CAIRO—In Iraq British positions are being consolidated north of the Euphrates River on the way to Bagdad. The British are continuing to push on from the west and are now but 35 miles from Bagdad on which there was a damaging air raid yesterday. A considerable number of Iraqi prisoners have been taken. A garrison with considerable stores and equipment was reported seized today by the British.

THIRD DAY OF INVASION

LONDON—German troops, pouring from the sky on the third day of the mass aerial invasion of Crete, have wrested two footholds from the defenders of the Greek island, it was announced today. Prime Minister Winston Churchill informed the House of Commons that Nazi parachutists had taken the town of Heracleon (also known as Candia) but British troops still hold the airport there. The Middle East command in Cairo announced that the town of Malemi was also in Nazi hands. Both reports, however, called the German gains only isolated successes in fierce warfare and said that attempts by the Germans to put forces ashore from the sea had been frustrated. The latest German parachutists are from a second line of offense on the Greek mainland. It was stated that fighting could be expected to continue with increased severity.

Later it was reported that forty persons from the tanker had been captured by the Germans. Officials said London reports indicated she was sunk off the west coast of Africa. Another Canadian ship is reported to have been torpedoed and sunk, 42 on board being saved and landed at French Guiana for internment. Seven, being over age, are reported to have been released.

Air Secretary Gives British House Some Information As To Strange Case Of Nazi Leader

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—British bombers which attacked Heligoland yesterday left the German island stronghold shrouded in a "swirl of dust and smoke lit here and there by flames," the Air Ministry news service said today. The British planes dropped their bombs from a height as low as forty or fifty feet. An anti-aircraft battery was among the objectives hit. Bombs were dropped on docks and in the centre of the town.

Near Dunkerque a power station was attacked and there was a strong Royal Air Force raid on an industrial centre fifty miles inside occupied France, no details of this being given. Two British bombers and six fighters were lost while five Germans were shot down.

Germans Take Island Towns—

Prime Minister Churchill Tells House of Desperate And Grim Battle of Crete

BRITISH PLANES WITHDRAWN

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—British fighter planes on Crete were withdrawn today after the German attack started because of "pronounced disadvantage under which our fighters were operating," it was authoritatively disclosed today. A statement, warning against considering the invasion of Crete analogous to what Britain might expect, said "to do otherwise would have been a waste of air forces involved." The statement said that the defence operation at Crete must be regarded as one in which British naval and land forces are primarily employed.

LONDON, May 22.—A full review of the situation in Crete was given to the House of Commons this afternoon by the Prime Minister Winston Churchill who admitted the capture by the Nazis of the important towns of Candia and Malemi although the airdrome at Candia was still being held. He described it as "a most strange, desperate and grim battle affecting the whole course of the campaign in the Mediterranean." The situation appeared to be satisfactory everywhere except in the vicinity of Malemi and Candia where the Germans had gained footholds. The British lacked airdromes but the enemy lacked artillery nounced, was $350,000. As there and tanks. Neither side had means was $2,800,000,000 more in current of retreat. Very large attempts by the enemy to follow up the landing today than there was in 1918 of airborne troops with waterborne forces were being resisted by the why the loan should not be as naval forces, Mr. Churchill believed, easily taken up as had been the with success. One troop convoy Victory loans of the First Great had been broken up yesterday and War. Incidentally, the campaign an even larger one of thirty ships with naval escorts had been attacked today. So far these attempts had been dispersed with sinking of some enemy ships. Today the Germans attempted to land tanks. "I feel," some of the plans for publicizing said the Prime Minister "that the results cannot be other than satisfactory in view of the strength of our naval forces in the Mediterranean."

MUCH SEAL COVE WORK

Other Projects at Air Base in Addition to Sub-Station Which Power Company Will Build

A new sub-station to serve the Seal Cove base of the Royal Canadian Air Force is to be erected at a cost of $39,000, the contract having been awarded to the Northern British Columbia Power Co. The original source of power will be the Northern British Columbia Power Co. itself. The sub-station will be the distributing unit for the electrical energy of the air station.

Further important contracts are about to be let in connection with the air base at Seal Cove, including a garage, recreation room and two store buildings. There will also be a concrete slab apron containing 6500 square yards of material as well as 500 lineal feet of twenty-foot road. Eight hundred feet of two-inch water pipe and 1200 feet of four-inch vitrified four-inch sewer pipe is also to be laid. Tenderers on the work include W. C. Arnett Co. Ltd., E. J. Ryan Contracting Co., Marwell Construction Co., Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart, Knott & Jones, A. McKinty, L. G. Scott and Trevis and Williams.

ATTACK IS UNLEASHED

British Launch Largest Effort So Far Against Axis In North Africa

CAIRO, May 22: (CP)—The Royal Air Force has unleashed its most intensive effort of the desert war so far against German concentrations and transport columns in Libya. In the past thirty hours eight German planes have been destroyed and an ammunition and gasoline dump exploded.

As flight after flight of British bombers showered missiles day after day, Royal Air Force fighters skimmed desert roads, sending thousands of incendiary bullets into Axis vehicles.

Condition of R. Phillips, who suffered severe injuries including broken collar bone, pelvis, ribs and punctured lung in a twenty-five foot fall from a ladder at Surf Inlet, is reported at the Prince Rupert General Hospital to be serious. He was brought here by plane Tuesday afternoon.

Victory Loan—

CAMPAIGN IS UNDER WAY HERE

Importance Emphasized At Meeting Of Citizens Last Night—Line Of Action Revealed

The vital importance of a success being made of the forthcoming Victory Loan campaign in Prince Rupert as well as everywhere else in Canada was emphasized last night at a meeting of representative citizens in the city council chamber. Promotion plans were revealed for the benefit of citizens who have been invited to concentrate their talents and influence in putting over this important aspect of the effort. J. J. Little, chairman of the Prince Rupert city unit, presided.

In opening the meeting, Mr. Little described the set-up of the campaign organization starting from the minister of finance, Hon. J. L. Ilesley, as national chairman. For British Columbia Au Yin W. Taylor of Vancouver was the provincial chairman with Col. J. W. Nicholls as chairman for Prince Rupert division. The quota for Prince Rupert, Mr. Little announced, was $350,000. As there and tanks. Neither side had means was $2,800,000,000 more in current of retreat. Very large attempts by the enemy to follow up the landing today than there was in 1918 of airborne troops with waterborne forces were being resisted by the why the loan should not be as naval forces, Mr. Churchill believed, easily taken up as had been the with success. One troop convoy Victory loans of the First Great had been broken up yesterday and War. Incidentally, the campaign an even larger one of thirty ships with naval escorts had been attacked today. So far these attempts had been dispersed with sinking of some enemy ships. Today the Germans attempted to land tanks. "I feel," some of the plans for publicizing said the Prime Minister "that the results cannot be other than satisfactory in view of the strength of our naval forces in the Mediterranean."

The Germans had been successful with their airborne troops in occupying some positions but it had been at tremendous cost to them. The British, New Zealanders, and Greek and Cretians, with the assistance of artillery and machine guns, had engaged the parachute troops and had inflicted heavy casualties upon them.

Earlier reports from Cairo had stated that the Germans were still down in flames and an 800 military landing airborne forces in considerable numbers and had gained a foothold. Naval forces had, however, prevented the enemy from making a sea landing. Vast legendary caves on the island were, it was believed, serving the Nazi parachutists by affording them shelter.

Last night's reports were that thousands of German parachute troops plummeting down out of the skies had failed to gain any key points at that time, also that a flotilla of troop laden speed boats had been beaten back before they could effect a landing.

Three thousand enemy troops had attacked the Suda Bay airport. Dive bombers had rained bombs on the island in support of the efforts to land parachutists and forces by boat.

Royal Air Force pilots, although outnumbered twenty to one, were putting up a valiant fight.

German losses were severe while those of the British were comparatively light. Confidence of the ability to hold Crete was expressed despite the growing intensity of the enemy attack.

The Royal Air Force was continuing its attack on Greek mainland bases.

Foreign Secretary Eden Threatens to Carry War Into French Territory

Latest Actions of Collaboration With Germany May Make this Necessary—Tanker Bound for North Africa is Intercepted

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—Great Britain warned Vichy today that, if France pursues her "declared policy of collaboration with Germany, British forces will strike the enemy wherever he may be found without any distinction between occupied and unoccupied territory." In advising the House of Commons of possible war action against any part of the French Empire, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden said the Vichy government had embarked on a course which must place the resources and territories of France increasingly at the disposal of Germany.

At the same time it was learned officially that British naval patrols have intercepted the French tanker Sheherzade bound for North Africa with oil cargo from a United States port. The ship had been granted a British navicert some time ago but "action of the last day or so by the Vichy government particularly in Syria, had a very sharpening effect, not only in London but in Washington."

Preliminary Invasion . . .

As a sort of practice invasion the Germans are trying to take Crete, the largest island in the Mediterranean Sea. The island is about as far from German bases in Greece and Italy as England is from the Channel ports or German and Scandinavian ports. In the invasion, the first of its kind the world has known, Germany evidently expects to learn a number of lessons. Troops are being conveyed by air and by sea but the people of Crete are not as well prepared as will be the people of Britain. It is important as an object lesson and Britain as well as Germany will have much to learn from its success or failure.

Canada's Financial Position . . .

"The war will inevitably add to Canada's national debt," says the Toronto Star.

"A substantial part of the old debt has been refinanced of recent years at greatly decreased interest rates.

"As a result of this refinancing, the interest amounting to $139,239,000 which was paid in 1940-41 was actually a little less than the interest paid on the much smaller debt of 1920-21, when Canada was a weaker and smaller nation.

"The Dominion therefore entered this war with its national debt in good shape. Great War bonds exempt from income tax are all paid off, and income from these is now subject to taxation. More than 85 per cent of the Dominion's debt is payable in Canada.

"Canada is a rich country; her people a prosperous people with living standards such as are unknown to the countries of Europe. If the present heavy taxation which is designed to put the war as nearly on a pay-as-you-go basis as possible lowers these living standards to some extent, it is a sacrifice which Canadians will willingly make. Most of them will still be better off than Europeans have been even in peacetime. And no sacrifice can be too great for the preservation of democracy."

Religion Is Dragged In . . .

"From the National Broadcasting Corporation's foreign correspondent, William Hillman, comes a novel reason why Rudolf Hess flew to Britain to see the Duke of Hamilton. This well-known radio commentator—who has just returned from Europe—says the former No. 3 Nazi is a member of the Oxford Group Movement and fled the Reich to confess his sins and mistakes and help put an end to the slaughter of men." Mr. Hillman elaborates:

"Just before the war broke out, Dr. Buchman, whose Oxford Movement had swept England like an old-fashioned religious revival, went to Germany. There he met many prominent Nazi leaders—among them Hess. Hess has now come to plead for peace. He has told the British that he has finally got religion."

The Victoria Times says: "Probably the foregoing is as good as some of the other explanations that already have been given to the public. But if we were in Rudolf's shoes we should feel inclined to hesitate before offering this reason for his bolt from the Nazi realm to, say, Mr. Churchill or Mr. Bevin. While the head of the British government is maintaining a discreet silence—as his position demands—until he is in possession of more information, his Minister of Labor let himself go in language which even the most unsophisticated victim of emotionalism would not fail to understand. Mr. Bevin regards Herr Hess as just a common or garden murderer whom he figuratively cursed 'with book and bell and candle.' Quite right.

"Dragging Dr. Buchman into this fantastic comedy, whether it be a comedy of errors or a sinister plot emanating from a disordered mind, would seem to us to be especially unfortunate in more than one respect. We do not know what this pseudo-crusader is thinking about the world condition or the part the head of the Nazi state is playing but we have not forgotten that it was none other than Buchman who said: 'Thank God for a man like Adolf Hitler who will stand against the anti-Christ of Communism.' Most normal folk will be excused if they suggest Mr. Hillman is drawing the 'long bow.' And there are conversions—and conversions."

HITLER'S BROKEN PLEDGES

(Being a Series)

Poland

January 26, 1934—Hitler's government signed with the Polish government a 10-year Pact of Non-Aggression, Hitler's communique stating that both countries "should renounce the use of force in their mutual relations."

January 30, 1934—Hitler: "Whatever may be the differences between the two countries in the future, an attempt to remove them by warlike actions would have disastrous effects which would bear no relation to any possible gain." (Documents on International Affairs, 1934, Page 324.)

May 21, 1935—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "We recognize, with the understanding and the heartfelt friendship of true Nationalists, the Polish State as the home of a great, nationally-conscious people. The German Reich, and, in particular, the present German government, have no other wish than to live on friendly and peaceable terms with all neighboring States." (British War Blue Book, Page 3.)

March 7, 1936—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "I would like the German people to understand the inner motives of National Socialist foreign policy, which finds it painful that the outlet to the sea of a people of 35 millions is situated on territory formerly belonging to the Reich, but which recognizes that it is unreasonable and impossible to deny a State of such a size as this any outlet to the sea at all." (British War Blue Book, Page 3.)

February 20, 1938—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "... this most dangerous spot from the point of view of European peace has entirely lost its menacing character. The Polish State respects the national conditions in this State, and both the city of Danzig and Germany respect Polish rights." (British War Blue Book, Page 4.)

September 26, 1938—Hitler (in the Berlin Sportpalast): "We are all convinced that this agreement will bring lasting pacification. We realize that these are two peoples which must live together, and neither of which can do away with the other. A people of 33 millions will always strive for an outlet to the sea. It was a real work of peace." (British War Blue Book, Page 5.)

April 28, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): said he had proposed to Poland (1) Return of Danzig as a Free State into the framework of the German Reich; (2) Germany to receive a route through the Corridor, possessing the same extraterritorial status for Germany as the Corridor itself has for Poland. This offer having been rejected, he denounced the ten-year non-aggression pact of 1934.

August 25, 1939—Anglo-Polish Agreement of Mutual Assistance signed.

September 1, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag, announcing annexation of Danzig and the invasion of Poland): "I will not war against women and children. I have ordered my air force to restrict itself to attacks on military objectives." The same day, Hitler's air force bombed open towns in Poland in defiance of international law and in spite of Hitler's pledge.

September 26, 1939—Gaulleter Greiser (in a speech to Nazi youth): "The German who goes East goes as master of the land. The Pole is his servant. Go there, German youth, go where the battle is to the strong. Sieg Heil!" (Deutschland-ender)

September 29, 1939—Germany signed a pact with U.S.S.R., partitioning Poland.

Denmark

May 31, 1939—Hitler's government virtually compelled Denmark to sign a treaty of non-aggression, whose first article ran: "The German Reich and the Kingdom of Denmark will in no circumstances resort to war or to any other form of violence against each other." (The Times, June 1, 1939.)

October 6, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "We have concluded with Denmark a treaty of non-aggression. Our relations with that country are therefore aimed at an unalterably loyal and friendly collaboration." (The Times, October 7, 1939.)

April 9, 1940—Just because Denmark offered an easy "Bride" to Norway, Hitler ordered it invaded.

Norway

April, 1939—Hitler offered Norway a pact of non-aggression.

October 6, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "Germany has never had any conflicting interests with the Nordic States, nor has she any today. Sweden and Norway were both offered non-aggression treaties by Germany, but they rejected them because they thought that they were not threatened in any way." (The Times, October 7, 1939.)

April 9, 1940—Hitler's army and air force entered Norway.

April 10, 1940—"Germany's action in Scandinavia indicates her genuine desire to maintain the neutrality of the neutrals, and her determination not to infringe the territorial integrity and the political independence of Norway and Denmark now or in the future." (Broadcast from Bremen.)

The Low Countries

January 30, 1937—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "The German government has assured Belgium and Holland that it is ready to recognize and guarantee these States as neutral regions in perpetuity." (Documents on International Affairs, 1937, Page 186.)

August 26, 1939—The Reich Minister at The Hague informed Queen Wilhelmina that Germany would in no circumstances cease to respect the inviolability and integrity of the Netherlands, provided that the Netherlands maintained a strict neutrality. The German Ambassador in Brussels gave a similar assurance to the King of the Belgians.

October 6, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "The New Reich has endeavoured to continue the traditional German friendship with Holland. It has neither found any existing differences in that state, nor created any new ones. As soon as I took over the government I tried immediately to create friendly relations with Belgium. I renounced any revision and any wish for revision. The Reich has raised no demands likely to be considered a threat to Belgium." (The Times, October 7, 1939.)

May 9, 1940—"The Reich government declares that Germany has no intention of touching the sovereignty and kingdom of the Netherlands or Belgium, either with regard to their European or Colonial possessions, now or in the future." (Nazi Memorandum to the Belgium government.)

May 10, 1940—Hitler sent his army and air force into Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, and opened one of the most shocking chapters in history.

France

December 6, 1938—Von Ribbentrop arrived in Paris to conclude a peace pact with France, recognizing that there were no territorial questions outstanding and that the frontier line as then established was final.

August 25, 1939—Hitler (in conversation with Sir Neville Henderson): The Fuehrer renewed his assurances that he is not interested in Western problems and that a frontier modification in the West does not enter into consideration. Western fortifications which have been constructed at a cost of milliards were final Reich frontier on the West." (British War Blue Book, Page 157.)

September 1, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "The Neutral States have assured us of their neutrality. It to them when statesmen in the West declare that this (invasion of Poland) affects their interests, I can only regret such a declaration. I have solemnly assured them and I repeat it, that we ask nothing of these Western States and never will ask anything. The frontier between France and Germany is a final one. Germany has no interests in the west, and our western wall is for all time the frontier of the Reich on the West." (British War Blue Book, Page 210.)

May 13, 1940—Hitler advanced into France.

Alsace-Lorraine

January 31, 1940—"Alsace does not exist for us. We renounce all claims in Alsace-Lorraine." (German Broadcast in French.)

July 18, 1940—"Alsace is pushed back to its natural lebensraum, the German Reich." (Strassburger Neueste Nachrichten.)

September 21, 1940—"Lorraine has always been German, although at times the French succeeded in regressing German traditions." (Gaulleter Burchel, at Metz.)

Britain

May 21, 1935—Hitler said he would co-operate for world peace, if Germany had an equality of rights.

June 18, 1935—Anglo-German Naval Agreement signed.

January 30, 1937—Hitler: "The day of political surprises is over."

September 30, 1938—Hitler promised Anglo-German peace, known as the Munich Peace Pact. "We are resolved that the method of consultation shall be the method adopted to deal with any other question that may concern our two countries."

April 28, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "Since England today, both by the press and officially, upholds the view that Germany should be opposed under all circumstances and confirms this by the policy of encirclement known to us, the basis for the Naval Treaty has been removed. I have therefore resolved to send today a communication to this effect to the British government." (British War Blue Book, Page 67.)

April 28, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag): "The only claim I have ever made and shall continue to make, on England is that for a return of our colonies. But I always made it very clear that this would never become the cause of a military conflict." (British War Blue Book, Page 67.)

August 23, 1939—Hitler (in letter to Chamberlain): "Germany has never had the intention of taking military measures other than those of a defensive character against England or France, and has never intended, and does not in the future intend, to attack England or France." (British War Blue Book, Page 134.)

August 28, 1939—British reply to above: "The German government will be aware that His Majesty's government have obligations to Poland by which they are bound and which they intend to honor. They could not, for any advantage offered to Great Britain, acquiesce in a settlement which put in jeopardy the independence of a state to whom they have given their guarantee." (British War Blue Book, Page 163.) (To which Sir Neville Henderson added, in conversation with Hitler: Hitler wanted Britain's friendship. What value would he place on our friendship if we began it by disloyalty to a friend?" (British War Blue Book, Page 167.)

September 3, 1939—Britain and France declared a state of war existed between them and Germany, by reason of Germany's unprovoked attack upon Poland.

Roosevelt's Peace Appeal

April 28, 1939—Hitler (to the Reichstag) replying to Mr. Roosevelt's personal appeal of April 15, in which the President asked for Hitler's assurance that his armed forces would not attack or invade Finland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium, Great Britain and Elre, France, Portugal, Spain, Switzerland, Liechtenstein, Luxembourg, Poland, Hungary, Rou-mania, Yugoslavia, Russia, Bulgaria, Greece, Turkey, Iraq, the Arabias, Syria, Palestine, Egypt and Iran: I have polled certain neighboring countries as to whether they felt themselves menaced by Germany, and "their reply was in all cases negative—in some cases strongly so." Hitler added that Germany was nevertheless prepared to give each of them an assurance of the kind desired by Mr. Roosevelt, provided the state asked for such an assurance "together with appropriate proposals." (Bulletin of International News, Vol. XVI, No. 9, May 6, 1939, Page 12.)

And Here is Their Fate—

Finland, Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—Thrown to Hitler's Russian confederate, except for Moscow which he wanted himself and seized on March 22, 1939. "Estonia and Latvia had pacts of friendship with Germany dated June 7, 1939."

Sweden—Menaced into betraying her best friends.

Norway and Denmark—Invaded and conquered, April 9, 1940.

The Netherlands, Luxembourg and Belgium—Invaded, open cities bombed unmercifully and conquered, May 10, 1940.

Great Britain—Attacked by air continuously.

France—Invaded May 13, 1940, and conquered.

Poland—Invaded savagely and conquered, September 1, 1939.

Hungary—Reduced to a vassal state.

Roumania—A vassal state, occupied by German troops.

DES BRADY DOES WELL

Group Of Young Pilots In C. A. F. Training School In Ontario

Desmond Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Brady, formerly of Prince Rupert and now of Ottawa, headed a group of thirty-five young Royal Canadian Air Force pilots who recently took their examinations at the military training school at Eggesheim, Ontario.

The course had been completed in eighteen days in order to complete the personnel of a squadron which will be first line fighter within a year. Prior to taking the course, Desmond had been a member of the motor transport section of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton.

Brady is writing to the city, mentioning Desmond Brady's return on a train from Kingston.

Brady is also with the Royal Canadian Air Force and training for a pilot, too. Early in December last he had pneumonia and was in hospital for nearly three months. Just recently he has been in hospital for another six weeks. As soon as he gets out of hospital, he expects to write more of his examinations.

Brady tells of meeting in hospital a patient who had recently returned from overseas. This patient had been operated on in England by Capt. Fred Kerwin who served in England with the Royal Canadian Medical Corps.

Brady mentions in his letter that the March of Time recently took news reel pictures of the air training school, a couple of former Prince Rupert boys being in the pictures.

The marriage took place at St. James Anglican Church in Vancouver on Saturday evening last of Miss Mary Hermia (Molly) Ellison, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. J. Canon Wilberforce Cooper performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, E. G. Lashley, in the absence of her father, wore a cerulean blue crepe redingote ensemble. The coat, self-buttoned from neck to waistline, was distinguished by a foursome of shirred pockets. Shoes and hat were in tone, the latter a French felt with floral crown in azalea and rose shades. Cornflower, heather and lily of the valley comprised the bride's bouquet.

The bridesmaid was Miss Betty Ellison, sister of the bride, who wore a romance pink crepe arnon-fronted frock, the sleeves three-quarter length and the neckline outlined with self fabric flowers. Her sailor

CARD OF THANKS

On behalf of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the visit of General William Steffens, we desire to express most sincere thanks to the many individuals and organizations who so wholeheartedly and efficiently helped in many ways and generously contributed of time and efforts in order to make the visit of the General and the meetings held during his stay among us so pleasant and truly worth-while.

We very respectfully thank the military leaders for the cordial reception they gave the distinguished visitor, the hearty co-operation extended and the help and services so generously given at all times. Our sincere gratitude goes to D. G. Borland who not only granted the use of the theatre for the Sunday evening meeting free of charge, but also gave very valuable assistance and leadership in many matters.

The local Sons of Norway, the Nordkap Society and the Varden Singers not only joined hands with all other groups sponsoring the visit of General Steffens but who also, through several of leading members, gave excellent service in preparing for the meetings. Among such men were John Storseth, in charge of decorations, Anton Dybavn, Hartvik Gulbransen, Nels Gundersen, Mr. Hundelde, I. Feness and many others.

Very special thanks are expressed to the Varden Singers and their very capable director, Peter Lien, for the splendid contributions they made both Saturday evening at the Moose Hall, Sunday morning at services in the Lutheran Church and Sunday evening at the Capitol Theatre.

Both the General, the committee and the people of the city appreciated sincerely the contributions made by the Regimental Band under the masterful leadership of the director Lieut. O. W. S. Stouist.

A contribution of touching significance was made by Mrs. John Storseth who by her own hands made the beautiful Norwegian flag that was given by her to Col. S. D. Johnston for use on the car made available for the convenience of General Steffens. The flag is left with Col. Johnston in memento.

Similar service was given also by E. Evenson who had flags made for decorating his own car, which he made available for the service of the General and his party. Mr. Evenson himself being the driver.

We are sincerely grateful for the generous and kind publicity given by the local press—the Daily News and the Evening Empire, likewise the local radio station.

We respectfully thank John Dybavn who, both as the vice-consul of Norway and personally, gave valuable assistance and active service in connection with the visit of General Steffens.

Finally, the committee is gratefully conscious of the fine attitude and active interest shown by all the people in our city. The General was much impressed by the friendly and generous spirit of co-operation and cordiality that met him on every hand while he was in our city.

The committee feels that the contributions made by our distinguished visitor, both at the formal programs and functions, as well as by his impressive and lovable personality, will serve not only as pleasant memories in days to come but also inspire to united efforts in everything truly worth while.

On behalf of the committee:
J. H. MYRWANG, Chairman.
J. MUNTZE, Secretary.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Prince Rupert General Hospital was held in the board room Tuesday evening. President Mrs. F. S. Walton was in the chair and a good attendance of members was present. The President thanked all those who helped to make the tea a success. It was decided to await the results of the war certificate raffle which will be drawn at the next meeting before deciding to what best use the funds could be put for the benefit of the building.

C., and all parts of the Dominion.

Perhaps his most notable speech was at the Guildhall on July 17, 1918. He was chairman of the party of Canadian newspapermen who went to Britain and France as guests of the government for the purpose of reviewing the war efforts, visiting the West Front battlefields and the great munitions factories, as well as the Grand Fleet at Scapa Flow.

It was a notable occasion. Ludendorff had the day before lauded on the Marne what proved to be his last drive. The defeatists were vocal and pessimism ruled St. James St. and the Stock Exchange. In that hour of darkness Lloyd George, undefeated and undefeated, took his text: "The Victory: what shall we do with it."

It was some task to follow the marvellous little Welshman and Arthur Balfour but Mr. Woods rose to the occasion and, in a speech of great force and charm, he testified how Canada stood solidly behind the Old Country in that dark hour.

N. AFRICAN HERO MEETS PREMIER SMUTS

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander of the British expeditionary force that routed the Italians in North Africa and which is now fighting an Italian-Nazi mechanized advance, is pictured with General Jan Christian Smuts, premier of the Union of South Africa.

Man in the Moon

The British boys in Crete had some great sport. Most of them are particularly proficient at shooting birds on the wing or rabbits on the run.

All that would have been necessary to complete the picture would have been shotguns instead of rifles and machine guns.

Those old country squires and gamekeepers and poachers will have a fine great fun if the Huns ever try the pheasant game in Britain.

The British despatches politely say the Germans were "disposed of" or "dealt with." That possibly means that there was a group of little tables with a waiter and a bottle of Scotch with lemons and ginger ale awaiting their arrival. The British always were hospitable.

In England and Scotland the British seem to be ready with pitchforks etc. etc. Some of the country people are quite proficient in sticking pigs.

NEWS OF THE MINES

Big Missouri Mine Operating Full Blast Again—
Riverside Also Working Three Shifts

Following a temporary partial shutdown due to shortage of water, the Big Missouri mine near Stewart is in full operation again. The mine is working two shifts and the mill three shifts. The payroll is rapidly reaching the full figure again. Every boat into Stewart recently has been bringing in returning members of the Big Missouri crew.

The Riverside mine on the Alaska side of the boundary in the Portland Canal district is now operating mine, mill and power house on a three shift basis employing a crew of about twenty men. There had been a brief shutdown recently owing to weather conditions. Shipments of tungsten will commence from the property shortly to Tacoma smelter, it is expected.

Thomas S. MacKay, former assistant manager of the Premier mine and a well known Prince Rupert boy in the very early days, recently returned to this coast from British Guiana where he was in charge of a lode gold development and is now to take over the management of a mine near Juneau, Alaska, in which Dale L. Pitt, former general manager of the Premier Gold Mining Co., and associates are interested. Mr. MacKay is also interested in a gold property in the Unuk River district.

Her Finest Hour

Though Britain bleeds, the heart in homage turns
To where she rises, fairer for her scars;
To where, above her slain, though Britain mourns,
Yet hurls her lightnings on their murderers;
Whence the immortal fire that in her burns,
And sets her fame, triumphant with the stars?

Magnificent, alike, in war or peace,
Our Empire;—Mightier with the troubled years,
Which scar the shell but cannot touch the soul;
In that vast Future, when all strife shall cease,
She shall be deemed the prouder for her tears,
And though the illimitable ages roll,
Bringing her peace with honor, pride and power,
"The world shall know this was her Finest Hour!"

order to buy bonds people had to be induced to see the advantage of using money now in savings accounts, reducing expenditures and passing purchases that could be foregone. Col. Nichol suggested various means of getting money. Even when could convert their bank money into bonds. Col. Nichol's contribution to the investment concerns of the country had put their experts into a task of organizing the sale of Victory loan. This was illustrated even in Prince Rupert.

Mr. Nigel E. O'Brien of Vancouver, organizer for this division, left Prince Rupert was for the organization of the campaign. In its hands rest the success of the campaign. Their work was a real service.

H. Edgell of Vancouver, local organizer, was also present and spoke briefly.

In closing the meeting, Mr. Edgell emphasized the patriotic spirit supporting the campaign. It felt, should transcend the small considerations.

COMEDY IS LIVELY ONE

"Third Finger, Left Hand." With
Melvin Douglas and Myrna Loy.
At Capitol Theatre

Myrna Loy, teamed for the first time with Melvin Douglas, abandons her typical role of a "perfect wife" in "Third Finger, Left Hand," which is the feature picture for tonight and tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre here. In this hilarious story of a romantic mix-up, Miss Loy plays the part of a magazine editor, who, because her boss' wife is jealous invents a mythical husband whom she is supposed to be trying to find in order to get a divorce. The deception is perfect until Douglas, who has learned about it and is in love with her, boldly shows up and assumes the role of the missing spouse. Her family likes him but she does not so she proceeds to keep him in all manner of trials and tribulations. She scandalizes Niagara Falls on their "honeymoon." He invites another couple to join them in a "double honeymoon." Her attorney plans ways and means of getting her a divorce so that he can marry her himself. All three start out towards Reno together. After all the laugh-packed troubles they go through, the couple find they have really been in love with one another all along.

The cast includes Lee Bowman, Raymond Walburn, Donald Meek, Felix Bressart, Bonita Granville and Ann Morriss.

WOODS WAS PROMINENT JOURNALIST

ment of the Canadian west's rich mineral resources in Great Britain and the sister Dominions he told of the greatness of Canada and its paramount place as a link of Empire.

Born July 12, 1887, son of Alexander Woods, Canada's first trade agent to Australia, "Bert" Woods started his newspaper career in Toronto after being educated at Quebec High School, Morrin College, McGill University, where he was an associate in arts, and the University of Manitoba.

He was a reporter on the old Mail and Empire in Toronto, news editor of the Montreal Herald, later city editor of The Mail and Empire, its representative in the Ottawa Press Gallery, business manager of The Toronto News and a partner in the Woods-Norris advertising agency before going to Alberta in 1907.

It was not long before Mr. Woods became a dominant force in western affairs. He was editor and managing director of The Calgary Herald and soon after his arrival assumed control of the paper from the pioneer publisher, J. J. Young. An associate of the late M. R. Jennings in the ownership of The Edmonton Journal until it became a unit in the Southam organization, Mr. Woods was also publisher for a short period of The Lethbridge News.

After nearly 50 years in the daily routine of active newspaper life he retired in 1936 but retained the presidency of The Calgary Herald, important link in the Southam newspaper chain, and continued to give guidance to the new generation of executives in the publishing business and other interests to which he was connected.

Mr. Woods was a loyal supporter of the Western Associated Press, pioneer in Canada of co-operative news-gathering associations founded in Winnipeg in 1907, and for many years was a director of its successor, The Canadian Press, the Dominion-wide co-operative news-gathering and distributing system of Canadian daily newspapers, serving as president 1925-1928. He served many years as Director and President of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, the co-operative association for the business end of Canadian newspaper-pUBLICATIONS. His devotion to the interests of Canadian newspaper publishers was honored in 1930 when members of The Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association jointly presented him with a portrait of himself by Kenneth Forbes which now hangs in The Herald Building in Calgary. He was a director and honored executive of the Southam Publishing Company of Montreal.

In Other Fields
Mr. Woods developed many interests outside the realm of newspaper publication. In 1930 he was elected president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and as its leader attended conventions in the Dominion, the United Kingdom and United States Chamber of Commerce session in Washington. In 1935 he headed the Canadian delegation to the League of Nations Assembly in Geneva.

Many honors came to him. He was created a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George in the King's birthday honors June 3, 1935, and was honored by Albert, then King of the Belgians, following the Great War. He also was decorated at a public ceremony in Calgary with the Order of King Albert II for distinguished services as director of the Belgium Relief Fund in Alberta during the war years. In 1935 he was presented with the Jubilee Medal of the late King George V in recognition of his work as an executive of the Alberta branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

A supporter of Canadian militia, he was appointed honorary lieutenant

READING SUBJECT

Outstanding Program At Parent-Teachers' Association Meeting

The program at the regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teacher Association last evening was of outstanding merit. The speaker of the evening was G. R. S. Blackaby who took as his subject "The Art of Reading." Other items on the program were a very enjoyable recitation by Jacques-Smith, delightful piano solos by Miss Frances Moore and splendidly rendered violin solos by Bandsman A. Holt, Rocky Mountain Rangers, accompanied by Miss Swanna Olafson A.T.C.M.

In his interesting and informative address Mr. Blackaby treated the "Art of Reading" under the three headings: "Why to Read, How to Read and What to Read." Interspersed with references drawn from varied and wide sources of information the subject was comprehensively covered. Books were the treasure stores of the accumulated knowledge of the world, said Mr. Blackaby. They were the best teachers and an open sesame to the fairland of dreams. In discussing the question of how to read the speaker stressed the need to read for pleasure but also to discipline the mind to avoid dissipation. People should read widely but with care and should approach reading in the proper frame of mind. What he read determined largely what a person was. The standard books of travel, biography, history should all have a place. The importance of reading poetry was particularly emphasized. The thanks of the meeting were enthusiastically expressed in a hearty vote of thanks to all the artists.

Mrs. G. Hill Jr. was in the chair and in the business meeting final arrangements for the June tea were completed. Grants of $25 each to Booth Memorial, Borden Street and King Edward Schools were voted and $5 to Seal Cove. Mrs. Bussey presented the secretary's report, Mrs. Barclay the treasurer's report while Mrs. Boulter was refreshment convener.

STEWART

The Legion Defence Corps is continuing its weekly parades at Stewart with J. Thompson as platoon commander.

An apple tree on the Tooth property on Eighth Street at Stewart, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dockstader, is thriving and is now in full bloom.

A home nursing course is being conducted for the ladies of the Portland Canal at the Moose Hall with Misses Jessie Rothnie and Mrs. S. G. Lawrence as instructresses.

A committee of the Stewart Canadian Legion, under the chairmanship of J. Scott, has been delegated to prepare resolutions for the provincial convention at New Westminster this summer.

The Moose Lodge and the Women of the Moose of Stewart held a successful bridge drive and dance on Saturday night. The affair was largely attended and very enjoyable.
