enemy started bombing the streets of New York and San Francisco, New Orleans and Chicago. When fighting bombing airplanes and tanks it was fatal to wait until one saw the whites of the enemy's eyes. This was but old common sense. Resistance must commence while still there was time and this would be the principle of United States policy in regard to foreign policy and national defence.

Mr. Roosevelt called upon capital and industry in the emergency to settle its differences by conciliation and mediation machinery which had been set up by federal authority without interruption of industrial production.

The address was delivered in the east room of the White House in the presence of diplomatic representatives of twenty-one western hemisphere nations including Hon. Leighton McCarthy, Canadian minister.

It would be too late when the

It is learned officially that 561 Axis ships (totalling nearly three million tons) have been sunk, captured or scuttled up to the middle of May since the war began. Of these ships 346 have been German and 215 Italian.

EDITORIAL

Fly Flags To Boost Bond Sale . . .

As another means of concentrating public attention on the importance of supporting the Victory Loan 1941 campaign, federal, provincial and civic authorities have instructed that, throughout the duration of the campaign starting next week, flags shall be kept flying over all public buildings. The suggestion would appear to be appropriate that a real "showing the flag" demonstration be made of it in Prince Rupert. On all hands we are being impressed with the necessity of "going over the top" with this campaign. If flying the flag will help, we should all be for it. It is little enough to do in these stirring times. It is an opportunity for us to demonstrate our interest and support of this vital undertaking. Let us therefore all, at our places of business and at our homes where possible, fly the flag, help the campaign and support in this way the fight for the preservation of our country and the ideals for which our flag flies.

When you are satisfied with yourself, the undertaker begins to smile.

Be a snob, if you like that kind of thing. Most people don't and will give you the cold shoulder if you put on airs.

Tank Warfare . . .

It seems today as if modern warfare to a considerable extent depends upon the number of tanks employed. It seems almost like a reversion to the old days when they used war chariots in battle. It is said that the interior of the tank is a very unpleasant place in which to ride and, while it is much pleasanter to be inside than out when bullets and shrapnel are flying in every direction, yet there is little chance of escape if anything goes wrong with the machine.

Is There A Deal? . . .

Is there really a deal consummated between Stalin and Hitler? It is rumored that Stalin is to have the Iran oil fields and Hitler the Iraq oil fields and a slice of the Ukraine wheatlands in case the British are defeated. Possibly there will be other plans made for control of other areas but they might as well forget it. Stalin seems too wary to take a chance against Britain openly even though things might look bad to one who does not know the British.

Democratic Weakness . . .

Mrs. Laura Jamieson, writing to a Socialist weekly paper recently, told of meeting the people of a fishing village and of the reasons given why a jetty was built. Several reasons were given but the only one they never thought of was that possibly the jetty might have been needed and, therefore, the government, on the advice of the local member, had built it.

It is difficult to serve people who always ascribe wrong motives for everything that is done. It is the politicians who put these ideas into people's minds. In this case it would be the C.C.F. politicians or the Conservative politicians. But the Liberal politicians are just as bad. Everything that the opposition does is bad or, if good, then done from a wrong motive. While there is no suggestion that Mrs. Jamieson ascribed a wrong motive for the making of a needed improvement at a fishing village, she evidently enjoyed recounting the fallacies of the fishermen at the expense of political opponents. She would have been more worthy of respect if she had suggested that possibly there was a right motive, the motive that the jetty was needed and therefore was built to serve the fishermen and not for some personal or political reason.

A Poor Prophet . . .

Lindbergh has been telling the people of the United States that Britain was beaten before she started. The Minneapolis Star-Journal, published in a part of the country where Lindbergh has been very popular and where things English have not been looked upon with favor, declares that in past wars England always had been beaten at the beginning but always finished in the money. That paper goes on to say:

"Why should Lindbergh tell the United States what to do any more than 'Wrong Way' Corrigan? We have thousands of army and navy pilots who can fly all around Colonel Lindbergh. They are better trained and more entitled to speak. They are the ones who know, not Colonel Lindbergh, who has no experience in military and naval affairs. He is a good stunt flier."

NAZI RULE DIFFICULT IN FRANCE

Survey Reports On Position Of People And State Of Work

OTTAWA, May 28: (CP)—Great reaction among the people of France unoccupied by German troops, but feeling the burden of the Nazi domination, is of a mental and moral order, says a report received by the Canadian Y. W. C. A. officials from Mrs. E. B. Fox of the American Y. W. C. A.

"While enduring great privations and worry in the daily struggle for existence because of insufficient fuel, food, medical supplies, clothing and blankets," she writes, "the real suffering is caused by the uncertainties and instabilities, the prolonged isolation from the outside world, the continued separation of families and lack of communications."

Comparing conditions with those of last September Mrs. Fox said, "living and travel conditions have become more normal for citizens of the country and privileged foreigners. Most of the overcrowding and congestion has been solved by the concentration in camps of tens of thousands of refugees, most of whom are without means of support. Hotels, pensions and trains, however, are still crowded."

Work Of Girl Guides
Mrs. Fox described the work of the Girl Guides and Boy Scouts, both Catholic and Protestant. "The outstanding impression of my contacts with these young leaders is of their courage and perseverance and constantly making known their views and the carefree manner in which they accept the hard physical conditions under which they live and work."

In connection with the privations of the people in general she said one is "constantly amazed" at the ingenuity shown in discovering food and fuel substitutes. "Among the people there is a noticeable stiffening of spirit, a quiet dignity and determination and a kind of heroic living, especially among the young people."

In spite of difficulties the "Y" workers have carried on their work and met at the Nimes conference. Mile. Barot, well-known to "Y" workers, was appointed Counsellor of the National Y. W. C. A. in the unoccupied zone and organizer of work for the Committee of Christian Associations in the refugee camp at Gurs.

Three other secretaries, Misses Nicole de Ferron, Marie Bouniol and Erica Brucker, who had been doing field work during the winter months were able to reach 150 out of the 196 Y. W. C. A. centres and reported that the work was being carried on with "devotion and tireless energy."

Work In Camps
In Mile Barot's report on the work in the camps, she said that Y. W. C. A. and C. I. M. teams had worked hard all winter trying to ameliorate the suffering of thousands of men, women and children.

"Their courage and perseverance have been well rewarded by the confidence they have won both inside and outside the camps—and by the privileges they have been granted," she wrote.

Another team working at Lyon had as a special assignment the welfare of people expelled from Alsace and Lorraine. She described how the work is carried on in harmony with the Catholic social workers and priests. "They look after the Catholics and we try to aid the Protestants. There are 8,000 refugees temporarily housed here."

In other internment camps and "centres d'accueil" of which between 20 and 25 were visited, only were there tens of thousands of French but aliens of more than 30 other nationalities.

We did it BEFORE...
We will do it AGAIN

In 1918-1919, when Canada asked its citizens to loan their money to the limit, they did it—enthusiastically. It was sufficient for them to know that Canada needed the money.

They poured out their money to buy Victory Bonds in $50's, $100's, $500's and $1,000's . . . yes, tens and hundreds of thousands. The loyalty and eagerness with which they loaned the money astounded the world.

And Canada paid every cent of principal and interest.

We did it before. We will do it again.

From our now greater population there will be another outpouring of dollars for Victory because the threat to our freedom is graver now than it was then.

Canadians have never failed to back up their fighting sons with fighting dollars. "Come, then, let us to the task."

Help finish the job!

Workers Wanted For Red Cross

Approach Of Summer Has Caused Slackening Of Efforts So Help Is Needed

Mrs. Lowe, the lady in charge of the Red Cross rooms at the City Hall, is asking for workers. During the winter many ladies have been very faithful in sewing and knitting both at home and in the work rooms. With the coming of spring and the call of the outdoors, there has been a slackening of effort.

Unfortunately there is no slackening of the need for Red Cross materials. The campaign in the Mediterranean means that all sorts of supplies will be needed and by the time the articles being made here now get to England it is quite possible the German invasion will be going on. Then the need will be greater than it has ever been.

Anyone wishing to help should get in touch with Mrs. Lowe at the workrooms. Don't let the boys down. Suppose they were your boys what would you do?

Letter Box

FROM A DADDY

Editor, Daily News:
Here is a letter written to a paper in the south that another Daddy would like every one here to read:

"Today my daughter, who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel, whose name is Bob, sits on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved goodbye and started off to the hall of learning.

"Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her, the girl with the yellow curls, and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher—who has eyes in the back of her head—and of the trees in the schoolyard, and about the big girl who doesn't believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things, tremendously vital, unimportant things, and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic, and then to bed.

"She's back there now, back in her little bed, sound asleep with her doll (Princess Elizabeth) cuddled in her right arm.

"You fellows wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see, I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger cut, or her head gets bumped, I can fix it. But when she starts to school—when she crosses the street—then she's in your hands.

"She's a nice kid—she can run like a deer and darts about like a chipmunk—likes horses, swims, and hikes with me on Sunday.

"But I can't be with her all the time. I have to work to pay for her clothes and education.

"So please help look after her, please drive slowly past the school and intersections, and please remember that children run from behind parked cars and from the hedges.

"Please don't run over my little girl?"

"EVERY DADDY"

SPORT CHAT

They've had only seven months or so to get ready for the party so it's only natural that some of the National League clubs suddenly have discovered that they forgot to get shirt studs or collar buttons and have dashed frantically to Uncle Sam Bredon's general merchandise store to get what they need. He's always got it in stock, or on order, whether it is a pitcher, an infielder or an outfielder, and he'll let it go at a price—his price. All he keeps for himself is just enough ball players to make his Cardinals a stout pennant contender.

We can't recall off-and-a case where Bredon put out any money in a major league player transaction. He's always on the receiving end financially, and it is estimated that he has taken in around $200,000 since the close of the 1940 season. This figure is based on reports that he received $31,000 for Bowman, $35,000 for Oregno, $55,000 for Micoev Owen, $15,000 for Stu Martin, $17,000 for Mike Ryba, $7,500 for Tot Pressnell, $7,500 for Newall Kimball, $25,000 for Ernie Koy, and $20,000 for McGee.

In many of these deals Bredon also received players, much as a dealer will take in a used car as a trade-in. For instance, he got Harry Gumbert from the Giants in Bredon has got ex-Cards scattered all over the league. In fact, if the New York Giants make a couple of more deals with him they'll be known as the Cardinal B. team. Bill McGee, Joe Oregno, Bob Bowman, Burgess Whitehead and Ken O'Dea all came from the St. Louis player market. He has only one rival as a David Harum Gerry Nugent of the Phils runs a high-class general store catering to the carriage trade, but he doesn't have much of a stock. For one Higby or Walters he has up for sale Bredon has a dozen assorted players up for sale or swap.

The shrewd Cardinal owner doesn't go out looking for deals. He has the merchandise and the buyers come to him, and he usually makes a neat profit because he has the man or men the buyers want right now, regardless of cost. For instance he got $100,000 plus Joe Medwick and Curt Davis, in addition to Ernie Koy, Sam Nash, Carl Doyle and Bert Haas. Medwick has developed into a fine young pitcher. Koy was sold the other day to the Reds, and the estimated $25,000 Bredon received for him can be added to the profit on the Medwick deal.

The remarkable part about it is that the Cards get rid of all these good players and still don't feel their loss. We can think of only one deal that backfired. That was the one sending Gus Mancuso to New York so he could help the Giants win the 1938 pennant.

GIRLS ARE ADEPT TOO
 Spot Enemy Planes for Gunners and Work Precision Instruments

LONDON, May 28: (CP)—London girls help direct the fire of anti-aircraft guns that defend the capital when enemy bombers drone overhead to release high explosives and incendiaries.

All are members of the Auxiliary Territorial Service. They form part of the special AA sections of that service now being recruited and trained to replace men in many crews all over the country. They don't load the guns or fire them because these jobs call for great physical strength. But they do everything else.

When an alarm sounds the girls come out at the double to "man" the fire control. Their places are at the predictor, the height-finder and the identification telescope. They work protected only by a low rampart of sandbags, a few yards away from the gun whose fire they direct.

The War Office was so impressed by the work of these Ack-Ack girls it sent a government film unit to make a movie of them. The picture will go on exhibition, partly to show Britain what her girls can do and partly to obtain recruits for one of the most spectacular and hazardous phases of the ATS service.

1941 Grain Outlook—

MORE RAIN IS NEEDED FOR CROPS

Precipitation Survey Shows Better Crop Prospect in Manitoba But Other Areas Report Decreases

WINNIPEG, May 23: (CP)—May rains in many sections of the prairie provinces have brightened prospects for this year's grain crop. The rains were needed badly for, with the exception of western Manitoba, precipitation figures for the West's grain-producing areas covering the nine-month period ending April 30 showed a general lack of moisture.

Southwestern Manitoba was particularly fortunate in the first half of May with heavy rains augmenting a moisture supply already above normal. Substantial precipitation was reported from other parts of the province and most of Saskatchewan benefitted in a slightly lesser degree. In southern and central Alberta there have been moderate showers, while in the Peace River and Lesser Slave Lake areas good drenching rains have occurred. Temperatures have been above normal over the entire grain region during the first three weeks of May. The excesses ranged from six to nine degrees in Manitoba and were only slightly less marked in most sections of the other provinces.

According to Dominion Meteorological Service statistics for the period from August 1, 1940 to April 30, 1941, Manitoba, with an average increase above normal of 11 per cent, alone showed a balance on the right side of the precipitation ledger. There was an average deficiency of six per cent in Saskatchewan and the average in Alberta was 16 per cent below normal.

Western Manitoba was the one real bright spot with an excess of 28 per cent. In the eastern section of the province there was a slight decrease from normal. Southwestern Saskatchewan's "hot spot" ran true to form with a decrease of 20 per cent below the average, and the southeastern and northern sections recorded figures slightly above and below normal respectively.

The three Alberta areas showed up very poorly compared with the corresponding period last year when big excesses were reported. This year the northern and central districts each showed decreases of a little more than 25 per cent and the south was a shade better than normal.

Monthly Review

Precipitation in the fall and early winter in northern Alberta was heavy, but the gain was lost through large decreases in January, March and April. Deficiencies were recorded in all months except November and March in central Alberta. Precipitation in the northern section of the province was 100 per cent above normal in September, October and November but well below the average in all other months.

Northern Saskatchewan built up a good moisture reserve from October to February with excesses ranging up to 100 per cent, but figures for the spring months proved disappointing. In the southwest's dried out areas there were good rain and snow falls during October and November with losses registered in all other months. In the southeast October proved the outstanding month with twice the normal amount of precipitation.

Western Manitoba showed figures above normal in all months except September and February when there were losses of 30 and 35 per cent respectively. Precipitation in the eastern district was 50 per cent above normal in October, 35 per cent in January and 20 per cent in April. Figures were below the average in the other months under review.

COMPOSITES WIN SOCCER

Took Honors in Opening Of City Championship Football Competition Last Night

Composite Services outplayed Rocky Mountain Rangers last night to win the opening game of the Mobley Cup city senior championship competition by a score of 5 to 1. The R. M. R.'s may have had a measure of bad luck at that but, nevertheless, Composites were full value for victory. The score at half time was four to nothing. A good-sized crowd of fans witnessed the game in spite of the softball crumpler-attraction.

For the Composites Thomas scored twice, McNaughton who opened the scoring, Fowler and Barely accounting for the other goals. Fowler, who excelled for the Rangers made their one and only counter and had bad luck with other good tries.

Jim Wilson was referee.
