GRIP IS TIGHTER

Fresh Blows Delivered Against Axis In Spite of Sandstorms

CAIRO, July 21:—The British Imperial Army of the Nile has tightened its grip on newly-won positions west of El Alamein while the fall in land fighting continues and the Royal Air Force, in constant action, has swept through swirling dust storms to deliver fresh blows against the enemy, it is reported at British headquarters which confirmed the capture of four thousand prisoners in hard fighting of the past week. British air and sea offensive is being directed against the North African coastal highway and the Axis supply line, planes, ships, barges and tanks of the enemy being among the targets.

At the same time the Admiralty in London announced yesterday that light British warships bombarded Matruh, Marshal Erwin Rommel's most advanced Egyptian sea base, on Friday and Saturday nights. The announcement gave no account of the damage but said that answering bombardment from Axis shore batteries was ineffective. British ships suffered no casualties or damage in either engagement.

El Daba air field has been virtually wiped out by the Royal Air Force and United States planes raided Tobruk, leaving big fires. The destruction of more than fifty Axis planes on the ground in two assaults on advanced air-dromes in a single day was reported by British headquarters today. Raids on El Daba and Fuka, twenty-five and sixty miles behind the Nazi lines, were the second and third in two days. Other long range fighters blasted Axis barges northeast of Sidi Barrani, 185 miles behind the lines.

ANYOX MAY RUN AGAIN

Copper Mining, It Is Expected, Will Be Resumed at Northern Camp Notwithstanding Fire

Notwithstanding the big forest fire which three weeks ago all but wiped out the famous old mining and smelting camp, Anyox may yet produce copper again on a considerable scale.

George Lee, who was superintendent for Anyox Metals at the time of the fire, is now in Prince Rupert getting together a crew for the purpose of returning to Anyox and reconditioning the power plant which, together with the concentrating plant, were left partially intact by the fire. The belief is that these two plants may form the nucleus of a new plant to get out many millions of pounds of copper which are still known to remain in the Hidden Creek mine in addition to the nearby Bonanza property. If copper mining were resumed, it would not be smelted at Anyox, it is believed, but would be mined and concentrated for shipment. New mining equipment and buildings would have to be put in.

W. B. Maxwell, who was at one time resident manager at Anyox for the Granby Co., is due in Prince Rupert in a few days en route to Anyox. He is now vice-president and managing director of Anyox Metals and a director of Ventures Limited.

NAZIS ARE BEATEN OFF

Situation Looks Better on Upper Don for Russians But Not so Good in South

MOSCOW, July 21. — The Red Army has beaten off desperate Nazi counter-attacks in the Voronezh sector and has actually assumed the offensive, recapturing several bridgeheads on the upper Don River and re-crossing the stream at a number of points. Fierce hand to hand fighting now goes on along both sides of the river.

While the picture is somewhat more cheering on the upper Don, the situation is still critical to the south on the lower Don where the withdrawal beyond Vorshilovgrad continues with abandonment of coal mines in Donets Basin. However, Russian reinforcements are being poured into the Rostov-area to meet the Nazi challenge in a showdown fight for control of the Caucasus and the Volga River area.

Militarism, Pacifism And Realism . . .

It is no exaggeration to say that the militarism of the totalitarian states on the one side and the pacifism of the democracies on the other, are the immediate causes of the terrible conflict which is shaking the entire world. The want of preparation in the pacifism-drugged democracies, while the totalitarian states were arming themselves and glorifying their military power obviously accounts for the destruction of Poland, the invasion and defeat of so many other states, the tragedy of France, the splendid heroism, though for some time unavailing, of Greece, the numerous defeats in the Pacific Ocean, the raiding of British towns and cities, the failures in Libya, the menace to Suez and for many other disasters suffered by the Allies.

Now, to make up for so many years of imprudent pacifism we have now to go through some years of extremely costly militarism. The sooner we realize the urgency of fighting in earnest those who want to dominate the entire world—Canada included—the better it will be for the countries now conquered or threatened, and for each one of us as well.

Obviously it is a frightful prospect for a peace-loving people, not to say a pacifist people, but we must face it just as a patient has to face a painful surgical operation. The only difference between the two cases is that national defence and solidarity require collective action, whereas in the case of the patient, the responsibility rests with him alone.

Persistent delusion during this life and death struggle invites defeat and a post-war situation far more burdening from every point of view than the present one. Furthermore, we would suffer an intolerable economic situation at the hands of our merciless conquerors.

If anybody knows of an "easy" way to win this war, it is just about time they were telling the proper people all about the "new weapon."

An Interesting New Book . . .

A novel new book, quite distinctive and unusual in form, has made its way to the editor's desk in "The Seashore Parade" by Muriel Lewin Guberlet (publishers, The Jaques Cattell Press, Lancaster, Pa.). It is really a treatise on marine life, describing in a popular way a variety of sea animals of the type that live around the beaches. There is a wealth of information presented by the book, in a delightful way. It should be of particular interest at a place like Prince Rupert where many of the creatures which the book describes have their being.

The parade starts with the humble organisms such as plankton, sponge (which we learn is an animal), jelly fish and then moving on to ocean worms, clams, snails, sea angels, devilfish, crabs, shrimps and tunicates.

"The Seashore Parade," ingeniously illustrated and decorated and written in a way which is particularly acceptable to the young, is also fascinating for the more mature. It is worth a place in any library and should be useful to school teachers and students.

In these days when secrecy is so much the order, it is a wonder that the naval wireless should be spreading its messages all over the radio receiving dial.

SPORT CHAT

At an eastern army camp outside the officers' mess of the 4th (Armored) Division stands a skeleton-like structure about 15 feet high and 30 feet long, the result of an idea borrowed from the United States Army. From time to time soldiers, ranging in rank from private to major-general, can be seen climbing over it for a quick workout. The structure is officially called a "training ladder" but Maj.-Gen. F. P. Worthington, the divisional commander, calls it the "rack" and many of the soldiers call it the "monkey bars."

It consists of horizontal bars about three feet apart. At the starting end of the ladder they are set in upright posts. Then they are set across the top on a slight slope and at the other end at a steep slope to the ground. A full set of exercises on the ladder takes half an hour, in which time a man passes over the ladder six times, following a different routine each time, sometimes crawling around alternate bars, sometimes swinging from one to another of the top bars, sometimes walking across them.

The ladder is believed to be just the thing to keep the busy headquarters staff man who hasn't time for games or drill, in condition. Capt. J. M. Savage of Montreal, saw the ladder at Fort Knox, Tex., when he was taking a course with the United States Army and had his own version built when he came back. The army carpenter made it out of odd pieces of pipe and pluck without a cent of cost. Plans are on foot for the erection of a ladder for each unit in the division so that every man in the division will have the apparatus for a quick workout handy to his quarters.

Russian Symphony Goes Out On Film

First Performance in Western Hemisphere Presented

NEW YORK, July 21 © — They boiled 231 pages of sheet music down to 100 feet of microfilm for the transmission of Dmitri Shostakovich's Seventh Symphony from Kuibyshev, Russia to New York for its first western hemisphere performance.

Because of its bulk and the difficulty of taking it through the Russo-German battle areas, the score was put on microfilm and sent by plane to Teheran, Iran.

From there it was taken by automobile to Cairo and then to New York by another plane. In New York the score was reprinted on special positive paper and prepared for orchestral use. It was broadcast by the NBC Symphony Orchestra July 19, under the direction of Arturo Toscanini.

The 36-year-old Shostakovich wrote the symphony—one of the lengthiest in musical history—while the Germans pressed the siege of his native Leningrad.

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

Squadron Leader Donovan Ferris, former transportation manager for Eldorado Gold Mines in charge of lake and river traffic on Great Bear Lake and Bear River and son of Mrs. W. D. Ferris of Edmonton, has been promoted to the rank of flight commander. He joined the Royal Canadian Air Force in November 1939, received his wings and went overseas a year ago last April. He has been active in attacks on Germany and on one occasion his plane was damaged in combat but got safely back to England.

G. M. Gibb of South Edmonton for his animal won the grand championship bull award at the Edmonton Exhibition last week.

The Alberta branch of the Canadian Postmasters' Association, in annual convention at Edmonton last week, re-elected the officers of last year to continue for another year. They are: President, Donald Taylor, Vermilion; vice-president, A. Foulds, Delburne; secretary-treasurer, E. Primmitt, Viking; directors—L. MacDonald, Clairmont, I. Morgan, Didsbury, and W. E. M. Holmes, High River.

Waters of the North Saskatchewan River at Edmonton have been running at six or seven feet above normal level. Heavy rains caused a sudden rise which is now receding and is expected to soon be back to normal.

A second contingent of city reserve troops left Edmonton for Sarcee camp on Saturday night. The first contingent returned home from there on Sunday afternoon. Various Edmonton units including the Edmonton Fusiliers and Edmonton Regiment were represented at the camp.

Hon. John Campbell Bowen, lieutenant governor of Alberta, attended by Lieut. George Crawford, R. C. N. V. R., and Wing Commander J. A. Hutchison, R. C. A. F., received the salute of the navy and air force at a "March Past" which took place last week at the Edmonton Exhibition.

FRENCH DERIVATION
"Ambulance" comes from the French "ambulant" meaning "to walk."

FROM THE LATIN
"Soldier" was derived from the Latin word, "Solidus," meaning "a solid piece of money."

Canada's War Chiefs

(By Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

At eight o'clock any morning of the week, a square-set general with the rolling gait of a cavalryman walks through the doors of "Fort Montague," a brick-buttressed building in London, just a grenade's throw off Trafalgar Square. The officer is Maj.-Gen. P. J. Montague; the building is Canadian Military Headquarters.

As senior officer, C.M.H.Q., Gen. Montague is a link between National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa, the Canadian forces overseas, and the British War Office. As Judge Advocate General, he is the highest legal authority for the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Canadian Army overseas.

And if that isn't enough, this 59-year-old general with shrewd searching eyes and a steel-trap mind has under his control enough men, numerically, for two full army divisions.

When he isn't in his office, Gen. Montague usually can be found somewhere in the field. He may be on a day-long inspection of reinforcement units, or at a port meeting a troop convoy, or in Scotland visiting the Forestry Corps, or at a Canadian General Hospital conducting a distinguished visitor through the wards.

For this is part of his job. Reinforcement units, forestry corps, hospitals, provost corps, the records office, are all under C.M.H.Q. control.

There's no "side" to this general. One of his best army friends is his driver and to hear them

STAMPS OF INSURANCE

Lower Denominations Are Now Available At Post Office

Employers of insurable workers who operate on a semi-monthly or monthly pay period will be able to buy insurance stamps in higher denominations than have in the past been obtainable.

The Commission is putting into circulation through the Post Offices four denominations of semi-monthly stamps valued respectively at $1, $1.11, $1.24, and $1.37.

These stamps will be used by employers to record contributions in insurance books of employees in the following earning categories:

Those earning $26.00 but less than $32.50 in a semi-monthly ($1.00 stamp); employer contribution 54c, employee contribution 45 1/2c.

Those earning $32.50 but less than $43.33 in a semi-monthly ($1.11 stamp); employer contribution 59c, employee contribution 52c.

Those earning $43.33 but less than $56.33 in a semi-monthly ($1.24 stamp); employer contribution 59c, employee contribution 52c.

Those earning $56.33 but less than $83.33 in a semi-monthly ($1.37 stamp); employer contribution 59c, employee contribution 78c.

These stamps will be obtainable from Post Offices in the same way as stamps of lower denominations. Employers in small centres desiring to use these stamps will have to make a specific request to their Post Office to stock them.

As for the affixing of the stamp by the employer in the employee's insurance book, it should be placed in such a way that it covers the space for the last day of the pay period for which the contribution is made. It was felt that the circulation of these stamps would be a convenience to employers who operate on a semi-monthly or monthly pay period.

STORY OF BLACKOUT

Up-to-Date Picture Is Seen At Capitol Theatre In Prince Rupert

"Pacific Blackout," a gripping thrill film of murder, sabotage and romance during an air raid alert, is the feature picture for Wednesday only at the Capitol Theatre here. It is the first picture on the theme of civilian defence to come out of Hollywood. Robert Preston and Martha O'Driscoll have the leading roles.

Preston, as the brilliant young inventor of a range finder for anti-aircraft guns, is convicted of murder on the perjured testimony of a night club singer, Eva Gabor, who is the tool of an international spy ring intent on stealing the secret of the range finder. Preston escapes during the blackout when a motorized anti-aircraft gun crashes into a police van. Miss O'Driscoll, cast as an impulsive and adventure-loving telephone operator, helps him to escape and then follows him on his adventures as he outwits the spies, proves his innocence and saves the city from destruction by real bombs.

The settings of the picture are both up-to-date and realistic as a mock air raid and practice blackout are held. The sky is a bedlam of roaring airplane motors. The air is rent by the sound of sirens and bursting shells. Flares and searchlights cut loose. Air raid wardens, debris clearance squads, fire watchers, rescue detachments, auxiliary police, firemen and gas decontamination experts are all seen in action.

DRIVE ON VENEREAL DISEASES

Ketchikan Ordinance Makes Provision for Confinement and Quarantine

KETCHIKAN, July 21—Ketchikan is going to crack down on venereal disease. The city council adopted an ordinance which not only defines infectious and contagious diseases dangerous to public health but also provides for the confinement or sequestration of all persons suffering from such diseases.

A variety of venereal and other diseases are defined as infectious and contagious diseases and, according to the ordinance, "all persons who have been infected or exposed to the contagion or infection of" the diseases, may be confined, sequestered or isolated by the city health officer.

Furthermore, "if the health officer deems it advisable, he shall quarantine the house, apartment, room or premises of the patient." The ordinance provides that whenever a house apartment or other place is under quarantine, a placard shall be posted in a conspicuous place, giving the name of the disease and the following order: "All persons are strictly forbidden to enter or leave these premises or remove this notice without permission of the health officer."

Penalties Provided
 A fine up to $100 and 30 days in jail is provided in the ordinance for "any person who interferes with the health officer in the performance of his duties, or any person who breaks quarantine, or any person who removes any quarantine placard without permission of the health officer, or any person who violates" any provision of the ordinance.

The ordinance also decrees that when any person knows or has reason to believe he or she has any of the diseases listed, he or she must within 24 hours give notice to the public health officer. The health officer, if he believes any person has any of the diseases listed, shall file with the city magistrate an affidavit to that effect and the magistrate shall issue a warrant for the arrest of the suspect, the ordinance says. It also says that "if any person is being treated by a physician for gonorrhoea, syphilis or chancroid, and discontinues treatment before he or she is pronounced cured, the physician must report the circumstances" to the health officer immediately.

A board of health is provided in the ordinance, composed of the health officer, the school nurse and a practicing physician, which shall have power to make and promulgate such rules and regulations as are reasonably necessary to effectuate the prevention, control and cure of diseases dangerous to the public.

Mayor McCain appointed Dr. R. V. Ellis to the board. The other members are Dr. Dwight C. Cramer and Juanita Johnston, school nurse.

Included among the infectious and contagious diseases listed are plague, cholera, smallpox, yellow fever, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, measles, diphtheria, infantile paralysis, whooping cough, mumps, influenza, meningitis, other epidemics, and a variety of venereal diseases.

City Attorney Gore, who prepared the ordinance, told the council it was modeled after the California statute and the territorial health code, and has been upheld in the California courts. It enlarges upon and goes further than the territorial health code, he said, but does not conflict with it. He expressed the belief that the city would not encounter any legal difficulties in its enforcement.

Dr. Cramer informed the council that the city is ready to crack down on venereal disease and has completed all the necessary plans for enforcement under the ordinance.

Councilman Talbot expressed the hope that the ordinance be rigidly enforced. Other ordinances have been passed, he commented, but lacked enforcement.

The Battle of White Mountain in 1629 marked the beginning of Austria's three-century domination of Bohemia.
