SERVICE IS IMPRESSIVE

Another Anniversary of Armistice Is Observed in Prince Rupert.

Never was a more impressive and better ordered Remembrance Day parade and service held in Prince Rupert than that which took place yesterday morning to commemorate the twenty-third anniversary of the Armistice which ended the First Great War. General arrangements being in charge of George W. Cripps, with Col. C. W. Peck, D.S.O., as marshal of the whole parade, Major John McGregor, V.C., acted as marshal of the various military units which took part. The procession, as usual, included veterans of the Great War, women who had served overseas, Women's Service Corps, Girl Guides, Sea Cadets and various civilian representatives. The march to the cenotaph was west along Third Avenue, down Sixth Street and east along Second Avenue.

The cenotaph program was as follows: "O Canada," sung by all, led by the choir, accompanist, Charles Balagno; "Cease Fire," sounded by Bugler Rance; two minutes of silence in memory of the fallen; "The Last Post," sounded by Bugler Rance; prayer, Hon. Capt. Rev. E. E. Brandt; hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," sung by all, led by the choir; address, Lieut.-Col. The Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, D.D., V.D., Bishop of Caledonia; placing of wreaths and flowers; lament, "Flowers of the Forest," played by the Pipe Band; The Supreme Sacrifice, "O Valiant Hearts," sung by the choir, conductor, J. S. Wilson, accompanist, Chas. Balagno; The Lord's Prayer, Hon. Capt. Rev. J. E. Whittles; Reveille, sounded by Comrade Bugler Rance; "God Save the King."

Russo-German War—HITLER AT BLACK SEA IN ADVANCE

Major Victories Are Achieved Elsewhere by Russians Who Have Launched Counter-Offensive.

LONDON, Nov. 12: (CP)—Adolf Hitler's Crimean armies were reported to have reached the Black Sea coast today just below Kerch, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields, while on the central front the Russians declared they had battled the Germans to a standstill with more than seventy thousand Nazis killed and wounded in a 41-day old drive on Moscow.

The Red Star, Soviet Army newspaper, said that Russian infantry, artillery and tanks were smashing into the flank of two German divisions on the outskirts of Tula, 100 miles south of Moscow, putting the invaders to rout and chasing them more than five miles.

Soviet dispatches admitted, however, that German troops had reached the vicinity of Narofominsk, 35 miles southwest of Moscow but it was said the situation had been stabilized.

Despite a powerful new Nazi offensive in the Donets Basin and fierce assaults against Moscow on the Tula and Oka River sectors, Soviet military authorities claimed victories last night in at least five major battles. Russia held the initiative in the north and northwest as intensive fighting continued along the entire Russo-German front. German attempts to break a large force out of an iron ring northwest of Moscow failed and annihilation appeared imminent. The Nazis suffered appalling losses in an assault upon Tula. Soviet troops are still bitterly resisting the German drive towards Crimean port of Sebastopol.

A Soviet war dispatch says that a large German force has been trapped sixty-five miles northwest of Moscow. They were in a state of exhaustion. Southwest of Moscow a major Soviet counter-offensive has been launched.

In Berlin it is claimed that German and Rumanian forces are advancing steadily toward Sebastopol and Kirch, Black Sea ports, being only twenty miles away from Sebastopol.

Further German forces trying to cross the Oka River have been annihilated.

On the Tulo front Russian planes within the last two days have put out of action seventy German tanks and 200 trucks and dispersed two battalions of Nazi infantry.

Shipping Situation Greatly Improved as Far as Great Britain Is Concerned—Hints at Military Moves Making Increased Demands.

LONDON, Nov. 12: (CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared today that Chancellor Adolf Hitler had failed to bring Great Britain to her knees through starvation blockade and thus might be forced into attempting an invasion "as soon as he can screw up courage and make arrangements to take the plunge." The prime minister told a cheering house of commons that it had been learned through Britain's No. 1 prisoner, Rudolf Hess, "that Hitler originally counted more on starvation of the British than invasion." Any such hopes, Churchill declared, had crumbled through improvement in Britain's shipping situation.

The speech was highlighted by the prime minister's report that "in 1943 we shall have sufficient shipping to undertake overseas operations, almost a million tons of Axis shipping were sent to the bottom or damaged seriously in the four months ending October and during the same period Britain's shipping losses dropped almost two-thirds.

Speaking with cautious confidence, Mr. Churchill promised better food for British workers would result from improvements in imports and bigger crops at home but added, "satisfactory as results are, there must be no relaxation of efforts not only because of the ever-present menace to importation from abroad but as it might be yet that, as war develops, military demands may make more extensive demands upon our shipping."

Mr. Churchill did not elaborate the theme or explain whether such military operations would be in Africa or in a movement of troops for action on the Russian front.

RECALLING ARMISTICE

War-Busy Britain Has Little Time to Spare—President Roosevelt Speaks.

There was no public observance of Armistice Day nor general two-minute silence observance in war-busy Great Britain yesterday, factories and services going on without interlude. In Westminster Abbey there was a brief but simple service.

For the first time in twenty-three years there were no special observances of the day in Europe. The few remaining Americans in Paris observed the occasion.

In Canada, Armistice Day services were general and at Ottawa the two-minute silence was observed at the national war memorial.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt led the United States in that nation's observance, making a speech at the Tomb of the Unknown Warrior in Arlington National Cemetery.

Noteworthy Event—CELEBRATE ARMISTICE AT DINNER

Headed by Two Victoria Cross Members, 300 Gather to Keep Green Memories of Former Conflict.

With two Victoria Cross holders who went from Prince Rupert to the First Great War as distinguished guests of honor and a crowd which numbered some three hundred persons in attendance at the armory, the Canadian Legion's annual banquet in observance of the twenty-third Armistice anniversary was, indeed a noteworthy event and as great a success as any which have been held before. The principal guests of honor were Col. C. W. Peck, V.C., D.S.O., commanding officer of the Sixteenth Canadian Scottish in France in the last war, and Major John McGregor, V.C., M.C., D.C.M., second in command of the Second Battalion, Canadian Scottish, now stationed at Prince Rupert. H. A. Breen, past president of the Legion, was in the chair in the absence through illness of Jack Preece, the president. Other guests of honor included Commander A. H. Reed, naval officer in charge at Prince Rupert, Lieut. Col. S. D. Johnston, M.C., V.D., Prince Rupert garrison, area commandant, Squadron Leader B. N. Harrop, Royal Canadian Air Force; Rt. Rev. G. A. Rix, D.D., Bishop of Caledonia; Rt. Rev. E. M. Bunoz, D.D., Roman Catholic Bishop of northern British Columbia and the Yukon; City Commissioner D. J. Matheson; Government Agent Norman A. Watt, and T. J. Boulter, superintendent of the Prince Rupert dry dock. There was an excellent program of speeches and music which followed as fine a meal as has ever been provided at an Armistice Day banquet, ladies of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, under the leadership of Mrs. William Rothwell, having charge of the serving.

When all had been seated, the president rapped his gavel and called on the gathering to rise and sing "O Canada." All stood at attention while "Cease Fire" was being sounded by Bugler William Rance. Then there was two minutes of silence in honor of the memory of the glorious dead after which Capt. (Rev.) E. E. Brandt, padre of the Canadian Legion, (Continued on Page Four)

Voluntary Enlistment or Conscription . .

As it was in the third year of the First Great War, Canada is today on the point of choosing between a continuation of the policy of voluntary enlistment for overseas military service or the adoption of a form of conscription. Due to the slowness, more particularly in recent months, of eligible young men to come forward and offer their services to reinforce the ranks of the fine Canadians who, without coercion, have already staked themselves for the greatest adventure in defence of their country and its democratic principles, Canada may soon be forced to throw overboard the policy of allowing men to choose of their own free will to choose how and where they will serve in the army and replace it with the draft system whereby men, are called up by classes and sent to such services at the authorities, without consideration by personal wishes of the men themselves, consider they are most needed or best adapted under conditions which may prevail at the moment.

Sincere efforts are being made by the government, committed as it is like the opposition to the policy of voluntary enlistment rather than conscription, to make a go of the voluntary system. One of the latest moves was to call into the various military headquarters across the country representative civilian citizens to hear about the army's need of men what the army has to offer those who enlist voluntarily today—and it has something to offer—and to send these men back to their home communities to disseminate this information and do what they can to encourage recruiting in the army. The first of such conferences were held in Victoria last week, the second followed soon after in Calgary and more will be held in succession across the Dominion. The Prince Rupert delegates were impressed with all they had seen and heard and, while possibly feeling that compulsory selective service will be the only ultimate and effective answer in reaching those who are required, have undertaken the task of doing what they can, without appearing to be too presumptuous in the matter, "to sell the army." Their line of action will soon be made known.

The principal talking points are the need for men, the inducements which the army has to offer, particularly as compared with what it had a quarter of a century ago for the brave young men who fought the battles then, and the fact that there is still a chance for volunteers to make some choice in the matter instead of being put where they are told as is done with draftees.

It is because the men of Canada are failing to rise to the country's need in the hour of danger and crisis that the voluntary system of enlistment may have to be thrown overboard. Few at heart want to see that done. The men who advocate conscription most strongly in many cases are those who abhor it the most and would most like to see voluntary enlistment meet the situation. However, there is a growing feeling that it will not work and that conscription would be the fairer to all concerned.

While civilian committees, even if they may feel it a waste of time and effort, will do what they can in a conscientious and earnest way, the answer as to whether it is to be voluntary enlistment or conscription will come from the men who are themselves involved. Conscription can, in the ultimate, be obviated only by the action of the men who would themselves be conscripted.

The help of every Canadian is needed for Victory. In these days of war the thoughtless, selfish spender is a traitor to our war effort. A reduction in personal spending is now a vital necessity to relieve the pressure for goods, to enable more and more labour and materials to be diverted to winning the war. The all-out effort, which Canada must make, demands this self-denial of each of us. Invest in War Savings Certificates the dollars you don't need to spend. After Victory, they come back to you with interest. Spend less now so that you can spend more then, when labour and materials will be available for the things you need. "Underground." Now At Capitol Theatre, Is Actionful Picture—Rebellion Against Oppression

Underground rebellion against brutal oppression is used as background for an exciting film "Underground," which is showing at the Capitol Theatre today and tomorrow.

True happenings are brought to light revealing just how the revolutionaries operate.

"Underground" shows how the illegal radio broadcasts the truth to the nation. Members of the group occupied with this work are in constant danger of their lives. Government locators can quickly spot them. Therefore they are constantly shifted around from one outlying territory to another.

The film tells of brother pitted against brother, neighbor against neighbor, and the strange kinds of love that are born in lands where people are afraid to talk and think.

Jeffrey Lynn portrays an earnest and militant young soldier, unaware that his brother, played by Phillip Dorn, is a leader of the underground movement. Kaaren Verne, beautiful and vibrant new screen personality, portrays a revolutionist who is a violinist in a night club as a cover-up. Mona Maris, exotic South American actress, is cast as another of the group.

Man in the Moon

Just when Mussolini was getting back into talking form, he lost eleven supply ships and two destroyers. That man should keep his mouth shut.

In fairness it could be said of Hitler's Germany that nowhere else does one meet as nice a class of people in the prisons.

Waiter: "Would monsieur prefer French, Spanish or Italian cooking?"
Diner: "I don't care so long as you bring me a soft-boiled egg."

Father (to infant son sucking his thumb): "Hey, son, don't do that. You'll need it when you're old enough to travel."

In a railway carriage a country-woman remarked: "Will you tell me, miss, which is the return ticket?"

Her fellow traveller handed her the return ticket and she threw it out the window.
"Why did you do that?" asked the second woman.
"I'm not going back."
"Then why did you buy a return ticket?"
"They told me it was cheaper."

The composer Rossini was incredibly lazy and his managers had to prod him constantly to get results. On one occasion, one of his operas was scheduled to be played at La Scala. On the morning of the opening performance, however, not a note of the overture had been written. The manager of the opera house became frantic. He pleaded with the composer to complete the score. But Rossini was impervious to all of his pleas. At home, serene and undisturbed, he remained in bed.

Finally the manager decided to take matters into his own hands. With the help of a few husky stagehands, he kidnapped the composer and dragged him to the opera house. There he imprisoned him in the upper loft of the theatre, set guards over him, and refused to release him until the overture was completed. Thus aroused, Rossini went to work. As each sheet was finished, his captors took it from him and threw it out of the window to the copyists waiting below.

CELEBRATE ARMISTICE

Scottish, recited "They Grow Not Old" in impressive manner. Following "Reveille," the chairman welcomed the comrades and guests, introducing the two guests of honor, Col. Peck and Major McGregor, who were accorded an ovation. "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung lustily and hearty cheers given after which Scottish pipers paraded the banquet hall to herald the guests of honor. Due reply was made by Col. Peck and Major McGregor.

Col. Peck, appearing in the old uniform of the last war and looking very fit, voiced the pleasure he felt at being back once more in Prince Rupert. He recalled the emotions of taking the first contingent from Prince Rupert to the First Great War. They had been a "fine bunch of fellows." Then there had been the receptions on the return after the war. "My heart was in Prince Rupert then and it still is now," declared Col. Peck. "God bless you all and thank you for the kindness of your reception."

Major McGregor said it was eighteen years since he had last attended a gathering of this kind in Prince Rupert. He had seen changes since coming here this time, particularly among the old boys. It was also for him a great pleasure to be present.

Following the saying of Grace by Bishop Rix, full justice was done to a fine, hot dinner during which gramophone music was provided from the balcony and transmitted through the hall by loud speaker with G. R. S. Blackaby in charge.

The toast to the King was observed in the usual manner. An impressive touch was given by the manner in which Major McLennan of the Canadian Scottish recited and offered "The Silent Toast" to departed comrades.

The Toast List

Other toasts were: "Our Guests," proposed by H. A. Breen, responded to by City Commissioner D. J. Matheson.

"The Navy," proposed by George Cripps, responded to by Commander A. H. Reed.

"The Army," proposed by G. P. Tinker, responded to by Lieut. Col. S. D. Johnston.

"The Air Force," proposed by G. R. S. Blackaby, responded to by Squadron Leader B. N. Harrop.

The fine spirit of co-operation existing between the services was emphasized.

Following the responses to the toasts, there were community songs, led by J. S. Wilson with Charles P. Balagno presiding at the piano.

Another interesting feature was the presentation by J. S. Wilson of a past president's medal to Immediate Past President H. A. Breen. Mr. Wilson congratulated the local branch, on behalf of the provincial command, on the excellence of observance of Remembrance Day in Prince Rupert, naming particularly G. W. Cripps for his fine work of organization. Mr. Wilson announced total collections of $474.75—$390 from street tagging, $31 from the forts, and $53.75 from the schools—as a result of Poppy Day canvass. In the Remembrance Day window dressing competition, first, second and third prize winners were announced respectively as being McRae Bros., W. F. Stone and Annette's. Speaking on matters concerning the Legion, Mr. Wilson reminded the members of the serious responsibility which veterans of the last war still had to maintain. He urged the importance of attending a general meeting next week when the question of Canada's war effort would be discussed including that of recruiting.

Other speakers included Bishop G. A. Rix who gave a humorous talk, and Bishop E. M. Bunoz, who called for united action in the war effort to the end that the aggressor might be brought finally to his knees and the world be saved from new madness and terror.

Musical Selections

Musical selections included fine vocal solos by Ronald Bridgett, accompanied by Clare Davis, bagpipe solos by Pipe Major Ian Duncan of the Canadian Scottish, vocal solos by Private Fred McDonald, accompanied by Sergeant Bob Townsend, a notable recitation of Jessie Alexander's "Coronation Crowds" by Major McLennan, popular songs by Eddie (Pop) Rell, solos by Piper Alex Oliphant and J. A. Teng.

Before bringing the proceedings to a close, Mr. Breen extended thanks to the artists and entertainers as well as to President Jack Preece and his band of helpers.

The committee responsible for the successful arrangement of the banquet consisted of G. W. Cripps, Neil Cameron and J. J. Judge.

SPORT CHAT

That famed brother act—the "Me and Paul" of some of baseball's greatest triumphs—will be seen no more in the major leagues. But the most voluble half of the act may try again with his "high hard one." Dizzy Dean is thinking about a comeback. Daffy Dean is through with baseball. You can take Dizzy's word for it. Dizzy is a radio announcer in St. Louis when he isn't taking things easy on his farm near Dallas, Texas. He is interested in a contraption which he thinks can bring life to his ailing arm. He's going to visit Hot Springs, Arkansas, in January where the machine—an electric contrivance—will be used for all its worth. If Dizzy finds his arm can be cured, he will try pitching, then, maybe a comeback. But first he'll get approval from his radio sponsors. "They've been too swell to me for it to be any other way," says Dean at his big well-stocked, 145-acre farm where he leads the life of a country squire.

But Daffy—or Paul—has other ideas, Diz says. Paul owns a farm across the country from Dizzy and he's doing all right for himself. Paul was with the New York Giants last season. New York passed him on to St. Louis, which planned to send him to the Pacific Coast League. "But Paul didn't want to go out there to work for $700 a month," said Dizzy. "You know Paul never did want to play baseball, even when he was at his peak."

"I wouldn't want to return unless I felt I could pitch like I used to," Dizzy Dean declared. "There wouldn't be any money in it just to be a 15 game winner. And I'd want to know that every time I pitched my arm wouldn't feel like it was going to drop off. It isn't worth the price when you have to pitch like that."

Dizzy is getting a little heavy around the middle and his hair is streaked with gray although he's only 30—two years older than Paul. "I like it on the farm," he mused. "No telephones ringing, no cars whizzing by. And I like radio announcing, too. I just get in a little room all by myself and tell folks what's happening down there on the field. And I take sides, too. Most of my listeners are for the home team and they like it when I root for them."

OBSERVANCE TERRACE
AT TERRACE WEDDING

Remembrance Day Impressively Miss Lorraine Kenney Becomes Celebrated At Interior Town Bride of Lloyd Johnstone.

TERRACE, Nov. 12:— Remembrance Day was observed in Terrace with that proper seriousness which belongs to this anniversary of a great day in history. A Remembrance Day service was held in the Oddfellows' Hall, over which Sergeant Atree presided on behalf of the Canadian Legion. The proceedings began with the sounding of "Last Post" by young Jack Kirkaldy, a son of bugler Sam Kirkaldy, a veteran of a last war. On this signal the service started with the singing of the special hymn which has been distributed throughout the country and which, doubtless, was sung at the same hour in every town and village in the Dominion. Rev. J. A. Rowland, the United Church minister, addressed the well filled hall. This was followed by two inspiring hymns, "Abide With Me," and "Lest We Forget." Rev. C. A. Hinchliffe brought the service to an end with a short and suitable address. Assisting also in the service was Rev. W. Drury of the Pentecostal Mission.

The Women's Service Corps paraded to the hall in smart uniforms and there was a row of bereted veterans who provided depth and heartiness to the singing. Miss Janet Young at the piano accompanied the hymns.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL
It is stated Mussolini has stomach ulcers.

TERRACE, Nov. 12:—A wedding of unusual interest was performed at the United Church here yesterday when Miss Lorraine Marcella Kenney, daughter of E. T. Kenney, M. L. A., and Mrs. Kenney, was united in marriage to Lloyd Melrose Johnstone, whose family have resided in Terrace district for many years. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and was wearing a white satin with a blue and orange blossoms, carrying a bouquet of sweetheart peas. Her sister, Miss Marjorie Kenney, acted as bridesmaid, she was dressed in turquoise blue, floor length with a flowered cap of the same color. Mrs. Kenney, the mother of the bride, looked very well in black upon which there were sprinkled tiny white stars. Mrs. Johnstone, the mother of the groom, was becomingly attired in black fur.

The church was beautifully decorated with autumn colors and yellow and white chrysanthemums.

A guard of honor was supplied by the Women's Service Corps, of which the bride is one of the officers. These ladies threw rice as the newly married pair left the church door.

The groomsmen were Dudley G. Little, Ushers were J. B. Agar and Stanley Brooks. Music for the ceremony was provided by Mrs. Frank Gavan and a duet "O Perfect Love" by Mrs. Sam Kirkaldy and Miss Marie Hall.

An interesting feature of the ceremony was the wedding rug, lent for the occasion by Mrs. George Little. This rug has been used on many occasions in Terrace when some member or friend of the family reached the great day.

A reception was held at the bride's home after the ceremony, between four and six in the afternoon, to which many friends came.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Lorne Kenney, Prince George; Mrs. Robert Blance, Prince Rupert; Mrs. L. W. Kergin, Prince Rupert, and Mrs. Lo's McRae, Prince Rupert.

PRINCE GEORGE

Armistice Day was observed in Prince George with the usual parade to the cenotaph where a brief service was held with clergy of the city officiating. Members of the United States Army Air Corps stationed at Prince George participated in the parade on this occasion. After the service, soldiers' graves in the Prince George cemetery were decorated.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion at Prince George, assisted by school children, held their annual Poppy Day tagging on Saturday and met with a generous response, a goodly sum being raised for relief work among veterans and their dependents.

Private Robert Goheen of Prince George is now on active service overseas, having recently reached England.

The Prince George division of the War Savings drive reached forty-eight percent of its quota at the end of the second week, $1630 out of the objective of $3500 having been subscribed.

A soil survey of the Prince George district which has just been completed by C. C. Reid, district agriculturalist, shows a total of 282,000 arable acres. Less than three percent of the arable land in the district is in use. Light clearing land in the area totals 125,000 acres, says the report.

Mrs. R. A. Harlow was the guest speaker at a supper meeting of the Biz-Pros Club in Prince George Monday night, her subject being "Public Speaking."

Hazelton Marks Remembrance Day

Special Services Are Held At St. Peter's Church

Remembrance Day services were held in St. Peter's Church, Hazelton, on Sunday.

At evening prayer the service was in part a memorial to the late

STEWART

Remembrance Day was observed as usual in Stewart Tuesday with a brief ceremony at the cenotaph followed by a public service in the Canadian Legion Hall. The services were conducted by Alex Russwurm, chaplain of the Canadian Legion, assisted by Rev. E. W. Slater. Armistice Day at Stewart will also be marked by the customary Poppy campaign to raise funds for the rendering of aid to needy veterans.

Mrs. C. McIntyre was hostess at her home in Stewart last Thursday evening with a delightful shower in honor of Miss Helen Knipple whose marriage is to take place shortly. The evening was spent enjoyably in the playing of games and the feature of the proceedings was the presentation of many beautiful gifts to the bride in a handsomely decorated pink and white flower basket.

Rev. G. A. R. Rix, Bishop of the Anglican Church for Caledonia diocese, was a recent visitor to the Portland Canal district, conducting services at Stewart, Big Missouri, Premier and Hyder, Alaska.

Snow has come to the Portland Canal district and, owing to its soft nature, there has been some interference with road traffic to such points as Premier and Big Missouri.

Freddie Dodd of Stewart is now on active service overseas, having recently reached England.

The Stewart Canadian Legion has agreed to represent the British Columbia overseas tobacco fund in this district and to assume responsibility for it.

After many weeks of organization, the Premier Rifle Club is now going strong. Four teams are entered and competition is in the second round.

The Stewart School Cadets have been reorganized with E. Foster, president of the Canadian Legion taking over the duties of instructor in place of John Thompson who recently found it necessary to give up the work.

Home nursing classes for Stewart women are now being held regularly at the Stewart General Hospital.

ALL-METAL GLIDERS
Some gliders are made entirely of metal.

Douglas Lay, resident mining engineer of Victoria and formerly of Hazelton. The preacher stressed the sterling qualities of Mr. Lay, which had endeared him to a wide circle of friends. The funeral took place at Oak Bay last Wednesday, service being conducted by the Rev. F. Comley, Anglican Hospital chaplain.

At St. Peter's on Sunday evening appropriate music was given. After a month's absence, due to illness, the robed choir assisted in the evening service.

Special Service At Burns Lake

National Rites Are Held At United Church There

BURNS LAKE, Nov. 12:— On Sunday evening a national service was held in the United Church, the junior choir taking a prominent part in the service which included readings, solos, duets and a trio. Rev. Adam Crisp spoke on "Building the Nation." The church looked very attractive with its decoration of flags and flowers. A good-sized congregation enjoyed the service.

WHERE EAST MEETS WEST

SINGAPORE, Nov. 12:—Ship-building under construction here for the Royal Navy and the Royal Indian Navy has been valued at more than $10,000,000, including minesweepers, mooring vessels and various types of auxiliary ships.

Burns Lake Has Supper Bazaar

Successful Affair Held Saturday Evening In Community Hall

BURNS LAKE, Nov. 12:—A very successful supper and bazaar was held in Burns Lake Community Hall on Saturday evening under the auspices of the United Church Women's Auxiliary.

The tables, which seated over one hundred guests, were beautifully decorated and well laden with appetizing food. A goodly sum was raised for the benefit of the church and hospital.
