Doubt Expressed at Shanghai That Peace is Possible—Britons to Evacuate Japan

SHANGHAI, Aug. 30: (CP)—British and United States residents of Shanghai expressed doubt today that any comprehensive permanent solution of problems in the Pacific could grow out of the Washington conference between President Roosevelt and Ambassador Admiral Nomura. There was pessimism based on doubt that Nomura was in a position to speak for the Japanese army or that Tokyo could control strong militaristic elements.

In Tokyo mass evacuation of British subjects from the Japanese Empire was indicated today in a British embassy announcement that it had arranged for a ship to come to Japan to remove all British nationals desiring to leave.

HEALTH IN PR. RUPERT

Meeting of Citizens Discusses With Dr. Amyot Possibility of Establishing Centre Here

With a view to establishing a public health centre in Prince Rupert, a meeting of local citizens particularly interested in the subject was held yesterday afternoon at the public library. With Dr. G. F. Amyot, provincial health officer, the necessary steps were discussed.

Dr. Amyot stated that the active interest of various public organizations was much to be desired. It would also be necessary that the municipality should take an active part. For such a centre it would be necessary to have doctor, public health engineer and nurse to work in collaboration with a laboratory such as already existed at the Prince Rupert General Hospital.

A Prince Rupert public health zone might extend as far into the interior as Hazelton or Smithers and also along the coast.

The outcome of the meeting was the decision to keep the matter alive and obtain further information immediately.

Frank Dibb occupied the chair at the meeting and other local citizens attending included Mrs. Alex McRae, Mrs. L. B. Lambly, Mrs. F. S. Walton, Arnold Flaten, W.M. Watts, Dr. R. E. Coleman, H. W. Birch, Rev. J. A. Donnell, W. R. McAfee, W. F. Stone, P. H. Linzey, E. Hetherington and Jack Deane.

INTERESTED IN HEALTH

Large Prince Rupert Audience Hears Speakers On Venereal Disease Control—Resolution Passed

Prince Rupert citizens showed substantial degree of interest in the matter of public health in general and venereal disease control in particular when they turned out to the number of about 250 in the Y. M.C.A. Hall at public meeting last night to hear these subjects discussed by Dr. G. F. Amyot, provincial health officer, and Dr. D. H. Williams, director of the Division of Venereal Disease Control. At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed approving the present provincial government program of reducing venereal disease and commending strongly the action of law enforcement agencies in suppressing commercialized prostitution.

The meeting was presided over by Major T. W. Sutherland, medical officer of the local garrison area, and, in addition to the addresses of Dr. Amyot and Dr. Williams, two sound films were shown—one, entitled "With These Weapons," depicting what is being done in the United States in a national way in combating venereal disease, and the other, "Nine Cents Per Capita," illustrating the program in British Columbia.

Others on the platform, in addition to chairman and speakers, were Rev. E. E. Brandt, pastor of First Baptist Church; Acting City Commissioner F. N. Good; Flying Officer Douglas Christie, Royal Canadian Air Force; Inspector Ernest Gammon, provincial police; Commander A. H. Reed, Royal Canadian Navy; Rev. Father W. F. Lantagne and Dr. J. P. Cade, medical health officer. Mrs. C. E. Cullin acted as piano accompanist for the singing of "O Canada" and "God Save the King."

The resolution, moved by Rev. E. E. Brandt and seconded by A. H. Silversides, was as follows:

"Be it resolved that this meeting of representatives of the community life of Prince Rupert go on record as approving and supporting the present program of the Provincial Board of Health to reduce venereal disease and that this meeting commends very strongly the action of law enforcement agencies in suppressing commercialized prostitution.

"This meeting further recognizes the importance of the active co-operation of all civic organizations dedicated to community service in achieving the highest possible standard of community health and respectfully urges their continued support.

"Be it further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the provincial secretary, Hon. Dr. G. M. Weir, the Premier, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, the attorney general, Hon. Gordon Wismer, City Commissioner D. J. Matheson and Dr. J. P. Cade, medical health officer."

Dr. Williams

Expressing gratification at the size of the audience which he said augured well for the interest of Prince Rupert people in making their city a more healthful place, Dr. Williams stated that venereal disease was a major and serious public health problem in British Columbia. In the past three years ten thousand cases of infection had been reported. If there were fifty cases of poliomyelitis, the province would be turned upside down with excitement. Yet there was little concern over syphilis and gonorrhoea. If people could see the tragic results of the malady among young children in the clinics such as that at Vancouver, they might be more impressed. Much of the insanity which existed was traceable to venereal disease and when respected citizens died of heart trouble it was sometimes as a result of venereal disease.

Must Choose Between Roosevelt - Churchill or Hitler And Mussolini

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden Crystallizes Issue in Speaking to Munitions Workers—War Output Not Great Enough Yet

COVENTRY, August 30: (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden advised Europe today to choose Anglo-American peace as formulated at the Churchill-Roosevelt conference over Adolf Hitler's "new order" as stressed at his secret meeting with Benito Mussolini on the Russian war front. The Foreign Secretary said that the eight-point declaration of Churchill and Roosevelt "establishes principles which will be equally valid for all nations" and "excludes all idea of hegemony or zone leadership in east or west."

Eden's speech was delivered before munitions workers whom he told the output of war material by Great Britain, the Allies and the United States still fell short of needs.

At Least in Offensive Towards Moscow, Moscow Advises State Today

MOSCOW, Aug. 30: (CP)—The Red Army announced today it had brought the German offensive toward Moscow to a standstill and had swept back some German forces in battles which cost the Nazis ten thousand dead and wounded. Front line dispatches said battlefields west of the Soviet capital had become a deep series of trenches, anti-tank barriers, mine fields and barbed wire over which torrential rain was pouring. Fighting is continuing along the entire front but Soviet reports indicate the centre is stalemated and the Germans are attempting to press in on both flanks.

Forced to leave behind most of their possessions, they arrive destitute in many cases. A number of them have found employment in the Air Raid Precautions Service and other forms of war work. The British War Refugees Fund has dealt with 4,500 cases. The Fund serves to educate children and feed and clothe elderly refugees. Some $225,000 has been raised.

NAZIS AT STANDSTILL

MOSCOW, Aug. 30: (CP)—The Red Army announced today it had brought the German offensive toward Moscow to a standstill and had swept back some German forces in battles which cost the Nazis ten thousand dead and wounded. ## TODAY IN ERITREA

British Liberal as Usual in Treatment of Italians

By MARTIN HERLIHY
Special Reuters Correspondent
MASSAWA, Eritrea, Aug. 30: (CP-Reuters)—This port on the Red Sea, which the Italians attempted to block by sinking ships and barges, is being speedily reopened to traffic. Work is progressing rapidly on removal of the obstructions. The appearance of a few British wives has had a remarkable effect on Italian opinion, since the Italians regarded it as a sign of British confidence in the outcome of the war and it disposed of rumors of imminent successes by the Axis.

Mussolini's picture has been voluntarily removed from prominent positions, but the king of Italy's portrait remains, which indicates the trend of Italian feeling. From this steaming tropical port, where British soldiers and sailors curse the heat, an unceasing stream of goods makes a 7,000 foot ascent to the highlands of Eritrea. A rope railway leaping from one height to another carries a large amount of merchandise while big lorries mount the winding road—a triumph of Italian engineering—to the top in less than three hours.

The main goods carrier, however, is the railway because the strain on motor transport is enormous and causes great expenditures on vehicles and gasoline. All signs of blocks erected to stop the victorious march of British and Imperial troops have disappeared and permanent repairs have been made where Italians dynamited the road. Need Dairy Products
The greater portion of the mass of traffic ascending from Massawa is intended for the country's needs and is part of the British effort to keep Eritrea's economic life going.

Believe Everything . . .

Some people believe everything they hear or read. If they hear the same thing repeated several times it must be true. That is where the Germans get the advantage. They keep on repeating lies and mixed with the lies is a modicum of truth. The result is that many people today believe that Germany has the Russians licked.

The German people have been told so often that they are winning that it comes to them as a surprise when they find that the British and Russians still have air forces, navies and powerful armies.

Judging from reports that are likely to be true, the Russians are holding out against the Nazis but, even if they are driven back, it is being done so slowly that the winter will be well advanced before they could hope to do anything like overrun the country.

Refused To Be Stooze . . .

Britain has once more refused to be the stooze for Germany. Acting in conjunction with Russia the old tricks of the Germans have been upset by a rapid invasion of the country while Germany is in a life and death struggle on different fronts. Germany has been counting on the British refusing to act unless they could justify their move. The rule has been for Britain to act according to one standard and Germany by another.

Canadian Politics In Britain . . .

The London Times in a recent editorial article discusses an important phase of Canadian politics as follows:

Mr. Mackenzie King has incurred some criticism in Canada for his careful handling of the French-speaking section of the Canadian people. To some of those in the English-speaking provinces it has seemed at times that he attached more importance to the need for keeping the whole nation in step than to the vigorous prosecution of the war. This has been most marked in the controversy over conscription and over the relations between the Canadian government and Vichy. But his policy has been justified by results, as is clear from any comparison between the attitude of Quebec during the present war and during the war of 1914-18, when French-Canadian feeling was alienated by the government's failure to take the sentiments of Quebec into account. Mr. Godbout, the Quebec premier, to whose leadership a large share of the credit is due, was able to declare the other day, "we are British as much as anyone. We are in this war to fight to the end, and are willing to bear any sacrifice asked of us." Quebec is in this fight in loyal co-operation with the rest of Canada. Mr. King's patience and the understanding of his French-speaking fellow countrymen have made it easier for them to throw off the detachment which was a not unnatural result of the collapse of France.

TRADE IS BOOMING

Exports And Imports Increase—Non-Military Shipments To Europe Wiped Out

OTTAWA, August 30: (C)—W. D. Wallace of the Canadian Trade Commissioner's office in New York reported to Ottawa that heavy increases have occurred in United States exports of war materials and so-called critical commodities but there have been "severe declines" in non-military exports and trade with continental Europe has been practically eliminated.

"The wars in Europe, Asia and Africa have increasingly determined the channels and characters of the foreign trade of the United States," he said. "Exporters have had to face obstacles resulting from increased diversion and requisitioning of shipping, voluntary shipping priorities and gradually expanding government control over exports."

During the first three months of this year United States trade with Canada rose to $298,987,000 from $213,826,000 in the same period of 1940, and accounted for 12.7 per cent of total United States trade. United States exports to Canada increased from $133,603,000 to $184,912,000 while imports from Canada rose from $80,223,000 to $104,075,000.

U. S.-U. K. Trade
In the same period, total United States trade with the United Kingdom also increased, from $209,579,000 to $320,701,000. "Total foreign trade with Canada and the United Kingdom combined thus rose from $423,405,000 to $619,688,000, and accounted for 36.9 per cent of the total foreign trade of the United States," Mr. Wallace said.

The United Kingdom was far and away the United States' best customer in the three-month period under review, with Canada in second place and British South Africa third. Japan was fourth but while exports to the three leading countries showed substantial increases, exports to Japan declined 47.6 per cent from the corresponding 1940 period. U.S. exports to the British Empire accounted for 63 per cent of the grand total.

U.S. Imports
Canada shipped more goods to the United States than any other nation, with British Malaya in second place and Netherlands Indies third. Japan was well down in the list with shipments to the United States amounting to less than one-third of Canada's.

Principal exports from the United States during the three-month period (with percentage increase in value from same quarter of 1940 in brackets) were: aircraft, parts and accessories (88.1); automobiles, parts and accessories (2.1); power-driven metal-working machinery (32).

WASHINGTON, August 30: (C)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, wife of the publisher of the Houston Post, has one of the biggest women's jobs in Uncle Sam's defence program.

As head of the Women's Division of the Army's Bureau of Public Relations she tackled the tall task of answering questions of American wives and mothers about the food, health and recreation of the boys in the camps.

Mrs. Hobby, who is the executive vice-president of the Houston Post, an active radio executive, a lawyer and mother, is bringing her past experience to play in her new job. Her office in the Munitions Building in Washington will answer women's letters and prepare press releases on army news of interest to them. She is also said to have lined up a radio program to give news of the camps.

Pioneer Firm is Now in New Home

John Bulger Ltd. Abreast of Times; In Fine Premises

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Firm Comes Incidental To Transfer

One of Prince Rupert's pioneer business concerns keeps abreast of the times and in pace with changing retailing conditions of the city. John Bulger Ltd observes its twenty-fifth anniversary by moving to a fine new home on Third Avenue adjoining the Wallace Block and almost across from the Post Office. There it will open for business on Tuesday morning of next week with an increased stock of standard merchandise, lines which have stood the test of time and which are well known to discriminating purchasers of jewelry and giftware in Prince Rupert. Of course the optical and watch repairing departments also move to the fine new, congenial, attractive and convenient surroundings. John Bulger, the proprietor, and his staff are inviting their many customers and friends to call at their earliest convenience and pay a visit. Bright and well appointed, canvenient and attractive, the new store measures twenty-five by seventy feet, is spacious and well-lighted, affording more adequate and vastly more attractive atmosphere for the display of merchandise. Larger window display space, capable of improved arrangement, is another important feature. The location of the new and up-to-date store, further east along Third Avenue, is also in line with the trend of business. The retail department occupies the entire ground floor of the new store with watch repairing and optical departments on the mezzanine.

History of Business

In connection with the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the present business, it is interesting to recall that Mr. Bulger and C. R. Denike took over the business of W. H. Wark & Son in 1916, the firm having really dated back to the old Centre Street days when C. B. Wark started up even before Prince Rupert townsite went on the market. Getting back to the present business, Mr. Bulger bought out Mr. Denike in 1918 and in 1923 R. W. Cameron became identified with the firm, retiring two years later to start up for himself. Later Mr. Bulger's eldest son, Jack, entered the business after having qualified as a manufacturing jeweler. Today Mr. Bulger sr. is president and manager of the business with J. H. Bulger, certified optometrist, conducting the optical department and James Alexander, watch maker.

The firm specializes in merchant jewelry, silver, cut glass and chinaware in addition to maintaining the jewelry and watch repairing services as well as the optometrist department. Examples of special work carried out by Bulger's have included the erection some years ago of a large public clock at the native village of Aiyansh on the Naas River and the installation of the electrical clock system in the Federal Building.

Choice Stock

Incidental to the moving to the new store, occasion has been taken to increase and modernize the stock of quality merchandise. Here are some of the many lines carried by the company:

disease contact possibly thirty years back. A serious aspect was the spread to innocent victims such as mothers and children.

Commercialized prostitution, Dr. Williams insisted, was the major source of venereal disease. There were facts and figures to prove that, where the house of prostitution and the segregated area were closed, with the putting of the madame and the pimping organization out of gear, there was a great decrease in the incidence. Arguments that were advanced against the closing of the restricted districts were all "red herrings," designed as propaganda by those who benefited from commercialized vice. Authorities who studied the problem and the racketeers in prostitution knew this very well.

Even in war time there was no reason why there should be an increase in venereal disease. Military authorities everywhere were forcing commercialized prostitution away from range of military concentrations and the beneficial results were amazing. Venereal disease was a subject in which the public was also taking a more intelligent and franker interest. Dr. Williams referred to the example which had been set by the Scandinavians as far back as forty years ago in combating venereal disease. British Columbia's progressive program along these lines was to some extent designed along the Scandinavian plan. Educational measures were being taken and free medical services provided.

The importance of blood tests before marriage was emphasized by Dr. Williams. This might save much sorrow and tragedy later, particularly since it had been found that venereal disease could be treated and cured by competent doctors with modern recognized methods. The idea that prostitutes could be kept clear of infection was a "snare and a delusion," declared Dr. Williams. Medical certification, it was now recognized, meant nothing. Segregation merely aided exploitation and made highly diseased women more accessible. The only alternative was suppression of commercial prostitution by which the third party could be largely eliminated.

Prince Rupert was to be congratulated on the stand it had taken in closing bawdy houses. Not only was such action a defence expedient but a public health necessity. Enthusiastic public support, however, was necessary to insure the success of any public health program. Given that, progress could be made in making healthier communities and eliminating from defence effort the fifth column of commercialized prostitution.

Dr. Amyot

Dr. Amyot referred to the need, particularly in war time, of having all available man and woman power in the best of condition to produce a result. If this was to be accomplished, the body of the people must be protected. "Ill health is too much of a luxury for us to afford, particularly when it can be avoided by proper care and treatment," declared Dr. Amyot who referred to the facilities to provide health services which had been set up by the British Columbia government.

Dr. Amyot then dealt more particularly with the work of the Division of Venereal Disease Control under the fine leadership of Dr. Williams. "If there was meningitis and typhoid fever on the scale that venereal disease existed you would all be up in arms," he declared. "The people would insist on action." Venereal disease did greater damage to a greater number of people than these other maladies. Yet people would enthusiastically support programs to eliminate one but would question the other. It was not a moral issue but one of practical public health.

Dr. Sutherland

Major Sutherland, in opening the meeting, said that war was having at least one benefit. It was causing people to regain perspective and realize true values including that of public health. As a result people might be expected to live longer as they endeavoured to survive in the great fight for existence.

CANADIAN PRIME MINISTER FLIES TO BRITAIN

Making his first airplane flight an epic one, the Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, arrived in Great Britain early this morning by bomber after a successful trans-Atlantic crossing. Accompanying the Prime Minister were various government officials including Norman A. Robertson, Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, and Brigadier George P. Vanier, former Canadian Minister to France and present Commanding Officer of Quebec Military District No. 5. In the top photo the Prime Minister is shown waving a cheerful goodbye to the small party on hand to bid him farewell. At left is R. B. Jackson, Traffic Manager, R.A.F. Ferry Command. At right is H. M. Long, Assistant to W. Wilson, representative of the British Ministry of Aircraft Production. In the bottom photo Mr. Robertson (at left) and Brigadier Vanier are shown chatting just before boarding the plane.

TODAY IN ERITREA

For the moment that effort is concentrated on the necessities of life. There has always been a shortage of dairy products, since cattle do not thrive in high altitudes, and this shortage has been accentuated by the presence of large numbers of stranded women and children.

The United States Red Cross donated a gift of powdered milk which was distributed among children under seven and British authorities have started to restock empty shops formerly supplied from Italy.

Officials are trying to govern the occupied country with a minimum of hardship for the inhabitants and regulations such as the curfew have been relaxed. Troops have been given a guide to Asmara with a preface recalling the British soldier's traditional character of ambassador of his country.

"For years the Italians have been taught to distrust and dislike us," the preface said. "A few offenders will injure our reputation out of all proportion to their numbers and the enemy know it—now show him that ours is a way of life worthy of respect and imitation."

Good Policy

This policy is reaping its reward. In the country and in towns and cities the colonists have showered invitations on the soldiers to visit their homes for meals and entertainments. The same spirit prevails in football matches between army, Royal Air Force, and local teams and joint boxing contests. There is rarely any animosity shown.

As Eritrea is a test for British administration this spirit must be fostered not only by propaganda but also by economic help. An army-sponsored paper, which prints the same news in Italian and English, has dispelled any suspicion by the Italians that the news is doctored for their benefit.

"V" Is Victor In Fashions

Has Become Popular Trend In Dress Gadgets, Ornaments And Accessories

NEW YORK, August 30: (AP)—The V is notorious in fashion, anyway. Aside from stunts such as hair-dos and painted motifs on arms and legs, the V theme is playing a functional part in fashion design. Stripes and plaids, well-liked this season, spell a bold V in bias-cut dresses and coats. Many new hats, both American and British, blatantly depict the theme as a morale booster, while others take advantage of the pleasing motif for subtle, wearable line or trim. Gloves, purses and even shoes follow suit.

In the novelty line, countless gadgets such as vanities, eye glasses, scarfs, and clips, pins and jewels, bear testimony to the peculiar acceptance of the V theme. Innumerable buttons bearing the symbol in outline or super-imposed upon a disc are reported selling well. People seem, unconsciously or

LABOR DAY IS EARLY

No September 1 Holiday Again Till
1947—Started By Knights Of Labor

A trick played by the Gregorian Calendar brings Labor Day on the earliest date possible this year—September 1. Not since 1930 has the holiday fallen on the first of the month, nor will it come again that early until 1947.

At one time Labor Day was always celebrated September 1. When the holiday was made statutory in Canada in 1894, through legislation enacted by the government of Prime Minister Sir John Thompson, the date was so fixed. But in later years demands for the long week-end resulted in making the holiday the first Monday in September.

Celebrated throughout Canada and the United States for 48 years, the September Labor Day is peculiar to this continent. Its European counterpart is May Day—a celebration often accompanied by workers' demonstrations of a revolutionary character. Although the North American holiday is marked by labor parades and speeches exalting the worker and the powers and responsibility of workers, the majority of Canadians regard it as an opportunity for rest—the last holiday of the summer.

Early Guilds

Medieval records tell of processions organized by trade guilds to demonstrate the workingman's pride in his craftsmanship and to obtain wider recognition of the importance of the guilds. The inauguration activities of the Knights of Labor, a powerful organization which existed in the '80s. It dropped out of existence in 1894 when other labor organizations took the lead.

Demonstrations were held by laborites in New York, Montreal and Toronto during the years 1882-83, and the demand for a Labor Day became a political issue. In 1894 the United States Congress passed a bill providing for such a holiday and the Canadian

House of Commons enacted a similar measure.

Much of the credit for the passage of Labor Day legislation in Canada is given to Alexander W. Wright, a newspaperman who wrote for the Guelph Herald and the Stratford Herald and later became the editor of a Journal published by the Knights of Labor. He went to Ottawa and "lobbied" for the measure while it was being discussed in the House, apparently influencing many of the members in favor of it.

During the past week the landings totalled 866,000 pounds including 673,500 pounds from American vessels and 193,500 pounds from Canadian. This brought the total landings for the season up to 13,437,500 pounds consisting of 8,487,900 pounds American and 4,950,600 pounds Canadian fish. Prices kept up well and, with catches in the most of cases quite substantial, there were some very gratifying financial returns for boats, owners and crews. For American fish the high price of the week was 12.8c and 11.5c which the Tordenskjold was paid for 42,000 pounds. Canadian prices averaged higher than the American with top bid of the week—12.3c and 12c—going to the White Hope for 25,500 pounds. The low price of the week for American fish was 12c and 10.5c which several boats received while the low for Canadian was 12c and 10.7c received by Joan W. I. at 29,000 pounds.

COMEDY IS FINE

Madeleine Carrol And Fred MacMurray Co-Stared in "Virginia"
At Capitol For Holiday

A gay modern comedy drama in Technicolor, brings Madeleine Carrol and Fred MacMurray together as a team for the third time when "Virginia" comes for the first half of next week to the Capitol Theatre.

Added to this duo is a handsome blond newcomer to the screen, Stirling Hayden, who shows promise of becoming a star in his own right.

"Virginia" is a story of a "second invasion" of the Old Dominion by a sudden influx of large numbers of wealthy Northerners who buy up the beautiful estates that have been the ancestral homes of prominent Southern families.

The plot revolves around the return of a native Virginia girl who had moved away when still a very small child, to find herself "landed" and her rebellion against the slow easy-going Virginia manner of living. However, through the love and devotion of her neighbor and the loyalty of old family servants she becomes acutely conscious of her heritage and responsibility to carry on the venerable family traditions.

The wealth and worldly sophistication of a play-boy Northern newcomer to the locality complicates the young girl's changes of heart. In the colorful unfolding of this romantic tale lies thrilling and amusing entertainment.
