War News

RUSSIAN SITUATION SERIOUS

LONDON—It is disclosed that the British Army regards the Russian position in the Ukraine today as very grave. The position of the Russians around Odessa is said to be especially serious with the German army given a chance to cut off Soviet forces and force an evacuation to the sea.

GERMANS OVER ENGLAND

LONDON—The Germans sent waves of attackers over England last night and early today. Casualties and damage were reported from one East Midlands town.

WIDE R.A.F. FORAY

LONDON—In a wide foray ranging all the way from Norway to France, the Royal Air Force attacked Berlin heavily in spite of bad weather during the night and unloaded explosive and incendiary bombs on dozens of other German cities. A communique said in the German capital "large fires which were started were increasing their hold when our aircraft left." British bombers had as their main targets, in addition to Berlin, industrial cities of Magdeburg, Hanover and Essen. Much damage was done to the Krupp armament works at Essen and numerous other cities were attacked. Thirteen bombers were lost overnight.

SOVIET COMMAND SILENT

MOSCOW—The Soviet command drew a blanket of silence today over operations on the vast German battlefield, reporting in a second consecutive communique that "nothing of importance" was taking place there. All designation of sectors was dropped. Other Russian war reports dealt with isolated actions. One German division was reported smashed and a second was beaten back on an unspecified part of the front.

ARMY BILL IS PASSED

MAKE CARNIVAL OUTSTANDING

Next week is to be "Carnival Week" in Prince Rupert. The city will be en fete from Monday morning until Friday night. Each evening there will be big doings at the Exhibition Building, particulars of which are given elsewhere in this paper. Prince Rupert people are asked to co-operate to the fullest extent possible in making it an outstanding event, possibly the most outstanding in the history of the city.

There is little need of repeating what has already been said about the object of the carnival. There is already a fund available for the proposed civic centre amounting to approximately $9,000. If by means of the carnival another three to four thousand dollars can be raised, it might be possible to start work this fall on the new building.

Since the Moose Hall is no longer available for public gatherings, the need of the civic centre has become much more apparent than was the case at this time last year. The presence in the city of large numbers of men in uniform, of dry dock workers and of other new residents, makes the civic centre a most desirable institution. It is really needed just now and every person who helps make the carnival a success is helping to have the centre erected.

Once more, may we ask that Prince Rupert people make next week a real carnival week. Many visitors are expected from outside points for the railway company is co-operating putting in force excursion rates on the trains from all points as far east as Burns Lake. The carnival spirit can be cultivated and the popularity of the city increased by seeing that the visitors have a good time. A little personal attention is worth a great deal.

Also it is suggested that the merchants dress their windows carefully, that bunting be in evidence and that the army officers be asked to have the pipe band in evidence each day in a public way.

Premier To Open Local Carnival

Premier T. D. Pattullo has consented to officially open the Civic Centre Carnival here on Monday next, according to advice received today from T. N. Youngs, carnival chairman, at present in Victoria.

JUST THERE FOR BACON

LONDON, Aug. 13: "We have no petrol coupons but the bacon and eggs are waiting for you," radioed the station to a Wellington bomber home from a raid short of fuel. The plane and crew just landed safely, with empty gas tanks.

Had Margin of But One Vote in United States House

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 13.—The House of Representatives by the close margin of 203 to 202 yesterday passed the army expansion bill. It provides among other things for extension of the army service period to eighteen months.

The measure had been passed by the Senate last week and now goes to joint committee of House and Senate for consideration of amendments.

BRITAIN BOMBED

German Luftwaffe Resumes its Attack on British Isles

LONDON, Aug. 13.—In small scale raids over the British Isles, German planes bombed East Anglia, south Wales and the Midlands last night and early today. There were a few casualties and slight damage.

The raids were as if in weak answer to the heavy attacks which had just been delivered on Germany and France by the Royal Air Force.

Salmon Arrivals

Lancing 1, 5500 pounds coho, 400 springs, Atlin Fisheries.

MEDAL FOR RADIO MAN

MANCHESTER, Aug. 13:—An English sergeant wireless operator was awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal for guiding his bomber back to its station by directional radio when the navigating instruments flopped.

Government Leader Is To Broadcast

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Clement Attlee, Lord Privy Seal and deputy government leader will broadcast an announcement officially described as "important" on all B.B.C. stations at 7 a.m. (P.D.T.) Thursday. The nature of the announcement has not been disclosed but there has been speculation that Churchill, Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins have met or are meeting secretly.

Reich is Strafed—

BIG ATTACK BY BRITAIN ON GERMANY

Berlin And Other Great Cities Feel Sting Of Royal Air Force In Widespread Assault

LONDON, August 13:—In one of their heaviest and most widespread raids of the war, Royal Air Force bombers attacked Berlin and numerous other objectives in northern and western Germany during the night, it was stated authoritatively today. The major aerial offensive was carried out through fog and rain, the Air Ministry stated.

The bad weather caused the attack on Berlin to be not as heavy as some previous ones. Yet tons of bombs were dropped on the Reich capital.

Berlin admitted that more than four million people of the city rushed to air raid shelters for the third successive night. An unspecified number were killed and wounded.

The anti-aircraft guns of Berlin were pointed east in readiness for another attack from Russia in which direction those of the two previous nights had come.

Other German cities bombed effectively by the Royal Air Force during the night included Hanover, Essen, Magdeburg, Stettin, Kiel, Duisberg, Bremen and Cologne, all important military or industrial centres.

The Germans admitted casualties and damage at all points but claimed that British plane losses had been heavy, fifty-seven having been brought down during the past twenty-four hours.

OFFENSIVE FOR PEACE

London Expects this Much May Depend on Weygand

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The London Daily Mail predicts that the immediate result of the new Vichy policy of complete collaboration with Germany will be a new peace offensive from Adolf Hitler with the seizure of the important African port of Dakar by the Nazis if it fails.

General Maxime Weygand may yet save the French Navy and important French colonial bases from falling into Nazi hands. A goodly portion of the French fleet and the vast colonial Empire of France is under his control. It is known that there has been a bitter dispute between Weygand and Admiral Jean Darlan, the new minister of defence over collaboration with the Axis.

WASHINGTON, D.C., August 13.—The traditional friendship of United States and France since the American revolution is threatened, it is feared, according to views expressed in official quarters as a result of Vichy's new program of collaboration with Germany and its threats to American interests and territories.

TO REPAIR SHIP HERE

This, However, is Only Unofficial Word as to United States Transport Kvichak

Although there was no confirmation at local dry dock offices, it was understood in well-informed quarters this morning that the contract for hull repairs to the United States Army transport ship Kvichak, extensively damaged in a stranding near Milbank Sound and later towed here, would be carried out at the local dry dock. The vessel will be taken to Puget Sound, it is understood, for engine work. As far as T. W. Boulter, local dry dock superintendent, knew this morning, no decision had yet been reached as to where the Kvichak was to be repaired.

MOSCOW CALLING BERLIN GENEVA, Aug. 13:—"Germany awake," said the Moscow broadcast heard all over Germany "the Soviets are your friends. We will liberate you. You must help. Don't be used as cannon fodder."

REPORTS ON WARFARE IN RED RUSSIA

London Admits That Campaign in Ukraine Is Going Bad For Reds Now

RETREAT TO BLACK SEA BERLIN, Aug. 13: (CP)—Under a canopy of warplanes such as paces the German army when it is driving for a decision, Nazi troops were reported today to be smashing final Russian resistance in the western Ukraine. Hitler's headquarters claimed that Soviet forces were retreating toward Black Sea harbors after an entrapment presumably between the Bug and Dneister Rivers in the Odessa region.

LONDON, August 13:—Moscow claims that 7500 German soldiers have been killed or wounded as a result of the Sixty-Eighth Nazi Division being wiped out in battle. The new German drive has failed completely it is suggested by a communique which said today that there was nothing of importance to report from the front.

If the Germans enter the Black Sea ports of Odessa and Nikolaev they will find "smoking ruins of demolished factories and empty streets," Soviet quarters in London said today. They predicted that Marshal Budyenny's troops "will extract an awful cost in blood" as a toll for any German gateway to the Black Sea.

German reports declare that panzer units have reached the outskirts of Odessa and that the whole Ukraine is about to fall into German hands. Four million Russians have been killed, wounded or captured since the war began according to German claims.

In London military observers admitted today that the position of Nikolaev and Odessa is dangerous and that the situation in the Ukraine as far as the Russians are concerned has greatly deteriorated. However, it is thought the Russians may be able to evacuate Odessa without great loss since the Soviet is still in control of the Black Sea.

Civic Centre Carnival Presents Fine Program Starting Next Week

A five-day celebration embodying many new features and retaining the best old ones, the main objective of the Carnival to be held in Prince Rupert next week is to raise funds to further finance the construction of the proposed Civic Centre. Aside from this chief aim, the committee in charge is bending every effort to ensure that every patron of the Carnival will receive full value for the money he spends and will not leave the building feeling that he has been "taken." The entertainment features will be of a high order and the prizes in the various games of chance and skill will be merchandise of standard quality and value.

The producers and sponsors of the Carnival are representatives of the Rotary Club, Gyro Club and Junior Chamber of Commerce, together with a number of individuals who have volunteered their services in a good cause. No outside producer, director or operator is being used in any capacity and the whole affair is being staged by a group of local citizens who have, for the time being, broken into the carnival business for fun and for the good of their community.

A synopsis of the entertainment program is published elsewhere in this paper but this does not by any means disclose all the fun and frivolity nor the interesting exhibits which will be made available to patrons of the Carnival. All the old favorites will be found among the games and wheels—including the "Old Army Game"—together with several new ones which are sure to be hits.

Last year's De-bunk-her has been replaced by an improved and even more novel feature, and marksmen this year are being provided with opportunities to prove their prowess with rifle, bow-and-arrow or sling shot, as they prefer.

There will be two bingo games this year and wheels and novelties to suit every taste and purse. Several new exhibits have been arranged for the more serious-minded and tea-room facilities in the balcony offer the opportunity to relax and recuperate.

The Horticultural Society's floral exhibit and the photographic exhibition will, in themselves, well repay a visit.

Outstanding Features

One of the outstanding features of the program will be the military parade and manoeuvres including sham battle to be staged on the grounds on opening night Monday. It will be the first time that anything like this has ever been witnessed in Prince Rupert. The co-operation of military authorities with the carnival organization is making this possible.

The Gyro playgrounds gymnastic display on Tuesday night will be something worthwhile. It is said by Director Cecil Shantz that it will be the best show of its kind ever staged in Prince Rupert and there have been a lot of good ones in the past.

Bathing beauty contest on Wednesday night when local lasses display their pulchritude to good advantage and under minute scrutiny of the judges as well as the multitude will, no doubt, pack the house on that occasion.

The jitterbug contest on Thursday night should be popular.

The crowning of the May Queen, Coronation Ball and Derby sweep drawings on Friday night will bring the big show to a fitting close.

Daily there will be a program of outdoor sports. Each night there will be dancing in the hall.

Biggest Event Yet

Taken all in all, this year's Carnival bids fair to excel anything of like nature hitherto staged in Prince Rupert. The committee has worked and is working hard to give patrons a really good run for their money and it is hoped that public response will be such as to substantially build up the Civic Centre building fund. The net proceeds of the affair will be invested in Dominion of Canada War Loan until building is actually commenced so that a boost for the Civic Centre is at the same time a boost for the War Effort.

Admission to the Carnival will be by ticket only. If purchased from, or on behalf of, any of the Carnival Queen candidates before midnight of August 20 tickets are good for three admissions for $1.00. Thereafter, or at the door, the admission charge will be 50c straight for adults and 25c for children. Children's tickets will not entitle the holders to chances on the War Savings Certificates which will be drawn for nightly in the amounts of $50 Monday through Thursday and $100 on Friday.

Shipbuilding and War Effort . . .

Directing his message to shipbuilders and shipyard workers of the Pacific Coast, Rt. Hon. Lord Leathers, British minister of war transport, states that he cannot exaggerate the importance to the democratic cause that every ship should be launched and completed as quickly as possible. He urges that they be finished ahead of schedule as was done in 1918 and he looks to the United States and Canada to keep the Atlantic lifeline intact. A message to this effect was cabled to the American shipping magazine, The Log, by Lord Leathers.

An article in The Log by Charles Shaw, well known Vancouver newspaperman, tells how West Coast Shipbuilders Ltd., newest of Vancouver's shipbuilding companies, has converted an area of waste land in Vancouver's False Creek district into an industrial centre within a space of less than six weeks.

While a number of contracts for cargo vessels have been let on this coast, it is understood there is really no limit other than the capacity of the yards to turn them out.

We do not see how the local yard can produce to best advantage with the general manager still absent in Vancouver.

WOMEN ARE REAL ARMY

Units In South African Union Very Keen And Canada's Auxiliaries Complete Strong Chain

By GLADYS ARNOLD
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA, August 12:—For the first time in the history of the British Empire what may be termed a "woman's army" has been created. Thousands of women in each of the widely separated Dominions are in uniform and united in one purpose with the women of Great Britain. The creation of the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force and the sister Army Corps is the last link in a world-wide chain.

Word from South Africa is that already nearly 10,000 women are enrolled actively in the naval, army and air services of the Union. They have been on the job for more than 18 months and were congratulated by Field Marshall Jan Smuts, the prime minister, at a recent review in Capetown.

"The services of South African women have released thousands of men for the fighting line," he said. "And as more women are needed more than 50,000 women enrolled and in training in the Voluntary Services stand ready to be called. The 'wild' growth of the women's army has filled the authorities with wonder."

South Africa's W. A. A. F. is serving in many trades from the welding shops in Pretoria to mending the airfields and signal-posts throughout the whole Union.

Serve In Egypt
So good has the work of this group of women been that at the same time it was announced that the South African government had decided to send some of them to the Egyptian battle-front as a "reward."

Among the shop jobs these W. A. A. F. members do are the making of airplane parts, parachute crutches, clip and magneto brackets. The girls wear khaki uniforms covered by a dungaree and a thick leather apron like that of a village blacksmith, enormous dark goggles and berets of Lincoln green. Instead of long work periods with a comparatively lengthy rest period once a day—experience has shown in South African factories that short intensive work periods interspersed by 10-minute rest periods in which the girls may have tea, relax with five minutes of setting up exercises, or listen to news and music, give the best results.

"They are keenness itself," the instructor of one factory was quoted as saying. "And a great surprise to me has been that they are cleaner, neater and quicker than men, even at such jobs as manipulating blowpipes in welding."

A "spot" costs you only half a dollar. Try it in the Daily News classified column. (tf)

Playgrounds Activities

Acropolis
Winners of the grass-cutting competition held on Monday afternoon at Acropolis playground were:

First, Marjorie Shrubbsall and Chester Miller.
Second, Gladys Foster and Henning Hagan.

Third, Dorothy Edgar and Sherro.

The members of the playground spent the greater part of the week on their handiwork and sandbox project. Since all had worked patiently and faithfully on the latter there was much excitement when they were told that they had come out on top.

McClintock
The fine weather afforded much swimming at the park last week. On Sunday, August 3, a number of older members biked to Prudhomme Lake where they spent a very enjoyable day. The doll contest held on Friday was very successful with twenty-four entrants.

The judges, Mrs. O. Smith, Mrs. M. M. Lamb and Mrs. Sarginson, had some difficulty in choosing the winners but decided finally on the following:

Best-dressed doll, Irene Hanson.
Prettiest doll, Herdis Holkestad.
Largest doll, Joanne Language.
Smallest doll, Lois Howe.
Funniest doll, Eileen Jerstad.

Soccer, Saturday—Westview 3, Seal Cove 1.

NATURAL, CULTURED

Education, Refinement and Ability Contributed to Great Career of Marquess of Willingdon

Nature and culture aided the late Marquess of Willingdon, dead in England, in his important missions. He was tall and distinguished looking, of dignified bearing; a man of ripe intellectual attainments and charm of manner which captivated all those elements he encountered. In education, training and influence he was Eton and Cambridge at their best.

Freeman Freeman-Thomas, first Earl Willingdon, came of good family stock long identified with Sussex, his father being Frederick Freeman-Thomas of Raton and Yapton, Willingdon; and his mother Mabel, daughter of the first Viscount Hampden, former speaker of the House of Commons. He was born September 12, 1866 and in 1892 married Hon. (afterwards Lady) Marie Adelaide, daughter of Earl Brassey, naval expert.

Interested in Canada

He came to Canada as governor-general following the constitutional crisis that arose during the term of Lord Byng, that gallant soldier who got into hot water by asking the Conservatives to form a government in 1926 when the ousted Liberals wanted dissolution and new elections, which followed in any event shortly afterwards.

When Lord Willingdon succeeded Lord Byng on October 2, 1926, the political storm had blown over. Lord Byng returned to England with the heartfelt good wishes of all the Canadian people, over whose troops he had held command for a time early in the war.

However, events had been set in motion which the political incidents of 1926 accelerated. The controversy hastened the formulation of the principle that the office should be representative solely of the crown, divested of any connection with the government of the United Kingdom. The Imperial Conference of 1926 incorporated this principle in a resolution subsequently approved by the parliaments of the Empire, and Lord Willingdon was the first governor-general of Canada to enjoy this new status.

The United Kingdom government being left without its own representative thereby, the office of high commissioner in Canada for the United Kingdom was created, Sir William Clark filling this post during Lord Willingdon's regime.

Many Canadian Friends

While in Canada Lord Willingdon made friends from coast to coast. Cultured, endowed with an engaging personality and charm born of complete understanding of his fellowmen in all walks of life, he added dignity to his exalted function.

He was genuinely interested in the welfare of Canada, a convinced believer in the future greatness of the Canadian people, an earnest admirer of their virtues and a stout proponent of Canadianism.

He interested himself heartily in the cultural development of the Dominion. As chairman of the board of trustees of the National Gallery he never missed a meeting. He inspired many of the policies of the gallery, the effect of which was a more aggressive effort to develop Canadian art. Under his direction the gallery branched out in many directions, notably cultivating in the mind of young Canada a proper appreciation of art.

He gave every encouragement to the revival of French-Canadian handicrafts and no small credit is due to him for the new lease of life given this department of national activity. Keen on the preservation of ancient landmarks, he revived the old practice of governors-general residing a part of the year in Quebec City. The citadel was renovated as the vice-regal summer residence.

It was said of Lord Willingdon that few Canadians had travelled their country so widely as Lord Willingdon. He visited every province of the Dominion and most of its cities and towns. Everywhere, on every side, he voiced admiration, exhortation and great good counsel.

Call To India

Before his term in Canada was over, many troubles were developing in India. The eastern empire was in turmoil, and one of the greatest needs was a firm yet sympathetic hand at the head of the grasp of Indian life and he was the logical man for the post.

While his term in Ottawa was still some time to run, he was "impressed" into service as Viceroy of India. He relinquished his office in Canada on March 20, 1931, to proceed to England and India. The round table conference was sitting in London at the time of his transference and the opinion among the Indian delegation was almost unanimously favorable to the appointment.

Lord Willingdon sailed for India in April, 1931. Civil disobedience and general unrest were rife. Partly on this account he and his suite to a large extent relied on the aeroplane for travel; swifter and safer. He lost little time proclaiming his attitude towards political extremists. In a speech at Calcutta he announced the government's intention to take a firm line and at the same time made an earnest appeal to Mahatma Gandhi, originator of the "civil disobedience" idea, to call a halt to his campaign.

Firm Hand Needed

Gandhi's followers through the previous year had engaged in defiance of the law of the land in their campaign for complete independence. About the time Lord Willingdon took over the reins things had quietened down temporarily, but the fulfilment of the agreement previously reached gave rise to more trouble. Another agreement was concluded and Gandhi actually went to the London round table, but things once again took a turn for the worse and with the end of 1931 a crisis existed.

Lord Willingdon set himself with a firm hand to crush the renewed subversive activities on the Indian Congress party, and he succeeded fully. The Congress itself was driven underground, all forms of congress work throughout the country were stopped. In fact as well as law the congress ceased to exist; it became impossible for the Nationalists even to hold their annual conventions in 1932 and 1933; the majority were in jail.

The stern-hand policy had its results. Tension eased, and there were gradual releases of the political prisoners. The situation was so much improved in 1934 that the congress was allowed to resume its functions in that summer. It promptly decided the British government's proposed new constitution for India was not enough. But, and here was the victory, the congress agreed to carry on the fight along constitutional means, by seeking control of the legislatures under the new scheme of affairs in the future. Terrorism broke out sporadically here and there, but the congress was not entirely to blame for this and it was ruthlessly stamped out.

Not Always Strife

In spite of his troubles, Lord Willingdon from time to time fulfilled duties wholly pleasant. At Sukkur he dedicated the newly completed Sukkur barrage, among the mightiest irrigation enterprises in the world. In 1932 he had the pleasant task of presiding over the conferences of the round-table consultative committee, sent out from England. In Bombay an elaborate investiture was held when honors were conferred in the name of the King on a number of Indian princes and British military men and government officials. At New Delhi, he opened the 11th meeting of the Indian Chamber of Princes.

Lord Willingdon's inherited political faith was Liberal. He entered the House of Commons in 1900 as member for Hastings, a borough that had been represented by his father-in-law. Doubtless part of his success in this election was due to the powerful Brassey influence. Lord Brassey was head of a family which had taken firm root in the Sussex soil. He amassed great wealth as a contractor, was an active figure in public and political life, was civil lord and secretary of the Admiralty, founder of Brassey's Naval Annual, a practical seaman and owner of one of the

HOUSING CONTRACT

E. J. Ryan Contracting Co. Given Work At Prince Rupert

VANCOUVER, August 14: — J. N. Pigott, president of War-time Housing Limited, announced today that the contract had been awarded to the E. J. Ryan Contracting Co. Ltd. of Vancouver for the construction of dwellings and staff houses; to accommodate employees of wartime industries at Prince Rupert.

Mr. Pigott said that construction would start at once on 126 one family dwellings and two staff houses as well as a dining hall at Prince Rupert.

A similar contract for North Vancouver is also awarded, the total work on both Prince Rupert and North Vancouver projects running to about $100,000.

most celebrated yachts in the world, the Sunbeam, which was seen on nearly all the seven seas during Lord Brassey's lifetime.

When he entered Parliament Freeman-Thomas already had experience of life in government circles overseas, as aide-de-camp to Lord Brassey when the latter was governor of Victoria state from 1895 to 1900. He represented Hastings Hill 1906, then represented Bodmin, Cornwall, to 1910. He received a peerage in that year and continued in the House of Lords until he was selected for the governorship of Bombay in 1913. He remained in India for 11 years, governing the Bombay presidency with such conspicuous success that he was persuaded to carry on as governor of Madras.

Won India's Confidence

In these posts Lord Willingdon had won the confidence and warm regard of Indians generally. He was untiringly resourceful in breaking down social barriers between the Europeans and the Indians. And both he and Lady Willingdon threw themselves determinedly into India's war effort. He did his best to prevent and mitigate the blunders and shortness of supplies in Iraq arising from excessive centralization at Army headquarters at Simla. Thousands also remember the incessant work of Lady Willingdon in organizing hospital and convalescent comforts.

Lord Willingdon, incidentally, conceived the system would work best, when he went to Madras, if he appointed a chief minister, whom he should then consult as to the selection of other ministers. The course was justified by events; the Simon commission and all other authorities concerned in formulation of the new constitution have recognized the method is essential.

CONVENTION AT TERRACE

Activities In Connection With Skeena Tiding Gathering

TERRACE, August 13.—Terrace was enlivened over the week-end by an influx of visitors most of whom had come to attend the convention on Monday morning. It was the nominating convention of the Skeena District Liberals. Twenty-three delegates sat in at the convention and they were unanimous in renominating E. T. Kenney who has represented the riding for the past two terms. Kenney has come to be known as a worker in the political sphere and his speeches show that he has absorbed a great mass of facts relating to the country.

One of the most interesting speeches came from W. C. Little of Woodcock, who presented the farmers' angle. He reminded those present that the land is after all the foundation upon which must be built any national prosperity and which foundation has been too much neglected, with the result the farmers and other basic producers are not getting a fair share of the national income.

In the afternoon many of the party accepted the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Kenney to their summer cottage at Lakelse Lake where a pleasant time was spent and, during which, Robert Gordon took most of the visitors to his summer camp where Mr. and Mrs. Gordon entertained them.

Delegates from Smithers were Messrs McLean, Downey, Grant, McEwen, "Bert" Kenney, Ken Warner and the federal member, Olof Hanson.

C. H. Sawle came from Hazelton, Carl Lindstrom from Remo. Terrace was represented by eleven delegates. Usk by Mr. Skinner. Mr. Little attended from Woodcock.

SPORT CHAT

The New York Yankees win pennants because they have adequate pitching and fielding and the hardest punch in baseball. No team with a two or three run advantage in the ninth inning can afford to feel too optimistic, for the Yanks are dangerous until the last put-out. Any man in the line-up can explode a triple or homer. Other teams boast a higher squad batting average but the Yanks are far out front in homers, runs-batted-in, and total bases. Where other teams may get their scores in ones or twos the Yanks often get theirs in clusters of three and four. The Yanks are leading both leagues in homers and runs-batted-in with Joe DiMaggio and Charley Keller setting the individual pace. They have players who can spark the club, as DiMaggio did with his record-breaking 56-game consecutive hitting streak.

New York doesn't possess a single great pitcher this year but it has a large squad of good pitchers with the veteran Red Ruffing first with a dozen victories. Manager Joe McCarthy has used nine starting pitchers and in a recent 9-game stretch used eight different starters and won eight games. He has a crack pair of left-handers in Marius Russo and Vernon Gomez. It's a good defensive club. Joe Gordon is regarded by many as baseball's best second baseman and DiMaggio as the No. 1 outfielders. Bill Dickey still is tops as a catcher. Phil Rizzuto and Gordon are threatening the league double-play record.

The Yankees, too, have a habit of coming up with at least one star rookie every year. There was DiMaggio in 1936, Gordon in 1938, Keller and Atley Donald in 1939, Ernie Bonham in 1940 and Rizzuto in 1941. So: You can't tab a single factor and say that's what makes the Yankees click. It's combination of all things, starting with the scouts and going through the farm system, crack players, competent managers, good morale, power, pitching, fielding. That's your champion Yankees.

Tenders are being called by the Department of National Defence for a boom defence depot at Prince Rupert.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hodgson have moved into the new home on Fraser Street which they have purchased.

Sale is announced of the residence of D. Zarelli on Fulton Street at Seventh Avenue to J. W. Eastwood who will reside therein. Mr. and Mrs. Zarelli are moving to another of their houses on Sixth Avenue West, the one which had been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood.

SMITHERS, August 13.—The Smithers delegates to the Liberal convention at Terrace, which took place on Monday, returned to their homes on Tuesday morning's train. Those attending were William Grant, J. L. McEwen, Ken Warner, J. P. Downey, L. H. Kenney and C. F. McLean. Olof Hanson M. P. was also in attendance and among others was W. C. Little of Woodcock. The delegates report that the convention went off in good style and in short order. There were about 25 present and, as the name of E. T. Kenney was the only name submitted to the meeting for nomination, he was declared nominated by acclamation.

The Liberals of Terrace went "all out" in their entertainment of the visitors. After lunch the whole party drove out to Lakelse Lake where they were entertained at the summer home of the nominee and also at the luxurious summer cottage of Robert Gordon of Prince Rupert. Some of the visitors enjoyed a bath in the water from Takelse Hot Springs which flows through a big bath in Mr. Gordon's cottage. Many of them had never seen Lakelse Lake before and they were loud in their praises of the lake, the scenery and the hot baths.

People from the Bulkley Valley who know the Terrace and Lakelse Valley districts are enthusiastic boosters for the early completion of the Skeena Highway, which will give them access to these areas by motor car.

All the delegates at the convention were confident that their candidate would again be elected for another term as member of the Legislature of British Columbia.

Save Gasoline

Here's the easiest way of all to save gasoline so badly needed for our Navy, Army and Air Force. Drive to work in fours instead of singly, taking turns and so using only ONE car instead of four. Double up, too, for trips to the movies and for shopping. Honour your 50/50 Pledge. Save gasoline wherever you can. Canada needs it.

REMEMBER: The slower you drive, the more you save!

Shortcuts to a 50% GASOLINE SAVING
(Approved by Automobile Experts)

- Reduce driving speed from 60 to 40 on the open road.
- Don't strain your engine; change gears.
- Keep carburetor cleaned and properly adjusted.
- Tune up motor, timing, etc.
- Keep spark plugs and valves clean.
- Check cooling system; overheating wastes gasoline.
- Maintain tires at right pressure.
- Lubricate efficiently; worn engines waste gasoline.
- Drive in groups to and from work, using cars alternate days.
- Boat owners, too, can help by reducing speed.

Your regular service station man will gladly explain these and other ways of saving gasoline. Consult him.
