Appeal For Action In Coastal Defence

"The most important road from a military standpoint in the country today is the one which would connect Prince Rupert with the interior" is the statement Premier T. D. Pattullo made twice in public during his visit to Prince Rupert this week. No doubt, the statement was made by the Premier with full knowledge of the situation and the implications involved.

"The most important road from a military standpoint in the country" and what is being done about it? Is any action being taken at all? Is it being taken into consideration in Canada's defence program for the Pacific coast? This is a question which Prince Rupert may well feel directly concerned about. It is a matter of real importance today to the whole of the Pacific coast and almost equally so to Alaska. In fact it may well be considered a vital part of the whole defence scheme of this coast.

Prince Rupert is being armed in various ways. An air base has been established on the Queen Charlotte Islands for the protection of this part of the coast. Another air base is nearing completion at Prince Rupert. Troops are stationed here for the protection of the port. Naval vessels in considerable number patrol the waters north and south and off to the west.

We are establishing our first line of defence. All the while are we looking to our line of communication, the most vital factor of which is this very road which should connect us with the rear, "the most important road from a military standpoint in the country today," the road which not only gives access and egress to the north coast of British Columbia but might well be a life line for Alaska in the event of conflict in the Pacific area.

This road from Prince Rupert to the interior has got beyond the point where it is to be merely considered a desirable tourist artery or even a means of opening up the natural resources of the district. It is now concededly a vital defence measure. It is no longer a luxury. It is now a grim necessity.

Which being the case, there is no time for further delay. There may be some who still think the war is far away from Prince Rupert. There were countries a short year ago that thought war was far away from them. They dallied along unprepared, unconcerned, complacent.

There are potent factors in the international situation today which might very conceivably bring war to these shores in a comparatively short time. It is now high time that something was being done about this very important defence matter of the road from Prince Rupert to the interior. Conceivably, even a year from now might be too late.

If for no other reason than that of the security of this port, it appears that now—not later—is the time for Prince Rupert people to interest themselves in the construction of the road more actively, more insistently than they have ever before.

The highway from Prince Rupert is not one of those things that can be passed off as something we can do without until after the war is over. It is an undertaking of quite evident vital national importance.

Prince Rupert is justified in pressing that immediate action be taken in regard to this highway and that it be commenced with no further delay and completed as speedily as possible.

Probably, the authorities are cognizant of the vital importance of this road in the Pacific defence scheme. If any pressure from this end, however, is necessary it should be freely and fully applied.

The war is spreading. If the United States gets in it, it will probably be a world war with a Battle of the Pacific as well as a Battle of the Atlantic. Is it reasonable that one of the most important ports of the Pacific should be left longer without a line of communication? Now is the time to provide it—not when the need is more urgent and there is no time to act.

Prince Rupert is entitled to be satisfied that the necessary action is being taken.

If there is anything we can do here to strengthen representations which may be already being made to have this military road expeditiously provided, there should be no hesitation about doing it and doing it at once.

The road from Prince Rupert to the interior is past the stage of being a political football, something that is to be dawdled with a half a mile or so at a time in order to keep a few unemployed men at work and a handful of voters appeased. It is a vital element in Western Canada's defence and security.

DUBLIN COUNTS COST AS "UNKNOWN" RAIDERS BOMB CITY

This scene in the North Strand, one of the main business sections of Dublin, shows the severe damage done by an air raid from unidentified planes. Rescue squads found more than 30 slain, 25 missing and 300 injured in the May 31st bombing of the Eire capital. After examining bomb fragments, Dublin blamed Germany for the raid. This was the second raid on Dublin and the ninth on the country. Eire is nominally neutral in this war.

Pattullo At Gyro—

THIS ROAD ESSENTIAL IN DEFENCE

Premier Pattullo Tells Service Club He Will Never Quit Until He is Kicked Out

"From a military standpoint, the road which would connect Prince Rupert with the interior is the most essential one in the country today. Why not get it now?" Such were the words of Premier T. D. Pattullo in a luncheon address before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday.

Mr. Pattullo recalled how he had advocated for many years the carrying out of national public works undertakings. During war years and means of financing huge expenditures could always be found. Why could not money be found for essentials such as providing defences and taking care of youth in times of peace?

The trouble in the past was that governments and people were too slow to start, too slow to see ahead. They were too complacent, always hoping that something would happen.

"When peace comes next, let us be in a position to meet the situation," remarked the Premier.

Win War First

Of course, conceded the Premier, the first thing for all must be to concentrate upon ridding the world of the present aggression, frightfulness and murderosity, something that must be accomplished by the great English-speaking nations of the British Commonwealth and the United States and their Allies.

Mr. Pattullo referred to the importance of British Columbia industrial development and mentioned such projects as a steel plant, the Alaska Highway and acquisition by British Columbia of the Yukon Territory and part of the Northwest Territories.

The world was going through a period of evolution now which no one could understand, said the Premier but surely events must transpire whereby might and right would prevail over might alone.

In the matter of defence, it was no use recriminating about past mistakes. Mistakes must be made and money must be spent before efficiency could be obtained. Governments must co-operate these days irrespective of political aspects.

In addition to dealing with present problems, it was necessary to take thought of what must be done after the war is over.

Will Never Quit

Speaking for himself personally, Mr. Pattullo said: "I don't think I'll ever quit the office I am in to-

Vancouver Fishermen Reject Season's Salmon Bid—Session Here

VANCOUVER, June 19: (CP)—The price schedule for the 1941 salmon fishing season offered fishermen a week ago by the salmon canners has been rejected by the British Columbia Fishermen's Protective Association, Secretary F. Rolley said last night. Other fishermen's organizations said they would take similar action. Negotiations here will be at a standstill until Monday when the canners' committee, going north to confer with fishermen there, returns from Prince Rupert.

Executive officers of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia arrived in Prince Rupert today to confer with the canners' committee due in Prince Rupert tomorrow. They are meeting this afternoon to finally complete their case. The officers here are: Alfred Adams of Massett, president of the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia; Caleb Williams, Bella Bella, vice-president; Paul Price, Port Simpson, vice-president; Heber Clifton of Hartley Bay, honorary president, and his son, Eddie Clifton; Ambrose Reid, Port Simpson, business agent; Henry Bailey, Port Simpson, general secretary; Alfred Wesley, corresponding secretary; William Jeffery, Port Simpson; general treasurer; Johnson Russ, Hayman MacKay and Peter Calder of Greenville.

ASSAULT IS KEEPING UP

Royal Air Force Continues to Pound Mercilessly at Reich and Nazi Controlled Territory

LONDON, June 19: (CP)—Royal Air Force bombers, carrying out what residents of an area around a southeast coast English town called "big stuff," streamed across Dover Straits yesterday afternoon to renew punishment of Northern France and invasion bases. The explosions seemed to lift small houses from their very foundations.

The attacks continued from the afternoon into the eighth successive night of the assault.

The British planes struck heavily at Boulogne and other objectives and moved on to start large fires at Bremen and explode heavy bombs across the docks at Brest.

It was one of the most vigorous overnight air raids of the Royal Air Force, the Air Ministry announced today.

Nine German planes were brought down since yesterday afternoon while the British lost four.

Authoritative sources said yesterday that Royal Air Force bombers attacked targets in Western Germany during Tuesday night in the seventh successive night raid. Bombings were admitted in Berlin where German sources said damage was done to residential districts.

Total subscriptions for Victory Loan 1941 in Prince Rupert up to Wednesday night were $343,000 the sum of $16,000 having been added during yesterday. With the application lists closing on Saturday, there is every reason to believe that Prince Rupert will go over the top as far as its quota of $350,000 is concerned but efforts are now being made to make the total as large as possible, at least $400,000 being aimed at.

Invasion Reported— SITUATION NOT CLEAR IN SOVIET

Humiliating Demands Said to Have Been Made in Berlin Ultimatum On Moscow

June 19: (CP)—While Germany is reliably reported to have served an ultimatum upon Russia demanding sweeping territorial and economic concessions from the Soviet which would make Russia an economic vassal of the Reich, there were reports of the massing of Nazi and Soviet forces on the frontiers.

A dispatch last night from the usually reliable Reuters News Agency said there were unconfirmed reports in Turkey that German armies had already launched an attack against Russia at fifteen points in the eastern frontier. Neither British official sources in London or United States officials in Washington confirmed this report which started circulation early Wednesday.

Vast preparations which presented the indication that an eastern blitzkrieg might be impending were reported to include heavy movements of dive bombers and troop transports in Moravia.

The German ultimatum on Russia was reported to have included demand for the return of Bessarabia to Roumania, the turning over of the entire wheat surplus of the Ukraine to the Reich and the admission of German experts and technicians to control the railways and oil and mineral industries of the Soviet.

Rumania was said to have served a separate ultimatum demanding the return of Bessarabia.

FINLAND IS IN UPROAR

Frantic Movement of Armed Forces Suggest Early Outbreak in Baltic Area

LONDON, June 19: (CP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Gothenburg, Sweden, today quoted a message from Stockholm as saying travelers from Russia to Finland had reported "frantic mobilization" along the railway line from Moscow to Leningrad. The railway line was reported blocked by troops and material.

Helinski reported that Finnish reserves were called at midnight and the government sharply curtailed civilian train traffic soon after to facilitate military preparations.

Meanwhile a British naval blockade has been clamped down on the Finnish port of Petsamo in view of large numbers of German troops passing through there to take up residence in Finland. Already three Finnish vessels have been intercepted and detained.

Washington D. C. learned that Finland had broken away from the League of Nations.

War of Surprises - - -

It is a war of nerves. It is also a war of surprises. Today does not know what the morrow may bring. The unforeseen is always bobbing up. Nothing seems impossible any more.

We have been suspicious about Turkey for some time. However, we have been hopeful through a welter of intrigue and propaganda. About all we know about it now is that Turkey seems to be trying to play both sides. But that is only temporary. Turkey cannot be friendly with both sides. If she co-operates with Germany she is no longer our friend. There is little use in consoling ourselves that it might have been worse. If Turkey concedes only a little bit to Hitler now, she will soon be his slave, unwilling or otherwise.

Russia is still enigmatic. There are various stories. Many of them are pure propaganda, designed to divert attention, develop uncertainty, bring about unguardedness. We may still be sure that Moscow, like Berlin, is letting the world know only what it wants the world to know. Possibly, we would be wise not to take too much stock in Russia. Nothing good for us can come out of Russia, we are still convinced.

A week ago or less we said this war would have to be won by Great Britain, with the assistance of her refugee allies and—the United States. There is nothing in these latest Nazi-Communist antics to change that view. Stalin may become Hitler's vassal like Mussolini and the others, but never our good friend.

IN ENGLAND THESE DAYS

Letter Illustrates What They Have To Put Up With Now

The following letter, received by a local lady, shows what they have to put up with in England these days while Canadians are only asked to invest savings in three-percent Victory Bonds:

"So much time seems to be spent in shopping and, if you do not go each morning, you miss whatever happens to be going but it does take up so much time. For instance, yesterday morning I was ever so busy and, just after 11, my neighbor called me and told me the butcher had got a few sausages and, if I wanted any, I had better hurry along. She would have brought them but the butcher wanted me to choose my joint. This week we are allowed a shilling's worth of meat each so I chose half a leg of mutton which came to 3 and 1d. That was put away for me for tomorrow and I was allowed one-half pound of sausages which I brought home. This morning I had to go around to the dairy to see if I could get any eggs. I managed to get three. I shall not get any more until next Friday.

"We are now rationed for jam, marmalade and treacle—8 ounces per person per month and also for cheese, one ounce per person per week. I expect biscuits will be the next thing. They are very difficult to get, especially sweet ones. Lemons and oranges and onions I haven't seen for months. Dates are very scarce, raisins I haven't seen for a long time. All dried fruits are scarce, so is suet and golden syrup, condensed milk is hard to get, so is honey. I am not allowed jam one account of the sugar. I have so much acidity in my system so I have to have honey and now I have to go to Tottenham for that. It is Australian. The owner of the shop bought a quantity of this honey, put it up in 1 pound jars and sells it at one shilling sixpence. I have put two or three jars away. I expect there will be a demand for it. Now that jam, etc. is rationed, there is not enough of it.

"Yes, paper is getting scarce and the quality of the writing paper is not so good.

We now have one-quarter pound of butter each week instead of two ounces but only one-quarter ounce of margarine, instead of a half—so, what we gained on the round-a-bouts, we lost on the swings. Sweets are not very plentiful, especially milk chocolates and they are just double the price. Apples are 9 pence and one shilling a pound. Haven't seen a banana for months. Still as long as we beat the Germans and win this war, that is all that matters.

"A fortnight ago we had a bad raid but fortunately no bombs were dropped near these houses. I think the nearest were about ten minutes' walk from here. Since then we have had quiet nights except for last night, we had a warning during the evening but, before we went to bed, the "All Clear" sounded. We had another warning after we got into bed. An enemy plane or two came over, our guns barked for a time but soon after 1 o'clock the "All Clear" sounded, we did not hear it as we were fast asleep.

"Mrs. Weeks had been very ill but is getting better, in spite of being nearly 85. They had not suffered from air raids, except once some time ago, when an incendiary bomb dropped down their chimney. It burnt several things."

New Heraldry In War Badges

Present-Day Soldiers Carry Them On Their Shoulders Instead of Shields

LONDON, June 19: (CP)—Modern war has its heraldry just as had the war of King Arthur's knights, but now the heraldic blazons are carried on the shoulders of the fighting men instead of on their shields.

An observer tells of attending a troop broadcast. "There were men on leave from all regiment, units and countries of the British Commonwealth, gathered impromptu from the Y.M.C.A. and other clubs for servicemen.

"Every man present bore on his shoulder a different, mystical badge that had apparently no relation to his regiment, such as the Royal Artillery, the Toronto Scottish, and the like."

One soldier bore on either shoulder a red witch riding her broomstick across a cloudy sky. On the shoulders of another was a sign which, in the language of the old heraldry, would probably have been described as a red fish on a field of azure, or a red porpoise gallivanting on a blue and white sea.

Pittsburg Challenger Had Heavyweight Belt In His Grasp

Had Brown Bomber Beaten and Then Gambled by Trying to Match Punches and is Beaten Down to Canvas

NEW YORK, June 19: (CP)—For fleeting golden moments last night Billy Conn of Pittsburg held the heavyweight championship of the world in his grasp. Then Billy gambled, trying to match punches with Joe Louis, and the big negro snapped out of his lethargy and knocked Conn kicking in the thirteenth round.

Conn, 174 pounds was well in front when the end came, having danced around Louis for half the distance. He tied him up in clinches and then came on to slap the Brown Bomber's teeth out.

In the thirteenth Conn, thinking he was in, rushed heedless from his corner to be staggered by a left hook, followed by everything Louis had, until the challenger crumbled to the canvas.

SPORT CHAT

Baseball's No. 1 Comebacker of the year is William Malcolm Dickey. Many thought that the tall, easy-going New York Yankee catcher's days were numbered as they watched him dragging his heels last year. Bill looked terrible. He couldn't hit and he looked like a slow freight on the bases. He wound up with a puny .247 average. Just a half dozen more timely hits by Bill might have won the 1940 pennant for the Yanks, who finished only two games back of Detroit.

Some thought Bill had just run down at 33 after 11 years with New York. Others figured he was worried about his health. Lou Gehrig was Bill's road trips room-mate and when husky Lou was stricken in his prime the blow struck Dickey harder than any of Lou's other friends. But there was nothing wrong with Bill. Apparently he realized this during the off season and determined to get into shape for more good seasons. Lots of golf and hunting around his Arkansas home built up his legs and he reported in fine condition. And he has been belting the ball from the getway. He was one of the league's five top hitters, with a .375 average, as the campaign moved into June.

For years experts gave said that although Ruth and Gehrig and DiMaggio were the headline stars, the real backbone of the Yankees was Dickey. As long as he went well, the club could take slumps by the others. The Yankees have been a hot-and-cold so far this year but they're still within reaching distance of the league leaders, and if Bill keeps hitting and the others finally come up with a surge to match his pace, the Yanks may overhaul Cleveland and Chicago.

Battling rivals should remember that in Bill's many years with the Yankees he finished under 300 only one time before last year. That was in 1935, when he hit .279, and Bill came back to bang out a .362 average the following year. Other successful comebackers this year are Roy Cullenbine of the Browns, Joe Cronin of the Red Sox, Jeff Heath of the Indians, Jimmy Wasdell of the Dodgers, Lee Handley of the Pirates and Don Padgett of the Cardinals.

LOAN NEAR OBJECTIVE

Subscriptions For Canada Up To $586,700,600—British Columbia Over Top

OTTAWA, June 19: (CP)—Total subscriptions to the Victory Loan are now $586,700,600. Yesterday more than $47,900,000 was subscribed including $20,000,000 from the Sun Life Assurance Co.

British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Manitoba were the first provinces yesterday to go over the top.

British Columbia and Yukon Victory Loan quota of sixty million dollars was exceeded by half million dollars last night according to official announcement by Austin Taylor of Vancouver, chairman. Officials, however, stressed imperative necessity of over-subscription in order to prove that Canada is solidly behind Britain in her magnificent and heroic struggle. Victory Loan lists close at midnight Saturday June 21. "Those who have not yet invested should do so immediately. Every dollar is needed to provide the tools that Britain needs to stem the tide of Hitler's fury," said Taylor.

Vancouver city, dragging behind the rest of the province in response, last night had subscribed $10,500,000 out of a quota of $15,000,000. Two workmen's areas in the East End were leading the city, having gone over the top.

By divisions, the standings in British Columbia last night in order were Okanagan, North Vancouver Island, Kootenay, Vancouver suburban, New Westminster and Fraser Valley, Prince Rupert and Yukon, Lower Vancouver Island, Cariboo and Vancouver City.

WORKERS ALL:

Back up our

Fighting Men

Their cause is yours

• This is a mechanized war. Never before has the responsibility for the outcome of a war fallen so squarely upon the shoulders of those who toil in workshop or office, factory or farm. Proudly labour has accepted the challenge. Throughout the land, night and day, rises the clang of metal and the tireless hum of industry — of men and women at work.

Canada's war effort calls for huge sums of money. To turn back the tide of tyranny, to protect your right to be free, more ships and planes are needed, more tanks and guns, more food for soldier, sailor and airman. You, the worker, are asked to invest your savings, and some of your wages, in Victory Bonds. You are not asked to give, but to lend. All of Canada is your security for repayment. A good rate of interest and a gratified sense of loyalty are your rewards. Invest generously and cheerfully.

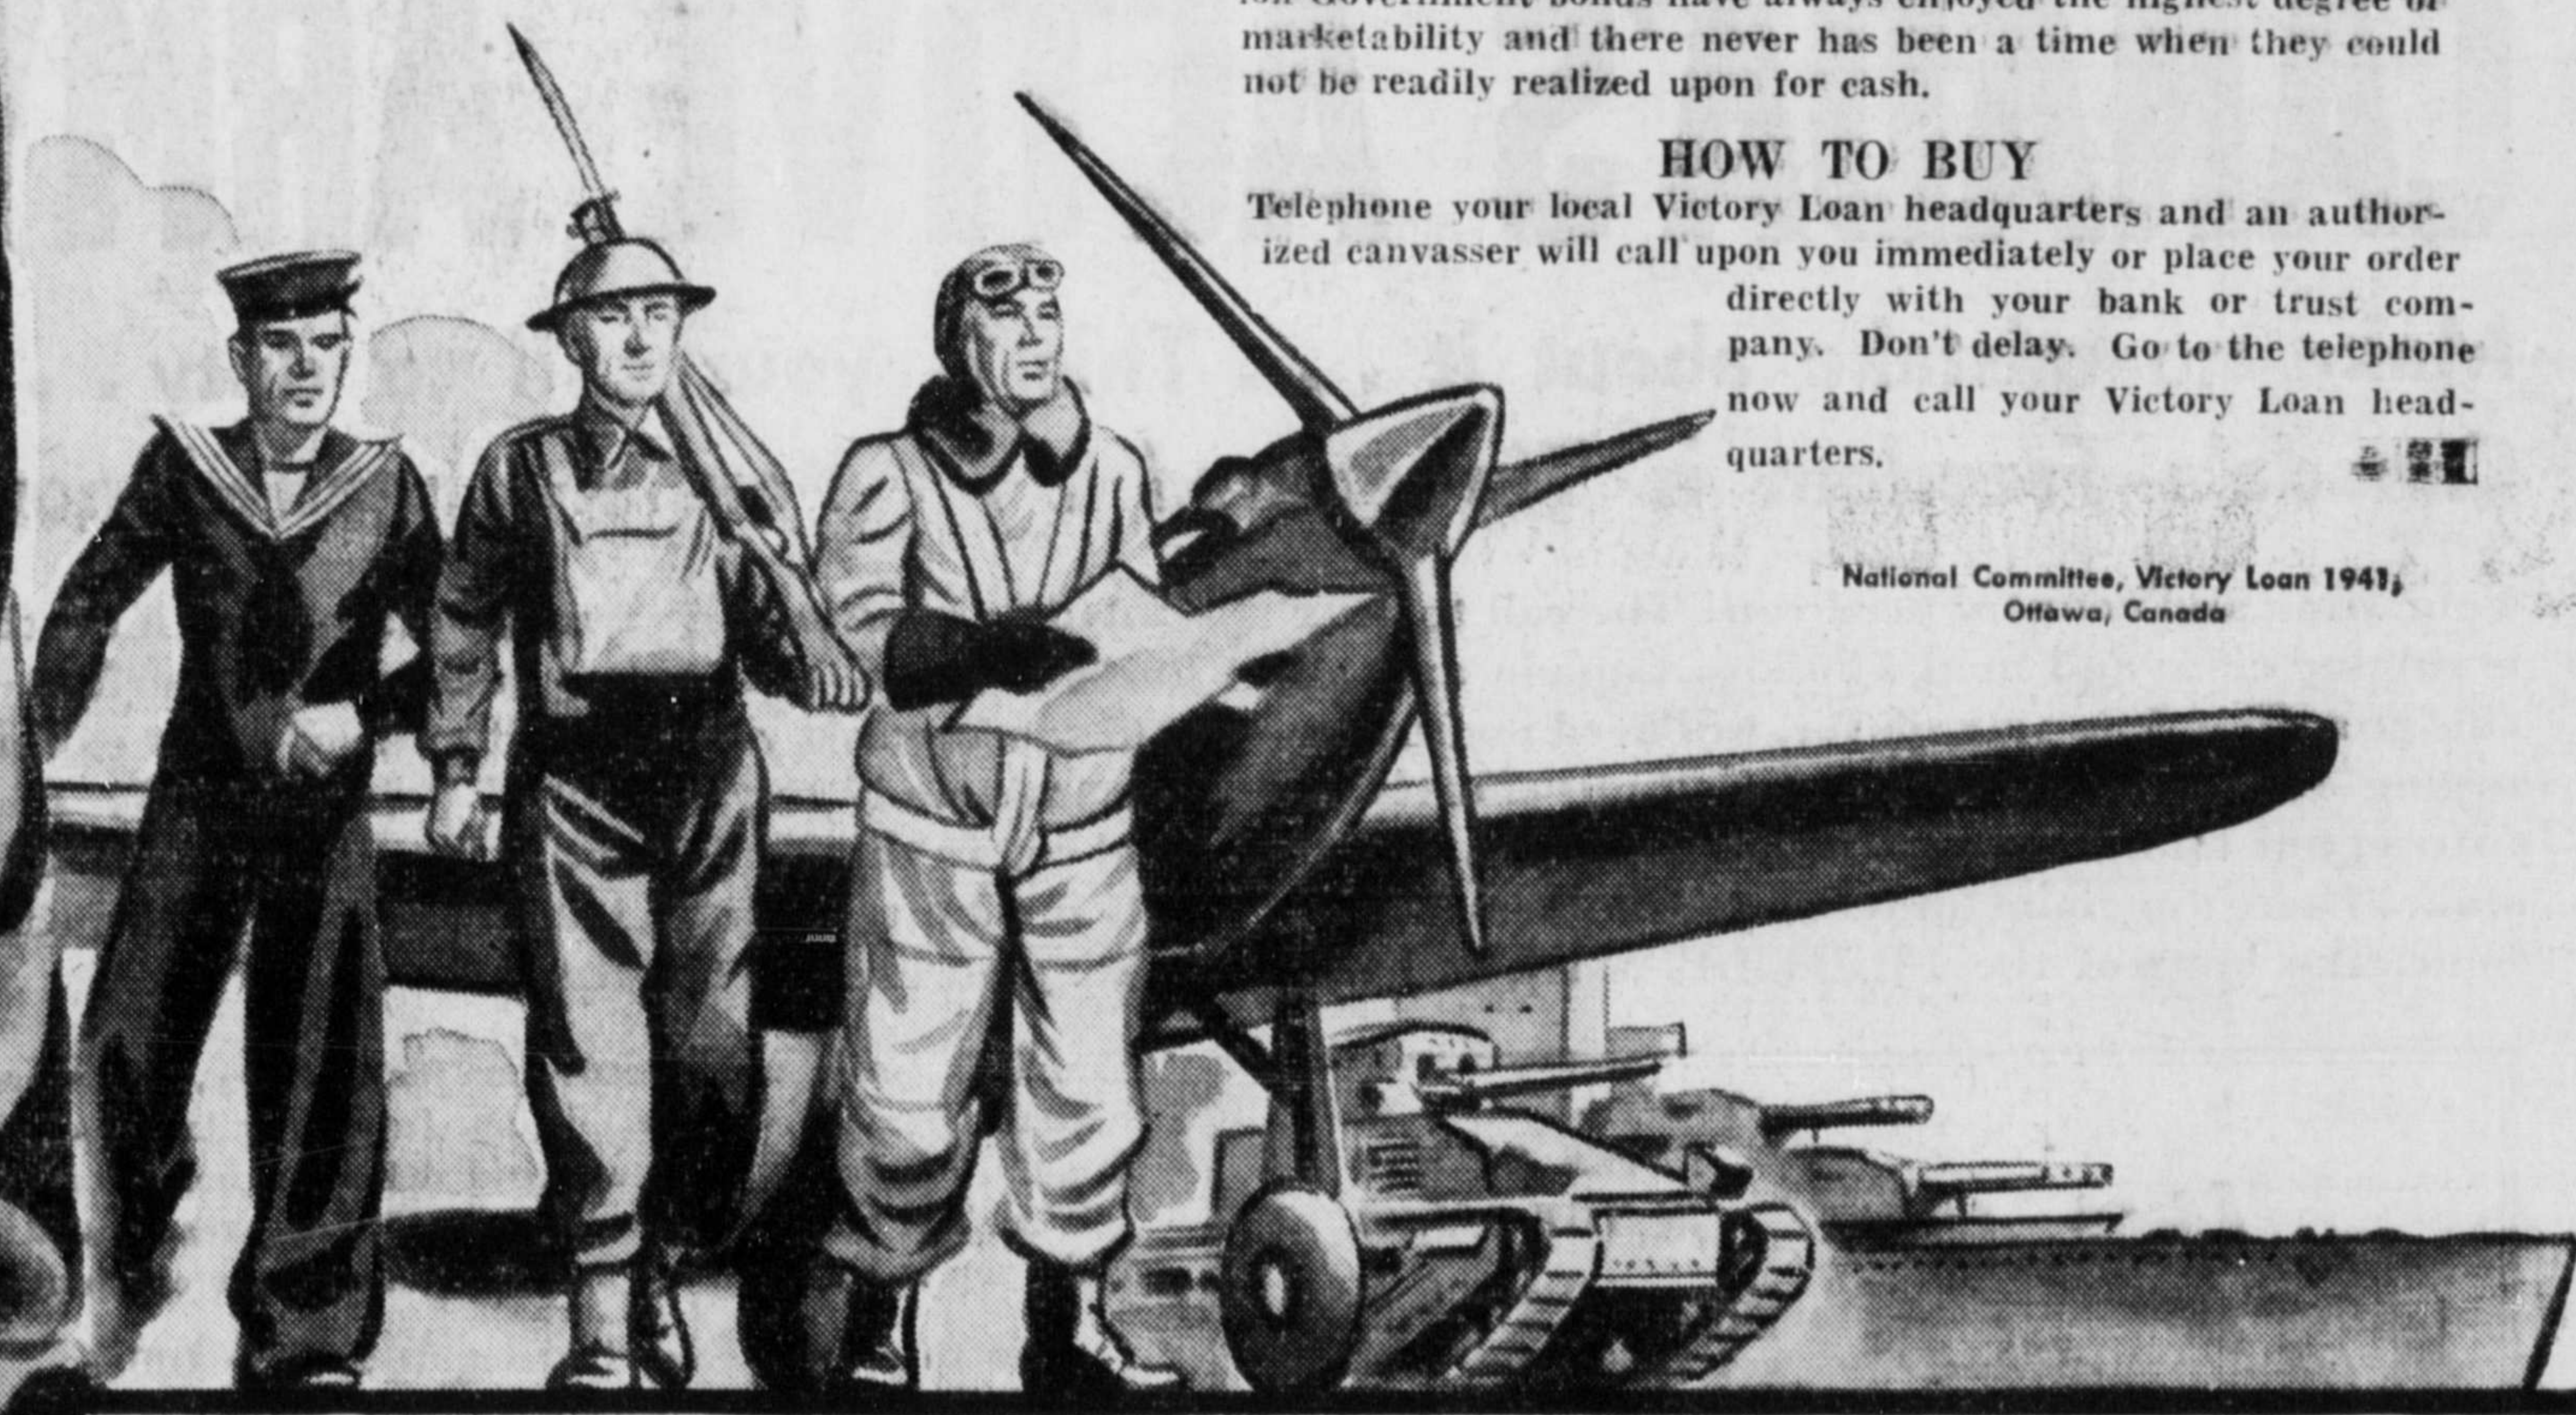

Act now. Make sure your dollars will have a glorious share in helping to crush the barbaric power that would make slaves of free men.

10 per cent cash and the balance in monthly instalments. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100 and $1,000 and larger. If as a result of unforeseen contingencies you are unable to meet the instalment payment a loan may be arranged with your bank with your Victory Bond as collateral security. Dominion Government bonds have always enjoyed the highest degree of marketability and there never has been a time when they could not be readily realized upon for cash.

HOW TO BUY

Telephone your local Victory Loan headquarters and an authorized canvasser will call upon you immediately or place your order directly with your bank or trust company. Don't delay. Go to the telephone now and call your Victory Loan headquarters.

PICTURING OF JASPER

Camera Enthusiasts Take Mountain Resort By Storm

JASPER PARK, June 12.—Bringing with them sufficient colored still film to make 12,000 individual photographs as well as enough black and white film to "shoot" 10,000 pictures, more than 30 camera enthusiasts from various parts of the United States arrived at Jasper Park Lodge in the heart of the Canadian Rockies yesterday. Heading the American Camera enthusiasts was Ivan Dmitri, celebrated American photographer and master color lensman.

This camera tour, first of its kind ever attempted on a large scale in North America, was organized by Dmitri, whose color pictures are known to the readers of practically all magazines in the United States, in behalf of popular Photography Magazine.

Lensmen—and women, too—from New York, Washington, New England, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Los Angeles and St. Paul are included in Dmitri's party which will remain in Jasper National Park for a week.

Nothing in Jasper will escape the lenses of Dmitri's group if any indication of what is to come for, no sooner had the "watch the birdie please" fans left the continental Limited at Jasper's alpine railway station, than genial Tom MacDonald the "man with the ten gallon hat" and almost a Jasper landmark, was shot from all directions and angles.

Exhausting "Tom" as a pioneer Jasper subject the fans next let loose with color film on the brilliant flowers and shrubs around the lodge and then, as two huge black bears ambled across the lawn, flowers were forgotten and the bears had a busy few minutes.

Affections were next transferred to three mule deer which were cheating on the ground's keepers, as they nibbled tender shrub's sprouts.

While in Jasper Dmitri and his group will make a number of camera expeditions to points of interest including the Columbia Icefields, Mount Edith Cavell, and the Glacier of the Angels as well as the Pocohontas game trail.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

The Massett boat F. M. S. was in port yesterday, those on board being Oscar Smith, Tom Smith and Eddie Collison. The F. M. S. arrived in the morning and left in the evening on its return to the Islands.

Inaugurating the company's summer tourist service to Alaska, C. N. R. steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. Neil McLean, arrived in port at 8:30 yesterday morning from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and sailed at 1 o'clock in the afternoon for Skagway and other northern points whence she will return here next Monday southbound. The vessel's passenger list consisted largely of round trip tourists of whom there were well over one hundred.

"Night Train To Munich" And "Bad Little Angel" Showing At Capitol Theatre

Carried Out Interesting Visit To Corps Before Leaving City Last Night

"Night Train to Munich," a fascinating thriller with delightful comedy and romantic scenes, and "Bad Little Angel," a poignant human drama of childhood, are double-billed on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here tonight and Friday, making an interesting combination.

Rex Harrison, popular British actor, is the star of "Night Train to Munich" which centres on the activities of the German Admiralty which succeeds in kidnapping from England a famous Czech inventor whose skill is essential to the rearmament plans of both countries. Harrison plays the part of the daring British secret service agent who attempts to rescue the inventor and his daughter, played by Margaret Lockwood. Suspense is entirely derived from danger inherent to a situation in which the British agent rises as a Nazi major, associating with high German officials and running constant risk of being exposed in his desperate endeavour. His adventures and ultimate success make for pulse-pounding entertainment.

"Bad Little Angel," in which Virginia Weidler has the title role, is the story of a little orphanage waif whose faith and courage so affect the lives of those around her that the problems are solved. The cast includes Lois Wilson, Guy Kibbee, Ian Hunter, Elizabeth Patterson, Reginald Owen and Henry Hull. The famous little dog "Toto," which was seen in "Wizard of Oz," also takes part in this picture.

Last evening before he left for the interior following his visit to Prince Rupert, Premier T. D. Pattullo conducted a brief inspection of the local Sea Cadet Corps which turned out in full numbers and with customary smartness with Lieut. Gordon Calderwood in charge. R. M. Winslow, chairman of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, introduced Mr. Pattullo, who made brief but suitable remarks, complimenting the corps on its fine appearance and mentioning the importance of the training which its members were receiving.

Later the entire corps participated in the nightly retreat ceremony at the Victory Loan dug-out on Third Avenue, parading up and then back to naval headquarters for the regular weekly drill night.
