Axis Army Is Trapped By British

Russians Forced Back— ODDS WERE TOO GREAT FOR REDS

Compelled to Yield at Rostov—Defenders of Moscow Hard Pressed by New Assault.

LONDON, Nov. 22: (P)—Russian troops, fighting against two terrific Axis onslaughts, were reported to have fought back at Rostov-on-Don by overwhelming odds while, at the approaches to Moscow, they still withstood the full shock of an attack regarded as one of the biggest battles in the five months of the war.

A Moscow broadcast said that the Red Army at Rostov was fighting courageously but was forced to retreat.

It was not made clear whether the Russians still held any part of the town which the German High Command claimed had been captured.

Defenders on the Moscow front were hard-pressed by the new Nazi onset.

Military observers declared that the Germans had hurled into the big push "probably the largest concentration of forces ever seen in modern warfare."

Further Instructions Are Awaited From Tokyo Before Deliberations in Washington Are Resumed

MISSION FAILURE?

TOKYO, Nov. 22: (P)—Failure of the mission of Saburo Karyusu, special Japanese envoy to the United States, was foreseen by the newspaper Nichi Nichi today in a front page interview telephoned by a Washington correspondent. It reported that United States officials saw no room for further negotiations if Japan's policy continued to be based on points made by Premier Tojo in his recent Diet speech. Conclusion of a stalemate was drawn from this.

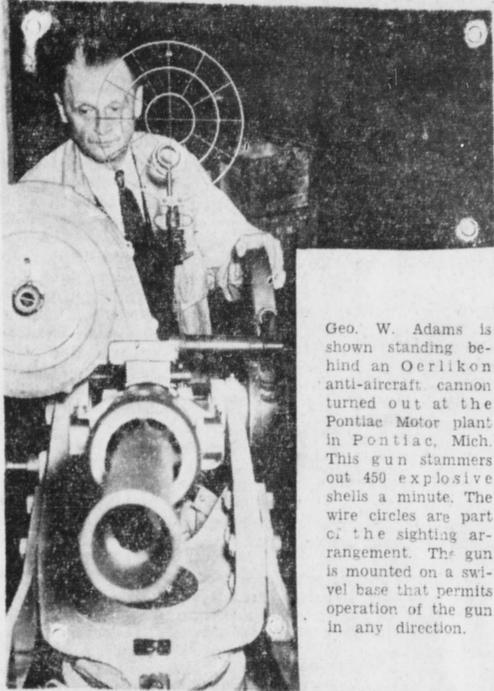

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 22:—While it was being said in Tokyo that relations between Japan and the United States were grave, it was announced here last night that deliberations between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull of the United States and Kishisaburo Nomura, Japanese ambassador to the United States, and Saburo Karyusu, special envoy, had been postponed pending receipt of further instructions from the Japanese capital.

Head Of World's Greatest Narcotic Ring Taken Into Custody in New York

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 22:—Announcement was made at the Treasury Department yesterday that narcotic and customs agents, on secret indictment, had placed under arrest the "master mind" of the greatest international drug smuggling ring in the world. One brother of the arrested man is still being sought. A third is in Europe and out of reach at the present time.

The arrest follows years of investigation by international authorities.

Highway By Next Spring

SPOKANE, Nov. 22: (P)—Representative Warren Magnuson of Seattle, chairman of the American section of the Alaska Highway Commission, said in an interview today that his commission "hoped to get definite action by next spring." Magnuson said he expected a United States appropriation would be about $32,000,000 to $35,000,000 which would match similar Canadian funds. He added that congressional committee hearings on the appropriation bill were to begin within two or three weeks. Magnuson said that the project was stalemated at present by Canadian refusal to go ahead unless the route was given a high priority rating by the United States.

BRILLIANT CAREER IS NOW OVER

Hon. Newton Wesley Rowell, Eminent as Lawyer, Churchman and Diplomat, Is Dead.

TORONTO, Nov. 22: (P)—Newton Wesley Rowell, aged 74, who won an international reputation as lawyer, churchman and diplomat, died today. He had been ill for several months and early in 1940 was forced by ill-health to retire from the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations after most of the public hearings had been completed. The task of heading the commission, a responsibility which he assumed in August, 1937, climaxed Mr. Rowell's brilliant career.

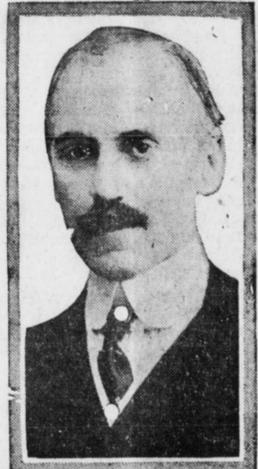

A great Canadian, Newton Wesley Rowell won an international reputation as a lawyer, churchman and diplomat. He climaxed a brilliant and broad career by assuming in August, 1937, the onerous task of heading the Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations.

Active in public affairs from his youth, he was Ontario Liberal leader from 1911 to 1917, sitting for North Oxford constituency. A staunch advocate of social reform, his "abolish the bar" platform in the 1914 Ontario general election provided the basis for one of the bitterest campaigns in the history of the province.

He forsook party in 1917 to join the war-time Union government at Ottawa. There he was right-hand man of Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden as president of the council and vice-chairman of the cabinet war committee.

He was a member of the Imperial war cabinet and the Imperial Conference of 1918. The whole Empire was there represented "on terms of perfect equality" and on behalf of "self-governing nations" in what was in effect a cabinet of the Empire. From that developed a movement for a new constitutional position for the dominions, with Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Rowell playing leading parts. The Statute of Westminster in 1931 crystallized the new position. As a Canadian delegate to the first assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva in 1920, he established himself internationally as a first-line statesman. A year earlier he represented Canada at the International Labor Conference at Washington.

Left Cabinet

When Sir Robert Borden retired in 1929, Mr. Rowell also withdrew from the cabinet where he had

Enemy Being Ground Between Tank Forces; Tobruk Garrison Free

Steady Progress Continues to Be Made in Face of Heavy Opposition Which Germans and Italians Are Now Applying Against Drive.

CAIRO, Nov. 22: (CP)—The long-besieged British-Australian garrison at Tobruk has broken out of the Axis semi-circle around the port and Axis armored forces, split and partly cut off in Eastern Libya, are being ground between British tank columns, it was announced today. The Tobruk garrison was said to be making steady progress in face of heavy opposition to the drive, having started yesterday to join British spearheads holding Razegh, ten miles outside the Tobruk defences.

By nightfall of the first day it was said that the Tobruk forces had seized positions three miles southeast of the old defence lines. Meanwhile the general British advance continues westward. A communique today said: "In all areas the situation is developing to our advantage although further intensive fighting can be expected before it is possible to assess full results of the heavy blow dealt the enemy in the opening phase of this campaign."

British dispatches said that by last night the Imperial army and air force had destroyed half the Axis tank strength in Libya.

RECORD IN AIR MAIL

Trans-Canada Has Greatest Volume in Its History, Announced.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 22:—Air mail carried by Trans-Canada Air Lines in October was the greatest volume in the company's history, it was stated today by W. F. English, assistant vice-president. The figure was 135,581 pounds for the month, some 5,000 pounds more than September, and compares with 94,164 pounds for the same month last year.

More passengers used the air line also, there being 9383 in October against 9165 in September.

TURN DOWN ORDERS

CANBERRA, Nov. 21: (P)—Boot orders for British and Australian armies are so large that Australian factories have declined requests for supplies for the Russian and Turkish forces.

Prince Rupert Part— AIR BASES NOW GIRD COASTLINE

Every Inch Of Exposed Coastline Of Canada Can Now Be Easily Patrolled

OTTAWA, Nov. 22: (P)—New air bases already completed or under construction by Canada and the United States now gird the northern half of North America so every inch of exposed coastline can be easily patrolled.

From the international boundary to near the Arctic Circle, huge fields are being provided for the watchdogs of the air whose job is to seek out surface and undersea raiders and provide the first line of defence against any seaborne invading forces.

Since the war began millions of dollars have been poured into aerial defences. In brief, this is the picture presented by recent disclosures by Canadian ministers in the House of Commons and announcements made previously in Washington. Most of the bases are in usable shape.

Canadian operational bases at Yarmouth, Shelburne, Dartmouth and Sydney, N. S.; Botwood, Gander and Torbay in Newfoundland; Northwest River "and elsewhere" in Labrador; United States bases in Greenland.

West Coast

Canadian operational bases at Patricia Bay, Ucluelet, Tofino and Coal Harbor on Vancouver Island; Allford Bay in the Queen Charlotte Islands—Bella Bella and Prince Rupert on the mainland coast of British Columbia; United States bases in Alaska, including some stretching out across the Aleutian Islands toward Asia.

In addition there is a new Canadian chain of seven airfields from Edmonton across northern British Columbia and the Yukon to Alaska, providing a short-hop air route by which fighter craft could be rushed northward if the need arises.

Most of the coastal bases are close enough that fighter planes based at one could jump by easy stages to any other.

It has been announced that Royal Canadian Air Force patrol planes have on occasion operated more than half way across the Atlantic. Planes that can do that would have little difficulty carrying out coastal patrols from bases existing or planned.

On the west coast similar preparations have been made. The southern section can be watched over by the Vancouver Island bases. From the tip of Vancouver Island to a point a little north of Prince Rupert a patrol can be maintained from the Prince Rupert and Bella Bella fields and the Queen Charlottes.

Canada's responsibility covers less territory on the west than on the east. The Alaska panhandle which stretches far down the British Columbia coast is United States responsibility and bases built or planned provide needed facilities for patrol operations there.

Manpower Debate In British House

British Democracy . . .

British democracy is still not real democracy and cannot be as long as the present duplex system of education continues. Today the privileged classes continue to be educated in what are known as "public schools," open to those who can afford to pay the stiff fee required. The system of state education which we should call a public school system but which includes the schools managed by schoolboards are supplemented as in this country by church schools, mostly under direct supervision of the Church of England or some other church, but indirectly supervised by state inspectors.

Most of the state appointments have up to now been given to graduates of the public schools with just enough of the board school graduates to give a semblance of democracy.

Today there is a very strong movement toward a greater democracy to be brought about partly by levying heavy taxes on the rich and partly by a general revision of the educational system and the system of making appointments.

Relief of Tobruk . . .

After many months of encirclement the garrison of Tobruk has been relieved. British forces have been making preparations so that they may not make any false moves such as that when General Sir Archibald Wavell took a considerable part of his army away to try to help stem the advance of the Germans into Greece. It was a political move rather than a well-advised military move.

Recruiting Not Meeting Need . . .

According to Brigadier General George Vanier, commanding the Quebec military district, recruiting is not meeting the present need, and this is true of a number of other military districts, including that of No. 11 on the coast. Steadily but very gradually the demand for conscription is growing and it seems as if early in the coming year something will have to be done in devising a national service plan which will meet the need and at the same time not offend the susceptibilities of Quebec.

BRILLIANT CAREER OVER

shown great potentiality for national usefulness.

"In the big occasion when great tumult of forces were rushing to a climax, Rowell rose to the opportunity—as he always had done—and he learned the lasting gratitude of his country," wrote "Domino," the Ottawa observer, in 1921. "We need just that intellectual power and that moral audacity, not only in Europe but in Washington."

More prophetic than he knew, "Domino" continued: "If this country is to go ahead on its own native steam, it must be wise enough to find a big place for the great talents of N. W. Rowell."

"And if Mr. Rowell or any other disciple of opportunity in public affairs, wants to give Canada what she has a right to expect from him, he will do well to make his needed money now at corporation law and when he comes back to public life have a constant eye single to the glory of his country."

Mr. Rowell did just that. For the next 15 years he devoted himself to his law practice, one of the most notable practices in the Dominion. He devoted himself, also, to numerous phases of church activity, to Victoria University and to the fostering of international understanding both within and without Canada. During those years he represented Canada in many major cases before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

In 1936 he returned to public life by accepting the appointment as Chief Justice of Ontario, succeeding Sir William Mulock. One year later he undertook the conduct of a five-man commission which was to re-examine the whole economic basis of Confederation and make his name familiar to every Canadian.

Newton Wesley Rowell came of modest origin. He has born on a farm in Middlesex County, Ontario, November 1, 1867, son of Joseph Rowell and Nancy Green, both of British stock. Essentially a self-made man, his early formal education was limited to the rural public school.

Steady Progress

From the farm he went to work in a London, Ontario, drygoods store. From then on, the serious-minded youth grasped every opportunity for self-education, with the chosen path leading to Ossegoe Hall Law School in Toronto. He graduated as medallist of his class from there in 1891 and was called to the bar.

His career at the bar, as indicated by the honors bestowed on him, progressed steadily. He was made King's Counsel in 1902 and elected a Bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada in 1911. He was made an honorary member of the American Bar Association in 1930, an honorary bencher of Lincoln's Inn in 1932, president of the Canadian Bar Association 1932-34, and treasurer (head) of the Law Society of Upper Canada in 1935.

Always a devout and active member of the Methodist Church, later of the United Church, Mr. Rowell was interested especially in the laymen's missionary movement. For 40-odd years a member of Metropolitan Church, Toronto, and a member of many of the church's connexional committees, he was a generous but unostentatious benefactor of church and charitable projects.

Victoria University, the United Church college in Toronto, became a special interest. There he was vice-chancellor after being chairman of the board of regents for many years. He was also a member of the board of governors of the University of Toronto and of the board of governors of West China Union University.

He was made an LL.D. of McGill University in 1937 and received similar honorary degrees from the University of Toronto, University of Western Ontario, McMaster University and Northwestern University (Chicago).

Well known in financial circles, he was president of the Toronto General Trusts Company for eight years before elevation to the bench.

In 1901 Mr. Rowell married Nellie Langford, daughter of Rev. Dr. Alexander Langford. There were three children—Langford, who died in 1923, Mary Coyne (now Mrs. H. R. Jackman), and Frederick Newton Alexander.

He became a member of the Toronto and York Clubs, a life member of the National Club, the Rosedale Golf Club, the Rideau Club (Ottawa), the British Empire Club (London), and of the Royal Society of Canada.

PROGRAM BY YOUNG FOLK

Unique Entertainment Presented At Booth Memorial High School For Women's Canadian Club

Pupils of Booth Memorial High School displayed their platform talents in a number of interesting and surprising ways last night when they provided a program of unusual interest for a meeting of the Women's Canadian Club which was held in the Auditorium. Public speaking, recitative genius, musical skill and general knowledge were all given scope in a program which was novel as well as entertaining. The pupils taking part were deserving of the commendation which they received from Miss E. M. Earl, the president of the Women's Canadian Club, and the approval which was expressed by the audience.

The youthful public speakers were Miss Margaret Lamb and Edward Lambe, the former discussing "Relationships Between Canada and the United States" and the latter taking as his subject "Federal Union of Europe." Both displayed budding genius and marked aptitude, presenting logical cases in a well-reasoned and competent manner.

Miss Lamb pointed out how Canada and the United States were setting an example for the rest of the world in the way of international peace and neighborliness. She showed how these two nations had found it possible to settle all disputes by arbitration. Future goodwill and understanding between them was assured.

Edward Lambe, after referring to the failure of past efforts to bring Europe under one government or a peaceful federation, prescribed a plan whereby continental Europe might be split up into several federations or equal unions on the basis of lasting peace, justice and abundance of world's goods. All disputes would be arbitrated and there would be a power to make and enforce compulsory peaceful settlements. In connection with this power of enforcement Great Britain and United States would come into the picture, taking over all naval and air forces as an instrument which would be capable of strangling any attempt at defiance of the international law or authority. Free trade would be a cardinal policy, thus removing tariff barriers—the cause of much international friction and strife. The young speaker acknowledged difficulties which might arise but felt that there was a real possibility for success of the plan he advocated.

Quiz Interests

Another interesting feature of the program was a quiz contest between boys' and girls' teams. This contest was conducted by G. R. S. Blackaby with the assistance of Mrs. Neal Carter and Mrs. Colton McCarthy. The boys' team, consisting of Edward Dawes, Oliver Santerbane and Donald MacDonald, won over a girls' team consisting of Audrey Grimble, Phyllis Batt and Averilla Thomasson, the score being eleven points to ten and a half.

The musical program included selections by the High School Orchestra, under direction of Miss Molly Winslow; piano solos by Miss Jean Derry and Patricia McClymont; violin solo by Miss Averilla Thomasson, accompanied by Miss Jean Derry; Miss Audrey Grimble's recitation of "The Little Boats of Britain," a poem inspired by the epic evacuation of Dunkerque, was very effective.

Major McLennan of the Canadian Scottish recited the famous "Coronation Crowds." In a few

Basketball Buzz

Local sporting interest will centre tonight on the senior and intermediate basketball matches to be played at Exhibition Hall between Prince Rupert and Port Simpson. A full program of hoop activity has been arranged including a ladies' game in addition to the senior and intermediate affairs.

As far as was known this morning, no changes are to be made in the local line-ups since last Saturday's games at Port Simpson when the native boys took a seven point advantage over the local Savoyis in a ragged encounter. Don McIvor and Angus McPhee will be the centres with Stiles and Holkestad on the forward lines and Dominato, Houston and Beynon at guard. At Port Simpson Stiles worked the guard spot with Houston while MacPhee and Beynon played wings with McIvor at centre. This tall outfit proved the more effective on the small Simpson floor. However, the situation will be changed somewhat tonight with the larger floor making the height possibly less effective.

In the intermediate game Simpson will be out for a win to even the series with the High School since they lost by one point to the locals last Saturday. It should be a hot encounter, the teams being so evenly matched.

The curtain-raiser will be one of those ever-popular girls' games.

remarks before the recitation he referred to the value of encouraging public speaking, particularly among the young people. He also commented on the war situation as it affected Canada urging that it was necessary to make great sacrifices in protection of home and country. It was folly to talk about unwillingness to go abroad to defend the home country. Other nations in Europe had waited until the aggressor was in their backyard and it was known what had happened to them. Canadians would have to make up their minds to protect Canada which was not only a "grubstake" to all but a "bloodstake" to many. It was only to be hoped that the effort and sacrifice which must be made would not come too late.

At the opening of the proceedings, W. W. C. O'Neill, principal of Booth Memorial High School, was called upon for a few remarks. He lauded the Canadian Club for the function it was exercising in building up a united nation. He welcomed the meeting to the school. Although the students who were to provide the program had been busy with their examinations, he felt sure that what they had to offer would be acceptable and appreciated.

Miss Earl, at the opening, read acknowledgements which had been received from England for a donation of $50 to assist the London Women's Canadian Club in war work. In closing she thanked Principal O'Neill and the students for a memorable program.

Pan-American Conference of Women With Canadians Attending Finds Common Ground.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22: (P)—Seeking co-operation and deeper understanding of mutual as well as each other's problems, the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War invited a delegation of eight women from Canada to attend their fall meeting for "informational discussion" held here.

"What kind of world do women want? What action must be taken now to achieve it?" was the discussion theme of the informal "off the record" round-tables in which frank plain speaking was the main feature.

Among the values agreed upon as basis for a free world and common to the hopes of all women present (representing 20 different countries) were: Human welfare, respect for individuality and human dignity, acceptance of differences, liberty and free application of the material and spiritual benefits to all people. To achieve this public opinion must be awakened. The keynote stressed by the delegates was that "speed" is the most important factor if the totalitarian menace is not to become a reality.

Canada's Place

The Canadian delegation included Senator Cairne Wilson, Mrs. Alfred Watt, president of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, Mrs. Edgar Hardy, president of the National Council of Women, Miss Beatrice Belcourt, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and various newspaper and publicity people.

Invited to present their views the Canadians explained their participation in the present war. In recognizing Europe's cause to be their own, they were "facing the facts" and defending Canadian liberty and civilization.

Canada's war effort brought hundreds of questions to the members of the Canadian delegation. Facts and figures on production, participation, taxation as well as the part women in Canada are playing both in auxiliary and volunteer forces and on the "home front" were eagerly sought.

Women from Ecuador, Argentine, Chili, Colombia and Costa Rica spoke on the growing recognition in their countries of the common bonds uniting them with Canada and threat of Hitlerism propaganda and penetration into their respective countries and the need of building common dykes against it.

western world and feeling their continent vulnerable, the South American women urged united front to the totalitarian trouble-makers.

Canadian women participated in a radio round-table discussing the conference questions. They included Senator Cairne Wilson, Miss Beatrice Belcourt, Mrs. Alfred Watt and Melle Elisabeth de Mirabel.

The desirability of setting up a committee in Canada to act as a "clearing house" for all the great women's organizations was put to the Canadian delegation to carry back to Canada. Its purpose would be through representatives of each organization to meet and study common problems, and to develop deeper comprehension and mutual understanding between the two countries.

Government Means to Enforce Strictly New Regulations in Regard to Price Ceilings.

OTTAWA, Nov. 22: — Donald Gordon, new chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, says that, now the government has embarked upon it, the intention is to make the price ceiling program in Canada stick, preferably by co-operation but, if necessary, by compulsion. The level of prices to the consumers must not be increased and, if deemed necessary, prices will be ordered reduced. Everything will be done to prevent essential businesses and services from going to the wall.

Mrs. Brynildsen Of Bella Coola Has Passed Away

The body of the late Mrs. Barney Brynildsen, one of the best known pioneer women of Bella Coola and wife of the head of the prominent business firm there, was brought north to Bella Coola from Vancouver aboard the steamer Cardena this week. She had passed away in Vancouver after a lengthy illness. Seventy years of age, she was a native of Norway but since the early days of settlement in the valley had made her home at Bella Coola. Besides the widower, several sons and daughters survive. Friends throughout the north will regret to learn of her passing.

Record Salmon Pack Coming Up This Year—Former Local Trawler Is Now Up-to-Date Tug—Air Force Taking Amaryliss.

With the season in this district ended some weeks ago while down the coast the fishing is now in its final week, the British Columbia coast appears to have set a new record in 1941 for the size of its canned salmon pack. The present record canned salmon pack for British Columbia is 2,221,000 cases which was set up in 1930. Latest 1941 figures compiled by the fisheries department—up to Nov. 15—set this year's total at 2,210,006 cases with more than a week of fishing still to go. The feature of the salmon pack this year has been the large production of chums. The Skeena River had a substantial pack this season to help swell the total for the coast to the new record. Much of this year's salmon pack from this coast will go to Great Britain.

The powerful tug Island Commander, formerly the Prince Rupert halibut trawler Andrew Kelly, has been added to the fleet of the Island Tug & Barge Co at Victoria to replace the tug Canada which was sunk a few days ago in Puget Sound. The vessel has just had her hull completely rebuilt at Vancouver and has been converted from steam to diesel power with a 640 h.p. Seymour-McIntosh plant. She is fitted with a steel deckhouse and the most up-to-the-minute towing equipment. Capt. Jack Gillam is taking over command of the Island Commander.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, running about twelve hours late on account of heavy freight traffic coming up the coast, arrived in port at 9 o'clock this morning from the south, sailing a couple of hours later on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Armour Salvage Co.'s power tug and general service boat Amaryliss, Capt. Henry Hanson, left on Tuesday of this week for Vancouver where it is expected she will be taken over by the Royal Canadian Air Force. A former submarine, 110 feet long and equipped with a 300 h.p. Winton diesel engine, the Amaryliss is said to be the fastest vessel of her type on this coast. Going south from here, the Amaryliss had in tow a scowload of machinery from the Allison Logging Co. camp on the Queen Charlotte Islands for delivery to Vancouver and also a scowload of reduction plant equipment from Deep Cove, Alaska, for delivery to the B. C. Packers at Vancouver.

Clarence Arthur, chief engineer, and L. E. Scotter, chief steward of the steamer Cardena, which was in port this morning, are both on annual vacation at this time. Mr. Arthur is being relieved by Thomas Dick and Mr. Scotter by A. Knight.

R. M. Winslow, general manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., sails this evening on the Prince Rupert for a trip to Vancouver, Seattle and elsewhere in the south on company business.

Capt. D. J. Hansen and Capt. Barney Roald, representing the halibut vessel owners, and George Anderson, representing the Deep Sea Fishermen's Union, are sailing tonight on the Prince Rupert for Seattle to attend the annual conference next week with the International Fisheries Commission.

Armour Salvage Co.'s service boat Currite, which has been working around Alford Bay Air base for the past year, is back in port to have a new engine installed. The job being carried out at the home floats here. A 45 h.p. Fairbanks-Morse diesel machine is being replaced by a 110 h.p. Hercules diesel.

Loretta Young Coming to Capitol Theatre in "The Lady From Cheyenne."

Loretta Young stars in the frontier comedy "Lady From Cheyenne" which is coming to the Capitol Theatre here as the feature picture for next Monday and Tuesday. A distinguished supporting cast includes Robert Preston, Edward Arnold, Gladys George, Frank Craven, Jessie Ralph, Stanley Fields, Samuel S. Hinds, Willie Best and others.

Based in part on historical incidents, the scene is the Wyoming frontier and the time about 1870. Miss Young, as a naive but determined young school teacher, comes out from Philadelphia and runs afoul of a gang of crooked politicians led by Arnold and Preston. A conflicting romance grows between Miss Young and Preston although, meantime, she is goaded by mounting anger to break the unscrupulous power of the gang. How she accomplishes this is the basis of a novel and entertaining plot.

towing units have been very busy lately on a variety of important work. Some three thousand tons of clamshell from Zayas and Dundas Islands has been moved to Seattle with the Fachsen, Capt. Reg Green in charge. Some 3500 tons of scrap is being moved from Anyox to Seattle, a scowload of this material having been at the government wharf this week enroute south. Ten scowloads of lumber and shingles have been brought from Seattle for use in the house construction contract being carried out by the E. J. Ryan Contracting Co. Gravel also has been brought into port for this work.

EXPERIENCE VERY GRIM

Canadian Invalided Home From Overseas After Three Years.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Nov. 22:—One of the youngest Canadian veterans of the Second Great War and one of the first British soldiers to go into action in France is 24-year-old Sgt. Nicholas Worobec in this town.

A soldier in the British Imperial Army, Sgt. Worobec was severely wounded during the rear-guard action which permitted the British expeditionary force to evacuate at Dunkerque. He was discharged from the British army soon after and invalided back to Canada with a note on his discharge papers from his commanding officer, Lt.-Col. E. C. Dale, Royal Artillery, that his conduct had been "exemplary."

Sgt. Worobec went to the United Kingdom from Canada in 1938 in the hope of taking a short service commission in the Royal Air Force. He was rejected as medically unfit for the R.A.F., however, and joined the Royal Artillery as a gunner.

On Sept. 3, 1939—three days after Britain declared war on Germany—he left for France and on May 28, 1940, took charge of a field gun in one of the British artillery units which stayed behind to cover the withdrawal of the B.E.F. His troop made its stand at Le Pann, Belgium, 12 miles northwest of Dunkerque.

On the morning of May 30, the Germans started shelling a road on which British troops were treating. Sgt. Worobec's section replied with bursts from their machine guns. Then came three German shells, bigger than the rest, all fired from a long-range battery. The first shell landed 50 yards in front of the gun of which Sgt. Worobec was in charge, the second landed 50 yards behind and the third only 20 yards from the gun.

Big Shell Did It

"I could swear I saw the shell coming directly towards our gun," said Sgt. Worobec. "I threw myself on the left side of the gun, drawing my steel helmet close over the back of my head. The I was thrown into the air and came down to earth in a resonating crash with a strong smell of T.N.T. in my nostrils. I tried to stand but could not. The men in our gun crew who were unscathed kept up a fury of fire against the enemy. That was the last I heard before I passed into unconsciousness."

The wounded Canadian taken to the last remaining hospital at Dunkerque and placed aboard a British hospital ship May 12, two days before the final evacuation. He spent 11 months in hospital in England, then went on active service was not long without on guard duty near a big British arsenal. A German land mine exploded within a few yards from where he had been standing a few minutes previous.

The effects of the explosion together with permanent injuries sustained during the rearguard action at Le Pann resulted in his being invalided back to Canada a short time later.

COAL! COAL!

It is only natural that a man should want to hang on to his money as long as he can, but when it comes to the coal buying question you should part with some of your cash at this time while the autumn coal price rules.
