Premier And Foreign Minister Of Country Summoned By Hitler

Flight From Belgrade to Munich and on to Berchtesgaden Tonight—May Hit Pro-British Plan

BELGRADE, February 13: (CP)—The Yugoslavian Premier and Foreign Minister left today for Germany aboard a special plane and were reported to have reached Munich where they were met by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. It was reported here that the Yugoslav officials—Premier Cvetkovic and Foreign Minister Cincat-Markovic—would go to Berchtesgaden to see Chancellor Adolf Hitler tonight.

Roosevelt Seeks Underlying From Britain Regarding Fleet—Senate Approval Of Bill Expected

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 13: (CP)—The United States foreign relations committee today approved the administration's "Aid to Britain" bill by a vote of 15 to 8. The legislation was approved in substantially the same form that it was voted upon by the House of Representatives. It now goes to the Senate for debate which starts Monday and it is hoped to end in two weeks. The committee acted after it had rejected a proposal to restrict the President's authority to send American armed forces out of the western hemisphere.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 13:—In connection with his "lease-lend" aid to Britain plan, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is said to have already requested the British government to issue sealed orders to naval commanders to speed their ships to United States waters if such a thing should happen as Germany seizing England. While American authorities are satisfied that Britain can repel invasion, this step is being taken as an additional safeguard.

Another report in Washington is that United States destroyers might be given to Great Britain in trade for the great new British Battleship King George V.

It was thought that the Senate foreign relations committee might vote approval of the "lease-lend" bill today in which case debate on the floor of the Senate could commence next week.

An informal poll of the Senate yesterday indicated that the "lease-lend" bill would pass with 64 to 70 out of 96 members of the upper chamber supporting it. This would give Roosevelt the most smashing victory he has had since entering the White House.

Speculation As To Peace Or War Continues As Leaders Of Nations Hold Secret Meets

LONDON, February 13.—General Francisco Franco of Spain and Chief of State Henri Phillippe Petain of France met today at Antibes on the French Riviera. BUSY YEAR FOR MILLS

Prince George District Plants Anticipate Much Activity

Sawmills in the Prince George district are looking forward to one of the busiest seasons on record this year, according to word brought to the city from the interior. The Sinclair Mills plant is already cutting lumber, it being the first occasion since 1929 that a mill in that district has started up so early in the season. Other mills are getting in readiness. The Prince George district mills specialize in western white spruce lumber, the most of it going to the Eastern United States.

The interior is having an exceptionally mild winter and there is little snow.

Fair Exchange is Heart Affair for Canadian Soldier and Sweetheart

LONDON, Feb. 13: (CP)—Among 40,000 binoculars received by the Ministry of Supply from people in Britain was one pair offered by a Canadian soldier. The glasses were handed over in response to a campaign by the ministry on behalf of the fighting forces.

"I hate to ask for money for these," said the Canadian, "but since I was over here I've got engaged and I can't afford to buy the girl a ring. Could you give me enough for that?"

The ministry saw to it that he got his money—and the girl got her ring.

WAS PURE ACCIDENT

Inquest Into Death of Little Jackie Nelson Held Yesterday Afternoon—Pat Mazzei Exonerated

The death of three-year-old Jack Nelson came as a result of an accident when struck by an automobile driven by Pat Mazzei and no blame could be attached to the driver. This was the verdict yesterday afternoon of a coroner's jury which investigated the circumstances of the incident last Saturday afternoon on Eighth Avenue East which culminated in the death of the child Tuesday night in Prince Rupert General Hospital. Evidence indicated that the boy stepped out suddenly in front of the car which was driving at moderate speed, possibly fifteen to twenty miles per hour, giving the driver no chance to avoid striking him. Injuries included a double fracture of the skull, broken collar bone and broken thigh. The child never regained consciousness between the time of the accident and his death.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner A. J. Lancaster and Constable D. D. McIndoe directed the examination of witnesses. The jury consisted of H. T. Look, foreman, J. C. Gilker, S. J. Hunter, Harry Thrupp, E. G. Fitzpatrick and Rev. J. H. Myrswang. Witnesses were M. A. Urquhart, Dr. R. G. Large, Jack H. Nelson, Bobby Menzie, Asle Arntsen, Constable D. D. McIndoe and Patrick Mazzei.

M. A. Urquhart was standing at the window of Jack Nelson's home that afternoon looking out into the street where seven or eight boys, among them deceased, were playing marbles. Witness saw the car coming, travelling in an easterly direction. It was travelling at a reasonable rate of speed, possibly twenty miles. Witness did not see the child being hit by the car but he saw the driver pick the lad up. He (witness) went to the kitchen to advise the parents who went out. About fifteen minutes or half an hour later he saw Mazzei at the house. He appeared nervous but there was no sign of liquor.

Medical Testimony

Dr. R. G. Large, who attended the boy, testified that the skull was fractured in two places at the base with right collarbone and right thigh broken. He was unconscious until death, immediate cause of which was cardiac failure preceded by brain injury. The injuries could have been caused by being struck by a car. They were very severe injuries and the child would not have lived so long had he not been very healthy. Two operations were performed in the effort to save his life.

Jack H. Nelson, father of the child, testified that he was three years four months old. He (the father) rushed out after being informed of the accident and picked him up from the side of the road where he had been laid by the driver of the car. The lad was placed in Mazzei's car and they took him to the hospital. It had been customary for the children to play in the street. The car was close alongside where the boy was picked up.

Bobby Menzie, aged 13, was playing marbles with other boys. Jackie Nelson was among them. Witness was on the left hand side of the street shooting to the marble ring on the right side where Jackie was with the others. He (Bobby) saw the car coming from the direction...

Emergent Session of War Cabinet Being Called—British and American Nationals Urged to Leave Orient—Dutch Ships Ordered to Neutral Ports

SYDNEY, Australia, February 13: (CP)—A. W. Fadden, deputy Prime Minister of Australia, declared today that the war had reached a new stage of the utmost gravity to Australia and indicated that "grave advices" concerning the situation in the Pacific had been received. The information was received during a session of the war advisory council which adjourned pending the appearance of service chiefs at an emergent meeting of the war cabinet tomorrow.

The announcement of the Deputy Prime Minister of Australia followed an official admission from the British government in London that Japan might suddenly intervene in the war on the side of Germany and Italy. There was definite evidence, it was said in London, that Japanese extremists were taking charge in Tokyo and Great Britain would not be surprised to see Japan enter the war. British nationals are again being urged to leave Japan and United States is also reported to have urged all Americans in the Far East, who are not urgently required there, to return home.

Great Britain, in the meantime, is said to have reminded Tokyo of the fate that has befallen other countries which acceded to Axis demands of collaboration. Another indication of possible impending developments in the Pacific is the advising of Dutch steamers to proceed at once to neutral ports. Two Dutch East Indies ships are putting into Manila as a result of receiving such orders.

CANADA IS SUPPLYING

Great Britain Not Getting Pulp And Paper From Usual Sources

OTTAWA, Feb. 13: (CP)—Loss of northern European markets during 1940 has caused Britain to look to Canada and the United States for her pulp and paper supplies.

This trade has developed satisfactorily and transatlantic suppliers have left no doubt of their willingness to meet the needs of Great Britain.

However, the necessity of reserving shipping space and saving foreign exchange made it imperative for Britain to look after her own needs as far as possible. Thus the papermaking industry has been thrown back more and more on materials produced at home. Rags and waste paper, which in peacetime are used in sizeable quantities by British paper-makers, greatly increased in importance.

Early in 1940 wood pulp was obtained in "substantial quantities" from Norway and Sweden. Another raw material for making paper—esparto—was coming across the Channel from France. But developments in the war situation changed all that. Collapse of France, domination of the Low Countries and the threat to Scandinavian producers checked the flow of all pulp-producing materials—except from Canada and the United States.

The women's first aid class under the St. John's Ambulance Association of this city had its second session last night with about fifty in attendance. The study of fracture treatment was continued under Instructor Angus Macdonald.

RAILWAY DIRECTOR

Robert J. Moffatt Of Canadian National Passes Away

WINNIPEG, Feb. 13:—The following message was received here from S. J. Hungerford, chairman and president, Canadian National Railways, at present in Vancouver: "It is with profound regret that the members of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways have heard of the death of their colleague, Robert J. Moffatt. The wise counsel and wide experience of western Canadian affairs which he brought to our deliberations was a very great value to the system and the quiet charm of his personality will be sadly missed, not only by his brother directors but by the staff of the railway."

Australians Want Their Silk Socks

MELBOURNE, Feb. 13: (CP)—In spite of the increased price of silk stockings the demand today is for stockings of the "sheerest" weave, says The Argus.

Ladies of leisure or business girls all demand sheer stockings and they are buying in large quantities because it is possible that later no silk stockings will be procurable. Business girls seem determined not to do without them and by denying themselves other things they are able to put by the extra few shillings needed to buy a pair of silk stockings.

Meeting Tonight - - -

Tonight in the City Hall there is to be a meeting of those interested in the promotion of the sale of war savings certificates or war stamps. So far the campaign does not seem to have been taken very seriously in Prince Rupert but the meeting tonight is the opening gun of a real war support movement. Every person who attends the meeting is an inspiration to the others. Selling is never an easy job but the selling of war savings certificates is so important that we feel sure everyone will wish to participate. It is the next best thing to joining the forces that are going overseas.

We shall be glad to record the progress made from day to day and we hope to be able to mark up big figures during the next week or two.

Bren Gun Effort - - -

We have just received from the John Inglis Co. Ltd. a small portfolio of photographs of the output of the plant including shipments of Bren guns for both the British and Canadian governments. The plant covers eight acres of land with nineteen buildings and has since 1858 been engaged in manufacturing machinery and tools for industrial purposes. Five years ago the old company was taken over by a new one of the same name and, while carrying on their old business, they have added to it the manufacture of ordnance for the Canadian and British governments. They have gradually expanded the plant until today the manufacture of Bren guns is only a small part of their work. Their commercial business has grown and the pictures are evidence of the completeness of the plant.

The machine gun plant is a huge place and the shipping and assembly rooms of the plant all indicate that real business is being carried on. One of the articles recently made for customers is a large marine engine for a British Columbia shipyard, a picture of which is included in the portfolio.

WAR AND VALENTINE

Much Mystery About Custom's Origin But Missives Follow Trend Of Times

Khaki-clad cupids coyly cavort on many comic and sentimental valentines of wartime 1941. Other cards bear pictures of sailors, soldiers and airmen, separately and in groups. Patriotic pictures show bulldogs, flags—various devices. And others stick to old-fashioned lace and verse, with little or no hint of war in their make-up for February 14.

Men in the forces kept sales staffs busy with their demands for cards. Series specially designed for men on service sold like hot cakes, a wholesaler reported. This year's business in valentines of all kinds topped a five-year trend to bigger sales.

People seemed to be trying to "buck one another up" with cards, a dealer observed. "Friendship valentines" conveying good will and friendly affection were unexpectedly popular, and serious valentines of almost all types sold in great numbers, the Canadian Press learned.

"You can always sell to a sweet-heart," said a publisher of cards, who reported "spirited sales" generally. He added children's valentines are more popular every year. Valentines for children to send their parents and grandparents, cards for adults to send children, are printed in ever-increasing quantities.

Why St. Valentine's?
Origin of the whole thing is obscure. "Valentine" is the name of a confusing number of saints and priests. The two best known were a priest of Rome and a bishop of Terni, but both lived in the same period—the days of Claudius II, Emperor of Rome—both died the same day, and both were buried on the Flaminian Way, so their biographical paths are confusingly crossed.

They were both reputedly buried on the eve of the feast of Lupercalia, a pagan festival honoring Faunus, an ancient rural god, and it is believed the execution of Valentine—or the Valentines—became a part of the wild celebrations. Later the pagan festival, with so many others, changed to a Christian festival, as the celebration of a saint's day.

For nearly 1800 years England has observed the anniversary of the Saint's passing, in more or less inappropriate form. The origin of the beribboned love-note and the sentimental verse is traced to the February Juno feast of the Romans, at which men chose partners by lot. That practice survived in England to the 17th century, according to the diarist, Samuel Pepys.

Returning To Favor
Valentines slumped after the First Great War from the pinnacle of popularity they had reached earlier. In the days of Charles Dickens they were popular and the novelist tells of Sam Weller's labored composition of a "Valentine" to an Ipswich housemaid. Mr. Pickwick's made-up manuscript confused the whole issue by signing his master's name to the outpourings of his own heart.

But within the last decade there has been renewed interest in Valentine cards—an interest appar-

LIBRARY IN NEED OF MONEY

Librarian Reports Children's Department In Bad Shape—Fiction Also Out Of Date

The Prince Rupert Library Board held its monthly meeting Wednesday evening. Those present were Frank Dibb, chairman, T. B. Black, secretary, Mrs. N. E. Arnold, R. E. Moore, A. D. McIntosh and Olive van Cooten, librarian. The annual report was presented and routine business discussed.

It was reported that books had been added during the year; by gift 84, by purchase 337, gross total, 421; discarded, 327; net gain, 94. New books included, fiction 282, non-fiction 34, juvenile 105.

The total number of volumes on the shelves at the end of 1939 was 8397; at the end of 1940 8491.

Borrowers cards issued 384, cancelled 245, net gain 139.

The number of borrowers at the end of 1939 was 4466. Gain in 1940 139. Number of borrowers at the end of 1940 4605.

Circulation
Classified, the books taken out were: fiction without duplicate pay 14 840, may section, 4,779, philosophy 90, religion 58, sociology 142, language 2, science 213, useful arts 393, fine arts 168, literature 326, travel 541, biography 487, history 355, juvenile 4,755, total, 27,129.

Librarian's Report
A decrease in the circulation was noticeable in 1940, the total circulation being 27,129 as against 28,278 in the previous year. This decrease is shown in the adult fiction and the children's sections. The non-fiction shows an increase. In fact, this part of the library shows an increase in almost every section, especially in the biography and literature. The pay section continues to thrive and shows a slight increase over 1939 despite the fact that some of the books ordered did not come through, owing to present conditions, and that some of the orders took weeks to arrive.

The library held its second tag day on May 4 under the direction of Mrs. W. Brass and it was a success. The amount realized was $93.20 with which new books were bought for the free, adult and children's sections. The children who tagged were all regular library borrowers and their whole-hearted co-operation helped to make the undertaking the success it was.

The adult fiction and children's sections of the library have had practically no attention for many years and their condition is deplorable, which is the reason for the drop in circulation in these sections. Very few new books have been added and many are discarded and many more should be discarded as they are ragged and dirty but, as there are no new volumes to replace them we are forced to leave them on the shelves.

Binding to the extent of $100 was done during 1940 and, although it was much appreciated, the number bound was hardly noticeable as no binding had been done for the past two or three years and many hundreds of books are badly in need of attention and have been taken from the shelves from the Canadian Club during until such time as more binding the year and greatly appreciated. may be done.

A certain amount of repair work was done on the veranda of the building during the year. Some new boards were laid on the floor, also new supports were set in under the uplifts.

The reading room received more consideration than it has done in some years. During the summer holidays it was given two fresh coats of paint in cream and brown. The ceiling was done in cream and the walls also in cream down three-fourths of their length which makes the room considerably lighter. The floor was done over with a new coat of stain.

New periodicals were added to the former list in the reading room and a few reference books were bought. "Bartlett's Quotations," "The Encyclopedia Year Book" and a musical encyclopedia were added. Practically all the directories of various cities throughout Canada have been brought up to date and a new set of books named "The Word Book" in ten volumes was purchased.

A gift of money was received

MEN DINE AND LISTEN

Annual Banquet at St. Andrew's Cathedral Hall Treated to Feast of Speeches and Good Food

One of the most successful of a long series of annual men's banquets was held last night in Cathedral Hall, G. P. Tinker presiding. The dinner which was excellent, was provided by the Women's Auxiliary of the Cathedral and the speakers for the evening were Right Rev. Bishop Rix, Major Sutherland of Revelstoke, head of the medical service in Prince Rupert military area, Very Rev. Dean Gibson and Rev. R. C. H. Durnford, padre for the area.

The address of the Bishop was somewhat of a personal nature to his people in Prince Rupert. He told of his recent visit to Vancouver when he took part in the consecration of Bishop Heathcote, including a number of interesting incidents in connection with it. One feature of his visit to Vancouver was the discovery that during the time of his visit there were large congregations in every church he attended. He thought it was a sign of a changing world condition. He also urged the men to all take part in the present drive for selling war savings certificates.

Major Sutherland, who is a member of the United Church Men's Club at Revelstoke, told of an annual joint gathering of men's clubs held at his town. The United Church, the Catholic Church and the Anglicans united to make this an outstanding event. After all, they were only one family. These men's events tended to promote friendship and in the end friendships were about the only things that were remembered.

The doctor told a number of amusing stories and urged members of this club not to be mentally lazy. Too little effort was needed nowadays. People sat in their easy chairs and listened to speeches and lectures over the radio and did little themselves. He suggested less listening and more thinking. Mental laziness was one of the outstanding sins of the present age. Laziness tended to atrophy. Unused talents gradually tended to disappear. Very soon, the speaker said, we should be approaching the period of reconstruction and the need of clear, sober thinking would be greatly needed.

The Dean Speaks

Dean Gibson spoke of the need of spiritual as well as physical development at this time. Today the nation was fighting for spiritual forces, for the right of the people to spiritual freedom. In Prince Rupert it was difficult to realize that we were at war. God was very good to us.

The Dean then spoke feelingly of the miracle of Dunkirk and the retreat from Somaliland and prophesied that there would be many more miraculous interventions before the war ended. He pointed out that the church was the only organization in Germany that had held out against Hitler. Politicians, editors and all others who had talked of liberty were whipped into line but sections of the church had held out as they did also in Norway and Holland. The church fought for moral freedom. In Holland the churches had continued to pray for the Queen in spite of pressure brought to bear against them.

The Dean also told of how the churches in England were getting together in an effort to plan for the future. A radical program, almost revolutionary, had been drawn up by the Archbishops of York and Canterbury and the aim was to bring in the Kingdom of Heaven after the war was over.

Dean Gibson concluded with an appeal for financial support for the churches. While war work took most of their attention the churches must go on and support was necessary.

Concluding the list of speakers Padre Durnford proposed a toast to the ladies in a delightfully humorous address in which he spoke par-

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Linzey Complete Quarter of Century of Marital Bliss

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Linzey celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary in fine style last evening when fifty old friends surprised them with a party at their home on Fifth Avenue West. The company enjoyed community singing after which delicious refreshments were served.

On behalf of those present, Cliff Gilker presented Mr. and Mrs. Linzey with a beautiful radio lamp and a silver relish dish. He wished them continued success and happiness. The bride and groom of a quarter of a century ago responded suitably.

Mr. and Mrs. Linzey were married in Prince Rupert in 1916 by Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant and are two of the city's well known residents. Hearty congratulations are being generally extended them on this happy occasion.

FLIERS IN SPOTLIGHT

British Coastal Airmen in Action From Gibraltar To Iceland

LONDON, Feb. 13: (CP)—Coastal command fliers, best known for their patrol activities, are playing an increasingly important part as an attacking unit of the Royal Air Force. In conjunction with raids on enemy shipping and submarines, the coastal command has been harassing the enemy in his own lair, both by bombing raids and by laying mines off harbors and estuaries.

Coastal fliers have taken part in recent attacks on German and Italian submarine bases in occupied France and in December alone 200 Command aircraft were engaged in these operations, dropping about 100 tons of bombs. Bases at Lorient, Bordeaux and Brest were the principal objectives. The submarines that attack ships bringing food and munitions to Britain sail from these ports and each U-boat destroyed in coastal raids lessens the threat to the Atlantic life line.

Another form of attack developed recently by the command is aerial torpedo raids on enemy merchant shipping and about 50,000 tons have been accounted for in coastal fliers' sorties. The watch over ships and shores is still the command's major task, however, and planes are on guard from Iceland to Gibraltar.

Need Good Pilots

Work of the pilots and aircraft in the northwest approaches has been particularly rigorous lately, calling for great endurance and good navigation. Frequently pilots are eight hours over the sea, travelling 400 miles into the Atlantic.

"All the time we are trying to improve our methods of finding and destroying submarines," an R. A. F. officer said. "For some time past we have been concentrating on defeating the new technique of the German U-boat commanders who apparently are finding it better to attack at night than during the day. Constant patrols, it is believed, are keeping the enemy submarines under water."

Like the rest of the R. A. F., the Coastal Command is being increased substantially month by month and new squadrons are frequently being formed. Keeping a close eye on the invasion ports is one of the Command's chief tasks now that the invasion threat has become more imminent and Britain's leaders are assured that whatever move against England is made on the continent it will be reported back to them.

Dates For Three Little Theatre Plays Are Set

Three one-act plays will be presented by the Prince Rupert Little Theatre on February 24 and 25 in the old Post Office building on Second Avenue. It has been decided. This building has recently been renovated and the hall lends itself admirably for the staging of plays.

The first play is "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" a war story from the pen of Barry and will strike home. Sheldford Darton is the director.

A mystery plot forms the ground for the second. Building on the disappearance of an old Jeweller the story unfolds a tensely interesting method up to the final moment under the direction of Mrs. G. Blackaby.

The third play is one of hair-raising "meller-dramas" the old school. Mrs. W. Thomas is the director.

particularly of the part played by women in the newer parts of the prairies. This was replied to by Mrs. Meadows.

Musical numbers were contributed mostly by men of the forces. There was an instrumental number by the Fusiliers Trio; vocal solos by Sergeant Major Simpkins; banjo solo by Fusilier Johnson-Watson; vocal selections by Miss Priestley; cornet solo by Lance Corporal Peebles accompanied by his father, Sergeant Peebles, and songs by Private Collins.

Dinner was served by the ladies in the Daily News classified column with Mrs. Thomas Andrew as co-ordinator, assisted by Mrs. Greer and Mrs. Jack Bulger. Tables were in charge of the following: Mrs. Gibson and Mesdames Lambley, Nordan, F. McLeod and Bamford. Mrs. Johns and Mesdames Tinker, Cruikshank and Bartlett. ANGLICANS URGED TO TAKE PART

Bishop Urges Heart Searching, Repentance and Self Sacrifice to Help Britain in Great Struggle

At the annual men's banquet of the Anglican Church in the Cathedral Hall last night, Right Rev. G. A. Rix, Bishop of Caledonia, passed on to the large gathering the contents of a letter he had received from the head of the church pointing out that ultimate victory in the present conflict was in the hands of the Lord of Lords and the King of Kings. Britain was fighting for her life and the people of Canada were urged to stand with the people of the home land. It pointed out that every decent person would want to help. The letter urged heart-searching and repentance, better keeping of the Sabbath and greater self-sacrifice. As the best present means of helping the people of Britain against the invaders the people of the church were urged to help encourage the sale of War Savings certificates. It was hoped that two million people would purchase these securities during the present drive. It was a supreme effort and all were asked to give either in money or in public service.

NEW CRAFT IN CANADA

Flax Processing Machines That Escaped German Occupation Will Help Canada Make Linen

By Frank Flaherty
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 13: (CP)—A few days before the Germans invaded Belgium a shipment of flax pulling and processing machinery left a Belgian port for Canada.

It was a shipment which means much to a growing Canadian industry and to the linen industry in Northern Ireland and in England.

It contained some of the latest and most modern labor saving machinery for flax production and that machinery now is being manufactured from the Belgian models in Canadian factories. The result, the opinion of fibre flax experts, will be that Canada will be able to meet the wartime requirements of the linen industry to a considerable degree and may be able to establish fibre flax production as a stable industry for peace as well as war.

In peacetime Irish and English linen mills get their flax largely from the continent of Europe, the principal sources of supply being Belgium and Russia. In the First Great War as in this those supplies were cut off and had to be replaced by production at home or in Canada.

The Belgians advanced further than other countries in the development of machinery, perhaps because of competition with countries where cheap labor was available. Canada had the same labor problem.

In the last war Indians were employed to pull flax grown in Western Ontario, but this was neither economical nor satisfactory. Flax must be pulled rather than cut if it is to yield the best fibre and pulling by hand is slow work.

Belgian Invention
In Belgium a man named M. Soenens invented an efficient flax-pulling and spreading machine. Drawn by horses or a tractor, it pulls the flax with rubber belts and spreads it on the ground to "ret" or mature.

In addition to getting the machines, Canada obtained the services of Mr. Soenens, who is now assisting Canadian machinery manufacturers in getting machines out for the harvesting of a 1941 fibre flax crop estimated at 40,000 acres. Fibre flax production boomed in

SPORT CHAT

The silver blades that once carried Kit Klein to the mythical title of world champion woman speed skater are flashing over the ice again, bringing fame to a pair of youngsters. They are 17-year-old Betty Klein and her 16-year-old sister, Janet, nieces of the famous woman skater. Proudly they display their shiny skates—the same two pairs Kit carried to Oslo, Norway, in 1936 when she won the world title.

Dark-haired and pretty, Betty and Janet started skating about seven years ago when Kit was around to give them a lesson now and then. Since, they have captured virtually every speed skating title for their ages in the Buffalo area. As "juveniles," both girls won numerous titles, including the Buffalo, Western New York, Chautauqua regional and Monroe County championships. In addition, they won Ohio State titles last year, Janet in the juvenile class and Betty in the intermediate. In the North American outdoor championships at Schenectady last year, Betty tied for second place in the intermediate division.

Defeated Irish Fusiliers 4 to 2 In Well Contested Soccer Game

The advance party of the Rocky Mountain Rangers celebrated their arrival by defeating the headquarters company of the Irish Fusiliers at a soccer match yesterday afternoon, the score being 4 to 2. The game was refereed by Jim Wilson, the new Y. M. C. A. War Services secretary for this district.

The Rangers, using a powerful attack, scored three goals in the first ten minutes of the game. The Irish then organized their defence to hold the Rangers for the better part of the rest of the game and managed to score 2 goals.

Just before the closing whistle, the Rangers scored another goal, making the final score 4-2.

BALCOMBE, Eng., Feb. 12: (CP) Wanted! One thousand strong, keen, energetic women between the ages of 18 and 35 for Britain's Women's Land Army, which already has trained and found jobs for 9,000 farm girls.

"There is a big demand ahead," said Mrs. D. Jenkins, at Land Army headquarters in this Sussex town. The last batch of reserves will be called up for training in January and the first appeal in 1941 will be for 1,000 women. It's no easy job, Mrs. Jenkins estimated only about 600 out of every 5,000 applicants will be chosen for training. Toughest of all jobs is forestry.

There are 400 women already serving as "lumberjacks" throughout Britain. Mrs. Jenkins declared farmers are "much less prejudiced" than they used to be against accepting women as farm hands.

ection of King Edward School. The car slowed down and honked the horn. They waited while the car passed. He heard a thud when Jackie was hit. The car was ten feet past witness. The car stopped. Mazzei picked Jackie out of the ditch on the side of the road and later, with the boy's father, took Jackie away. The car was travelling about 15 miles per hour.

Asle Arrhen, another boy, heard the brakes screech but did not see Jackie being struck. He gave details of the accident similar to Bobby Menzies' description.

Mazzei's Evidence

Pat Mazzei voluntarily gave evidence. It was 12:40 noon. He was driving in an easterly direction on Eighth Avenue. As he passed King Edward School he saw several children ahead on either side of the road. He sounded his horn and slowed up. The boys lined up on either side of the street. He was about to pass the last two when one of them darted into the centre of the road directly in front of the car. Witness swung the car sharply to the right but the distance was too close to avoid striking him although he applied the brakes almost immediately. He saw the boy go off the side of the road into the ditch. He picked him out of the water and, as he saw the father approaching, laid him on the road. The father picked him up and they rushed him to the hospital in the car. The car was in perfect condition. There might have been thirty or forty children in the neighborhood. The boy was struck by the left hand fender of the bumper and the headlight. Witness had been driving 18 or 20 years. This was his first accident. The car was travelling 15 to 20 miles per hour. The boy struck directly was thrown into the ditch on the left hand side. He sort of rolled off the road. He had come out of the group suddenly, almost on a run. Apparently, he had decided to run across the road. After striking the boy, Mazzei estimated the car travelled from 15 to 20 feet before coming to a stop. When the car stopped, it was almost directly across from where the boy lay in the ditch. The child was about the last of the group of children. Witness said he was about in the act of accelerating when the accident occurred. He had not been drinking.

Constable D. D. McIndoe, officer attending, was the last witness. There was a pool of blood on the road near the point where there were marks of the brakes of a car having been applied suddenly. These skid marks went from the middle of the road and hard to the right. The stopping distance was about twenty feet from the point where the brakes had evidently been applied to where the car stopped. The car was in good shape. There were no signs of the driver having been drinking but he was suffering from shock as might be expected under such circumstances. It took an average car travelling at 15 miles per hour about 25 feet to stop. It was 22 feet from the marble ring to the end of the skid mark. The car was evidently slightly to the right almost in the centre of the road, when the boy was struck.

Jury Visits Scene

After concluding the hearing of evidence, the coroner and jurors visited the scene of the accident, later returning to the courtroom to deliberate on its verdict.

Canada during the First Great War and collapsed when low-cost European fibre came back on the market. In recent years under the encouragement of governments it revived in a modest way but it was realized that it had to be a mechanized industry in order to function in peacetime.

So emphasis was placed on machinery and Belgium was the source of both machinery and ideas. Besides pullers, scutchers, tow machines, bailers, deseeders and seed-cleaning machinery were needed.

On this basis of mechanization flax production made modest progress in Canada from 1928 on, returning moderate profits to farmers who went in for it either through their own co-operatives or under arrangements with the owners of fibre mills.

Wanted Overseas

The linen industry in Great Britain and Northern Ireland must get its fibre supplies from Canada and from increased home production. It is probable Canadian-made machinery will be required there to handle British and Irish production.

Canadian flax growers are completely dependent on the British and Irish industries for a fibre market. The hope of retaining that market after the war rests on low cost production by the use of the best possible machinery.

There is no flax spinning mill in Canada and only one flax weaving mill, at Iroquois, Ontario. This is now operating on a limited scale because yarns cannot be obtained from overseas.

LEGION IS IN SESSION

Rehabilitation Of Ex-Service Men Discussed—Support Of War Savings—Navy Man Spoke

There was a large attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League last evening with H. A. Breen in the chair.

A long list of letters from members of His Majesty's forces was read thanking the branch for gifts of cigarettes during the Christmas season. Letters from members of the Legion in Queen Charlotte Islands and outlying points also thanked the branch for Christmas cheer and presents for the children.

A memorandum covering aspects of suggested legislation to be considered at the forthcoming session of the Federal parliament dealt with the rehabilitation of ex-service men of the present war and the unemployed insurance act. This will be sent to the local member as well as to the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion.

To represent the branch at the meeting to be held in the City Hall in connection with the War Savings drive S. A. Cheeseman was appointed as delegate and authorized to give every possible support.

Two applications for membership and one for rejoining were approved.

A city billiards championship is planned by the branch.

Following adjournment of the regular meeting an unusually interesting talk was given by Chief Petty Officer Instructor T. H. Dudley R. N. Thanks were suitably expressed by the chairman, H. A. Breen, and it is expected that at a later date C. P. O. Dudley will give another talk.
