PRINCE RUPERT'S BLACK-OUT We hope that Prince Rupert's black-out may never be more realistic than the rehearsal to be held tonight. The first practice of its kind ever staged west of

The practice has been called at short notice and only those associated with its staging realize the amount of organizing it has required.

If every citizen co-operates, its success will be assured. After all what we are to do is fairly simple. The main thing is, when the alarm is sounded, to extinguish and keep extinguished every form of light over which we may control. The fact that the whole city electric lighting system will be thrown off for the ten minutes makes it simple for the most of people.

Arrangements have been made by the police, with co-operation of the various civil defence units, for adequate patrol. No one need . feel any alarm about anything untoward happening.

After all, it is not the first time that all the lights will have gone out in Prince Rupert for ten minutes. The only difference this time is that we are to make sure that all other lights are kept out.

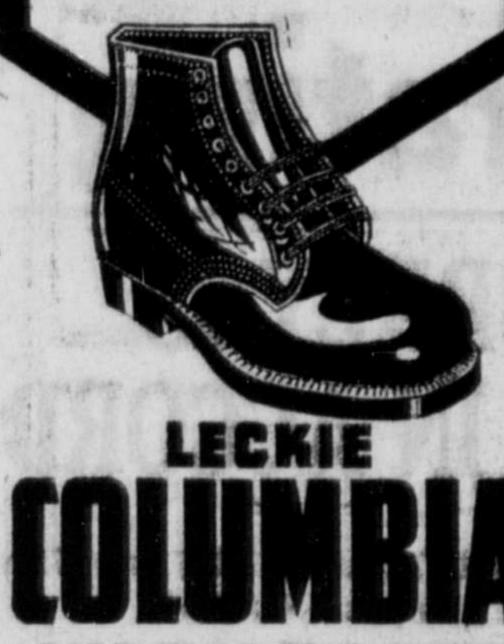

The members of the various civil protection services, of course, know what their special duties are, being already organ-by an enlightening lecture on gas by Lieut. P. A. T. Ellis of the Second Searchlight Battery. Much to he interest of all his listeners, Lieut. Ellis described the various types of war gases, telling how they might be identified and combatted and the effects treated. Instructor Angus Macdonald expressed the appreciation of the class to Lieut. Ellis for the lecture.
