SURVEY OF SITUATION IN CHINA

Captain Marsden Of Royal Engineers Tells Of Situation In China Which Ended Disastrously

A very interesting survey of the situation which led to the loss of prestige of the British in China and the consequent start of the movement for the taking of Manchukuo by the Japanese and the extension of German prestige culminating in the present life and death struggle, was given yesterday afternoon at the luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club by Capt. G. W. Marsden of the Royal Canadian Engineers. The captain spent 14 years in China and paid a compliment to the Chinese people, explaining how much it meant to them to lose face. Then he showed how Britain, through carrying out a weak policy, gradually lost face and the Japanese, by their aggressiveness, gradually secured the ascendancy.

The speaker explained the way in which the Shanghai area was divided up among the various countries interested in trade in China. The Japanese put in a considerable force of men in the region and put gradual pressure to bear on the British. The city of Hankow, built by British engineers, was given back to China. Eventually Shanghai was practically deserted by the British and then Capt. Marsden left and it cost him $50,000 to get out.

The speaker closed by showing how a weak policy ended disastrously.

Authoritative sources reported today that British forces had advanced to a point within five miles of Bagdad.

Announcement Made of Plans For New $50,000 Theatre To Be Erected On Second Avenue

Prince Rupert is to have a new $50,000 Civic Theatre, Bertram Talbot-Hardcastle announced today. Plans have been formulated whereby private interests will erect an ultra-modern theatre of unique design, Mr. Hardcastle says. The site will be on Second Avenue.

According to architectural plans shown by Mr. Hardcastle this new theatre will be a replica of Hollywood's most recent efforts in its catering to the amusement world. All modern devices are to be installed in the new house. The sound and projection equipment together with acoustical facilities will be the same as that used in the metropolitan cities of the United States and Canada.

Mr. Talbot-Hardcastle well known newspaper man of Eastern Canada, and former Canadian manager for the late Thomas Ince and the Associated Producers of Hollywood, California, has been instrumental in securing the new theatre for Prince Rupert. It is being financed by private interests. There will be no public sale of stock. The theatre, Mr. Hardcastle states, will, aside from being a constantly operated modern motion-picture theatre, be utilized as a civic auditorium for conventional and civic gatherings of all purposes pertaining to the welfare of Prince Rupert.

The theatre will have a seating capacity sufficient to accommodate public gatherings and the average number of delegates attending any provincial convention.

The need for another theatre in Prince Rupert, is based wholly upon necessity, says Mr. Hardcastle. With a normal population of seven thousand and people and a drawing population of nine thousand, and an immediate, augmented population of more than a thousand, another theatre merely offers another night of entertainment for those who have seen the "Picture" in one theatre.

H. H. Simmonds, Vancouver architect, prominent in theatre construction throughout western Canada, is designing and planning the new house, which is to be completed during September or October, the actual date being contingent upon delivery of certain equipment and materials.

LOW COST OF SALE

Government To Realize At Least $99.20 On Every $100,000 Bond Sold. After Paying All Costs

At the luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club yesterday J. Little called attention to stories that were being circulated to discourage the sale of Victory Bonds. It was said that the canvassers were being paid large sums for their work and that the organizers were getting more than they should. As a matter of fact this bond issue was being made at very low cost, lower than any previous loan. The total cost to the government would not be more than four-fifths of one percent. In other words out of each $100 subscribed the government would actually receive $99.20. The whole cost was being carefully scrutinized and no extravagances of any kind allowed.

Colonel J. W. Nicholls explained that on the ten years bonds the canvassers, who were giving up their whole time to the work, would be paid one quarter of one percent. The proceeds of the canvass would be pooled and divided among the men actually working. They would probably get about half as much as they would have if they had carried on their private businesses during the two weeks.

LONDON, May 30: (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, in the first comprehensive statement on Great Britain's war aims, declared yesterday that "our political and military terms of peace will be designed to prevent repetition of Germany's misdeeds."

Eden said: "Under a system of free economic co-operation Germany must play a part but here I draw a firm distinction. Five times in the last century she has violated peace. She must never be in a position to play that role again."

Don't Be Worried . . .

Some local people are worried because of the way in which the war has been going in the island of Crete. They seem to think that, if Suez is taken by the Germans, the war is won by them and lost to us. Nothing like that is true. The farther Hitler gets away from his base the more likely he is to come a cropper. If he goes through Syria it is dangerous, for the French are divided among themselves and a taste of German domination will not help him there. If Britain can get oil from this side of the Atlantic she can carry on indefinitely. One possibility is that two robber nations, Germany and Russia, will quarrel. There are all sorts of other possibilities. If, in view of his success in Crete and based on his experience there, he decides to invade Britain, he will find he has a different problem to tackle. We have not the least idea that Germany is going to win this war if we all do our best to hold her back.

Ships Taken Over . . .

The taking over of more than one hundred foreign ships that had taken refuge in United States is an important step and will help to solve the shipping situation. There are also a number of United States ships which are not at present in commission. These also will likely be operating soon, either carrying food supplies or troops. The whole set-up is gradually changing and the declaration by the President of the United States of a state of emergency is only one of the steps leading to greater pressure being brought upon the enemy by the Allies.

Five Years of Paradise . . .

"Two American young men back from Russia after a five-year visit they made to find out whether the 'workers' state' is the proletarian paradise that admirers of the Soviet crack it up to be, are back in America," says the San Francisco Chronicle. "They passed a considerable part of their visit in jails, where they were tossed because one of them admitted his father owned 160 acres of land in America and hence must be a kulak. In interludes of liberty they earned 50 cents for a 12-hour day working on railroad construction. The rest of the time they were dodging the OGPU. And now back through the agency of the American Embassy, Peter and John Stevens are more than content to be again part of the 'downtrodden masses of democracy.'"

"We couldn't all go to Russia even if we wanted to, so must take the word of those who have enjoyed the delights of Communism at first hand. We are willing to let it go at that."

GOOD LIFE IS SECRET

Father of Two Rowing Champions Thinks His Food and Drink Factors of Healthy Life

By DOUGLAS AMARON

CANADIAN PRESS STAFF WRITER
LONDON, May 30: (CP)—The war has dealt harshly with Bossy Phelps, the big lovable "ruler of Thames." The King's Barge-master, who once said "I look after myself, I don't depend on my ancestors to do it for me," is seriously ill in a Devon hospital.

Phelps' airman son Ted (E. A.), three times sculling champion of the world, is a prisoner of war. His other son Eric (E. L.), former British sculling champion, is interned in Germany. Rowing, the sport for which Bossy Phelps lives, has been abandoned for the duration (Ted won the world's championship in Toronto in 1930 and 1932, he also was defeated in Toronto in 1933).

The father, Bossy—his initials are J. T.—is 65 and in his many years as boat-builder, sculling coach and royal bargeman has known few days of illness. Three or four years ago a Eugenics Society report attributed his health and his profession to heredity. The Phelps have been watermen for more than 600 years and served royalty for a century.

Living Example
Bossy scouted at the heredity theory, although later he appeared in a motion picture as one of its best examples.

"Heredity," he said, "I don't know anything about that. But I do know that without beer I shouldn't be as fit as I am today. Beer and sugar. Best energy builders in the world."

Bossy rises regularly at seven and goes to bed at 10—at least he did before he was ill. He had only two meals a day—breakfast of fish, toast and tea—with much sugar—and lunch of steak or anything else available, provided there was plenty of it. Before he went to bed he had bread and cheese with a couple of pints of ale.

Bossy doesn't say so, but one of the reasons he is sick now may be because steaks are few and far between these days and tea, sugar and cheese are rationed. The things he likes best to eat are hardest to get.

Sculler In Youth

A skilled boat-builder, Bossy has seen his racing eights win the University race and the "Grand Challenge Cup at Henley many times. He was a fine sculler in his youth and his knowledge of the Thames and of rowing brought him the appointment as pilot to the Oxford cox—a job of teaching the cox how to steer the course from Putney to Mortlake.

His Royal duties aren't burdensome for the Royal Barge hasn't been used since 1919. Built in 1699, the two-ton barge has been rowed over the Varsity course in 23 minutes, which Bossy called "pretty good going" considering University crews have taken 20 minutes to race the 4 1/4 miles in their streamlined eights.

Rowing and boats are Bossy's one and only love. He has no interest in other sport and a few years ago remarked that he had never been to a cricket or football match, tennis tournament or race meeting.

CENTRE FOR WOOL STYLE

Material Comes From Distant Parts But Scotland Makes It Wearable

By Allison Settle

GLASGOW, May 30: (CP)—In the silvery north where Scotland and England meet lies Hawick, the lone town which invented the sweater cardigan, classic women's sportswear.

Hawick, the centre of the knitwear industry in Britain, began its first factory for making knitwear goods during the 18th century. Principally it made warm knitted stockings for men. Now, however, the knitting machines turn the wool from the Cheviot lambs and sheep of the border hills from the dull, grey and brown look of the old knits into rich or tender shades dyed for fashionable women.

Wool comes to Scotland from all parts of the world, while the Cheviot sheep now is reserved for tweeds made so fine that they can be tucked and even shirred. Cashmeres that come to Hawick from Tibet are styled by London through London's great style designers, and Hawick's mill workers make them into fashion garments.

Colors in knitwear are dictated by the color blends of tweeds, because knitwear is more often worn with tweeds than with anything else. So much are cardigans and pullovers influenced by tweed colors and patterns that there are whole new ranges which copy every detail and every tone of a good check tweed.

In the pale pastel colors, Shetland knits are probably the best. But as well there are the chenille pullovers and cardigans, long-haired angora sets and lambswool sets in pale colorings.

Seven years ago it was said throughout Germany that Hitler only trusted two men in full measure. They were Ernst Roehm, left, and Rudolf Hess. It was seven years ago, despite this reputation for trust, that Roehm was assassinated in Hitler's bloody purge. Canada's War Chiefs

Air Vice-Marshal Lloyd Sam Breadner D.S.O., Chief of Canada's Air Staff

A German taught Air Vice-Marshal Lloyd Sam Breadner D.S.O., Chief of Canada's Air Staff, to fly. The Reich has lived to rue the day when that German was born months ahead of schedule, hundreds of fighter pilots, products of the Commonwealth Air training Plan, stream across the Atlantic to help in the Battle of Britain, and to carry war deep into industrial Germany. Breadner was born in Carleton Place Ontario, in 1894. Later he moved to Ottawa, where his father is a wholesale manufacturing jeweller with a factory on Somerset Street. In 1915 wishing to qualify for the Royal Naval Air Service in Great Britain, Breadner joined the Wright Flying School in Dayton, Ohio, paid about $60 per flying hour out of his own pocket—and upkeep as well, while waiting his turn to complete this course. This comprised a total of three hours flying experience. After that his German instructor qualified him as a pilot. Two and a half flying hours were spent in learning, the last half hour in run-

Aviation in Canada, persuaded him to become his assistant. Not since then has Breadner been dissociated from aeronautics.

When the Royal Canadian Air Force was founded in 1924, Breadner, then Acting Controller of Civil Aviation, was recommissioned and made Officer Commanding R.C.A.F. Station, Camp Borden. The next year he was sent to the Royal Air Force staff college at Andover, England, and on his return, with the rank of Wing Commander, became Acting Director of the Royal Canadian Air Force. For another three years after that he was C.O. Trenton R.C.A.F. Station, organizing the early development of what is today Canada's number one training station.

In 1935 he returned to England to attend Imperial Defence College. Soon after war broke out, he was back in England, this time as Air Adviser to the Honorable T. A. Creer, during a conference to coordinate the Empire war effort. Breadner, who returned to Ottawa ning through the tests for a licence. June, 1916 saw Breadner over the Belgian coast as a fighter pilot. Within a year he commanded a squadron of his own and had won the Distinguished Service Cross. With the formation of the Royal Air Force in 1918, he was transferred to that organization and served with it till the end of the war. When the Armistice was signed he took his discharge at the Crystal Palace, London, and immediately returned to Ottawa. Breadner, welcomed into his father's business, spent just 16 months out of the country's service. Then his former Commanding Officer, Colonel J. Man in the Moon

Well, Olof has found a domicile, and not a bad one at that.

Canada has been the land of hope and glory for many thousands of people from different parts of Europe, including England and Scotland and Ireland. Most of them are sufficiently honest to say,

Prince Rupert is now the city of hope for hundreds of people. We hope they realize it.

Over in England now, there is a radio comedian who sets his listeners laughing with recipes like the following:

"Take a large sirloin steak, smother it liberally with onions, spread with a thick coating of grated cheese, and fry in deep butter."

Don't send the English people butter. It may not keep. Better buy another bond. That's what they would like.

"Isn't there some way to drive nails without hitting your fingers?" asked a fair patient after the doctor had bandaged her hand.

"Yes," replied the doctor, "hold the hammer with both hands."

"Your teeth are like the stars," said he. And clasped her hands so white. And this was true, for like the stars, Her teeth came out at night.

Browne was phoning his wife from the office. "Hullo dear," he said. "I'm very sorry, but I won't be home till very late tonight. I'm fire-watching."

"O, you are, are you," snapped his wife. "And who is the flame?"

Cinema box office girl (to boy) "Why aren't you at school?" "Oh, it's all right, miss. I've got the measles."

Gardening

This warm fine weather has been great for the gardeners. The most important feature in connection with it is that it has enabled the good gardeners to kill the weeds.

Those who have not planted glads should go so at once. If they are planted late there is danger that they may not bloom before the frost comes.

Someone wants to know how to get rid of dandelions. The only way I know is to dig them out. I have not enough energy to do it, so I feed them with fertilizer and then the mower catches them and cuts them off so they get little chance to bloom.

When reading any book of instructions in regard to gardening, don't be fooled when they say a plant does not need staking. In a normal summer in Prince Rupert almost everything needs staking. So far we are getting along nicely but I have found already that sweet rocket needs staking.

Forgetmenot may be pulled up next week and replaced by some later blooming plant. By exercising a little care usually enough young forgetmenot plants may be found around the garden for next year's crop of flowers.

"Every year at this season a good neighbor of mine always brings me some big boxes of bedding plants," says Bruce Hutchison. "For weeks he has labored over them, mixed up his tanning composts of leaf mould and sand, sowed the tiny seeds, watered them, watched them tenderly day by day. Now he gives them away freely to me and to others, just because he is made that way, just because he likes to see more flowers growing in the world. A monument should be erected to such a man who wants to see more flowers growing in such a world as this. He is a soldier of the last war and, as a result of his services, he can never fight again. But he can go on sowing seeds in the spring and tending them and then giving the plants away, so that somebody else may have more flowers. No one will ever hear of him or know his name. No one will ever tell him that he is of more real value to a world like this than most of the people who are drawing the world's large rewards and, indeed, he counts himself, I fancy, a rather useless fellow.

Pansies or violas may be sown now in the garden or in boxes. If the soil is right they should make strong plants that will have a good chance of wintering and they may bloom in the fall or late summer.

Have you seen the lupins at the back of the court house? There are a number of shades and they show up very nicely alongside the path above the sunken garden. A number of rock plants keep the place there bright. Many people make frequent visits to this beauty spot kept up by the provincial government.

Novel Shipyard— LAYS KEELS ON ROCKY ATLANTIC

Far-Seeing Ship-Builder Makes Ready For Construction Of Big Fleet For British Trade

By Jack Pillsbury SOUTH PORTLAND, Me., May 30:

(CP)—The day dreams that William S. Newell had 20-odd years ago mean today that Britain will have in record time 30 brand new 10,000-ton freighters to add to the Atlantic line of communication.

The vessels needed so acutely in the "Battle of the Atlantic" will soon be assembled in a novel shipyard now taking form on the edge of this cape across from the shipping centre of Portland.

Workmen are just scooping out dirt to make a big hole and are erecting concrete walls and floors, so they can build seven ships at a time in three big new drydocks. When the ships are ready to float they will simply open the gates at high tide and push the boats out. When the water ebbs out at low tide, the gates will be closed and more keels will be laid.

Good Location

During the First Great War Mr. Newell was engineering and works manager of the old Bath company, and one Sunday afternoon he happened to be in Portland on the Eastern Promenade, a height affording a fine view of the harbor and the cape that is South Portland.

His shipbuilding eye noted what a splendid location the little makers of wooden boats had for their work. They were on a gentle slope down to the sea, and near the deep-water channel. It looked good all around, Newell dreamed about it a bit and then walked on.

Twenty-three years passed. Then came another sunny afternoon. It was last October, the place was the New York offices of a firm of naval architects, designers of many of the ships built at Bath.

"How would you like to build some cargo ships for England?" asked William F. Gibbs, head of the firm. "I'd like it," replied Mr. Newell.

"It means a lot of perspiration. They need them in a hurry."

"I'd rather sweat now than bleed later."

"But they" want odd boats, just slow ships, old reciprocating engines, Scotch boilers. "We'll give them the engines and boilers they want and we'll paint the ships pink if that's the way they want them."

A boy brought a chart of Portland Harbor, Newell pointed out the spot he had studied that day during the First Great War.

But Agreement Safe

It took six weeks to make the deal. Finally, early in December, R. Cyril Thompson, head of the British purchasing group, set sail for London with the copies of the agreement. He sailed on the Western Prince. The Western Prince was torpedoed. Mr. Thompson spent eight hours on a life raft in the middle of the Atlantic before he was rescued. He still had the agreement.

Five months have passed. South Portland today shows plenty of evidence of work. The dirt is being moved at the rate of 7,000 yards a day. Archibald M. Main, vice-president of the Bath concern, explains the big point about the South Portland location.

"There's a rock shelf about 30 feet beneath the earth's surface," he says. "We are scooping out down to this bedrock. The concrete will form three big drydocks. In one of these we can build three ships at a time, and two ships at a time in each of the other two drydocks. Cranes can lower material to men in the docks, and they will be protected somewhat from the weather and wind."

"When the ship is ready for launching we will simply open a gate and let the 17-foot tide do the job for us. It eliminates all the cost and difficulty of launching, and the fact that we are near the deep channel means that the only limit to the size of the ships we can build is the size of our docks, and they will be quite large."

STONE'S WIN OVER DOCK

Second Softball Fixture of Season Played Last Night

In the second league softball game last night Stone's Clothiers defeated Dry Dock Steel Workers by a score of 8 to 5 in an interesting encounter. Hits in this game were even at 5 each. The score was tied at an even five until the fourth inning when the Clothiers netted three more runs to cinch the game 8 to 5. Jo Sato, playing for the losers, had the misfortune to be hit in the eye while catching behind the bat and had to be replaced by A. Murray.

Batteries for Stones were Schroeder and Brooks and for Steel Workers, Fitch and Thompson, pitchers, and catchers Jo Sato and Murray.

The game between Grotto and an All Star Army team was an exhibition. The Tobacconists had no trouble in winning this game. The score was 8 to 3. The winners out-hit the losers 8 to 1. Kellet, pitching for the winners, was replaced in the third inning by young B. Simonsen who finished the game. Morgan was in his usual position behind the bat. The Army also used two pitchers—Growler and Purdy. Chats caught. Features of this game were a couple of nice catches by A. Simonsen in centre field.

Umpires for the evening were Simonsen, Wendell, Styles. Scorekeepers were D. Montesano and Downey.

INTERMEDIATE BASEBALL Dry Dock will be unable to field a team in tonight's Intermediate Baseball League fixture so Co-operative will play Watts & Nickerson. The Watts & Nickerson line-up includes Postuk, Arney, Gurvich, Bill, Vuckovich, Pavlikis, H. Montesano, Long and Killas.

SPORT CHAT

Greyhound racing, always popular with the British working man, has lost little favor since the war began and tracks, where meetings are held almost every week, regularly draw large crowds. Before the war there were 14 tracks in London and 33 in the provinces, and most of these are still operating. Men and women from factories mingle with soldiers, sailors and airmen, wagering their "bob" on "Rusty Man" in the fifth then cheering their dog as it chases the electric hare.

Stadiums usually are well-filled before the kennelmen have their charges ready for the first race. It is a noisy holiday scene as people come and go, placing bets with their book-makers or making entries on their race card from the totalisator board. The dogs, wearing brightly-colored numbered coats, are led around the track before each race, then placed one by one in the six-cage trap. The hare, running along a rail in the centre of the track, makes one circuit and when it passes through the trap the dogs are released. These sleek, streamlined animals move so quickly it sometimes is almost impossible to see them and an electric eye registers the finish of every race. Greyhounds are the only dogs which will run consistently merely for the joy of racing. Experiments were made with other dogs—Afghan wolf-hounds were one breed tested—but invariably trainers returned to greyhounds. Dogs are graded for each race so that animals which can travel a certain distance in 24.5 seconds won't compete against those which travel the same distance in 25.9 seconds. As a result of this grading competition is keen.

Names of prominent British greyhounds are as well known in England as Man of War, Equipoise and Sea Biscuit are known to horse racing followers in Canada and the United States. Best known was Mick the Miller whom trainers say depended more on his brains than on his speed in winning races. Born in Ireland in 1926, he was brought to London by a priest who paid $112 for him. He won almost every classic at least once and was the idol of race track crowds. He ran a "command" race for King George V, was filmed and when he died in 1936 was mounted and placed on exhibition at the National History Museum in London.

There are several classics for greyhounds, most famous of which is the Greyhound Derby which drew a crowd of 90,000 when it was run first in 1927. Other classics include the Laurels, the St. Leger and the Cesarewich. Rationing has not affected seriously feeding of greyhounds. In peacetime they received boiled sheep's head or beef; now they eat cooked horseflesh or other meat unfit for human consumption.

MASTER SCROLL FOR VICTORY LOAN TORCH

Here is the Master Scroll which will accompany the Torch on its way across Canada and thence over the Atlantic for presentation to Prime Minister Winston Churchill as a symbol of Canada's loyal determination to fight on until victory has been won. Besides containing a message to the British leader, the Scroll will also contain the signatures of Federal, Provincial and Municipal officials. The Scroll will be contained in a specially-constructed cylinder which has been built into the shaft of the Torch. Addressed to the Right Honorable Winston Churchill and written in both English and French, the text of the Scroll reads: "Canada, with other nations of the British Commonwealth and their Allies, will fight on to victory no matter how long and toilsome the road. Given the tools we shall finish the job. Canada's Victory Loan, 1941, is part of the tools." "Canada carries the Torch to Great Britain. Within this Torch is contained this Scroll. Upon this Scroll are inscribed the names of the Governor-General of Canada and the Prime Minister of the United Kingdom and the Premiers of the nine provinces and the mayors of the cities. This Scroll and this Torch represent the pledge of the Canadian people signed, sealed and delivered, that we shall fight on to the end and that the end shall be Victory."

NEW 35,000-TON DREADNOUGHT JOINS AMERICAN NAVY

In an impressive ceremony at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, the 35,000-ton super-dreadnought U.S.S. Washington joins the American navy. Here is a view of the dreadnought's after deck, showing the crew lined up under the triple 16-inch guns of the aft turret, as the giant battler is placed in commission.

NEW BOAT LAUNCHED

Fine Locally Built Seiner Invercan No. 2 Takes to Water From McLean's Yard at Seal Cove

The seiner Invercan No. 2, another fine new unit for the fleet of the J. H. Todd & Sons Inverness cannery was formally launched under favorable and happy circumstances sharp at the appointed time of 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from the yard of N. M. McLean at Seal Cove, Prince Rupert. Launching of the vessel marks her practical completion, only official inspection within a few days following being required before going into commission with the company's fishing services.

The launching took place in the presence of company officials and representatives of the bulgers and supply houses as well as a few other guests. Everything went off smoothly and without a hitch. As the new ship started on her way down the slip, she was christened in the traditional manner with the breaking of a bottle of champagne against her bow by Mrs. R. W. Sinclair, wife of the district manager for J. H. Todd & Sons. Following this ceremony a beautiful bouquet was presented to Mrs. Sinclair by little Kenneth McLean, grandson of N. M. McLean, the builder.

Serving of refreshments followed. The Invercan No. 2 is a 57-foot vessel of fourteen foot six inch beam and six feet depth. Her power plant is a 75 h.p. Caterpillar fuel diesel engine with three to one reduction gear, giving a speed of eight and a half knots. Her registered tonnage is 20 21 and she will carry 35 to 40 tons of fish, it is estimated. There is a 4 h.p. auxiliary Universal gas engine for the operation of bilge lines. Of sturdy construction throughout and well finished, the comfortable arrangement of accommodation for the crew of six is a feature.

There is full steering and engine control equipment both in wheel house and on the "monkey island" above.

Under construction since the first of the year, the Invercan No. 2 has been built entirely to steamboat inspection regulations. Her final inspection is to be carried out June 7 by Albert Farrow, steamboat inspector.

A Fine Job

R. W. Sinclair, district manager of J. H. Todd & Sons, commented upon the "highly favorable" job of construction which had been carried out by the McLean yard. Capt. Norman Brodhurst, marine superintendent, was also well satisfied.

Invercan No. 2 is the third new seiner which J. H. Todd & Sons have added to the fleet since last year. The Invercan No. 1, a 49-footer with 55 h.p. Caterpillar engine, was built last year by McLean. During the winter the Invercan No.

Maybe Imagine She Wears Hat

Judge And Lawyer Have Their Fun With Plaintiff "Not Properly Clothed"

LONDON, May 30: (CP)—A woman plaintiff in Divorce Court appeared before the judge without a hat. Mr. Justice Langton said that in more peaceful times he would have insisted on her being "properly clothed," even if she had to borrow another woman's hat to appear before the court.

"But," he added, "circumstances being as they are, I think I shall put the telescope to the blind eye." Counsel for the petitioner remarked that "so little passes for a hat upon a woman now that your Lordship could perhaps imagine one there."

FINE TOUR FOR BONDS

Local Man Impressed After Taking Part In Caravan Through Interior As Part Of Victory Loan Campaign

To inaugurate the forthcoming Victory Loan campaign throughout the Central Interior of British Columbia, a caravan, comprising six cars with thirty people, left Smithers on Friday last, reports Col. J. W. Nicholls, divisional organizer, who is back home after a week's part. The Smithers Band was included in this number, comprising twenty musicians, which gave an excellent account of itself at all stopping-off points.

The Band played at Burns Lake on Saturday night before an enthusiastic audience, the proceeds of which were donated to the Red Cross, and speeches were made concerning the Victory Loan.

The writer boarded the caravan at Endako on Saturday morning, and the entire party proceeded to Fort Fraser to attend the May 24 celebrations at that point. The caravan had lunch at Fort Fraser in a very quaint country hotel which must have been constructed a great number of years ago as its conveniences were somewhat of pioneer type. The Queen Victoria Day celebration was attended by about three hundred people and took the form of football between Native teams and sports. The Smithers Band gave several renderings of popular music which were enthusiastically appreciated by the audience, especially as this was the first band ever to play at Fort Fraser. Frank Dockrill gave an appropriate address dealing with the origin of Empire Day and emphasizing the present need for purchases of Victory Bonds. What the audience will lack in funds, it will certainly make up for in loyalty to the cause.

The caravan returned to Endako and spent the night at Sandy Annan's place. Mr. Annan, without prior arrangement, attended to the needs of the caravan in excellent style. This little outpost of the Empire is a choice spot and Sandy Annan's Scotch brogue and capacity for story-telling was a welcome break. A delightful incident occurred here when the band marched out to a small cottage, in which an old English woman was bed-ridden and played for her exclusive benefit. On May 25 the band left for Burns Lake for lunch and thence to Decker Lake for its next performance. At Decker Lake the band played before a visible audience of three children and four cows but the population of seventy-five or more appeared on their verandas and through their windows and seemed to appreciate the demonstration. As this was not a recruiting rally and no collections taken up, the invisible audience appeared after the caravan had started to pull out. The visible audience was hardly suitable to speak to so no speeches were made.

The next stopping point was arranged for Topley on a half a mile out of Topley it was noticed that thirty or forty people, equipped with rakes, hoes and shovels, were assembled in a small field. On stopping to find out the reason, it was discovered that the whole of the population had turned out for their annual clean-up of the Topley graveyard. The caravan then disembarked and played suitable music, which was much appreciated by the audience. This incident is typical of the marvelous community spirit which prevails in the Interior. The people have little money, but are full of loyalty, optimism and kindness. Topley graveyard is purely a community effort, situated on a hill with a delightful vista. The people there are sturdy folk.

The next stop was Telkwa, where the band played in the square before proceeding to its destination at Smithers.

No finer form of publicity could have been used to bring the Victory Loan to the attention of these people, and a great deal of credit is due to the committee at Smithers and Telkwa for its organization and especially to the Smithers Band, which is a credit to the interior country.

Geoffrey Wootten, who is responsible for the Interior organization, is doing splendid work under considerable difficulties in transportation. He has visited practically every spot in his territory, excepting those which are inaccessible. The people of the interior have passed through a long period of depressed conditions and, while they may be unable to buy a lot of bonds, those who can will certainly do so. "The people of that part of the country," says Col. Nicholls, "are the finest citizens this country could possess and it is an education to go through the district."

Smiling Queen "Touches Wood"

Her Majesty Chats Cheerily With Workers In London Service Club

LONDON, May 30: (CP)—Queen Elizabeth believes in "touching wood."

During a visit to the King George and Queen Elizabeth Club for Service women of the Empire, Her Majesty asked a young Irish cook in the basement kitchen if the gas supply had been cut off as a result of air raids. "Oh no," the Irish lass replied. "We haven't been without gas, yet."

The Queen promptly touched the table and said "we had better touch wood then, just to be on the safe side." Her Majesty spent a half-hour chatting with uniformed women in the club quarters. They included Canadian nurses, Wrens and Waafs.

FIGHT TO KEEP THE NAZIS AWAY

All trade unions in Canada would be dissolved under Nazi domination. Collective bargaining, which workers have secured after years of struggle, would be wiped out over-night. Canadian parents would be deprived of the right to decide what their children should be taught. Christianity would be censored and teachers instructed by Nazi authorities as to what they should and should not teach. All Canadian business would come under the thumb of Germany.

Workers would no longer be able to choose their own trade, nor would they be allowed to select a living place of their own fancy.

There would be butterless days for all citizens if butter were needed for export to Germany.

Old age pensions would be a thing of the past. Widows' and Mothers' allowances would be stopped.

Developed sections of the country would be cleared of Canadians to make room for German immigrants.

There would be no more minimum wage act. Canadians would step from the sidewalk to the roadway to allow German officers to pass. Canadian citizens would be forced to give the Nazi salute or court imprisonment.

Canadian newspapers would no longer express the opinion of Canadians and would submit all news items and editorials to the Nazi censor.

Radio programs would be produced to suit the purpose of the aggressor.

Public meetings, when allowed, would be watched by the Gestapo.

Taxation to provide indemnities to Germany would be heavier than Canada's present taxation.

Masonic lodges and all fraternal orders and organizations would be dissolved.

Theatres would be pampered with Nazi Propaganda material and moving pictures would be subject to rigid Nazi censorship. Books which would fail to meet the pleasure of the Nazi authorities would be burned or banned.

Private telephones if permitted, would be subject to "tapping" by Nazi agents.

Travel from one section of the country to another, if only for a short distance, would be subject to permission from the Nazis.
