Making The World Better . . .

There are a lot of very well meaning people who are always trying to make the world better and they set about it in different ways. Some say there can be no improvement except by dealing with each individually and gradually extending the movement. Others see the salvation of the world come through mass action, such as political movements. They think that, as money is said to be the root of all evil, if money were abolished everything would be lovely. Others fancy that the abolition of all private property would prove efficacious. We all know what happened when we abolished the sale of liquor in Canada.

Repeating Mistakes . . .

"It is merely stupid to make the same mistake twice. Yet in this war we see mistakes multiplied," says the Vancouver News Herald. "A week ago the world acclaimed the revolt of the JugoSlavs as the heroic rising of a free people. Seldom has there been such a spontaneous rejection of dictation and tyranny. But we did not know then that the JugoSlavs had too long delayed the moment of their decision. Their failure to co-ordinate and co-operate with the Greeks and the British was their military undoing. Thus the successive defeats of the JugoSlav armies come home with particular force.

"Britain and Greece fight on the defensive and at the disadvantage because the gates to Greece were opened suddenly by the collapse of resistance on the Vardar. This might have been avoided had the JugoSlav leaders and army chieftains opened their eyes earlier to the realities of the situation.

"The Germans possess no magic key to military success. They have really affirmed the old military axioms emphasizing the dictum that force is multiplied by speed. They have, however, understood that when you have produced the machines necessary to give armies the speed required you must have men trained to man them.

"Have we clearly understood that? Or are we here in Canada and the United States still marking time firm in our belief that great armies from this continent will not be required to win the war? Industrially Canada's production capacities have been commandeered in an enormous mobilization of energies perhaps not yet fully appreciated. Our potentialities as the source of the Empire's food supply are enormous.

"But in a military sense our approach seems less assured. Our leaders ask for 6,000 volunteers a month—an appeal that will probably be heeded. In addition there is the four-months training scheme, an approach to conscription less satisfactory from a military standpoint than the far-reaching draft of the United States where men are called to the colors for a year.

"Are our men best employed in the arsenals? Have we enough to keep the production lines turning? Or should we be training more for services overseas and home defense? Is the voluntary system of recruiting for the active service force really adequate? Let us face these questions now. Let us answer them before it is too late."

BUSIEST MAN IN BRITAIN

This Is Lord Stamp, Bombing Victim, Was Described

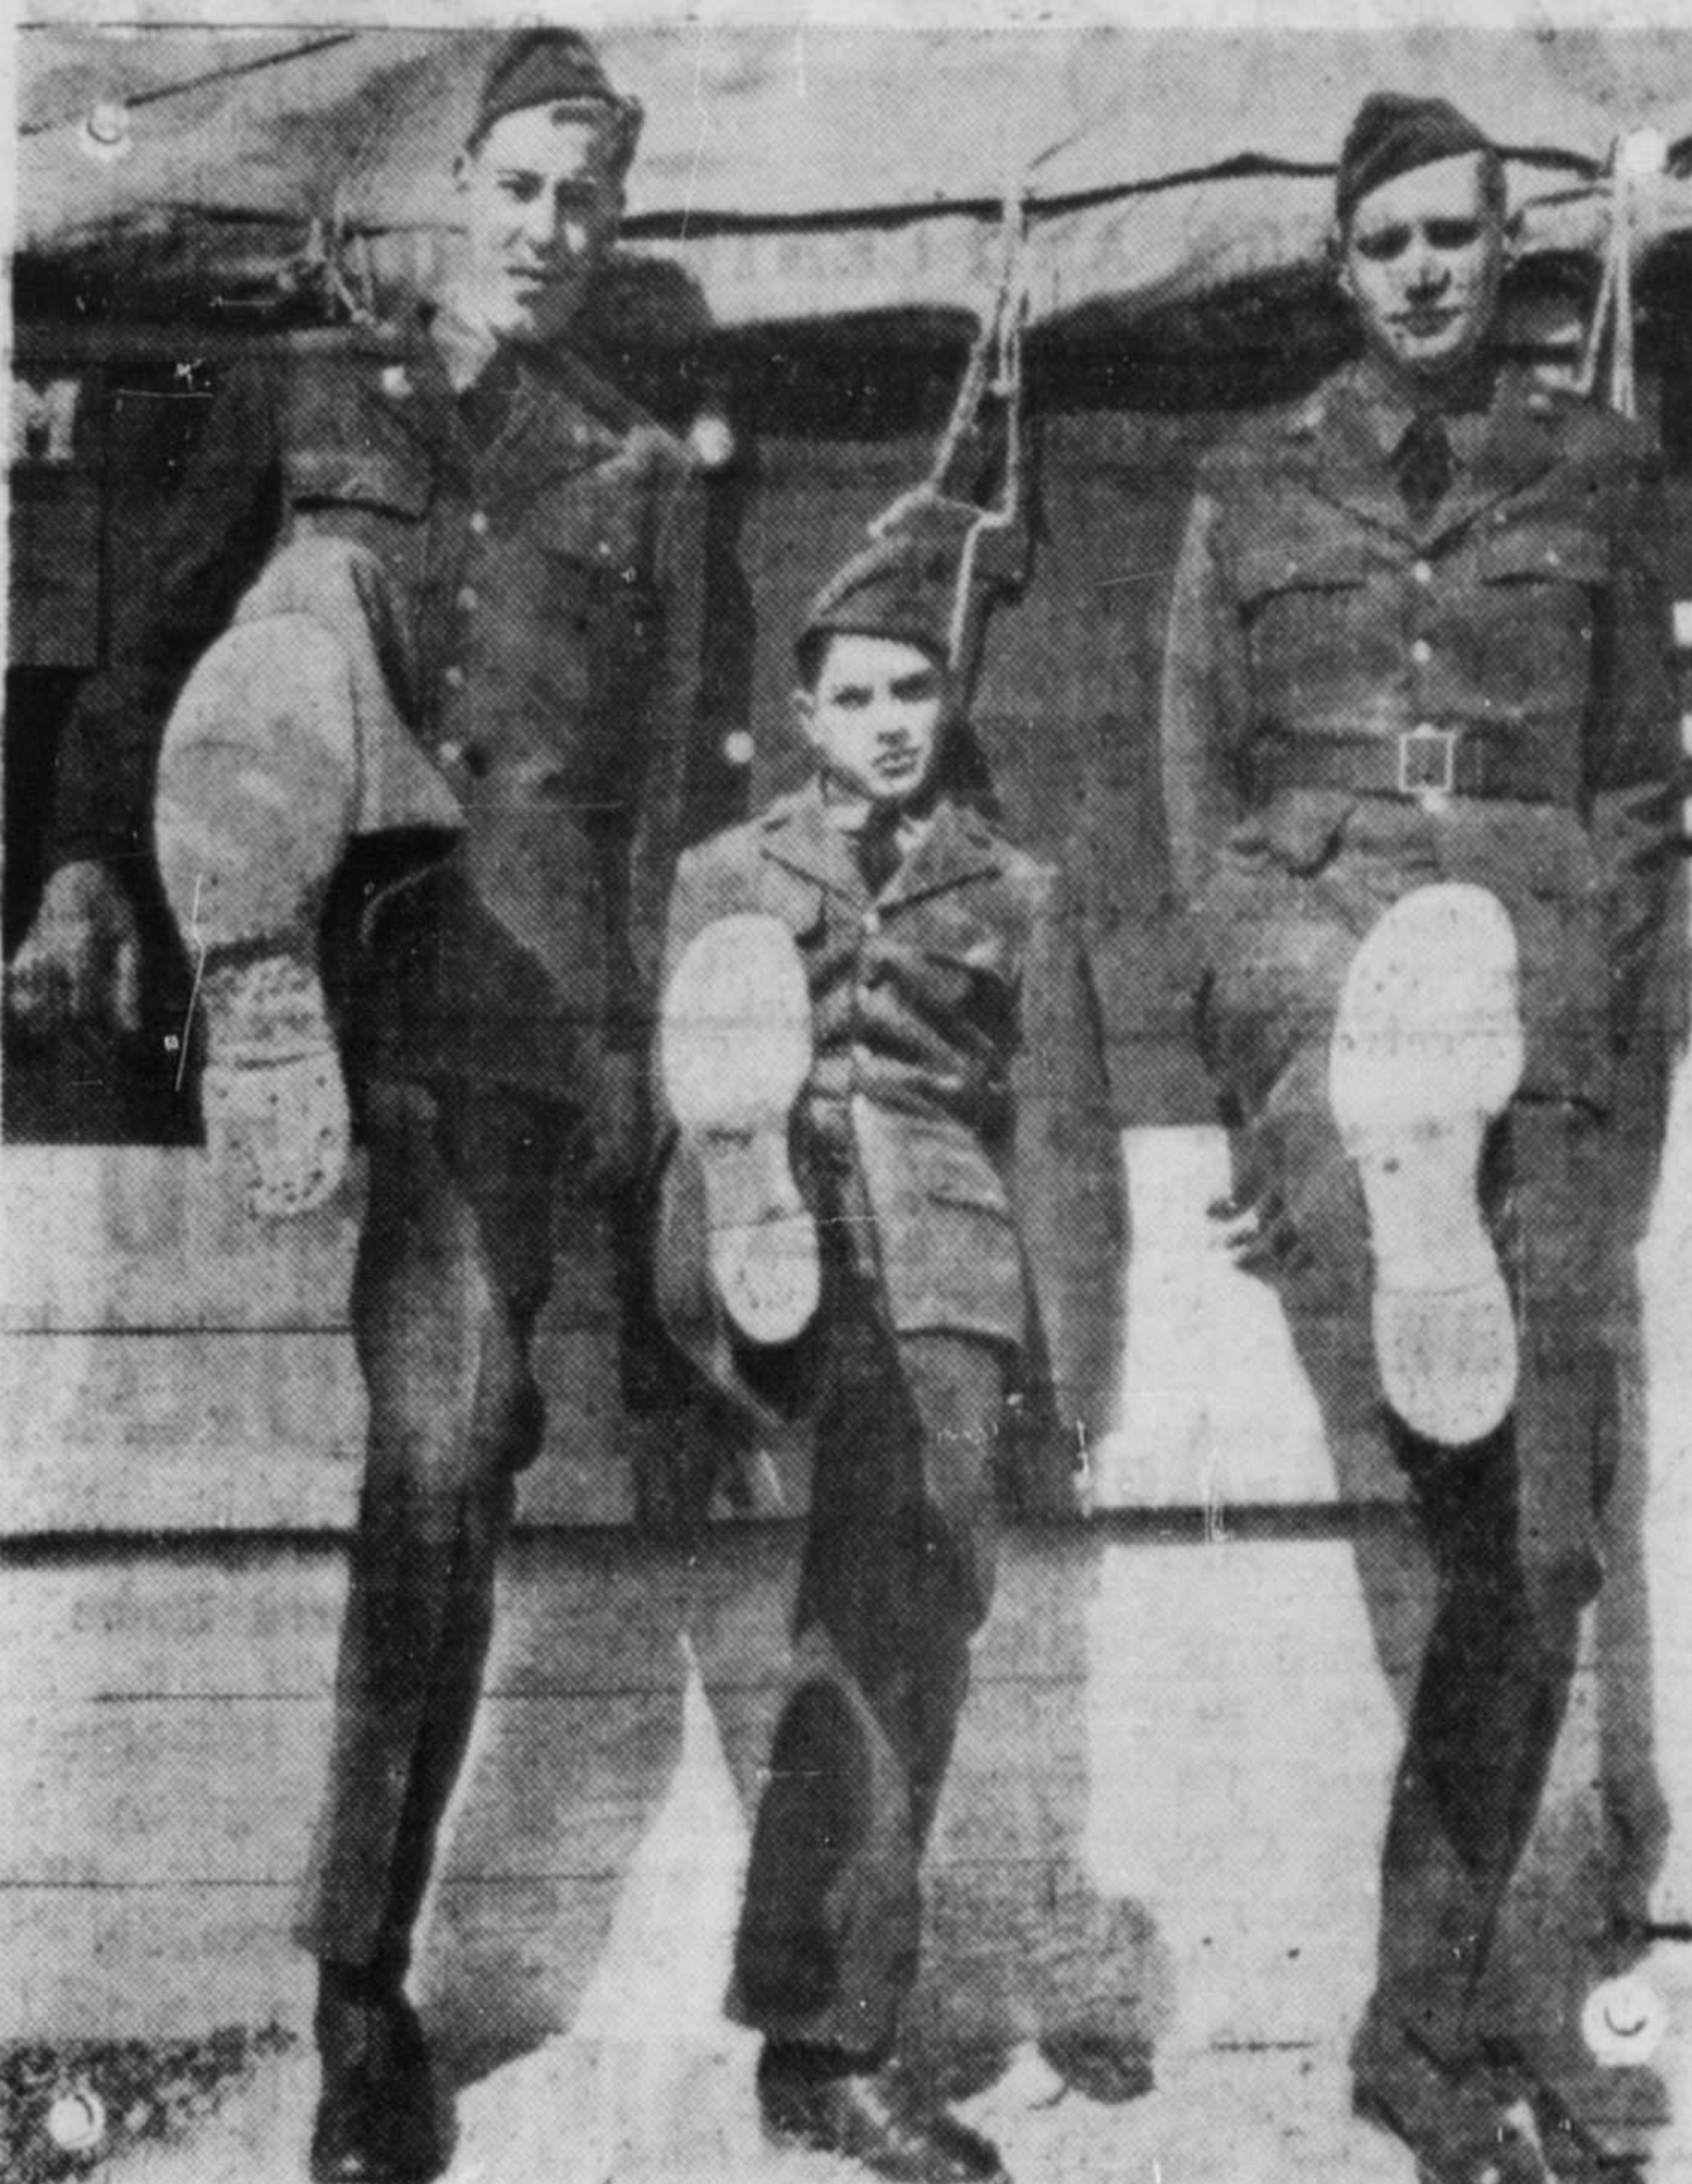

LONDON, April 18.—Economist, statistician, author, lecturer, director of the Bank of England, chairman of railways and many industrial boards and war adviser, Baron Stamp, Lord of Shortlands, killed by bombing in his home in Kent, was the busiest man in Great Britain.

He was credited with never having refused a job or a position and was equally at home in the directors' rooms of banks and corporations, lecturing before learned societies, presiding as president of the British Association For The Advancement Of Science or occupying the chair at religious assemblies. Stenographers said his speeches were delivered at the rate of nearly 300 words a minute.

Strongly built, with square shoulders and a jutting jaw, a non-smoker and teetotaler, he inspired confidence among business men and government officials. His views were sought, quoted and followed on both sides of the Atlantic and in the Antipodes. He made frequent trips to the United States, Canada and Australia.

husband, once gave a key to his career when she told a girls club in London:

"All the first years of our married life every morning was spent at home while my husband pored over books. He even matriculated as a student at London University after our first baby was born."

He was 40 before his efforts began to bear real fruit. Then he jumped from the civil service to industry, was knighted four times and on June 9, 1938, while he was at sea enroute to the United States, was raised to the peerage, becoming Lord Stamp of Shortlands.

Years in Government

He was born June 21, 1880, in Bexley, a town in Kent, England. At 16, as Josiah Charles Stamp, he won a clerkship in the department of inland revenue and, except for the years 1898-1900, when he was in the marine department of the Board of Trade, he worked on taxes until March, 1919, a stretch of 23 years. The last five years of his government service, embracing the World War period, he was assistant secretary of the revenue bureau.

His entry into the business world was as secretary and director of Nobel Industries, Ltd., 1919-1926. Then he went to Imperial Chemical Industries and from there to dozens of places in British commercial life. His posts included the chairmanship of the London, Scottish and Midland Railway which paid $75,000 a year.

In December, 1923, he was named British member of a board of experts appointed by the reparations commission to determine Germany's capacity to pay for the World War. In June, 1924, he helped draft the Dawes plan for collection of German payments and five years later represented Great Britain at the reparations conference in Paris which evolved the Young plan and the Bank For International Settlements.

Stamp was married in 1903 to Olive March and four sons were born to them. Lady Stamp won recognition in her own right as a justice of the peace in Kent, president of the National Free Church Women's Council and as governor of University College, Aberystwyth.

Cool Towards New Deal
Her husband won a bachelor of science degree from London University in 1911 and a doctorate in 1916. He had honorary degrees from Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh and Leeds in Great Britain; from McGill, Toronto and Western Ontario in Canada; from Harvard, Columbia, California, Northwestern Syracuse, Duke and Washington & Lee in the United States and from Athens, Greece, and Lisbon, Portugal. He was a Knight of Grace, Order of St. John of Jerusalem and possessed the grand star of the Austrian Order of Merit.

Baron Stamp always kept in close touch with affairs in the United States. In the early days of the New Deal he saw much to be commended in the program but by 1935 he was doubtful of its wisdom. On June 9, 1938, as he arrived at New York from England, he said the political attitude of Americans—"you think of your politics emotionally"—was a factor in the "recession," adding:

"It is difficult here to discuss anything without having Roosevelt brought into it. A conversation can start with Plato and come around to him."

REGARDING STREAMLINING

NEW YORK, April 18: (CP) — Now that fashions are feminine again, and frills and burliwalls take away that tailored look, it is time to think of streamlining. You can do that by shopping for slims when looking for a new frock, settling the diet business with your doctor, and getting advice from him on how much exercising you can do.

Quintuplets Are Seen On Screen

Captivating Feature on Current Program at Capital Theatre—Pictures of Norway Raid

A captivating feature of the current program on the screen of the Capitol Theatre is a film about the Dionne quintuplets, bringing moviegoers up to date on these very popular young Canadian ladies who are now nearing their seventh birthday. The film is narrated by Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo and, in addition to some scenes of their earlier life, there are new pictures. The quints are seen knitting socks for soldiers and singing the chorus of "There'll Always be an England." Some of the Capitol patrons last night were heard to remark that the Dionne film was alone worth the price of admission.

There is also an exceptionally good news reel on this bill, featuring unusual pictures of a recent foray by the Royal Navy on the German-occupied Lofoten Islands on the Norway coast.

EASTER AT KINCOLITH

Rededication of Newly Renovated Church by Bishop of Kincolith - First of Many Features

KINCOLITH, April 18.—Observed the Easter season at Kincolith featured by the rededication of the newly renovated church by the Bishop of Kincolith, Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix D.D., and many other events leading to the celebration of Easter over a period of several days.

More than three hundred persons were in the village of Kincolith for the rededication of the church. The Bishop, Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix D.D., presided at the ceremony. The church was dedicated in 1900 by the late Bishop William Fidaiey. The Easter proceedings started with a banquet given by the church on the evening preceding Good Friday. The Bishop, in re-dedicating the church, acknowledged gifts presented by the various societies from each of the visiting villages. The Greenville choir rendered part of the cantata, "The Messiah."

Easter dinner was provided all the visitors and all the people of Kincolith by the Women's Auxiliary of Kincolith. The Alyansh Harmonic Silver Band was in attendance, being conducted splendidly by Benjamin A. Monroe. The Salvation Army of Canyon City was in charge of a gospel afternoon service in the Church Army Hall.

In the evening the newly dedicated Christ Church was again crowded for vespers. Rev. Norman Green conducted the service and Bishop Rix gave the sermon on the subject of "The House of God." The choir was in attendance to render part of the cantata "Victory Divine." The choir was conducted by J. E. Stewart and soloists were Rolf Clayton, baritone, Ernest Stevens, tenor, Mrs. Alma Vahl, soprano, Mrs. Alice Haldane, contralto, and Mrs. Emma Nelson, soprano. Laymen from Greenville also took part in the service in the persons of Henry McKay, Samuel McKay, Sam Gray.

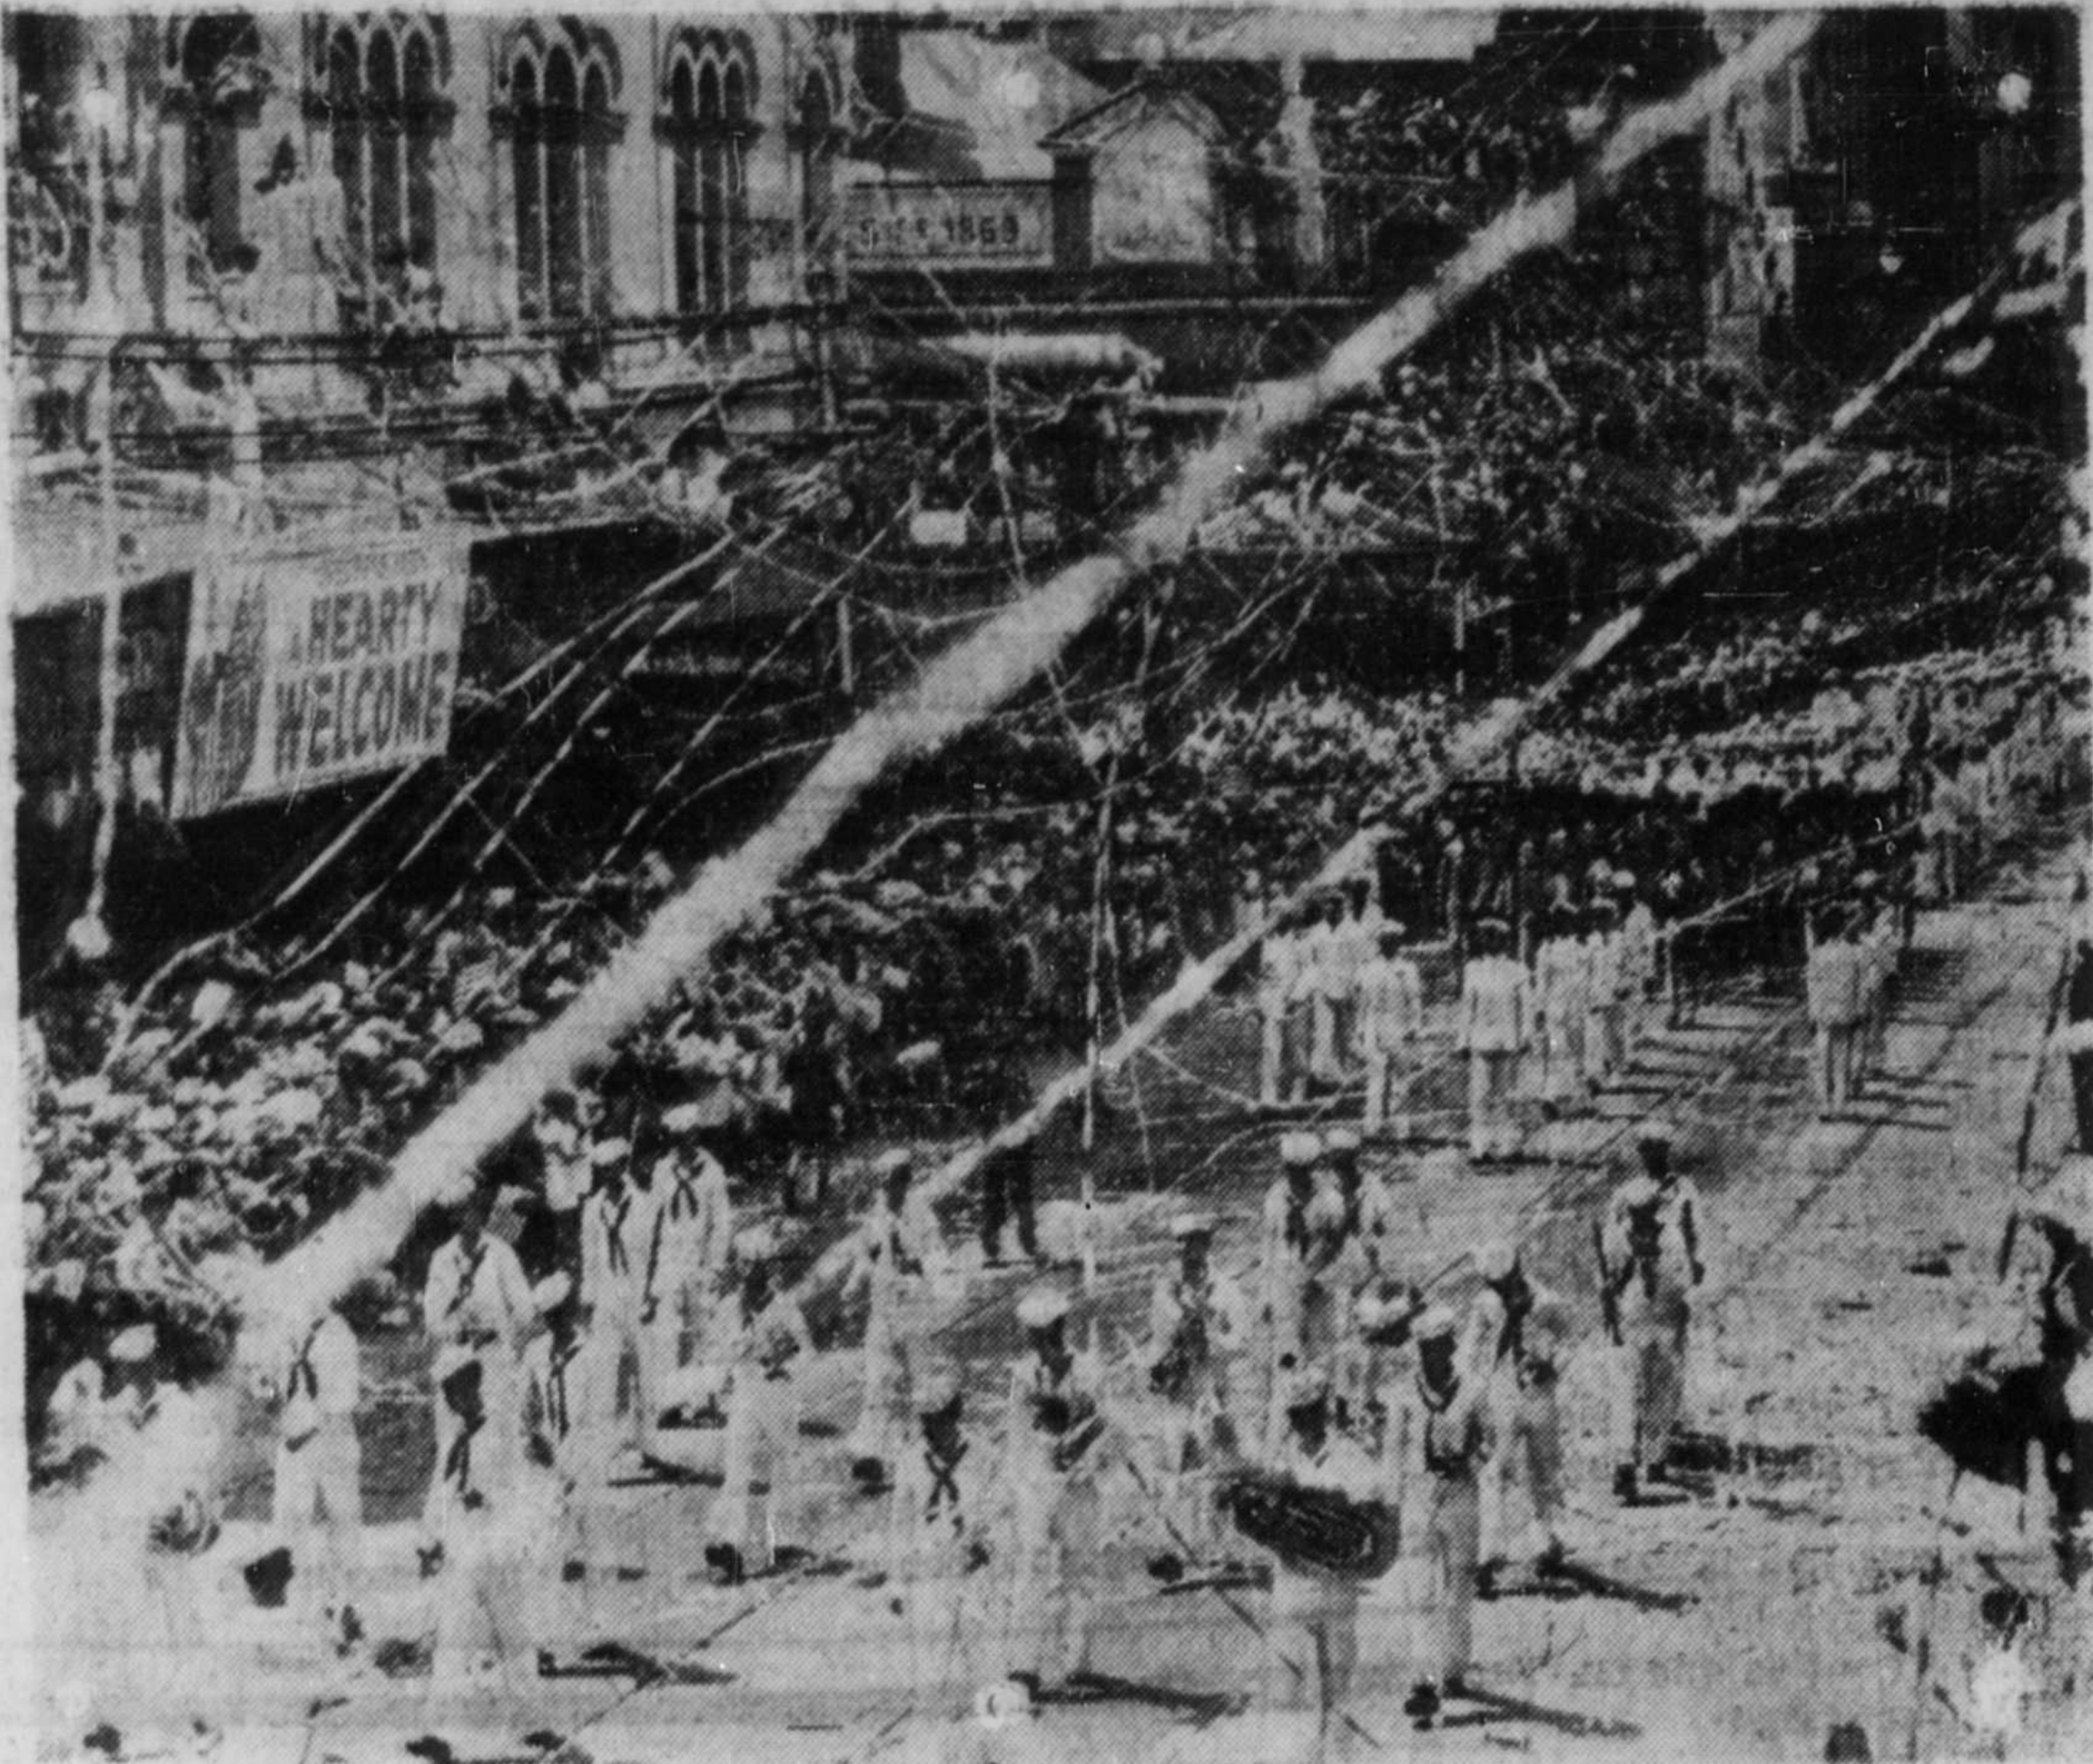

ing during the afternoon to represent the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia. Bishop Rix attended this important meeting and exhorted a settlement of the issue between the natives of the Nishga and Tsimpsan tribes. This proposal was welcomed and acted upon by both sides with a reunion taking place, the Church Army Band of Alyansh being present. Later supper was served by the Kincolith Club in the gymnasium, music being provided by the Greenville Band under the conductorship of Fred McKay. Their repertoire included some classical selections among them "Poet and Peasant" and "William Tell" overtures.

Early Easter Sunday morning Bishop Rix conducted Holy Communion, assisted by Rev. Norman Green, the rector of Kincolith. At 11 o'clock the church consecration service was carried out by the Bishop with a congregation of five hundred persons in attendance. The Greenville Band was in attendance playing selections. The Alyansh S. Bartholemew's Church choir rendered the anthem "Gloria." The Bishop, in re-dedicating the church, acknowledged gifts presented by the various societies from each of the visiting villages. The Greenville choir rendered part of the cantata, "The Messiah."

S. Mallinson, Indian Agent at Hazelton for the past two years, was obliged to make a hurried trip south for immediate attention to his eyes. He has suffered with his eyesight for several years and is now in some danger of becoming permanently afflicted.

The Bulkley Valley for the past month has enjoyed ideal spring weather and the farmers are busy getting their crops seeded in the hope of a bountiful harvest. Several nice showers of rain have assisted them in obtaining conditions making for a good start.

The Smithers Band played a concert at the Bulkley Valley Hospital on Thursday evening for the benefit of those who are confined in that institution at the present time. It was a repeat performance of the concert given last Monday evening in the local theatre which proved to be a very good musical success and was much applauded.

RANGE OF POULTRY

Advice Given By Superintendent Of Smithers Experimental Farm

SMITHERS, April 18.—The question of range for the birds is of great importance in the successful care of a flock of poultry on a farm. The practice of giving poultry on a mixed farm unlimited range is far from desirable. Rather than have the birds roam all over the place, scratch up the garden, lay in the stables or in the hay loft, they should be restricted to quarters of their own.

Though the poultryman who carries on the business on a large scale, may practice an intensive system whereby the birds in their first laying year are confined during that entire period, it is unlikely, where a system of mixed farming is carried on, that such a practice will be followed. Hence the question of range for the birds will demand attention at all times, says K. MacBean, superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Smithers.

Birds should not be allowed to roam over the same area two years in succession. They should be, if possible, on at least a three or four year rotation. Land that has carried birds through one season should be ploughed up and cultivated the following season and sown down to a succulent green crop for the use of the flock during the succeeding year. By alternating the range in this way the land is reconditioned, it is at least free of poultry every second year and an effort made to keep the soil as clean as possible.

In the long run such a system as outlined is not only desirable but in all probability will be found necessary. If birds are allowed to run over the same area year after year disease is likely to develop sooner or later. It is easier to prevent disease than control it. Accordingly, sanitary conditions must be maintained not only within the poultry house but also outside it. As polluted soil is a fruitful source of disease precautions should be taken to keep the soil as clean as possible. That cannot be done if birds are allowed to frequent the same range year after year or even two years in succession.

Easter Cantata At Burns Lake

Fine Presentation At Interior Town On Good Friday

BURNS LAKE, April 18.—An Easter cantata entitled "The Risen King" was ably presented in Burns Lake United Church by members of the choir and Sunday School on Good Friday night before a large and appreciative audience with B. E. Vald, acting as chairman.

The story was beautifully enacted in four garden scenes with brilliant oriental costuming adding to the effect. The sacred solos, duets and choruses, interspersed with the story, were well rendered by those taking part. The cast of characters was as follows: The Widow of Bethany, Miss Annie Lund; Peter, her crippled son, Herbert Ashcroft; Peter's sister Rachel, Thelma Eckland; Neighbors of Bethany, Mrs. R. Jewell, Miss Marguis, Mrs. B. McIntyre; Greek maidens, Jean Jatterson, Colleen Zielke; Scribes and Pharisees, Kenneth Smith, Gordon Stanyer, Walter Nichols; The High Priest, Tommy Smith; Children of Jerusalem, Glen Valde, Evelyn Eckland, Ivy Johnson, Kierkie Gowans, Shirley Penn, Victor Wileto, Betty Jean and Ann Loper, Marvin Ashcroft, Margaret Gowans, Edith Clark, Gerald Penn.

The music in connection with the Cantata was played by Mrs. Adam Crisp who also directed the performance.

During the intermissions between scenes Mrs. M. Nourse gave piano selections and accompanied congregational singing of Easter hymns. Mrs. James Clark sang "Stories of Jesus."

"THANK GOD FOR WEST"

East is Interesting and Attractive But B.C. is Best, Declares Dr. Mandy

"Thank God for British Columbia" was the title of an interesting address given by Dr. Joseph T. Mandy, resident mining engineer, yesterday afternoon, at the weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club. Dr. Neal Carter presiding. It proved of great interest to the members and visitors of whom there were a number including C. H. Orme, a former member, and Padre Durnford and others.

In opening Dr. Mandy said he did not wish to belittle what the east was doing or how it was being done. Yet, in spite of its many wonderful advantages, he and Mrs. Mandy were still able to say "Thank God for British Columbia." He found that in the east most of the people they met envied them the fact that they lived on the Pacific Coast. So far as they had been able to observe the opinion in favour of this coast among those who resided in the east had been one hundred per cent.

Dr. Mandy said that, in going east, he had represented the British Columbia Department of Mines and had also gone to some of the mines to study certain deposits and engineering and production methods. He complimented William Cruickshank, city passenger agent, Canadian National Railways on the manner in which he had arranged their trip. When they left here spring had arrived but they gradually found themselves turning back into winter as they went east, concluding with a blizzard when they reached Montreal. There they were able to take an old fashioned sleigh ride. On Sunday Mount Royal proved to be a very great attraction for the place was covered
