Possession Of Rostov Is In Dispute

SECRETARY OUTSPOKEN

"Desperate Fighting and Unprecedented Sacrifice" Will Be Cost of Victory," Says Hull

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 24.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in a radio address broadcast last night, declared that "desperate fighting and unprecedented sacrifice" would be the cost of victory.

Mr. Hull made no effort to minimize the present gravity of the war situation. He urged neutral nations to forsake their "absurd and suicidal" attitude and come in on the side of the Allies.

The Secretary of State reminded his listeners of what the "New Order" had brought to subjugated countries—murder, rape, torture, pillage, degradation, mass starvation—the most thorough-going bondage the world had ever seen.

As for the postwar period, Mr. Hull said there would have to be an international agency to keep peace, by force if necessary. Germany, Italy and Japan would have to be kept in surveillance until they had renounced their present principles.

The Secretary of State advocated the development of an informed public opinion.

So Says Representative Shipyard Union in Regard to Continuous Work Program

VANCOUVER, July 24.—W. Clark, engine fitter of North Vancouver Ship Repair Limited, told the commission investigating production in west coast shipyards that the continuous production plan in its present form was having a disastrous effect on the morale of the workers.

Clark said that machinists had been hampered by the work stoppage of fifty or sixty welders last week and by the fact that machines are idle while men take a day off under the government plan.

The possibility of greatly increasing the production of lumber products, especially spruce for airplanes and plywood for government orders, was discussed at a meeting of the Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce by various speakers. However, the difficulty of obtaining a sufficient supply of loggers and mill workers was given as one reason that nothing could be done at this time.

Among the speakers at the meeting were J. M. Wyckoff of the forest service, Robert Baker, J. W. Mendenhall and Ralph A. Bartholomew.

It was announced that Ray R. Reagan had been elected president of the Ketchikan Chamber of Commerce at the meeting of the executive committee and Mr. Reagan presided at today's meeting.

Conscription for Overseas Service Finally Approved by Parliament At Ottawa

OTTAWA, July 24.—The amendment to the National Resources Mobilization Act authorizing the government to conscript manpower for overseas passed the House of Commons on third reading yesterday by a division of 141 to 45 after an acrimonious final debate.

In the course of the debate, Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King, who had been severely criticized by Hon. R. B. Hanson, the Leader of the Opposition, said he was not afraid to go to the country at any time so sure was he of the confidence which the people of Canada still had in him.

Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, former minister of public works, who broke with the government over the conscription issue and resigned his portfolio, said Quebec would submit to the wartime measure although it was the worst breach of democracy which had ever occurred in Canada.

An amendment by a French-Canadian member—J. S. Roy of Gaspé—to give the amendment a hoist was defeated 150 to 31. Principal opposition to the amendment came from Quebec Liberals and C. C. F. members.

Relentless Drive of Enemy Into Russia Continues—Voronezh Only Bright Spot

MOSCOW REPORT

The Red Army has taken a stand on the banks of the lower Don for a last ditch defence of the Northern Caucasus against still further reinforced Axis onslaught which overran the Donets Basin, beat at Rostov and heightened the menace to Stalingrad. The Russians report developing a flank attack against the right wing of the Nazi Don River front at Tsimlyansk.

BERLIN REPORT

The German High Command says that Rostov has been taken by storm and Russian resistance has been broken in the entire bend region of the Don. The report on Rostov indicates lightning conquest of the city with the Nazis reaching the outskirts only yesterday.

MOSCOW, July 24

For the first time, Moscow has admitted fighting in the immediate Rostov area. While the German High Command was claiming that the Nazis had already captured the city, which is the gateway to the Caucasus and 40 miles from the mouth of the Don River in the Black Sea, Russian authorities indicated that a stand would be made to the south of the important Black Sea port. The Russians admitted fighting had reached the gates of the city. Germany said Rostov had been taken by storm.

Meanwhile the Germans had advanced to within thirty-five miles of the Stalingrad-Caucasus Railway. Only in the Voronezh region were the Russians still holding on. The Nazis, hurled out of the city, had been driven ten miles west from the Don River.

Give Us The True Words . . .

A typographical trade journal published in the United States which has just come to hand gives a concise slant on some of the things we are really fighting for in this war. Possibly it may make interesting reading for some who may be inclined to lose sight of real issues in the welter of discussion about things of less consequence.

Here it is:
So far we are fighting because somebody stabbed us, for fear that someone might invade our shores, because we want to get it over with. That is what the papers tell us, about what our leaders tell us, is what many of us even tell ourselves.

It still remains for somebody to tell us the truth. That truth, boiled down, has something to with an inherent belief in mankind that there is something higher than life itself. That higher something concerns decency, mercy and hope. It can be attained only through liberty.

The words in the message should say something about the right of a new-born infant to have protection and food until he can grow strong enough to take some care of himself—it should mention the right of a mother to hold that infant in her arms unmolested by brutal men who walk in uninvited through her door. The words should talk of a world in which a man can woo his sweetheart, provide for his family, enjoy some security in life and do it all with a feeling that his life in his own.

There should be something about freedom to come and go as long as no harm is being done to others. What a man earns by his work, he should be allowed to enjoy. It is important, and so is the right to worship according to one's own belief.

You would have to mention a moral code in which the strong would want to protect the weak. Domination by any man or group would be out. The right of trial would have to be guaranteed and so would free expression of ideas as long as they were not lewd or licentious or harmful to peace-loving people. The words would want to describe a world where truth prevailed and agreements once made were agreements to be kept.

The words could not end without some reference to the forefathers of everyone of us. They believed in those things, fought for them and passed them on to us. We are fighting because of that heritage in our blood, a heritage that makes us believe in decency, mercy and hope instead of sordidness, cruelty and despair. It is for these things that we are willing to lay down our lives.

Those who complain about having to walk instead of ride would have more to complain about if they suddenly became unable to walk. Then the privilege of being able to come and go by foot would be deemed a real blessing. Just ask any invalid.

NEWS FOR MIDLANDS

This is "Golf Week" in Cobourg, the golf club having drawn up a Wednesday to Saturday program embracing all age groups of the community. The culminating feature will be a grand tournament tomorrow in which more than one Ontario professional will take part.

The entire United Counties road crew will probably go into the harvest fields this year. It is now too late to engage in haying but they could be used in the harvesting of other crops.

Cobourg is taking steps against an invasion of Japanese beetles. Already a few of the troublesome insects have made their appearance. Ferry boats from across Lake Ontario are one of the means of access, it is believed.

3,162 AIR PRISONERS

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—British airmen who have become prisoners of war number 3,162, says a written Parliamentary reply.

SPORT CHAT

Scattered throughout prison camps in Germany and Italy are many men whose names send a thrill through Britain's sports-loving public. There must be plenty of sport discussions behind that barbed wire because scarcely a week passes but some London sports writer receives a card asking for racing results, football manuals or some facts to settle an argument.

Racing is represented by such prisoners as Marcus Marsh, trainer of the 1935 Derby winner, Windsor Lad; Lt.-Col. F. T. Williams, an owner who issued instructions from his prison that his horse, Fairy Prince, should run in last year's Derby, and by Pte. Gordon Rolls, a fellow with a fat bank-roll in England who selected 10 horses on which his money is placed every time they run.

Many famed rugby players are captives, including F. D. Prentice, captain of the 1930 English team that visited Australia and New Zealand. Among several prominent footballers is Parachutist Reg Allen, who kept goal for Queen's Park Rangers in happier years.

At one Oflag in Germany four officers, formerly members of the Blackheath Harriers Club, kept in shape by running around the grounds. They competed in a recent sports day. At least one of them walks and runs about eight miles each day.

Ab Jenkins established 21 new world's automobile speed records in a 24-hour run at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, two years ago yesterday. His main achievement was the mark of 161.8 m.p.h. for 3,862.32 miles in 24 hours.

Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, and Michigan's Tommy Armour tied up the Canadian open golf championship at Hamilton, posting 277 scores, 12 years ago today. They met in a 36-hole playoff—second in the history of the competition—and Armour won, 138 to 141.

Honors Paid To Air Raid Sirens Church Workers Are Being Tested

Gathering for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrew and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lancaster

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrew and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Lancaster, who have been faithful and tireless leaders in all church activities for many years, a farewell gathering was held Monday evening at the home of Dean and Mrs. J. B. Gibson, Fourth Avenue East.

Mrs. J. G. Johns, president of St. Andrew's Woman's Auxiliary, presented Mrs. Andrew with a prayer book and conveyed the best wishes of all the members. Dean Gibson, on behalf of the choir, presented Mr. Lancaster with a gift in appreciation of his many years of service.

Daily at noon this week tests are being made of Prince Rupert's air raid sirens. The purpose of the tests is to prove mechanism and synchronization rather than range. Many people have not heard the sirens since only the open air wall has been sounded. Observers have been posted at each of the siren stations to report results: Westview School, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, Besner Apartments, Mrs. Frank Vickers; Besner Block, Miss Kathleen Watson; Armory, Edmonton Park; Booth Memorial School, Mr. Herbert. The tests are proving satisfactory.

HOW WOMEN ARE DOING

Making Best of Things in Britain As War Work Grimes And Coupons Restrict

By DENISE DALTRUFF
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, July 24: —Peggy de-la-Hanes was going to be married but she had one big worry—her hands. But with the help of her munitions-making girl friends the whole problem of dirty-course-looking hands was solved and Peggy was happily married.

You see Miss de-la-Hanes (for this story her married name doesn't matter much) is a munitions factory worker with about as dirty a job as there is. She works with the oil and grime of a machine shop on her hands all day and for her wedding she did want her hands to look nice.

It would have taken weeks to get her once-dainty hands clear of the oil grime and coarseness caused by her war job and Peggy just couldn't stop work for weeks. So her fellow workers got together and, from crinoline hoops of an ancient dress and other non-coupon material they produced a pretty bridal dress which took care of everything.

How? Well the girls made long cuffs of beautiful old lace, so long they draped over the bride's hands and the marks of her war work were never visible.

Coupon Business

The price of women's and children's hats may be controlled. This is good news for men but consider the woman who takes delight in showing her new "darling hat" for which she paid, say "only eight guineas." You won't be able to pay that price in Britain, let alone saying you did.

Complaints are being made to authorities that military officers are trying to purchase women's clothing with coupons given them to purchase military clothing. Silk stockings and undergarments are the things most sought by the officers.

Added to women's wartime chores is the task of doing their own home decorations. Limited labor and supplies have left women to do their own painting and kalsomining.

Fortune Telling

"You are much luckier in money matters than in love, though it is not from want of trying." Rather a rude remark to make to a woman, especially if the woman happens to be a female police constable in mufti. So 38-year old Margaret Baker was fined $477. But not for being rude. She was arrested for pretending to tell fortunes.

An officer jumped from an army car which Driver Joan Morris of the ATS drove to a burning ammunition dump. "Wait for me," was his curt order. So pretty Joan sat and waited—with ammunition exploding all around her! Now she has been commended in orders. "It was pretty terrifying and the car rocked," she admitted, "but the officer said 'wait' and—there you are."

There are some two hundred sugar ration certificates waiting undelivered at the Post Office at the present time, it is stated at the office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. It is the desire to have these certificates picked up as soon as possible as permanent sugar rationing certificates are to be issued soon.

Letters To Troops Bring High Honor

Ann Arbor Woman Awarded Emblem of Honor Pin for Her War Effort

ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 24: —Mrs. Ruth Buchanan—"Auntie Ruth" to the boys in the service—has made letter-writing to soldiers her full-time contribution to the war effort.

She's done the job so well that she has been awarded an Emblem of Honor Pin, an honor ordinarily reserved for mothers of four or more sons killed in action.

Since October, 1940, 5,000 cheerful letters—birthday cards, get-well cards, sympathy cards—to former University of Michigan students, lonely Negro soldiers, a Greek boy, a Canadian in officers' training, and to hundreds of plain American boys in every rank have gone from her home.

"Auntie" Buchanan adopted her task voluntarily, saw it grow to a size she had never imagined, and met the swelling responsibility with a smile and a chuckle.

She's answered every request for correspondence. To a bomber pilot in the Navy who asked for mail daily she sent letters by the score. To thirty or more others she promised a letter weekly. Aunt Ruth plans to keep up the job, spending hard-earned postage, simply "because of what they're doing for us."

Miss Rose Bell sailed last night for a business trip to Vancouver.

STOP YELLOW TINGE IN YOUR WASH

BLUE stops clothes from turning yellow and makes them snowy WHITE

Washing fades the blue that's in all white things—gradually they take on a yellow tinge. But—a swish or two of Blue in the last rinse on washday will make them white as snow—lovely, fresh and new again. That magic touch of blue is the secret of lasting whiteness.

Seven colours combine to make white. One of these colours is blue. There is no true white without Blue!

Parsley Honey As Vitamin "C"
 London Under Restricted Rations Tells How it Can be Done
 LONDON, July 24:—Suggesting a substitute for vitamin "C"—"your skin cleanser, eye-brightener and pep-giver"—a London woman newspaper columnist suggests making and eating of parsley honey. This honey, guaranteed to "astonish you" is made of various ingredients including one pound of sugar and one half teaspoon of vinegar. Warning: Before you start to get things ready, remember in Britain one pound of sugar is one and one-third week's rations. And you can't buy vinegar in the shops.

ROYALTY ARE HERE

North America Holds High Cards When Kings, Queens Visit
 WASHINGTON, D.C., July 24:—The continent of North America holds four kings and a queen, a football flush, or a king-high straight in its international portfolio.
 The arrival of young Peter of Yugoslavia close on the heels of ex-King Edward of England, plus King George of Greece and ex-King Carol of Rumania, made this continent's "draw," according to Hoyle, a lucky break.
 The picture-card of Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, added to this royal assemblage, would give a hand of kings and a queen—if it were a poker game.
 When there's the possibility of a football flush (good to hold for a draw) in the personages of related royal houses, as for instance King George, Queen Wilhelmina, Crown Prince Olaf of Sweden and the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg.
 The visits of Prime Minister Winston Churchill might be said to fill out this royal flush and cap it with an ace.
 At any rate, there's still a good king-high straight, in the royal persons of ex-King Edward, Queen Wilhelmina, Crown Prince Olaf, Crown Princess Martha and the Duchess of Windsor.
 Never in the history of this continent have so many royal faces crowded the headlines, and never has there been such a shuffle of royal cards with so much at stake.

WOMEN IN BIG JOBS
 Call-up of Civil Servants Opens Doors Closed Since the Last War
 By Foster Barclay
 (Canadian Press Staff Writer)
 LONDON, July 24:—Call-up of civil servants has opened important government executive posts to women for the first time since the last war. The day will be in sight when a woman will be in charge of a government department.

First big civil service appointments involving women made
 Miss A. M. Smith, assistant private secretary to the postmaster-general and Mrs. M. Kendrick, private secretary to the assistant postmaster-general. Both positions previously were held by men.
 Charming, clever and efficient, the two women, aged 26 and 27, respectively, passed the rigid civil service executive examination with flying colors. Other women also are scheduled to try the exams.
 Miss Smith, educated at Linzie Academy near Glasgow, qualified for her new appointment with experience as private secretary to the controller of the stores department of the post office. She has been in government service for more than six years, three less than Mrs. Kendrick.
 Neither mind being taken out of the "static hours" class and as secretaries to ministers they are prepared for long spells of work.
