

Wreck of Bentinck—
SURVIVORS TELL HOW
THREE COMRADES
OF EXPOSURE

Only Fortuitous Last Minute Circumstances Saved Lives of Four Who Lived to Tell Story

Only a set of fortuitous last minute circumstances saved the wreck of the service boat Bentinck in the storm-tossed waters of Hecate Straits on the east coast of Graham Island from culminating in the death of seven persons instead of three, according to A. E. Richards, chief engineer and general superintendent of the E. J. Ryan Contracting Co., one of the four survivors, all of whom reached Prince Rupert from the Queen Charlotte Islands last evening on the steamer Camosun. After three had succumbed to exposure while endeavouring to cling to a makeshift raft, the four others had, at least in their own minds, given up all hope when, after five hours in the water, the high waves cast their almost uncontrollable raft on to the beach.

"It had reached a point where I would not have given five cents for the lives of any of us," declared Mr. Richards last night in describing the harrowing experience of the tragic voyage. "None of us, I believe, would have been able to last another ten minutes in that icy water. Further, we would not have been able to survive ashore and it was only through the good fortune of being able to stumble on the home of a hospitable farmer and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Bierush, that we are alive to tell the story."

After resting for three or four days at the Queen Charlotte City Hospital from the effects of exposure, exhaustion and shock, Mr. Richards and the three other survivors—Capt. C. J. Couture, Robert Morgan and William Notation—are now quite well recovered. The dead were Peter Lorenzen, Frank McRae and John Barker.

The survivors will tell the story of the wreck and its tragic aftermath at the inquest which commences next Wednesday morning by the taking of evidence before Coroner Norman A. Watt. Meantime the police are continuing their investigation.

Mr. Richards gave an account to a Daily News representative Friday night. It follows:

The Tragic Story

"At 8 o'clock Saturday night we left Prince Rupert aboard the Bentinck destined for Queen Charlotte City. It was an uneventful trip until we sighted the shore haze of the Queen Charlotte Islands at between 6 and 6:30 Sunday morning. The captain the night previous had set the course southwest outside of Browning Entrance and had left the mate, John Barber, at the wheel. Then in the morning the captain could not find the entrance of Skidegate Inlet. After taking soundings it was decided to proceed northward, the skipper now being at the wheel. The shore was followed some distance out for a time. The sea was not rough at this time. It was clear, broad daylight. By 9 a.m. the captain decided that he was too far north so he turned the boat about. Figuring that he was about five miles north of the Skidegate Inlet entrance, he was endeavouring to pick up the buoy."

"About 10 a.m. on a falling tide the Bentinck struck running at full normal speed. It turned out that the point was really about three miles to the north of Tiell, some twenty miles from Skidegate Inlet. The sea was still fairly smooth at this time. The tide was still falling. By low water at 11:45 a.m. the boat listed over and was shipping water over the port side.

"We started an attempt to pump

INDIVIDUAL JAPAN NOT BOND SALES SATISFIED

Total For Canada To Date Is Nippon Does Not Like Reply Of Netherlands East Indies To Trade Overtures

OTTAWA, June 7: (CP)—The Victory Loan established a record yesterday when 51,475 individuals bought bonds, bringing the day's total to $41,150,750, the national loan committee announced. The total subscribed since the campaign opened last Monday is $231,118,700.

TOKYO, June 7:—Domei News Agency said today that the reply of the Netherlands West Indies to trade overtures of Japan was considered unsatisfactory in official government quarters.

3% Victory Bonds Can Be Bought

1. In denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000.
2. Through the canvassers, through the banks or through the Dugout.
3. For one cash payment or on instalments spread over five months or by arrangement with the banks.

If you buy on the instalment plan, the bond costs you no more.

You can draw your cheque on any bank in Canada for the purchase of Victory Bonds without paying collection charges thereon.

Victory Bonds are the direct obligation of the Government of Canada and there can be no better investment. They pay better interest than do bank savings accounts. You can borrow against your bond and you can sell them at any time.

The first interest on these bonds will be paid on December 15 next thereafter on June 15 and December 15 in every year until 1951.

The Government of Canada will pay these bonds off in cash on June 15, 1951.

In any case, there was nothing to do but let him go, the life belt holding him up.

"About 4 p.m. John Barker also died of exposure. When it was seen, he could no longer hang on, he was placed on the top of the almost submerged raft. Soon after he died there the waves washed him overboard.

"At 3:30 p.m. the plane came back headed southward, evidently searching along the shore line. That was all we saw of the plane. "By this time the raft was in an eddy about half a mile from shore. The eddy, however, carried it out again.

Pete Lorenzen's Death
 "At 6:30 p.m. Peter Lorenzen died of exposure when the raft was about a quarter of a mile offshore. The captain held on to Lorenzen in the rough sea for about twenty minutes.

Coming In Line - - -

We are glad to know that, after much meandering, the C.C.F. political party has swung into line and is supporting Canada's war effort. M. J. Coldwell, leader of the party, speaking recently, committed himself and his group wholly to the support of the Canadian effort and chided the people with not doing more. In part he said:

"In this favored land we are as yet, untouched by the circumstances and horrors of actual war. We are apt to think of the conflict as something far off and to sit back and applaud the fortitude of the people of London and Bristol and Plymouth, and to express our admiration for the marvelous feats of the airmen and the bravery of our soldiers and the heroism and courage of the men who go down to the sea in ships. But we must realize that upon us lies the added duty of making this country worthy of this heroism; this courage; this sacrifice.

"I have no hesitation in saying that, as a nation, we are not pulling our full weight for the overthrow of the dictatorships. Not because our people don't want to but because, when the war began, we failed as a nation to understand the requirements of the conflict. Now that wasn't unnatural, for most of us had been thinking in terms of peace and progress rather than of war and devastation.

"As the struggle grows more menacing and grave, we are bound to be driven to plan, completely, our economic activities. But we must not continue our habit of doing too little, too long. In this 20th month of war we still have idle equipment and idle tools and idle men and women. It was only last week, after 20 months of war, that we celebrated the completion of the first heavy tank, and it was only last week that the government decided to extend our production of essential steel by using Nova Scotia plants."

The Newer Viewpoint - - -

Speaking of the viewpoint of the mass of the people of Great Britain Mr. Coldwell said:

"In Great Britain the masses of the people are convinced they are fighting not for a richer, more powerful imperial Britain, because when the war ends Britain will be infinitely poorer than she has ever been. They are fighting for a Britain where there will be more equality and more comradeship and more social and economic justice. That is the secret of their marvelous morale. They trust great leaders of the common people.

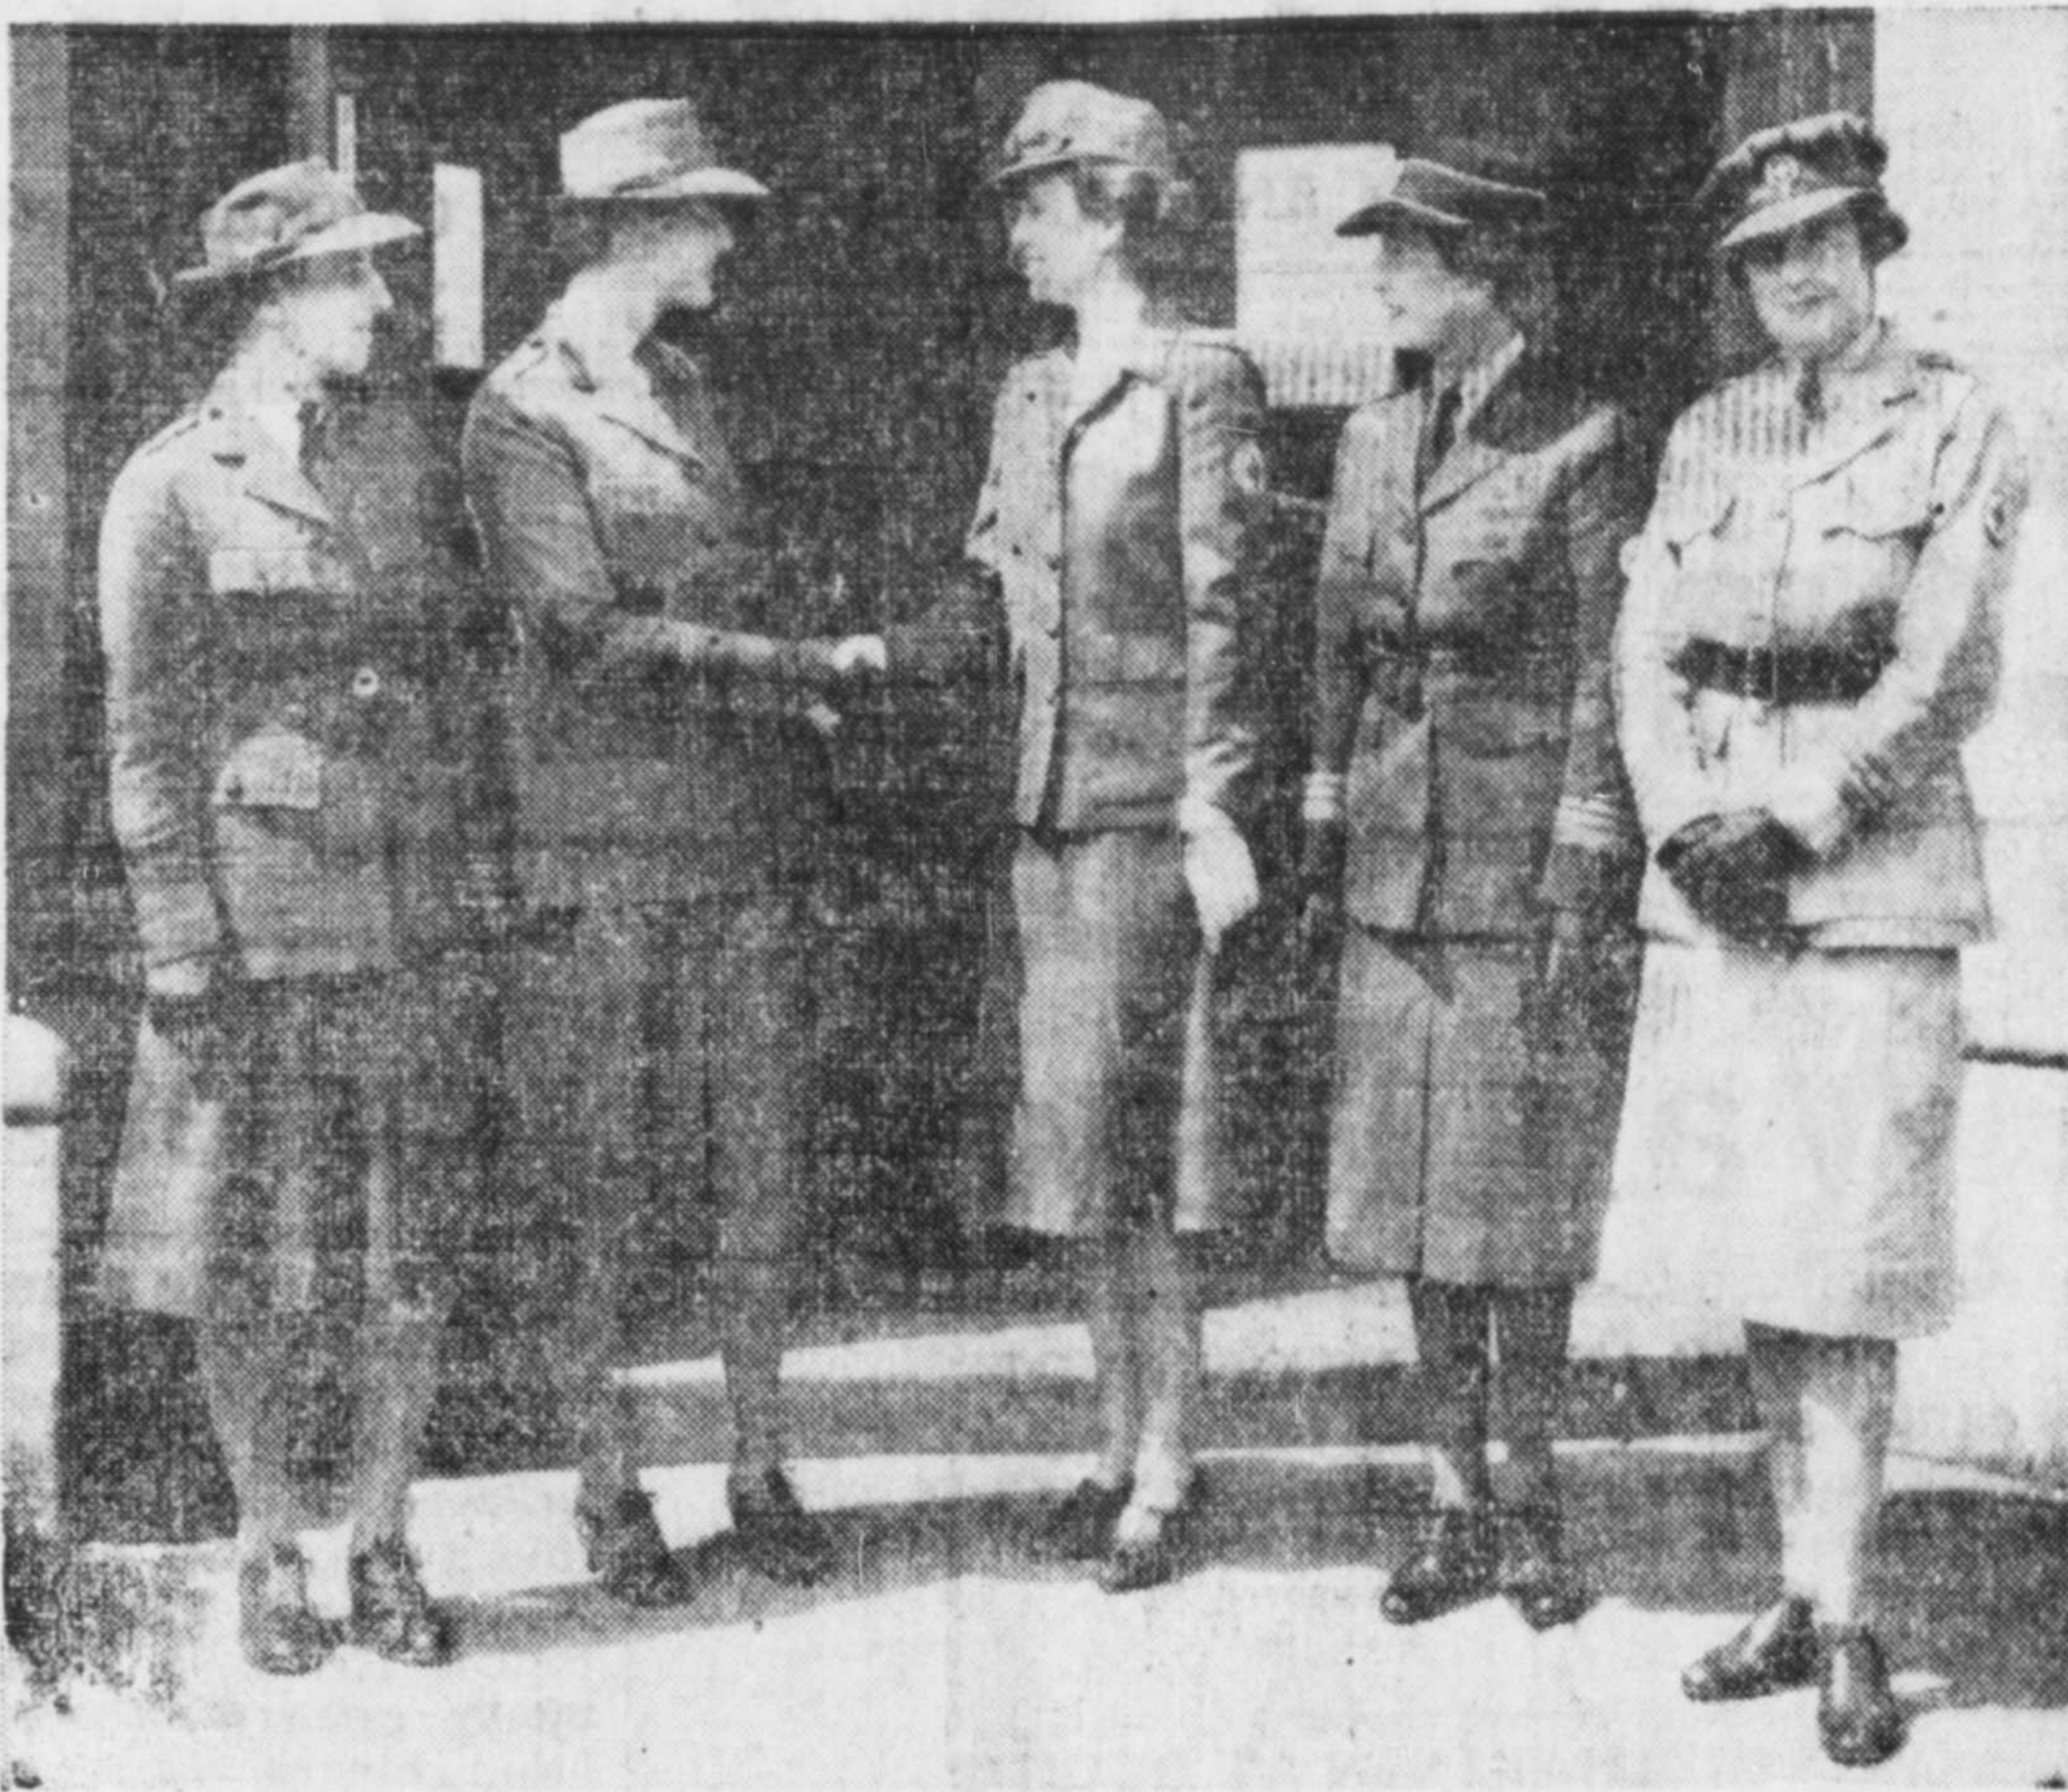

"Here in Canada many people have not yet realized the implications. Some still think that when the fight is over we shall return to the conditions we knew before the war—and that fills them with satisfaction. But this can never be. We must plan our war effort so that bitterness and discontent will not inhabit the hearts of our workers, our farmers, our fishermen. If not, we invite defeat and jeopardize the peace."

Get Together Later - - -

We are glad to welcome Mr. Coldwell to the ranks of those who look for a better day after the war without any of those violent conflicts that cause even more suffering and sorrow than war between nations. There is little difference between the aim of Mr. Coldwell and the aim of the other political parties. All look for better conditions for all but there are many different ideas as to how the change can be brought about. Yesterday we published a report of a speech outlining the view of the churches on after the war reconstruction. Today all we can do is lick Hitler. Then we can get together and discuss the Canadian situation.

Victorious on Initial Appearance in Ladies' Softball League

In the Ladies' League softball tussle last night the Fraser Street girls, making their first appearance of the season, defeated the top notch Service Club by a score of 10 to 8. It was an exciting game and was not until the sixth inning that the Fraser Street squad overcame the lead which was 8 to 0 up until then for the Service Corps. A feature of the game was a fine three-base hit by Betty Payne of Fraser Street with two on bases. Elma Hingston, last year's pitcher for Cookies Confectionery was on the mound for the winners. This girl usually pitches a fine game. The losers used their steady pitcher, N. Williams.

V. Cavenaille, playing for the Service Corps, also turned in a fine game. Batteries for Fraser Street were Hingston, Vuchovich and Davies and for Service Corps, N. Williams and P. Wiggins. Umpires were Edwards and Coz of the Rocky Mountain Rangers. Scorer was Dominic Montesano. The league standing to date:

SPORT CHAT

Rocky Mountain Rangers and Searchlights will meet in tomorrow's fixture in the City Baseball League in the doings of which interest continues to increase. The Rangers are on top of the league with Dido Gurvich's city locals. The Searchlights have yet to win a game so are on the spot this time. Tommy Green will be on the mound for the R.M.R.'s and is full of confidence. Mike O'Neill will hurl for the Searchlights and, knowing what we do of Mike, we can hazard a guess that one of these days he will come through in a big way—and maybe the Rangers will know about it tomorrow.

The interior native village of Moricetown will hold its annual spring stampede and sports day on Wednesday of next week and is expecting to have visitors in town from all around. PREPARING FANCY DISHES OF SMOKE AND FLAME FOR HUN

In what might truly be called a "hell's kitchen" somewhere in Canada, these women are busily engaged cooking up a menu of smoke and flame for the Nazis. They produce parachute flares for lighting up bomb targets, smoke shells for obscuring troop movement and a wide variety of other pyrotechnics. Although the woman at the left appears to be spreading a batch of fancy cookies, she is actually laying out igniter caps for smoke cartridge. The workers at right are welding cases for parachute flares.

R. CHAMBER IN SESSION

Monthly Dinner Meeting—Various Matters of Business Discussed

The Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce held their regular monthly dinner meeting last night prior to the suspension of meetings by the war. The dinner was in honor of Gordon German who is a member of the chamber and there was a fair attendance of members. Business was of routine nature, and consisted of consideration of more correspondence, receipt of reports from various committees, T. W. E. Henry a guest and George Fales was named as a new member. There was a letter from the newly organized Ketchikan Junior Chamber of Commerce, extending an invitation to members of the local chamber to go north for the inaugural of the Ketchikan Chamber on June 24 when the charter will be presented and officers installed with Governor of Alaska Ernest H. Gruening as the principal speaker. Appreciation for the invitation will be extended to Ketchikan although wartime regulations prevent its being accepted.

Alf Rivett reported on behalf of a committee which had interviewed City Commissioner D. J. Matheson in regard to traffic matters and sanitary places around the city. Mr. Matheson is to be taken on a tour of some of the points under discussion in connection with these matters.

Civic Centre Progress
C. G. Ham reported progress in connection with the civic centre undertaking, telling of a meeting which had just been held when it was decided to proceed with the formation of an Association and the drawing up of constitution and bylaws. Norton Youngs reported that, as soon as the Victory Loan 1941 drive was over, plans would be set in active motion for the carnival to be held this fall to raise funds for the civic centre. If necessary, a special general meeting of the Junior Chamber will be held during the summer months.

A resolution from Pentiction Junior Chamber of Commerce which would have criticized Premier T. D. Pattullo for his action in connection with the Dominion-provincial conference on the Rowell-Sirois report was filed as was also a questionnaire from the Junior Chamber of Commerce in connection with the Rowell-Sirois report.

A letter has been sent by the Junior Chamber to D. J. Matheson congratulating him upon his appointment as city commissioner.

so a letter has been sent to Lieut. Jack McRae, a member of the Junior Chamber, recognizing the honor conferred upon him in being selected as a member of a party representing the Navy in accompanying the Torch of Freedom across Canada.

minutes but was pretty well all in himself. Finally, Lorenzen's body slipped through the life buoy."

After another run around in the eddy, the raft was picked up by the waves and carried ashore. This was about 7 p.m. The remaining four men were almost utterly exhausted. In their own minds, although they did not disclose it to one another, they had given up all hope. Then Morgan said that his foot had touched bottom. This was 100 feet offshore. On reaching shore, the men crawled up the beach on hands and knees. After resting a while Richards and Norton saw a man pass along a nearby road. They hailed him but, the man believing it was only a passing greeting, called back "Hello" and passed on. Richards followed him and came up to the farmhouse of Bob Bietush. Then they went back to assist the others to the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Bietush did everything to make the four men comfortable, filling them with hot black coffee and giving them dry and warm clothing. Meanwhile Dr. Duncan McColl had been called from Queen Charlotte City and arrived at 9 p.m. At 2 a.m. the four men, suffering from exposure and exhaustion, were taken to the Queen Charlotte Hospital.

Peter Lorenzen's body drifted ashore rapidly, possibly ahead of the survivors themselves. It was picked up almost immediately. Later in the night McRae's body came ashore and was also recovered. Both bodies were taken to Queen Charlotte City placed aboard the tug Daly and taken to Prince Rupert. Completely broken up wreckage of the Bentinck also drifted ashore.

Richards acknowledged that Capt. Courtour had done everything possible to help under the circumstances. He made special reference to the valiant rescue efforts of Morgan, the cook.

A Fatal Mistake
McRae, Richards believed, had made a fatal mistake when he took off his overcoat and shoes before taking to the raft.

All were fully dressed when they took to the water.

"We could not have survived even for a few minutes longer in the water," Richards opined. With no means of lighting a fire, no shelter, we would not have been able even to remain alive on shore had it not been for the good fortune of finding the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Bietush's farm house.

Mr. Richards explained the purpose for which the trip had been made. In charge of air base construction work at Seal Cove, Prince Rupert, Mr. Richards had decided to make the week-end trip for the purpose of organizing work on a road for the grading of six miles of the Graham Island Highway southward from Port Clements. McRae was to have been in charge of the work and accompanied Mr. Richards in order to look over the job and make arrangements for living quarters for himself and his bride of two months. Lorenzen was taking the opportunity to go over and renew acquaintances on the Queen Charlotte Islands, planning to return to Prince Rupert on the Camosun.

Man in the Moon

The first tourists arrived yesterday and a few local people found time to be nice to them. Several showed them their gardens and others told them what to see, where to go and what to avoid. In spite of that some of them went to the liquor store.

I wish I were a tourist
With mazuma to spend
No pesky war to bother me
Or victory cash to lend.

I too might strut around the streets
Of Usk or Timbuctoo.
Just wait until this war is done,
I'll go off there with you.

Did you see that despatch from London suggesting that Hon. C. D. Howe may be asked to join the Churchill government in England. Howe would he get there?

You and I and all the rest with our united dollars will be the ones who will put this victory loan over.

A few people act as if they wanted to see the victory before they put their money into the loan.

An old lady from Dublin went to a health resort in France to take the cure. She was taking home a bottle when she got to the customs officer who asked her what was in the bottle. "It's water from the Spa," said she. He sniffed. "Not this," said he. So she sniffed. "Faith and yer honor and sure a miracle has happened." That story is told by J. D. A. Tripp in the Vancouver News Herald.

Adolf Hitler woke up one day and found himself in a strange bed. "Where am I?" he gasped. "You are in an English hospital," a doctor told him. "We've captured you."

"How are things getting on?" asked Hitler.

"Well," said the doc. "British ships are in command of the seas."

"Oh," said Adolf. "I'll soon push them out."

"And British troops are penetrating everywhere."

"Really? I'll soon push them out."

"And the R.A.F. lads are sweeping the skies."

"Oh, I'll soon push them out."

"Yeah," added the doc. "And I've just given you a blood-transfusion from little Solly Isaacs in the next bed. Now push that out!"

Here's a pre-ratoning story about my pal Jock McTavish. Jock went into a restaurant with his wife, and ordered a couple of juicy steaks. The waiter presently noticed that Mrs. Mac was half-way through her steak, but Jock hadn't even started on his. "Why, sir," he inquired, "is your steak tough?"

"No," said Jock. "I'm just waiting for my wife to finish with our teeth!"

"Coming home in the bus," says MacMillan "I heard the conductor say to a lady, 'You'll have to pay full fare for that child. He's 12 if he's a day.'

"What impertinence!" she said. "Why, I've only been married nine years."

"Never mind about the true confessions, lady. Pay full fare or get off!"

LINEMEN IN KHAKI

Playing an unsung but vital role in the network of defences being built along Canada's coasts are the men of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals who string the wires that are the nerves of the whole system. It is these men who join the coastal batteries and the air stations and the naval yards into one wall of defence, each unit having the ability to communicate with the other at a moment's notice. In the upper photo a lineman strings new wires along the seaboard. In lower left a typical "wire doctor" is seen at work, and at lower right two members of the R.C.S. splice a submarine cable. This branch of the service is being enlarged during the present recruiting campaign.

CAMPAIGN MOVES ON

Forty Per Cent of $350,000 Objective in This City is Now Achieved

Prince Rupert has now reached about the forty per cent mark of its $350,000 objective in the Victory Loan campaign. The total up to last night was $145,000 for the first five days of the campaign which continues until June 21. With ever two weeks yet to go and considerable territory yet to be canvassed, there is every indication that the objective will be fully achieved.

Meantime Prince Rupert's progress compares favorably with that in other parts of the province.

BANQUET BY C.G.I.

Last evening the Canadian in Training of the United Presbyterian and Baptist Churches at the United Church, hundreds of girls, mothers and attended the enjoyable affair.

The hall was appropriately decorated in blue and white. I. T. colors and on each a centerpiece to represent a study of the individual during the year. The Miss Phyllis Hamblin, leader of the Baptist group, welcomed the mothers and introduced the leaders—Miss Teng of the Presbyterians, Mrs. Boardman of the United Miss Kay Watson of the B.

Miss Hamblin spoke of the which will be conducted by Religious Education Council summer at the Queen Charlotte Islands and, incidentally, some of the enjoyable experiences she had while at Keats Baptist camp near Vancouver which she has attended for the last two summers. She hoped that many girls will be able to attend the Religious Education Council camps next year.

Each group then presented a short program which was prepared.

The United C. G. I. T. girl from each group and read a quiz, which proved quite hilarious and very entertaining.

The Presbyterians presented a short skit which was highly entertaining.

A novel idea was introduced by the Baptists in the form of a campfire sing-song, in which girls sang camp songs of a varied nature.

The evening was brought close with the singing of "The Ladies of the three churches helped make the banquet a success."

FOR EVERY CANADIAN who sails the deep, for every airman who flashes through the skies, and for every other man in the fighting forces, the prayers of the nation “rise like a fountain, night and day.”

In times of crisis our people stand steadfast. In daily devotions they renew the flame of faith and arm with unseen powers their warriors in the field.

Oftentimes they discern the Unseen Hand. Witness the miracle of Dunkirk. Witness, too, in the darkest hours the emergence of great inspiring figures to steady the ranks of Democracy and fire its courage and confidence.

Church bells are ringing throughout Canada calling men and women to worship and sacrifice in defence of our freedom, the sanctity of our homes and the future of our children.

MEDICAL MYSTERY

Another of Popular Dr. Kildare Series is Presented at Capitol Theatre Tonight

Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and other characters of this popular series of pictures have another strange adventure in medical mystery in "Dr. Kildare Goes Home," which is the feature picture for tonight at the Capitol Theatre here. This time they leave a big city hospital to deal with disease prevention in a town stricken by financial panic, battle prejudice and opposition to cleaning up old wells and other unsanitary spots. Dramatic moments in medical science are blended with comedy and down to earth human emotions. The dramatic highlight is the struggle of the doctors to save the life of the mystery patient and the battle before the town council for a sanitary town. Comedy highlights include the planned elopement of Ayres and Loraine Day who suddenly discover that the whole town knows their secret. A new doctor is added to the Kildare group in John Sheldon. Other players include Gene Lockhart as the mystery patient Alma Krueger, Samuel S. Hinds, Emma Dunn, Walter Kingsford, Nat Pendleton, Marie Blake, Neil Craig, Frank Orth, Horace McMahon and George Reed.
