Five Fascist Warships, Some Powerful Cruisers, Are Sunk In Great Ionian Sea Battle

Cost to British was Only Two Missing Airplanes—Nine Hundred or more Italian and German Officers and Seamen Taken

THE SCORE

Five Italian warships and possibly eight lost. Three Italian aircraft lost. More than 900 Italian and German seamen taken prisoner, hundreds drowned. Two British aircraft missing. No British ships hit. No British casualties.

ALEXANDRIA, March 31: (CP)—H.M.S. Warspite, flagship of the British Mediterranean fleet at Alexandria, and a squadron of other of Britain's fighting ships paraded into port today apparently unscathed after the victorious Battle of the Ionian Sea in which at least five Italian warships sank under their blazing guns. Besides sinking

LINE TO CAPITAL CUT OFF

British Forces Now In Fair Way To Capture Addis Ababa—Closing On Asmara

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 31: (CP)—Diredda on the Addis Ababa-Djibuti Railway has been in British hands since Saturday. It was announced officially today. This puts the British forces only 200 miles east by railroad from the Ethiopian capital and in control of the only railroad link between that city and the coast. This means that the British Imperial forces are now in a position to cut off Addis Ababa entirely.

War Services Drive Here Is Now Over Top

Col. J. W. Nicholls, chairman of the local Canadian War Services Fund committee, announced this morning that the quota of $5,000 had been reached on Saturday. The committee is, however, continuing the drive with a view to reaching an objective of $7500 of fifty percent over the quota. The canvass continues until the end of this week.

SWIFT CURRENT WINS

United States Takes Over 28 Italian, Two German and 35 Danish Vessels in Various Ports

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The United States government has seized 28 Italian, two German and 35 Danish merchant vessels which have been lying in American ports. The German and Italian ships will be placed in the American service and the Danish will be turned over to Great Britain. The move started Saturday when the United States government ordered guards posted on twenty-eight Italian ships in various American ports to prevent Italian crews from sabotaging the engines of the vessels. Already some cases of self-inflicted sabotage had been reported, five vessels having been so damaged at Newark by firing dry boilers, stripping turbines and other means. Evidently, the Italians were fearful that the ships might fall into enemy hands. Baltimore and Wilmington are among ports where guards had been posted to Italian ships.

A preliminary inspection showed almost all the Italian vessels taken over had already been rendered useless by sabotage. The lightning action of the United States in taking over the 65 merchantmen in American ports is expected today to develop into a hemisphere-wide move to thwart the departure or sabotage of long-lie Axis vessels. The Costa Rican government arrested crews of the German freighter Eisenach and the Italian liner Fella which were anchored at Punta Arenas when they set their ships afire this morning. The Eisenach is a 4100-ton vessel and the Fella, well known on the British Columbia coast, is 5600 tons.

AIMED AT WARSHIPS

Royal Air Force Endeavouring To Get Big German Battleships Scharnhorst And Gneissau At Brest

LONDON, March 31: (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers and fighters blasted the French invasion coast and German Channel shipping today in a fiery follow-up of a night raid on the Nazi battleship Scharnhorst and Gneissau at Brest. The British planes set afire and blasted the docks at which the two big warships lay but no claim was made to having actually hit the vessels. The air over Dover Straits "hummed" throughout the morning and early afternoon with British planes and falling bombs were plainly heard this side of the Channel. Earlier in the day the Air Ministry reported two German tankers afire and sinking off Le Havre. Calais was also hit by the Royal Air Force during the night.

DISNEY INFLUENCE ON AFRICAN WAR FRONT

The squadron crest painted on this Italian plane shot down at Gazala is the big bad wolf that roams around in the short films produced by Walt Disney. Even on the war front he provides a laugh for a British Tommy.

RESISTING JUGOSLAVIA SITS TIGHT

Relations With Germany Further Deteriorating—Berlin Issues Warning—Looks Like War

NAZI ULTIMATUM SOON BELGRADE, March 31: (CP)—A German spokesman asserted today that Germany intends to wait only until the last evacuee leaves Yugoslavia before serving an ultimatum with a short time limit demanding demobilization of the Yugoslav army. Midnight tonight is reported without confirmation to be the deadline for all German nationals to leave the country. The German legation secretary said that German Minister von Heeren was leaving Belgrade for Berlin.

BELGRADE, March 31.—Relations between Yugoslavia and Germany are deteriorating further today. With Yugoslav frontier defences being heavily reinforced against attack and the army mobilized to full strength, all German nationals have been ordered to leave for home immediately. German and Italian legations are burning their records in preparation for leaving. With Yugoslavia evidently having no intention of ratifying the Axis pact as signed on behalf of the country last week by the deposed Premier Cvetkovic, the country is making preparations for war.

Premier Dusan Simovic issued a proclamation tonight declaring that "army, navy and air force are ready to do their duty" and calling on all civil officials and clergymen to "remain at your posts no matter what happens." Simultaneously police with carbines surrounded the Belgrade railway stations forbidding entrance to persons intending to leave the city. Anti-aircraft guns are being rapidly mounted in Belgrade.

An official spokesman for the German government today solemnly warned Yugoslavia against further "insults and hostile acts which might endanger the prestige of the Reich." The spokesman said that Germany was watching the situation in Yugoslavia with "extraordinary attention" and had already exercised "unparalleled patience and consideration" which, however, could not be expected to continue indefinitely. Berlin reported further anti-Bergeran outbreaks in Belgrade and many other centres in Serbia, these being allegedly encouraged by the new Yugoslav government.

It was reported that the Yugoslav diplomatic representative to Berlin had already left or was leaving Germany for home.

In Ankara negotiations between Yugoslavia and Turkey have been opened with Yugoslavia asking Turkey for military co-operation in the event that war with Germany cannot be averted.

All deliveries of oil from German-controlled Rumania to Yugoslavia have been halted.

Except for one point, the entire Yugoslav frontier with Germany has been closed.

Such are some of the latest developments in the Yugoslav-German situation.

Three Killed And Two Are Injured In Cobourg Crash

COBOURG, Ontario, March 31.—Three persons were killed and two injured in an automobile crash near this town yesterday.

Bulletins

GREAT BRITISH VICTORY

LONDON—The Admiralty announces today that seven Italian warships had been sunk as a result of the running battle with a British naval squadron in the Eastern Mediterranean at the week-end with loss of only two British planes. The victorious British squadron has returned to Alexandria. Among 1000 Italian survivors picked up were German officers and gunners.

CAMPAIGN SUCCESSFUL

CAIRO—The fierce drive of the British to clean up the East African campaign continues with marked success. Falling back from captured Cheren to Asmara in Eritrea, 3775 prisoners including 68 Fascist officers, have been taken. Once Asmara is taken, the important port of Massawa should easily follow. The Italians have already abandoned Diradawa, important railway point on the way to Addis Ababa in Ethiopia.

NO FURTHER WORD

LONDON—There is no further word as to the naval battle between British and Italian naval units in the Eastern Mediterranean. Axis claims are that German planes hit a British aircraft carrier and that Italian planes torpedoed a British cruiser.

LUFTWAFFE ATTACKS LIGHT

LONDON—The Luftwaffe came over Saturday night and started a number of fires in the Bristol area. London had its first air raid alarm in nine nights. Enemy activity was light over the British Isles generally although some damage was done in Bristol area. There were only minor Nazi raids last night. Damage was small and no casualties were reported.

JAPANESE SUFFER REVERSE

HONGKONG—Seventy persons of a Japanese division and an entire brigade have been wiped out in Changsi province. A Japanese Major-General and two Lieutenant-Generals have been slain.

BIG GUNS AGAIN

LONDON—With brilliant sunshine prevailing, German long range guns were firing across the Straits into the Dover area today but there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties.

BRITISH VS. FRENCH

GIBRALTAR—British warships and French shore batteries of Algeria exchanged fire yesterday. The incident occurred when the French batteries opened up on British vessels which were stopping a convoy.

Vancouver Bus Services Tied

Drivers Refuse to Operate Vehicles which Were Not Serviced by Union Mechanics

VANCOUVER, March 31.—As a result of bus drivers refusing to operate buses which were not serviced by union garage mechanics, services of five bus feeder lines of the British Columbia Electric Railway Co. have been tied up. The services

Sugar Price is Increased

OTTAWA, March 31: (CP)—Definite indication that the present excise tax of one cent per pound on sugar will be increased to two in the 1941-42 budget was seen today in an announcement that the sugar price at the refineries will be increased one cent per pound today. There will be an increase of one cent to the general public, it is expected.

The Italian Encounter - - -

The first notification of the sea fight in the Mediterranean given over some of the American radio stations was that the Italian fleet had won another victory over the British. A few minutes later came a British announcement telling of a British hit and run engagement in which a number of Italian vessels were badly damaged, it being impossible to get near enough to the enemy to sink the vessels. If any British ships were hit, they were facing the enemy whereas the Italians were hit when steaming at full speed to get out of the way.

Evidently it was a great naval victory, one of which to be proud. It was one of the few occasions when the British had been able to get within striking distance of the Fascist navy. Up to the time of writing this no details of the fight had come through, but we always depend upon the British navy to win if they have half a chance. Evidently this was one of the occasions when the British took advantage of an opportunity and we are not sure yet just how great the victory was.

Not Lent Nor Leased - - -

"Mr. Mackenzie King placed Canada's war effort in its proper perspective," says the Vancouver News-Herald. "The striking comparisons with the United States and Britain speak for themselves.

"But particularly impressive was his reminder that 'this is not lent or leased. This is a direct contribution to the cause of freedom. . .

"In no sense is the Prime Minister's comment a criticism of what our American friends have done or are doing. It merely serves to emphasize Canada's contribution and to answer those in the United States who have sought to misinterpret our position for their own political ends.

"Perhaps the Prime Minister's review will help to bring home the enormous obligations we, as Canadians, have undertaken. For in spite of mounting taxes there is still far from complete understanding of what we are doing now or to what we are committed.

"In the face of Mr. King's impressive figures, however, those who can doubt of Canada's unity and purpose are indeed prophets of despair.

"Certainly it speaks volumes for a nation's patriotism that the complaints and criticism of our government arise not because we are doing too much but because 'we are not doing enough.'

Differing Tastes - - -

When the editor was in Toronto recently he says a businessman he met stated that he hoped to get out to British Columbia again to get some of that wonderful salmon fishing. "The fish there are so much finer than the Atlantic salmon." He said he had eaten salmon from the Restigouche and a dozen other rivers flowing into the Atlantic but none of the fish compared with those taken at Prince Rupert. Whenever the opportunity occurred he bought a piece of Prince Rupert salmon.

We have all been so impressed with the stories emanating from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick about how wonderful the Atlantic salmon are that most of us have come to think it is true and we are apt to have an inferiority complex in regard to our own salmon.

What is true of salmon is also true of herring. Recently a local resident remarked: "I am going to test out this question of the quality of herring. In a local store there were kippers cured locally and kippers imported from Nova Scotia. Some of each were purchased. The eastern fish were plump and firm and it was said sold better than the locals. They were taken home and cooked in the same frying pan and the little local herring proved to be vastly superior in quality. The flavor was much finer and except for size they were the vastly superior fish."

While we have nothing against the eastern fish, we have a feeling that the prejudice is something the same as that against the western apples. Far away fields are green and, when we were younger, our appetites were keen and our sense of appreciation greater than today. That accounts for some of the preferences. We find English people look back to the wonderful apples and wonderful salmon they had in the Old Country. Possibly the same reasoning applies. There is also a difference in cooks.

GLAMOR IN OCEAN LIFE NOT GREAT

Crewmen Of Merchant Ships In Wartime Meet Danger Though Bonuses Are Some Recompense

By DOUG HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
HALIFAX, March 31: (CP) — Paens of praise have fallen of late on the hardy and deserving brows of the merchant marine. Newspapers and magazines alike have sprung to the tap of this previously undisturbed reservoir of human interest.

Thousands of words have told the world of these so-called guardians of the lifelines of an Empire fighting for her existence. And your average merchant seaman thinks it all a lot of guff.

He likes to read these extolling epics, certainly; human beings are built that way. But the word "hero" is one he never takes into consideration in respect to himself.

To the public, he is pictured as a glamorous, devil-may-care mariner who ventures forth into seas of death that Britain may live.

Actually, in appearance, your average merchant seaman is no more of a magazine cover glamor boy than the hired hand down on your uncle's farm, the begrimed service station attendant on the next street or any other workaday personality.

Actually, he is a hero, but to Joe Sailor himself this seafaring life is, he will tell you, only a job and its monetary benefits are his first consideration. Essentially, he's an individual and an adventurer. He probably went to sea to find the freedom that he'd never find in a factory or an office.

Of Many Lands
In his own, unglittering way, Joe Sailor is a colorful man. He might come from any one of dozens of lands. In this port city, you can find at any time Britons, Norwegians, Africans, Arabs, Rumanians, Chinese or you name them.

He might have started going down to the sea years ago or been lured to its bosom when the world went to war. He might be as young as 16 or as old as 65.

You'd never take him for a city slicker though, ashore, he is better dressed than he is aboard his freighter or cargo boat or tramp steamer. There he pulls on the most durable clothes he can find and keeps on wearing them until thread forbids.

He lives a hard life and he's a leathery tough man. His hair is ruffled, his hands gnarled, his language rich in the pungent phrases of his trade.

Your man might be Ernest May,

22, of Chatham, N.B., a veteran of one pie-war voyage who has shipped on four vessels of three nationalities since.

May, like others of his kind, is continually shopping around for better ships and better pay. He has found that foreign ships pay more money than British and that's what put him aboard the Greek freighter Emmy when she put out from an East Coast port some months ago.

Four hundred miles off Newfoundland, the Emmy started to founder in a heavy storm and her skipper put back into the port whence she sailed, leaving his deck cargo of pit-props to the Atlantic.

Pay With Bonus Varies
A merchant seaman's pay would not entice a bank manager. For his peacetime voyage, May, a cook drew about $33 a month. Aboard two Dutch ships, he made about $85 a month in their trips into the war zone waters and while they were moored in Britain his employers gave him an extra pound a week.

British ships, by government orders, give their men a five pound war bonus each month but an average ordinary seaman on an average British freighter would make little more than $70 a month in crossing an ocean where death is a constant menace. The pay goes up after the crewman has 18 months experience when he is classified as an able bodied seaman.

Greek and Swedish ships, the sailors say, are the best pay—Lord Haw Haw is said to have upped Greek wages when he threatened instant death to any British subject captured aboard a ship flying the flag of the little Balkan nation.

One Greek ship, sailors report, paid a Canadian $275 a month but such stipends, they admit, will keep coming only as long as Greece can resist Axis attacks.

Your average mariner gets far less than that for living aboard a dingy vessel, eating rationed food, facing all types of weather while always confronted with death.

Some Experiences
Empire seamen have it over their foreign compatriots because they can—and do—jump from one ship to another at the end of a round trip. The foreigner can't shift because immigration regulations won't let them, but many attempts are made.

His ship generally gives Joe a blanket, a sheet, a straw mattress and a pillow for his bed. If he wants more, he gets it himself. If he works for some companies, his pay stops automatically when his ship is torpedoed and he is given a month's extra pay when he is landed ashore. Different firms have different arrangements.

Edward Pitcher, a 22-year old Montrealer, for instance, was given $112 to replace his clothes and $125 in war risk money because he was aboard a torpedoed Norwegian liner.

Pitcher and another Montrealer, Joe Burns, are typical of the hundreds of men who unassumingly are doing more than almost any other body of men to keep Britain on her feet.

Pitcher got tired of "pushing a pen" and went to sea shortly after war broke out. Burns, at 22, has five years of sailing under his belt. And, like hundreds of others, neither has any desire to go back to the land. From such men as these Britain draws her breath for the fight.

Homes In "Safer" Towns And Villages Opened To Folk With Bombed Nerves

LONDON, March 31: (CP)—The "Community hospitality scheme" inaugurated by Lord Horder and Mrs. H. Woolcombe, is the answer to the suggestion the British are too stand-offish to be friendly in smaller towns and villages.

The idea started and has spread like a prairie fire throughout the safer areas of England. People who are off the beaten track and cannot take active part in war work, through this scheme offer to take in civilian defence workers for a day or a week-end. This gives them a rest from their arduous tasks in the bombed areas.

The hostess pays the fare of her guest. In the first week that it was announced more than 300 homes were opened to take in week-end visitors.

ARMED CANADIAN MERCHANTMAN CRUISER ON PATROL

Her decks awash with the spray of heavy seas, a Canadian armed merchant cruiser plows along on patrol duty somewhere in the broad Atlantic. Rows of shells can be seen lining the deck, ready to feed the ship's guns. Waves of a heavy sea are tossing the boat as the menacing snout of a gun points seaward.

CROWD IS NOT RIGHT

Christian Must Get Away From Mediocrity, Pastor Says

Taking as his subject "Ninety-Nine Out of a Hundred" Rev. J. C. Jackson gave another of his thought-provoking sermons last evening in First United Church. In an age where there was so much talk about democracy there was a possibility that many might think that democracy was the solution to all the world's troubles. But to follow the crowd was not proof that the wish of the crowd was sound, or that its judgment was good. It was too rare that the wish of the crowd would give that fitness that would elevate. The courage to rise above the average was of inestimable value and it was only such that will give true leadership. It was a troublesome thought but true that the average crowd would punish those above the average equally as those below. In the same jail as Paul were depraved criminals. The prison at Bedford contained rogues as well as Bunyan. On the hill at Calvary were three crosses. On two were evil doers, on the third the Christ. Yet all were equally condemned by the masses. The Christian must be above the average. His light must shine. His deeds must of necessity make him stand out from mediocrity. Darkness could not exist in the presence of light. He must follow the straight and narrow way often away from the crowd but in doing so he would help others to follow the way of Christ. The choir sang the anthem "Sing, O Daughter of Zion," (H. E. Button).

"Yes, sir—very."

After the visitor had gone the boss said: "You're a nice judge of beauty, I must say!"

"She is," snapped his employer.

The young woman went into the photographer's shop and, producing a photo of her soldier friend, said: "I want this enlarged."

"Very good," said the assistant.

"Would you like it mounted?"

"Oh, yes," said the woman. "He'll look nice on a horse."

"Julius Caesar," wrote the small boy, "was renowned for his great strength. He is said to have thrown a bridge across the Tiber."

"Traffic-cop shoes? Why do you call them that?"

"Because everything's all right while I keep going, but if I park anywhere too long, they pinch me."

Robert (after deep thought): "My father has a waiscoat with ten buttons on, but he can only fascinate."

Man in the Moon

Our military visitors are enjoying the sunshine in the north. Some of them say they would like to live here all the time.

Pretty soon, if this keeps up, we shall be making a reputation as the city of sunshine.

Teacher—"Robert, give me a sentence which includes the word 'fascinate.'"

Robert (after deep thought): "My father has a waiscoat with ten buttons on, but he can only fascinate."

"Traffic-cop shoes? Why do you call them that?"

"Because everything's all right while I keep going, but if I park anywhere too long, they pinch me."

Two men who lived next door to each other, but were not on very good terms, were exchanging uncomplimentary remarks across the garden fence. At last, one of them said: "Now look here, old man, if you don't stop annoying me I'll buy my wife a new hat and then you'll have to buy yours one, too."

Teacher: "I said, draw a horse and cart. You've only drawn a horse."

Freddy: "Yes, the horse will draw the cart."

"I'll bet that party last night was the wildest you remember."

"Right, dearie. When they are any wilder I can't remember them."

The junior clerk informed his employer that a lady wished to see him.

After the visitor had gone the boss said: "You're a nice judge of beauty, I must say!"

"Well, sir, said the clerk, "I thought she might be your wife."

"She is," snapped his employer.

The young woman went into the photographer's shop and, producing a photo of her soldier friend, said: "I want this enlarged."

"Very good," said the assistant.

"Would you like it mounted?"

"Oh, yes," said the woman. "He'll look nice on a horse."

"Julius Caesar," wrote the small boy, "was renowned for his great strength. He is said to have thrown a bridge across the Tiber."

"Sure I'll come with you if you wait until I change these traffic-cop shoes of mine."

"Traffic-cop shoes? Why do you call them that?"

"Because everything's all right while I keep going, but if I park anywhere too long, they pinch me."

Teacher: "Robert, give me a sentence which includes the word 'fascinate.'"

Robert (after deep thought): "My father has a waiscoat with ten buttons on, but he can only fascinate."

"Julius Caesar," wrote the small boy, "was renowned for his great strength. He is said to have thrown a bridge across the Tiber."

"Build B.C. Payrolls"

Frequently some letter touches upon the value, to province and people, of British Columbia payrolls. British Columbia holds the payroll of Pacific Milk. Packing plant, herds, farms of owners, head office are here. And one of the reasons Pacific Milk is so good—it is produced in British Columbia—in the wonderful climate here.

Determination for Religion

There was the same spirit of determination in Christian belief there was in politics, sports and other pursuits, there would not be any troubles in the world such as existed today, asserted Rev. Dr. Esler in his morning sermon at First Presbyterian Church, preaching on the subject "The Touch of the Master's Hand," as exemplified in Christ's miracles. Dr. Esler declared that there was but one place where God's covenant with the people could be properly kept and that was in God's House, the church. Dr. Esler spoke before a large congregation.

In the evening Dr. Esler spoke on the subject "The Whole World Brought Under the Judgment of God."

Tonight the congregation of First Presbyterian Church will meet to consider the calling of a pastor to the now vacant pulpit.

SPORT CHAT

Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, was killed when the California-bound plane in which he was a passenger crashed at Bazaar, Kansas, 10 years ago today. Under Rockne Notre Dame rolled up 111 victories against 13 losses and six tie games in 14 years.

The practically-unknown James J. Braddock defeated Art Lasky in 15 rounds 6 years ago Saturday to become the leading challenger for Max Baer's heavyweight title. Less than three months later he dethroned Baer.

SERIES IS EXTENDED

Lethbridge Maple Leafs Defeated Trail Smoke Eaters in Allen Cup Game

CALGARY, March 31.—Lethbridge Maple Leafs prolonged the Allan Cup interprovincial elimination series here Saturday night by defeating Trail Smokers by a score of 3 to 2 in the fourth of the best three out of five game series. It was the first victory for the Maple Leafs, the Smoke Eaters having won two games while the first was a scoreless draw. The Smoke Eaters need but to win or draw the fifth game to win the series and the right to oppose either Rangers or Port Arthur Bear Cats in the western finals.

DETROIT IN FINAL

Toronto Moves Ahead of Boston in Other Stanley Cup Semi-Final

CHICAGO, March 31: (CP)—Detroit Red Wings will meet either Toronto Maple Leafs or Boston Bruins in the final for the Stanley Cup. The Red Wings qualified Saturday night by defeating the Chicago Black Hawks two to one in overtime Saturday night to take their second victory in the best two out of three game series.

Meanwhile the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Boston Bruins Saturday night at Boston by a score of two to one and returned to the lead in the best four out of seven game series, the Maple Leafs having now won three games while the Bruins have taken two.

Presentation To Sergeant Jacklin

Departing Provincial Police Officer Honored by Associates Before Leaving

Prior to his departure last week for Kamloops, to which city he has been transferred, Sergeant C. C. Jacklin, provincial police, was honored by his local associates of the police and game departments. The presentation was made at divisional headquarters by Inspector Ernest Gammon of a handsome engraved watch charm. The inspector voiced sentiments appropriate to the occasion, bespeaking, on behalf of all, best wishes for future success and happiness. Sergeant Jacklin replied suitably.

RANGERS IN WIN AGAIN

Came Up From Behind To Defeat Air Force In Soccer

On Saturday afternoon the Rocky Mountain Rangers again scored a victory on the soccer field by defeating the Royal Canadian Air Force 3 to 2. For a long time the game looked as if it was in the bag for the Air Force. At the end of the first half the score was 2 to 0 in their favor.

Walter Ferguson of the Y.M.C.A. who was playing with the Air Force boys, scored the first goal with a beautiful shot from outside the penalty area. His goal was shortly followed by another powerful shot by Jimmy Barclay, centre forward, which caught the top corner of the goal to make the score 2 to 0.

The Rangers were not giving up by any means. With the change of ends and the sun and wind at their backs, they kept hammering away at the Air Force goalie, Leading Aircraftman Summerville, and it was only the inspired efforts of Summerville which kept the Rangers from scoring more than the three goals which they did score.

Cooke scored the first goal for the Rangers with a nice shot from the penalty area. The next goal was scored on a penalty shot by the Ranger centre-half, Moffet. This penalty proved to be the deciding factor of the game, evening up the score 2 to 2. The winning goal was scored by Lawley in the closing minutes.

This game was by far the best match yet played in the inter-unit soccer league. The four teams which are playing in the total point series for a cup donated by the Commodore Cafe are the Rangers, Air Force, Signal Corps and a composite team from Defence Headquarters, Service Corps and the Engineers.

Jim Wilson of the Y refereed the game Saturday and has arranged a very interesting schedule for the next six weeks. There will be two games played each week, on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. This Wednesday the Rangers meet the Signals.

Nickel Fair At Queen Charlotte

Enjoyable Affair Held To Raise Funds For Summer Camp

QUEEN CHARLOTTE, March 31: Twenty dollars was the gratifying sum raised by the boys and girls of Queen Charlotte recently at the Nickel Fair held in Miller's hall. The money will go toward the youngsters' camp life more enjoyable. Rev. B. S. Hartley and the boys are planning on taking the C. G. I. T. and the Trail Rangers camping during the summer holidays at Sandspit. For the attractions were all in charge of the youngsters themselves. There was a picnic showing interesting local scenery and of campside shows provided amusement to both kiddies and adults. Especially comical was the "fattest boy in the world" and the mysterious attractions labelled "for men only" and "for women only." A badminton game tested the skill of those attending and the game of chance proved very popular. An overflowing bran tub pleased the little ones. At a contest consisting of attempting to spear bobbing works in a tub of water there were lively scenes. Prizes for the evening were won by Mrs. J. Morreau and Mrs. Salmond. All admission and other fees were of course nickels. Candles and soft drinks were also sold during the evening. A short-wave radio receiving set, constructed by the Trail Rangers, was on display. The quilt made by the C. G. I. T. group assisted by the boys was auctioned by Mr. Jolliffe and was won by Mrs. D. T. R. McColl.

Refreshments were served at the end of the evening and were in charge of Mrs. Basil Hartley, Mrs. D. McColl and Miss Mathers. Heartly thanks were extended to all those who had assisted in making the affair the success it was, especially to the local merchants who donated articles for the bran tub.

MAMMOTH BOMBER SET FOR TRANSATLANTIC HOP TO WAR

Here are two views of the new "B-24" consolidated bomber that is expected to play an important part in Britain's war effort. There are 26 of these mammoth planes on order, built, or being built for England in the United States. They each weigh 20 tons and can carry four tons of bombs. This plane already has the R. A. F. emblem on it and was pictured just before it took off for the flight across the Atlantic.

Terrace Drive Is Under Way

Campaign For Fund For War Services Under Way At Interior Town

TERRACE, March 31:—At the regular monthly meeting of the Terrace Canadian Legion the principal business was the consideration of ways and means of helping put over the National War Services Fund drive. It was decided, as the available time was short, not to try to call a public meeting but to sponsor the work on the Legion's own account. To get the drive under way the meeting authorized Sam Kirkaldy, who is a member of the Legion and also is postmaster of Terrace and also is postmaster of Terrace to receive donations and to give the regular form of receipts. It was thought this arrangement would best suit the public's convenience.

The spring weather is setting some of the local residents to work on their gardens. One of the drawbacks is the fact that most of the people leave for the fishing grounds in April and then the women and children have to do the gardening.

Oliver Larsen is building a new house here. The frame is up and the roof will be on this week. The lumber was cut at the local mill.

The mill here seems to work rather spasmodically. It cuts up an order and then waits for another order. If the order is large the mill has to wait for logs. It does good work and most people think it should be working regularly.

Q. C. CITY

A jolly dance was held recently in Miller's Hall by the Queen Charlotte Social Club. There was a good attendance. Music was supplied by several members of the Rocky Mountain Rangers stationed nearby, assisted by the local boys. Mrs. G. Chastaney presided at the door. Edmund Stevens of Skidegate was the holder of the lucky ticket. Refreshments were served at the local restaurant at midnight.

Fred Atkins has started the foundation for a new home to be situated on the main Queen Charlotte-Skidegate highway between the homes of Andrew Christensen and O. Hill. Mr. Atkins recently returned from the season's herring seining. He was a member of the crew of the Zenard, Capt. Charles Haan.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Rug Bee club was held at the home of Mrs. E. Olson, Skidegate. Eight members were present. The afternoon's activities included knitting, bridge and Chinese checkers. Tea was served from a daffodil-centred table. Those attending the meeting were Mesdames Andrew Christensen, E. Size, B. A. Munro, G. Chastaney, Harry Beaven, S. Pitt Turner and O. Hill.

Captain Peter Haan left for Prince Rupert last week on his sloop the Beatrice H. Accompanying him were Mr. and Mrs. Clarke who were in the district for several days while Mr. Clarke was looking over sawmill sites.

Bert Roberts, well-known local fisherman, who has been on fisheries patrol for the past two weeks, is home for a few days repairing his boat. He will be leaving in a day or so for the vicinity of Pacoff. Eric Richardson, Fisheries Inspector, returned with Mr. Roberts.

Alfred Carlson of the Extension Department of the University of British Columbia paid a short visit to Skidegate Inlet recently, showing moving pictures on the subject of "Co-operatives in Nova Scotia." At a meeting in the school at Queen Charlotte those interested in the movement were treated to an informative film showing the development of Credit Unions and Co-operatives among the people of the Maritimes. The rapid growth of the movement in the East as shown in the motion pictures serves to encourage the members of the western organization still in its infancy. A short talk was given by Mr. Carlson. The speaker was introduced by the vice-president of the Skidegate Inlet Credit Union Association, Mrs. G. Pitt Turner.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the United Church was held Thursday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Gordon Jolliffe, who occupied the chair. Rev. B. Hartley conducted a short devotional period at the beginning of the meeting. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were received. It was planned to hold a picture show in the near future for the purpose of raising funds for the auxiliary. Material for curtains for the chancel rail of the church was chosen at this meeting. Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting and a social hour followed.

Few Important Objectives Being Hit By Nazi Raiders Writes Local Man In London

L. P. Douglas, formerly of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. office staff here, now serving in the Royal Navy, writes interestingly to Col. J. W. Nicholls describing conditions in London where he happened to be during a couple of heavy air raids including the first fire raid. "It was an unforgettable sight," writes Douglas. "However, much of the damage could have been avoided if a system of fire watchers, as is now used, had been on duty." Douglas predicts that control of the seas will win the war for Great Britain.

"The bombing is very indiscriminate," says another part of the letter. "Few real targets, like vital manufacturing plants, power plants, waterworks and docks, appear to have been hit. They have tried for most of the railroad stations in Bristol, Plymouth, Liverpool etc. but missed them and smashed surrounding buildings. Transportation and dock facilities are congested and time is lost in turning around ships. Great efforts are being made to improve this now. There does not appear to be much decentralization of warehouse and storage space. The result is that some bomb sticks are very effective."

Speaking of Bristol, Douglas says that that city, particularly the centre, has been pretty well pulverized but is still carrying on.

Regarding London the writer expresses opinion in his letter that actual damage is not nearly as great as newspapers, American particularly, make out. "The morale of the people is wonderful," he declares.

"The tube stations of London are a very pathetic sight. People attempt to sleep on the platforms, on stairs—in fact anywhere. They had started to instal bunks at the time I was there but there were not nearly enough."

Speaking of the food situation, Douglas says there appears to be far more American and Australian food—eggs, meat and canned goods—in the shops than Canadian. It seemed strange that so much produce was coming from Australia via the Cape. There is quite a bit of British Columbia salmon, also canned herrings. Frozen cobs was also seen by the writer, selling at 1 shilling eightpence (about 40c). There seemed to be no halibut at all.

Several references were heard by Douglas regarding a shipment of bricks which had been given to the bombed out people of London. It had given a great impression of Empire unity.

SOMEWHERE ON THE BRITISH COAST

A group of artillery soldiers are pictured loading the huge coastal defence gun with a shell weighing a third of a ton somewhere on the British coast. The gun is a 12-inch Howitzer and is set on a railway mounting, ready to be moved to any point at a minute's notice.

FINE SHOW AT TERRACE

Excellent Affair, With Various Features, Staged By High School Pupils

TERRACE, March 31: — The pupils of the Terrace High School put on a very good entertainment on Friday night. The program contained musical items, two plays and contests in boxing and wrestling.

The Oddfellows' Hall was the place and it proved too small. Many people who came a little late met with the mild disappointment of having to stand through the evening. Others failed to get into the hall at all.

Roger Walsh, president of the High School association, made a neat speech in starting the program and, from then on, there was not a dull moment. The school choir began with "O Canada," and "There'll Always be an England." The little plays caused a lot of laughs and the ability of the young participants to carry their parts was a conspicuous feature.

Perhaps the loudest applause came in response to the contests in boxing and wrestling. Young Brian Sessions, as announcer, did his job like a professional. Jack Kirkaldy, as referee, was perfectly self-possessed and handled the contestants in the various bouts just as though he had had lots of experience.

A raffle by the High School Red Cross Association was a surprising success, netting $70 for the Red Cross, and resulting also in twelve lucky winners who carried home prizes which were both useful and substantial.

Financially, the affair did very well; besides the sum which goes to the Red Cross the takings amounted to $80.

The Program
The program was as follows:
Opening, Roger Walsh.
"O Canada."
School Choir, "There'll Always Be an England."

Play, "The Monkey's Paw," Emile Bissonnette, Jessie Llewellyn, Jack Kirkaldy, Roger Walsh, Henry Desjardins.
School Choir, "Ramona."
Guitar and song selection, Allan Robinson.

Boxing—George Thayer vs. Roger Walsh, Dick Dubeau vs. Henry Desjardins, Bobby Cooper vs. Emile Bissonnette.

School Choir, "Desert Song."
School Choir, "Brahm's Lullaby."
Wrestling—Teddy Hammer vs. Leo Brooks, Raymond Taft vs. Donald Llewellyn, Peter North vs. Harry Haugland.

Play, "Kidnaping Betty"—Marie Hall, Marion Head, Dick Dubeau, Catherine Seaton, Peter North, Lorna Smith, Brian Sessions.

School Choir, "Carry On."
Raffle Winners
The raffle winners were: quilt, Mrs. James Lever; magazine table, Jessie Llewellyn; hall tree, Mrs. J. Loen, end table, Mrs. Ivan Frank; book case, Mrs. Corey; medicine chest, Mrs. H. Wilson; sweater, Mrs. Walter Warner; cushion, Mrs. Vernon Glass; mitts, Dick Dubeau; mitts, Mrs. Gordon Kerr; travs, Mrs. Hulbert; fretwork, Irene Benoit.

A "spot" costs you only half a dollar. Try it in the Daily News classified column.

EPIC OF HISTORY

Bringing to life on the screen some of the most colorful figures in America's history, "Santa Fe Trail," co-starring Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland, comes to the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week. It deals with the turbulent days of the era just before the Civil War. Several exciting chapters of history are knit together in a dramatic pattern to make a thrilling entertainment.

Primarily "Santa Fe Trail" is the story of the bloody Kansas territory and the eastern end of the Santa Fe trail during the days of John Brown and his abolitionist raiders, days in which the United States cavalry had plenty to do and days that almost changed the nation's destiny. Flynn plays the part of a famous cavalry commander, Jeb Stuart. Miss de Havilland is seen as a feminine "Kit Carson." Raymond Massey plays the fanatical John Brown.

HAZELTON

Ronald Reagan is cast as George Custer. Others who play real life characters in the film are Alan Hale, William Lundigan, Heflin, Guinn Williams, Gen. nolds and Henry O'Neill.
