the hull from stem to stern. The double bottom has been penetrated right into the fuel tanks and there is a large hole area for about fifty feet from forty feet aft of the stem to the engine room. At high water the vessel is practically submerged.

The Kvichak is a heavy steel built vessel. She is equipped with two 500-h.p. Atlas Imperial diesel engines.

The intention is to buoy the vessel up after she is refloated with compressed air and four large barges, two on either side. Thus the plan is to bring her into Prince Rupert.

Now standing by the Kvichak are the power tug Amariyssa and the derrick scow Skookum III, which carried out such salvage as already has been done of the deck cargo and will take part in the salvaging of the hull. Capt. Henry Hansen is in charge of this outfit.

The cargo in the holds of the Kvichak will be a total loss due to

RUMANIA AS BASE

Britain Explains Why It Was Impossible to Maintain Diplomatic Relations

LONDON, Feb. 10: (CP)—The announcement last night which said that Great Britain had broken off diplomatic relations with Rumania also said that "Germany is building up in Rumania all the elements of an expeditionary force" and Rumanian territory is being used by Germany "as a military base in furtherance of her plans for prosecution of the war."

The statement added that these German measures were being taken without a word of dissent from the Rumanian government and the position of the British legation in Bucharest had become impossible. Ministers of Norway, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg will leave Bucharest following the breaking off of diplomatic relations by Great Britain with Rumania.

The Bulgarian charge d'affaires in London has been recalled home.

BREAK WITH BULGARIA N. LONDON—Bulgaria may be the next country to break off diplomatic relations, it was felt today in informed quarters. This will be done if uniformed Germans are allowed to enter Bulgaria. The government of Bulgaria officially denies that there has been such entry. However, doubts are held as indicated by the speech of Prime Minister Churchill on Sunday. According to reports from Sofia, Russia has formally advised the Bulgarian foreign minister that the Soviet will not interfere with the passage of German troops through Bulgaria.

COUNTER-ATTACKS FAIL ATHENS—Fresh counter-attacks by the Italians on the Albanian front have been frustrated by the Greeks with heavy losses to the Fascists.

BRITONS ADVANCING STILL CAIRO—The British drives in all sections of Africa-Libya, Eritrea, Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland—continue with little resistance by the Italians. One Italian general—Telleria, commander of the Tenth Italian Army—is dead of wounds suffered in fighting south of Bengasi in Libya. British headquarters said today. In all nineteen Italian generals and one admiral have been captured.

PARACHUTISTS OVER BUDAPEST BUDAPEST—Thirty-one large German transport planes, of the type used to carry parachute troops, passed over this Hungarian capital today flying so low that the Swastika emblems could be seen. They were headed southeastward in the direction of the Balkans.

HANOVER IS HEAVILY HIT LONDON—The Royal Air Force staged a heavy attack during the night on the great German industrial city and railway centre of Hanover, setting many fires and evidently doing heavy damage. The attack lasted six hours. Oil plants at Rotterdam were also attacked as well as the invasion bases of Cherbourg, Boulogne and Ostend. Shipping was lifted completely out of the water and vessels were seen to completely overturn. Objectives in Southern Italy and Sicily were also attacked.

LOSSES IN SEA WAR LONDON—For the seventh successive week losses in the war at sea have been below average totalling 15 ships and 57,000 tons for the week ending February 2. Eleven were British ships, three Allied and one neutral. The weekly average of loss is about 80,000.

FEW GERMANS COMING OVER LONDON—Beautiful weather, with moonlit skies, prevailed last night but the Nazis came over only in small numbers and their attacks were light. London had a brief alarm but no bombing. East Anglia and the East Midlands also reported enemy planes.

FREE FRENCH ACTIVE CAIRO—A Free French column has captured another Italian garrison 200 miles from Tripoli.

NAZIS OVER ICELAND BERLIN—It was reported here last night that long range German bombers had flown over Iceland.

The board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital was in monthly session last night. The financial statement for the year was presented for the consideration of the board and was ordered sent on to the annual general meeting of the Prince Rupert General Hospital Association. It was decided to call for tenders for the demolition of the old hospital building. As previously announced, the possibility of another hospital building on that site is under discussion with federal authorities. The iron lung will be set up in the board room, it was decided.

REPEAL OF ZONE LAW IS ASKED

City Commissioner Refers Measure To Committee For Consideration As To Disposition

After hearing representations that the statute was in general disfavor and that it was discouraging building in Prince Rupert rather than being an instrument of developing construction interest as had been originally planned, City Commissioner B. C. Braecwell, sitting as a city council last night, referred the zoning bylaw to a committee consisting of John Dybhavn, S. E. Parker and P. H. Limzey, members of the appeal board under the bylaw, and City Engineer F. N. Good and City Treasurer D. J. Matheson to investigate and report as to what should be done in regard to its repeal or otherwise.

Last night's meeting was held in connection with the receipt of a petition of property owners, numbering 72, who asked for repeal of the zoning bylaw on the ground that it was detrimental to the small property owner, was the cause of the reversion of property to the city and, if repealed, the action would result in the promotion of building.

George B. Casey felt the bylaw had no proper place in this community which had not yet reached the state where it was possible to regulate business and residential development by zoning into specific localities. Mr. Casey did not think the natural trend of business in the town had been established and no one was in a position to intelligently allocate it. He thought the bylaw was out of order and not in keeping with good common sense. Particularly damaging was the precluding of using 25-foot lots for dwellings and the confining of apartment houses to a certain lo-

Prisoners Of War . . .

There has been some objection taken to Canada paying enemy officers who are prisoners of war in this country. This was arranged at an international convention in 1939. The cash is not handed over to the prisoner but it is placed to his credit and he draws food and other articles to that amount. British officers in Germany or Italy are similarly treated and a neutral nation makes inspections in each case to see that the prisoners are properly treated. It is said to be one of the few international laws that are being kept by each country, possibly for fear of retaliation in case it is not.

Drive Carefully . . .

From time to time we have urged that Prince Rupert people drive carefully because of the narrow streets and the lack of sidewalks. It also must be remembered that there is today much more traffic than we have had before in the history of the city. Careful driving is essential. Slower driving on most of the streets is particularly desirable and particular care where children are seen playing around.

We have to remember that children have nowhere to play except on the streets. The few playgrounds do not begin to accommodate all the children of the city and most of the children like to stay around home and the parents like to have them near. Playgrounds are not always well patrolled.

Those who drive cars will have to remember that pedestrians have rights and that the modern high speed car is a dangerous vehicle. Children also need constant warnings to be watchful of passing cars. Some of the youngsters are very daring and foolishly careless.

Three Likely Attack Points . . .

There seem to be three likely points of attack for the Germans. Evidently they are preparing for a drive through Bulgaria to Greece toward the Suez Canal. They also have been making preparations for an invasion of Britain. Another possibility is an effort to drive the British out of Gibraltar. Without command of the sea, however, it does not seem likely that Gibraltar could be captured.

Germany is essentially a land power and her army has so far proven invincible. Thus it would seem that the safest bet would be a drive toward Greece. It may be carried out simultaneously with the attempted invasion of Britain and the move would have the effect of dividing the defence forces of the British.

PASSING OF PICKLE MAN

Howard J. Heinz Dies At Philadelphia At Age Of Sixty-Four Years

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—Howard J. Heinz, noted American industrialist and president of the well known pickling and preserving firm bearing his name, died here Sunday. He was sixty-four years of age.

Howard Heinz said a bottle of horseradish was the acorn from which his family's international pickle grew. His father, Henry J. Heinz, born in Pittsburgh in 1844, conceived the idea of bottling the white-flowered, brassy-seed plant and sowed a small patch near his home in 1859.

He rented a shack next door, hired two women and a boy to help him grate and bottle the horseradish and thus started the first of the 57 varieties.

Pickles were added two years later and the son recalled that the constant association of that one product with the business was no little annoyance to his father. He quoted the elder Heinz's explanation of how the "57 varieties" came about.

"One day while I was riding on the Sixth Avenue elevated railway in New York, I noticed a sign of a concern which announced that it had twelve styles of shoes. That gave me an idea. I thought of styles of our products but that did not sound right. Then I thought of kinds and the word 'varieties' flashed in my mind.

"I counted them so. The idea of 57 gripped me immediately. I stepped off the train at the next station, took the first train returning downtown, went to my hotel and telephoned for our lithographer to send his man over. We began work at once on the advertising card that proved a great aid."

Born in Pittsburgh Howard Heinz was born August 27, 1877, in Pittsburgh. His life was interwoven with that of his family's business as it was similarly entwined with the men and times that made Pittsburgh known for decades as the "workshop of the world."

Carnegie was stamped on steel; Westinghouse upon electrical appliances; Armstrong on cork; O'Hara (later Pittsburgh Plate) upon glass, and Heinz on pickle jars long before other "newcomers" like the Aluminum Company, Gulf Oil and Koppers company became known to the world.

The son got his preparatory education at Shady Side Academy and was graduated from Yale in 1900. He immediately entered his father's firm as a clerk. He worked five years before he was made advertising manager. In 1907 he became sales manager and in 1915 chairman of the board, assuming the presidency on the death of his father in 1919.

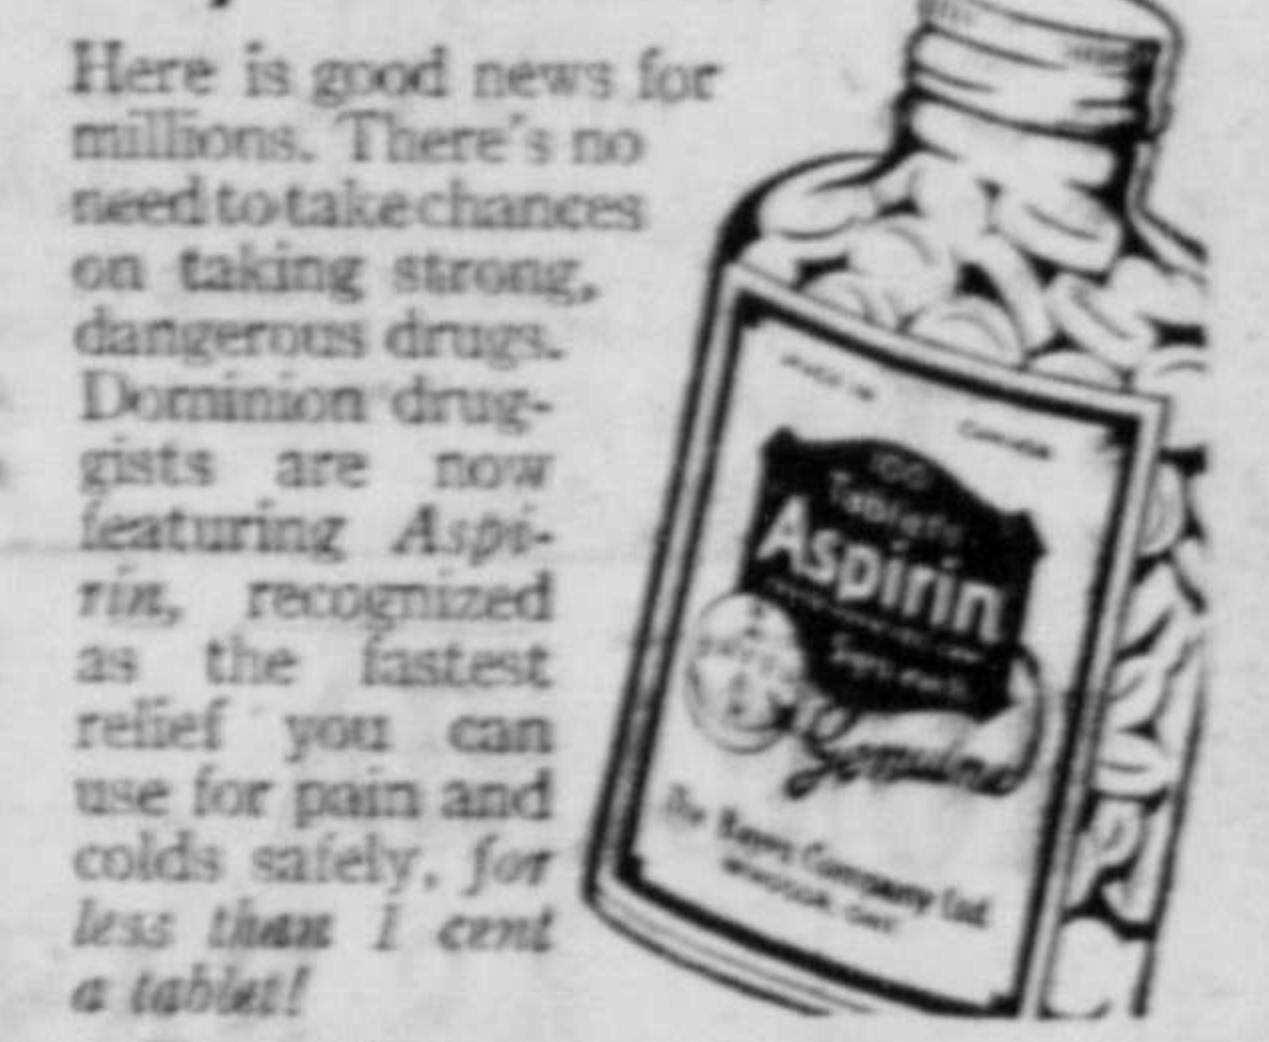

He married Elizabeth Granger Rust of Saginaw, Mich., October 3, 1906. There were two sons, one Henry J. ("Jack") Heinz, named for the founder of the business, and the other Rust, named for his mother's folks.

MAKE PLANS FOR DINNER

Annual Meeting Of Horticultural Society To Be Held Next Month —Grass Burner Purchased

The Prince Rupert Horticultural Society will hold the annual dinner on Monday, March 24, it was decided last night by the executive committee. This is a little later than last year. Then a week or two later there will be the annual sale of perennial plants. The dinner will mark the annual election of officers. At the meeting the president, H. F. Pullen, announced that he would not be a candidate for president again. He had held the office a number of times and thought it would be better to pass it around. A committee meeting will be held soon to make recommendations for the officers for next year.

The committee last night inspected the new grass burner which was recently purchased in Vancouver. It was reported that the cost had been $27.50. While it was not a new one it had been used only twice. Those wishing to use the burner will pay 25c a day or part of a day for its use and find their own oil. Public organizations wishing to use it will have to pay a dollar a day. It is hoped to arrange to have it located at the Fire Hall.

Those present at the meeting were H. F. Pullen, president, C. G. Ham, secretary, Mrs. C. J. Norrington, Mrs. Thomas Priest, Mrs. Neal Carter, Thomas Priest, Theo Collart and P. C. Miller.

Salvation Army Hostel Proves Its Usefulness

The Salvation Army hostel on Second Avenue has now been open for three months and the use to which it has been put by members of the forces here is proof of the value of its function. Adjutant Ivan Halsey reported this morning that, although the place has accommodation for only seventeen men at a time, no less than 475 men during the three month period had accommodation overnight. Many more made use of the reading and writing room facilities and several thousand sheets of writing paper, envelopes and postcards were used.

Weather Forecast

Prince Rupert and Queen Charlotte Islands—Light to moderate north to northeast winds, cloudy with occasional light rain.

BUILDING OF HOMES

At Least Twenty New Residences Have Been Erected Since Last October

City Assessor Arthur Brooksbank estimates that since last October some twenty or so new residences have been built in Prince Rupert and thus, in a measure at least, the need for houses is being met. These houses were built since the assessment roll for the year was made up so are not taxable for improvements this year.

Man in the Moon

"Adieu, adieu, kind friends, adieu!" Jake was singing this morning as he thought of the Irish Fusiliers going away.

Hello, Rocky Mountain Rangers! All coming here as strangers. Let's make them feel they're here among friends. They're just coming here to train. And will not mind the rain. Hospitality is sure to make amends.

Tom: "My dad has Nelson's watch."
Bill: "That's nothing. My dad has Adam's apple."

Irishman defending himself in a poaching case: "Indeed, your worship, the only bird I shot was a rabbit and I knocked it down with a stick."

Jake is not altogether an expert in writing advertisements. Here is something he turned in recently: "Fore sale, piano by a widow lady with carved legs."

Grandpa was having his afternoon sleep in the armchair and emitting sounds that might easily have come from a cross-cut saw. As father entered the room, he saw little Billy twisting one of grandpa's waistcoat buttons.

"What are you doing?" he whispered. "You mustn't disturb grandpa, Billy."

"I'm not disturbing him, daddy," explained the child. "I was just trying to tune him in on another station."

The Digby Island ferryboat Catherine B. was withdrawn from the dry dock where she will undergo her annual overhaul. The vessel will be off for the next week or so, it is expected. The smaller light-house tender Birnie will carry out the Digby Island run while the Catherine B. is off.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

A gas derrick scow, which recently broke adrift from the Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug Pachena while being towed from Aliford Bay to Prince Rupert, is still resting high and dry at high tide on the sand five miles below Rose Spit on the east coast of Graham Island. There is little danger of further deterioration. It is believed, and as soon as weather becomes more favorable, equipment will be sent across Hecate Straits to pick it up and bring it on into Prince Rupert.

Albert Farrow, steamboat inspector, is due in the city on the Prince Rupert tomorrow morning from Vancouver. He will inspect the steamer Prince George, which is undergoing her annual overhaul at the local dry dock, as well as other vessels including the Digby Island ferry boat Catherine B.

Union steamer Catala, Capt. Ernest Sheppard, again returned in good time at 7:15 this morning from Stewart and other northern points and will sail at 1:30 this afternoon for Vancouver and waypoints.

WEDDED AT KITWANGA

Miss Sarah Wilson of Hazelton becomes Bride of Harold D. Sinclair

KITWANGA, Feb. 11.—A quiet wedding took place at Kitwanga last Friday when Miss Sarah Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson of Hazelton, became the bride of Harold D. Sinclair of Kitwanga. The marriage was solemnized at the home of the Anglican missionary by Rev. Frank Burling of Hazelton, assisted by the missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. John Hayhurst. The witnesses were Lay Readers James Ryan and M. H. Bright.

In the evening a wedding party was held in the Kitwanga Community Hall when many friends gathered to extend their best wishes and congratulations to the couple. All the head chiefs and the old and young people alike were in attendance, the affair being very enjoyable. Mrs. Mary V. Harris and Miss Clara Fowler had charge of the serving of refreshments.

Among the speakers who extended felicitations to the couple were Chief David L. Wells, Chief George De-wel-lasque, Chief W. B. Morgan, Chief Councillor M. H. Bright, Chief Paul Benson and Chief Charles Dudoward of Port Simpson, the last-mentioned being a special guest, accompanied by Mrs. Dudoward and Mrs. F. D. Sampson. The bridegroom gave a speech of appreciation. The proceedings closed with prayer by Honorary Captain Henry Lett of the Church Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair have left for the Kitwanga Valley to take up residence at the tie camp of the groom who has a contract from the Canadian National Railways.

REPEAL OF ZONE LAW

Mr. Casey recalled that he had taken an active part in opposing the bylaw when it had been originally enacted. The then commissioner, Mr. Alder, had said that the measure was of an experimental nature as a result of which it was hoped to interest finance for house building. If it was unsuccessful in this, Mr. Alder had given assurance at the time that he would be prepared to repeal it. Mr. Casey declared that the bylaw served no useful purpose, the city would be better without it and, indeed, he had failed to learn of a single person who favored it.

Commissioner's reply
I am glad to hear you are going to give the public a chance," Mr. Casey remarked.

L. C. Eby said he had found few people who even knew what was in the bylaw and there was little opportunity of finding out. He had not heard of any person who was in favor of it unless it might be some person who had a vacant lot next to his property and desired that no one should be able to build on it. The bylaw rendered single 25-foot lots useless and which ignored requests of the people. He felt that the people were being excluded from the council and confidence of the ruler. There was no sense, he felt, in a commissioner discussing municipal affairs before exclusive bodies such as the service clubs and not taking the people into his confidence. Mr. Bracewell replied that he could not be held responsible as to what might have happened before he became commissioner but he could give assurance that, as long as he was commissioner, the people would have the opportunity to be heard and he would welcome an expression of their views.
