GREAT EXPANSION IN CENTRAL INTERIOR IS EXPECTED AFTER WAR

President of Canadian National Railways Is Visitor—Speaks of Dry Dock Management.

After the war is over there is reason to expect that there will be a great expansion through settlement in the central interior hinterland tributary to Prince Rupert said R. C. Vaughan, president of the Canadian National Railways, on his arrival in the city this morning in the course of his first trip through this district since he became head of the national system. Of course, everyone realized that the war must first be brought to a victorious issue and all efforts must be bent in that direction, Mr. Vaughan said. Nevertheless, the railway management was also keeping its eye upon the possibilities of post-war developments and foresaw an era of new settlement in the hinterland adjacent to Prince Rupert. "We already have good settlers in that country," he said, "but there is reason to expect that many more will be desirous of coming after the war is over."

Visitor Here

R. C. VAUGHAN
President of Canadian National Railways.

Speaking of local dry dock affairs, Mr. Vaughan noted that there was already ship construction work on order that would keep the plant busy, providing much business and activity in Prince Rupert, for a long time. Naturally, every effort was being made to carry on the work as rapidly as possible and with a maximum of efficiency. Questioned as to the management, Mr. Vaughan said that it was felt advisable that G. A. McMillan should retain his actual headquarters office at Vancouver. However, Mr. McMillan would be visiting Prince Rupert as frequently as possible—probably a good deal of time from now on than heretofore. The president expressed himself as satisfied with the present management set-up of the yard and did not see where much improvement could be effected by any changes.

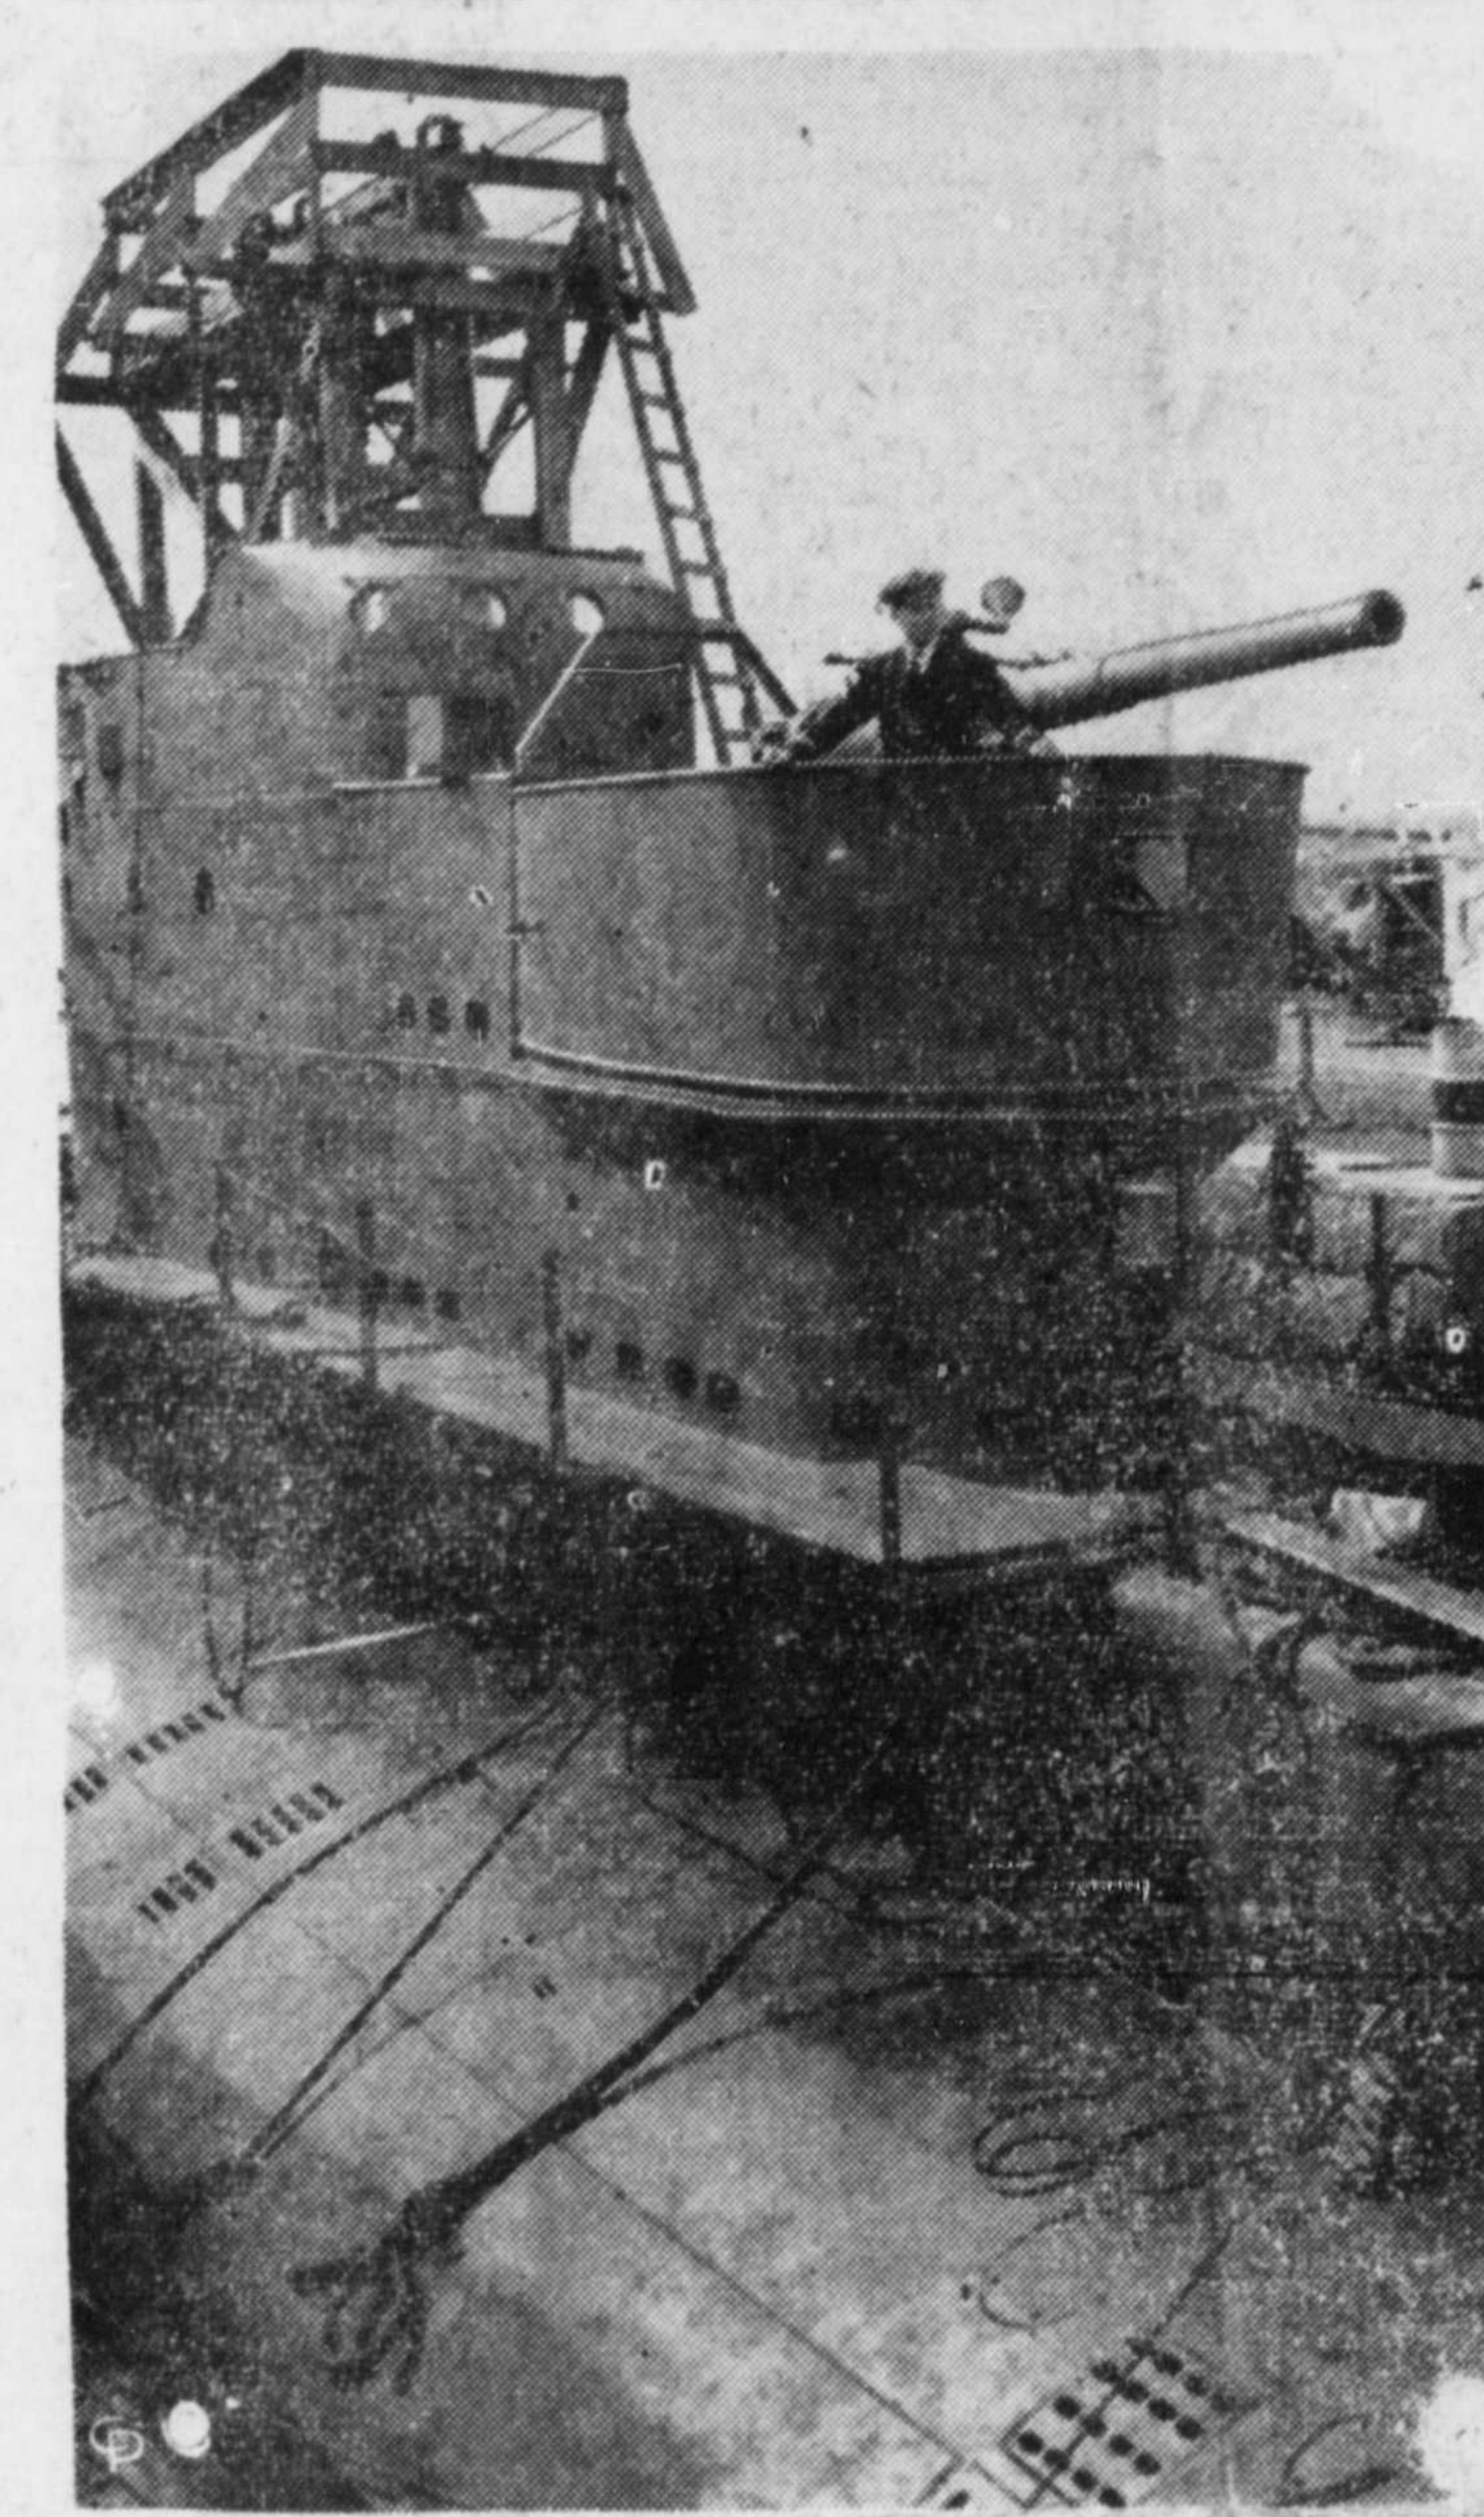

As for rail and steamship service into Prince Rupert, Mr. Vaughan expressed the belief that this was now being provided satisfactorily. The company was fully in touch with requirements. No changes in the meantime were contemplated. The steamship service between here and Vancouver would be carried on throughout the winter as far as possible contingent on traffic requirements and the necessity of withdrawal for annual overhaul.

Mr. Vaughan, who was formerly a vice-president of the railway and is no stranger to Prince Rupert as he has made a number of visits here in the past, entertained a number of representative citizens at luncheon aboard the steamer Prince Rupert today. Speakers at the luncheon were Mr. Vaughan, City Commissioner D. J. Matheson, Olof Hanson, M.P., and W. R. McAfee, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Vaughan and his party this morning inspected the dry dock where 900 men are employed with a daily payroll of about $5,000. Included in Mr. Vaughan's party, which proceeds east by the regular train this evening, are R. L. Daly and G. H. Read, directors of the Canadian National Railways; D. C. Grant, vice-president; Walter S. Thompson, director of publicity; Dr. John McCombe, chief medical officer; J. M. Horn, foreign freight traffic manager; W. R. Devenish, general manager, western region; W. T. Moodie, general superintendent, Vancouver; W. H. Fogg, superintendent, Canadian National Steamships, Vancouver; G. A. McMillan, manager, Prince Rupert Dry Dock; S. Morrison, district engineer, Vancouver; and W. Hatley, district freight agent, Vancouver.

Proceeding east with the party from here this evening will be

GETS REPAIRS IN AMERICAN NAVY YARD

This view of the British submarine Pandora, showing its conning tower and gun, was taken at the Portsmouth, N.H., navy yard. The officer is Lieut. Robert Alexander, skipper of the Pandora. The sub is one of the many British vessels of war that have been sent to American shipyards for general overhauling and repair. Also at the Portsmouth yard with the Pandora were the Parthian (a submarine) and the Free French sub Surcouf, world's largest.

Destroyer Is Torpedoed Off Iceland But Gets Into Port; Is Another Serious Incident

Intensification of Already Critical Relations Between United States and Axis Anticipated as Result.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17: (CP)—The United States destroyer Kearny has been torpedoed southwest of Iceland while engaged in patrol duty but has reached port, it was announced today. It is the second American warship to be attacked in the war and the incident will probably bring about an intensification of the crisis between the United States and the Axis.

HEAVY GALE LAST NIGHT

Maximum Velocity of Southeaster 50 Miles—Power and Communications Interfered With.

The strongest windstorm of the fall gave Prince Rupert a dusting throughout last night, reaching a maximum velocity, according to the Dominion meteorological station at Digby Island, of 50 miles per hour between 10 and 11 p.m. Between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning, a southeaster typically of this time of the year and accompanied by copious rainfall, was blowing upwards of 45 miles an hour.

The strong wind caused trouble by blowing down of two or more transmission line poles and power was interfered with, energy not being sufficient to operate such machines as newspaper linotypes which caused the local newspapers embarrassment.

One of the big derrick towers erected at the dry dock in connection with freighter construction was blown down at the height of the gale around midnight. Half a block of sidewalk on McBride Street at the corner of First Avenue was lifted and scattered in pieces on the road.

Telegraph lines were down this morning and radio reception was faint. The waterfront, evidently, escaped any serious mishap although one boat at Dodge Cove was reported to have been blown adrift.

MOSCOW IN DIRE PERIL; GOV'T GOES

Nazi Panzer Columns Reported To Be At Gate Of Russian Capital — U. S. Embassy Moves

LONDON, October 17:—There is no attempt at concealing the fact that Moscow, with Nazi panzer columns at her very gates, is in greater peril than ever. Berlin reports claim that the Red Army is on the verge of total collapse on all fronts. The outskirts of Leningrad on the north have been entered and elsewhere along the long line further relentless advance is claimed by the Germans. United States Ambassador Lawrence A. Steinhardt has moved the American embassy to Kazan, a city 450 miles to the east of Moscow. Other embassies have also moved as well as part of the government. Premier Joseph Stalin and trusted aides remaining behind to direct defence.

Naples Is Hit By Air Force

LONDON, October 17:—Royal Air Force, in addition to Western Germany and occupied France, last night attacked the great Italian city of Naples.

SEEKS ROMAN HOLIDAY

SCARBOROUGH, Eng., Oct. 17:—Norman Hipwell, independent candidate in the Scarborough-Whitby by-election, said he would like to bomb Rome "until it looked like a Colosseum and Naples till it was as the last days of Pompeii."

CALLED TO HEAD GOV'T OF NIPPON

War Minister Tojo, Admirer Of Axis, Is Selected As Premier Of Japan

TOKYO, October 17:—War Minister Tojo, admirer of German methods and former military attaché to the Japanese embassy in Berlin, was today called upon by Emperor Hirohito to form a new cabinet in Japan. All United States ships in Far East waters have been ordered to proceed to the nearest American port as the crisis between Japan and United States deepens with little hope now of an amicable settlement.

Former Foreign Minister Matsuoku, who was dropped from the cabinet of Prince Konoye, had been prominently mentioned as successor to Konoye as Premier of Japan following the latter's resignation last night. Prominent pro-Axis sympathizer, Matsuoku, who is American-educated and a graduate of the University of Washington at Seattle, is hailed by one newspaper as the only two-fisted Japanese leader fitted to take over the war Premiership and to institute a new program of aggressive action. Nevertheless, Matsuoku, despite his pro-Axis leanings, is known to have not been favorable to a break with the United States. Although he is not named Premier, it is expected he will be taken into the cabinet.

The international situation, as far as Japan is concerned, continues tense and there is an increasing demand on the part of the war lords for a move against Russia in Siberia now that the Soviet is so hard-pressed around Moscow.

The moderate Prince Konoye is expected to retire from public life.

Bulletins

MISSION LEAVES MOSCOW

LONDON—The British military mission, which had been in Moscow, is "on the move," an authoritative source said today following reports of the movement of members of the Russian government from the capital. Reports that members of the Russian government were moving to the interior city of Kazan were interpreted by observers as new evidence of Soviet plans to fight on.

NO SABOTAGE

OTTAWA—The Royal Commission which inquired into the five-day strike in July at Arvida, Quebec plant of the Aluminum Company of Canada, today made known its conclusion that rumors of sabotage, foreign agitators and subversive ideas, which appeared at an early stage, have not been justified.

BAXTER LEFT BEHIND

NEW YORK—Because he had no visa to enter Bermuda via which the clipper plane on which he intended leaving travels, Beverly Baxter, Canadian-born Member of Parliament for Great Britain and news commentator, was left behind here today when the plane left for England.

WAR RAGES ON

MOSCOW—Heavy fighting continues on all sectors of the Russian front with the position of Moscow as grave as ever. Foreign consulates and part of the government have left the capital for a city 450 miles east of Moscow. Premier Joseph Stalin and his trusted advisers remain, however, to conduct the defences. Not only the advance units but main German forces are now reported to be in the outer defences of Moscow.

HIGHWAY COMMISSION . . .

A number of well-meaning people are fussing about the appointment of a highway commission. It means that if the party in power is afraid to trust itself to spend the money it collects from the people it will appoint an irresponsible group of men, call them a highway commission and have them do the spending, the provincial government to do only the collecting of the taxes, and then hand it over to this irresponsible committee to spend. Outside of collecting the money the duty of the provincial government would be to watch the highway commission and see that they spend the money honestly, economically and efficiently.

We believe in safeguarding the public funds but we believe politicians are just about as honest as people generally, just as honest as a commission appointed by politicians would be. The politicians are being watched all the time by the people who vote them into office. We see no advantage in appointing a commission and paying the members big salaries and travelling expenses when there is already an organization doing that work.

The demand for the commission comes chiefly from the people in the south who want the money expended on the main roads over which they travel, letting the outlying districts get along without roads until there is money to spare for them. Under such a system northern British Columbia and Queen Charlotte Islands particularly would suffer.

So long as we have a member like the man who has represented us for a number of years, a man who is not afraid to speak his mind even when the whole country seems against him and who is a statesman instead of a politician, we may be sure there is nothing to fear. We do not want a commission that might prove to be a political machine and an expensive one at that.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA . . .

While at times the news from Russia seems rather depressing it must be remembered that it is a huge country and the people have lots of pluck. It is evident too, that the people believe in their country and their leaders and will yet put up a stiff fight. They have the weather in their favor and it is quite possible yet that they will come out victorious. With the help of Britain and the United States in providing arms and ammunition and of the British air force, thinking of victory is something more than wishful thinking. Because other countries folded up in the face of superior military strength does not mean that Russia will do the same. She has a huge population of men who have again and again proved themselves excellent fighters. We suggest it is well to keep cheerful over the situation for the Russians have proved that the Germans can be stopped.

U.S. PLANES ON GUARD FOR SHIPS

Graphic Story of Trip in One of Uncle Sam's Navy Flying Boats.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
Associated Press Staff Writer
ABOARD U.S. NAVY PATROL
BOMBER OVER ATLANTIC, Oct.
17: (AP) — Hot cakes for early breakfast in New England and a snack of Danish pastry for late supper in Iceland! That would be possible in these huge flying boats. They can cross whole time zones while you're taking your Sunday afternoon nap but this flight's no stunt. We aren't proving anything about hot cakes and pastry. We're out on a serious mission in an area that's notorious for the worst weather in the world.

It's our job to watch over American merchant ships and navy vessels between the United States and Iceland. And we're doing it, precisely and accurately. At the moment, we have reached our farthest point east. Several hours ago we took off from our floating air base "somewhere off the coast of the American side of the North Atlantic." We're about opposite the southern tip of Greenland and it's time to back track.

Keep Eyes Open
"Station men in the blisters; keep a sharp lookout."

It's the voice of the flight commander through the plane's phone system. Gunners move along the runway aft, take observation posts in the big windowed area near the tail.

The navigation officer forward awaits order. He's got a lot of fast work to do. The commander speaks:

"Chart the course x x miles on either side of our outbound course . . . Give us a turn at specified intervals . . ."

The navigator bends over his big table. In a minute or two he passes a tiny strip of paper to the commander. It says: "Two-three-zero-m." That's our magnetic compass course for the moment. The commander relays the course to our accompanying plane and we begin a slow turn.

"I'm crossing over. . . You cross under . . ." says my left earphone. "Wilco," comes back the answer, signifying compliance.

The navigator sends an officer to drop a smoke bomb and get the wind-drift. Then he picks up the artificial horizon and squints at the sun, calculates rapidly. This checks the drift of the plane and our position in the wastes of the North Atlantic.

Just Headwork
Our course develops in lines on the blank chart like a ladder. We cross and recross our outbound course, repeat the process endlessly. This is the way the U.S. Navy air arm makes tracks in a trackless ocean. No guesswork, no fuss, no confusion. Just headwork and precise co-ordination.

Our aircraft and every man aboard is a team. The plane with us is another team, and our floating airbase is still another, holding us all together with the magic waves of radio. The commander back on that base is responsible to the chief of operations in Washington, Admiral Harold Stark, who reports to the secretary of the navy, Frank Knox. Mr. Knox is under the president. The navigator calls me to a chart, points to a tiny spot on the American shore.

"We're heading for that lighthouse."
We receive a message from the base: "Return not later than sixteen thirty plus X time . . ." That means we must get in by 4:30 p.m., time zone X, west of Greenwich, plus one half hour.

Just before 4 p.m., the navigator sights a jutting piece of coastline. Soon a tiny white lighthouse appears. The flight commander turns, makes a circle with his thumb and forefinger. We're right on the nose.

We had spanned more than 6,000 square miles of the North Atlantic in our 10-hour flight. As the crew flies, we'd gone more than 1,100 nautical miles. If we'd flown a great circle bee-line course eastward, we'd just now be landing in Iceland, instead of coming back to our base.

Boy, oh boy! — If my old school teacher only knew what this trip has done to the geography she taught me back in the fifth grade!

SERVICE BOWLING

MORE OVERTIME!

Bob: Say, Tom, the boss wants us to work late again tonight.
Tom: That's okay by me. I don't mind the time-and-a-half!
Bob: Me, neither. Boy, the plan's sure busy, eh?
Tom: Yeah. I've never seen so much overtime. It it keeps up, we'll be wealthy. Now's the time we should be saltin' the money away.

Bob: Yeah. I suppose you're right—
Tom: And I know what I'm gonna do, for one. Start buyin' more War Savings Certificates. It'll be pretty nice to have that dough comin' back, with interest, in a few years.
Bob: That's right—We won't ALWAYS be this busy. And in the meantime, the money will be helpin' to win the war! Tom, you're right. Let's both start buyin' more War Savings Certificates—this week!

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us.

MANY HEAR NORWEGIAN

Member Of Parliament From Oslo Tells Of Nazism As It Affects People Of His Country

There was a large turn-out yesterday of members and friends of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club, the Commodore dining room being well filled to hear an interesting address on Norway by Konrad Knudsen, member of the Norwegian Parliament and editor of a newspaper in a town near Oslo.

Mr. Knudsen reviewed vividly personal experiences with Hitler's blitz in Norway, the action of the Norwegian Parliament in turning over the governmental authority to the King and members of the cabinet with headquarters in London and the turning down of a proposal from Hitler that they should co-operate. He also told of the manner in which merchant ships, fishermen and others moved away and lined themselves with the British against the Germans.

He explained that Norway was naturally a peaceful country, desiring nothing but to be allowed to carry on her own affairs. Yet they were invaded without any good reason except the desire of one man for absolute power. Because they refused to accept this situation they were hunted like wild animals, they were machine-gunned and many lost their lives. Many of them knew what Nazism meant as applied to their bare bodies. They were rallying their forces when they heard of the collapse of France. They were threatened with hell if they did not submit but they refused. He was glad that the national honor of Norway had been saved. Now they looked forward to the day when Hitlerism would be overcome by the united efforts of the democracies. It would be a great struggle but he felt confident that, with the aid of the people on this continent, they would succeed.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, is due in port at 9 o'clock tonight from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Both reporting exceptionally stormy voyages up the coast, the liners Prince Rupert, Capt. Neil McLean, and Princess Adelaide, Capt. William Hughes, arrived in port this morning, the former docking at 9:30 a.m. and the latter at 10 a.m. The Adelaide sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. The Prince Rupert left at 3 p.m. for Ketchikan and Stewart whence she will return here tomorrow evening southbound. Capt. Hughes is relieving this trip as master of the Princess Adelaide in place of Capt. R. C. McGeachey who has remained ashore at Vancouver on account of illness in his family.

THREAT OF HITLERISM

Norwegian Parliamentarian and Newspaperman Warns Against What Nazi Victory Would Mean.

Urging a more serious realization of the dangers involved in the spread of Hitlerism and the advisability of those nations which had not already come under its cruel heel, imposing conditions of slavery and intense hardship upon countries which had enjoyed the highest measure of liberty and democratic privileges for their peoples, Konrad Knudsen, member of Norwegian Parliament and newspaper-editor of Honefoss, spoke in English last night before a well-attended meeting in the Oddfellows' Hall. Mr. Knudsen gave a graphic picture of the deplorable conditions of oppression and dire hardship which have fallen upon Norway under the rule of Nazi Germany. He told of the brutal methods of unrelenting Nazi blitzkrieg warfare which he himself had personally experienced. Come what might, however, true Norwegians, both at home and abroad, would stay in the war until their country was once again freed from the yoke of the Hun.

Last night's meeting was presided over by Oscar Sather, president of the local Sons of Norway Lodge. John Dybhavn, Norwegian vice-counsel, introduced the speaker and, at the close of the meeting, spoke again, expressing appreciation of the visit of Mr. Knudsen and urging that Canadians could best insure themselves against a real threat by purchasing to the fullest extent of their ability war savings certificates. Rev. J. H. Myrswang, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, also spoke in acknowledgement of Mr. Knudsen's visit, joining in the exhortation of a great appreciation of the menace that faced the world from Hitlerism.

Peter Lien presided at the piano to accompany the singing of "O Canada" and the Norwegian national anthem at the opening of the meeting and "God Save the King" at the close. He also played selections during the taking up of a collection.

A pleasant touch was added by the presence of usherettes in Norwegian national costume, these being the Misses Ethel Knudsen, Astrid Peterson, Violet Wick and Magnhild Storseth. Mrs. Chris Jensen headed a committee which had general charge of the various arrange-
