PLAN FOR SHIPYARDS

Unions Submit Proposals As Alternative To Seven-day Week Considered Impracticable

George Henderson, secretary of the local Boilermakers' Union, returned to the city yesterday from Vancouver where he attended a conference of British Columbia shipyard unions at which the seven-day week working proposal was rejected as being impracticable under present conditions. The conference drew up a new draft work plan for shipyards as follows:

"Experience in the past month of operation of the 7-day continuous production plan has proven that such a plan for continuous operation in the shipyards here was introduced prematurely. The unusually rapid growth and expansion of the industry, taking in thousands of new men formerly unacquainted with shipbuilding and large scale production methods, together with the inability of the management and staff to cope fully with this rapid development and the labor problem, created bottlenecks of inefficiency and disorganization within the shipyards. The 7-day continuous operation, rather than aid the situation, further aggravated it to the point where the present discontent of the working men warrants our serious consideration.

"The fact that the government plan on which our existing supplementary agreements are based did not make compensation for rights and privileges that were sacrificed contributed further to failure of the plan. We can only conclude that any continuance of this plan will lead at this time to the detriment and ultimate defeat of the end for which it was intended—increased production.

"Therefore, as a means of stabilizing this all-important industry and bringing order out of chaos, this joint conference, representing all shipyard unions, proposes the following plan for the immediate consideration of our membership, following which it will be submitted to the government and operators. We are firmly convinced that this alternative plan will result in creating harmony and an improved working spirit of the men; will alleviate the immediate shortage in some trades, will give necessary time for the repair and maintenance of what is mostly old equipment, will give a short breathing space each week to allow for filling gaps in lagging work and in particular will give the labor-management committees now being set up an opportunity to eliminate inefficiency and disorganization and to develop a thorough-going system in production which will as a whole, result in an immediate increase in the output of urgently-needed ships.

"Second Shift—The second shift shall work six consecutive shifts of seven hours and forty minutes, for which nine hours will be paid for the first five shifts and eleven hours for the sixth shift, making a total of fifty-six hours pay for a regular work week.

"Third Shift—The third shift shall work six consecutive days of seven hours and ten minutes, for which nine hours will be paid for the first five shifts and eleven hours for the sixth shift, making a total of fifty-six hours' pay for a regular work week.

WAR NEWS

BOLD INVASION PLANNED?

LONDON—With Britain, Russia and the United States united as never before, Allied hopes of striking a decisive blow in the war this year appear today to be predicated on a bold invasion of western Europe. That Allied strategy calls for such a move is clearly indicated by the announcement that Washington, London and Moscow are agreed on the urgency of opening a second front to crush the Axis armies between two forces. Meanwhile there are indications that Adolf Hitler is massing his legions for an all out effort to smash Russia with all possible speed but observers believe Russian ability to withstand the shock will be strengthened by knowledge that powerful help is on the way.

DEFENDING OF CRIMEA

MOSCOW—After beating off a week of virtually constant German onslaughts, defenders of Crimea naval base at Sebastopol have counter-attacked and improved some of their positions, it was reported yesterday. No further details came from the Ukraine where a midnight communique said the Russians were putting up a violent defence against the Nazi advance east of Kharkov.

MIDWAY AND CORAL SEA

WASHINGTON—The Japanese lost fifty-five ships sunk or damaged, according to official statements on the Battle of the Coral Sea and Midway Island. The enemy also lost 350 planes and an estimated 20,000 men. Plans for the invasion of Australia and Hawaii are seriously set back.

MORE TROOPS FOR BRITAIN

LONDON—Thousands more United States soldiers, including tanked destroyer forces as well as additional armored units, have arrived in northern Ireland, it was announced today. Canadian anti-tank corps, a dental corps and reinforcements have also been landed in Britain with Lieut. Col. C. O. Hutchinson in command.

LONE NAZI HITS HOTEL

LONDON—A solitary German unloaded a stick of high explosive on an east coast town last night, hitting a hotel and killing at least nine persons. For the fourth consecutive night, weather apparently prevented large scale Royal Air Force operations over Germany.

SHELTER PROVIDED

Y.M.C.A. Takes Lead in Protection Against Air Raid Emergency

Prince Rupert's first air raid shelter is now in readiness and it is a good example which it has been suggested might be emulated elsewhere in the city. This shelter has been prepared in the basement of the Y.M.C.A. war services building and might conceivably prove of real value in case of emergency in an attack on this city. Unless the building should be subjected to a direct hit, those who would be in this shelter should be quite secure. It has been disinfected and fumigated and equipped with tables, chairs and recreational facilities. The furnace of the building would provide heat and arrangements are also made for light cooking.

WARDENS SESSION

Violations of Blackout Regulations And Other Matters Discussed

The reports of the Air Raid Protection district wardens presented at their meeting last evening dealt with various developments in the precautionary and imminent danger blackouts of the past two weeks. J. S. Wilson, chief warden, presided and complimented the wardens on their efficient services. The long periods of duty had been a heavy strain on the workers, much heavier than it should have been if the citizens would register and take their proper share of the burden. There was still an urgent need for more helpers.

Various complaints dealt with lighting and transportation breaches of regulations. Two specific complaints were handed in in writing and these will be passed on to the executive for their action. One or two clubs, restaurants and private and staff houses in the Rushbrook Heights district were specially noted for their flagrant violations.

Various recommendations will be passed on to the executive for their consideration. Patrol cars may be used to enable wardens to cover their districts more quickly. The difficulty of hearing the siren east of Ambrose Avenue was reported.

In every district the district warden had favorable comment to make on the support given by their various workers but more are needed.

Those present at the meeting were J. E. Boddie, J. L. McIntosh, G. T. German, Alf Rivett, Ray Allen, J. A. Teng, and J. Bird for J. H. McGlashan.

First Occasion On Which Enemy Have Landed On Western Hemisphere — Attu Island and Kiska Harbor Are Points of Entry

WASHINGTON, June 13 (CP)—United States Army and Navy planes are now engaged in attacking isolated Japanese troops which succeeded during the last few days in landing on remote Attu Island at the extreme western end of the Aleutian group and elsewhere on the same islands including Kiska Harbor. It is the first occasion on which the Japanese have landed on the western hemisphere in the present war.

The discovery of the landings was made by reconnaissance planes when weather cleared sufficiently to make observation possible.

Such landings may have to do either with an effort to isolate Siberia or to move against the Alaskan mainland.

The United States Navy officially announced last night that the Japanese had landed on Attu at the tip of the Aleutian Islands and had put ships into Kiska Harbor but had been repelled from populated areas by Army and Navy aircraft.

United States Army and Navy airmen continued their combing of the bleak islands of the Aleutian chain today in a rising effort to search out and disperse the small Japanese invasion units following the landing on Attu and the harbor of Kiska which is in the Rat Island group. Despite adverse weather conditions, a Navy communique said that the air attacks have already forced the invaders to retire from populated regions of the tiny islands at the extreme western tip of the Aleutian archipelago and the attacks are continuing. While both Navy and War Departments said early today that there was no further information on the fighting, there was no doubt that every effort was being made to expel the invaders.

Attu is like the tip of a dagger pointing toward Japan and, if the enemy should occupy the island, it would blunt the potential offensive weapon and likewise give a Japanese base against other islands and the Alaska mainland. Kiska has similar strategic potentialities.

The emergency hospital in the basement of the Prince Rupert General Hospital is now ready for use, it was reported.

TOBRUK TO GET BLITZ

Axis To Lay Intensive Siege To British Stronghold In Libya, It Is Expected

CAIRO, June 13:—Harmet, six miles south of Knight's Bridge, which is twenty-five miles south of Tobruk, was the general scene yesterday of engagement in the Libyan campaign between the Axis and the British. The fighting tapered off towards the close of the day to small scale proportions. The Axis is on the offensive and signs are not lacking of an impending blitz attack upon Tobruk.

Axis armored forces are reported by British headquarters today to have thrust toward Acroma, about ten miles west of Tobruk, but the communique said "all our positions are intact."

The Royal Air Force officially reports large fires started in the dockyard area at the Italian naval base of Taranto in a bombing raid Wednesday night.

The local Sea Cadet Corps, under the leadership of Lieut. Commander Alex Mitchell, paraded last night to the Capitol Theatre where there was full enjoyment of the picture "The Courtship of Andy Hardy."

BLACKOUTS DISCUSSED

Local A. R. P. To Tighten Up On Observance Of Regulations

A review of the experience of the recent blackout periods provided the chief business at the regular weekly meeting of the executive of the Civilian Protection Committee (A. R. P.) which was held yesterday afternoon with J. J. Little in the chair and W. D. Lambie, J. S. Wilson, Sam Massey, Lieut. Hoare of the Navy, Inspector Ernest Gammon, S. E. Parker and A. M. Davies, secretary, present. The value of the local organization had been admitted by the citizens but there was still need for a fuller co-operation. Various complaints had been taken under advisement where infractions of the blackout regulations had taken place. Such infractions may result in prosecutions.

The matter of automobiles moving during imminent danger was also considered. It was emphasized that roads must be kept free for the movement of military trucks and all other traffic must be suspended. Permits for any other car must be obtained through the local organization from the headquarters in Victoria. They are issued on a strictly limited scale and cover only cars absolutely necessary such as ambulances, fire auxiliaries or decontamination units.

A request was authorized sent to the city commissioner to have the lane used by pupils of King Edward School for evacuation enlarged and made usable.

The emergency hospital in the basement of the Prince Rupert General Hospital is now ready for use, it was reported.

Japs In Aleutians . . .

There is nothing to be greatly surprised about in the Japanese landings on the Aleutian Islands. A thousand or so miles west of Dutch Harbor, where the Japs staged their air raid ten days ago and a good deal less than that far from Japan's own Kurile Islands, lonely Attu Island could have been landed upon about any time the enemy chose to do so. There is only a short time of the year when weather is at all favorable in that area and this is the time. Conversely, if the Americans wanted to land on the Kuriles in some remote spot it is likely they could also do so. What advantage would be gained, of course, would be another question. It is to be considered that there is always a heavy risk of complete loss of forces being sent out on such isolated expeditions. Such is the risk that the Japanese run in landing on the Aleutians as would the Americans should they move on the Kuriles.

There might have been a single or several motives for the Japanese landing on the Aleutians. It is most likely that it is a defensive action in view of the generally anticipated offensive against Japan which must come from somewhere. Then it might be meant as a diverting action or even a face-saving one. It is also to be considered that the enemy might have the idea of establishing bases for an offensive drive eastward towards the Alaska mainland, Canada and the United States — an operation against which large preparations are doubtless being made in addition to our own plans for a westward offensive.

If we were allowed to know more about the things in a military way that are going on on our own side we might be able to interpret more clearly the real significance of the Aleutian Islands operations. Meanwhile the landing there of the Japanese tends to focus more attention on the Axis drive towards the western hemisphere although it does not bring actual conflict closer than we have already had through the Dutch Harbor operation.

We sometimes wonder which is worse—the war or the rumors of war. Here in Prince Rupert we are certainly already in the thick of battle as far as the rumors are concerned.

The Fisheries Experimental Station . . .

The fisheries experimental station of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, having had its inception here, expanding from humble beginnings to become an institution of many ramifications, has long since proven its invaluable worth to the fisheries industry and today is an important factor in the war effort from a scientific standpoint. It has come to be regarded as such a peculiarly local institution that it had never occurred to us that such a possibility as its being moved away would ever arise. Nevertheless, such a move is now more than a possibility. We are told that already it has been decided to remove part of the station to Vancouver and the rest may also have to go—the reason being that the premises which were built especially for it are required for other immediate pressing needs and there is nowhere here for the experimental station to re-establish itself.

It is gratifying, however, to be assured that influential local bodies are doing everything they can to keep this most important institution here in Prince Rupert where, in view of this being the centre of the most important fisheries of the Pacific Coast, the station really belongs anyway. We believe that every possibility of retaining the organization here should be exhausted before any final decision is made to remove it to a less advantageous location.

And now some people in these parts are even thinking it would be nice if they could move to England where they would be safer.

Invasion Of Britain . . .

Just two years ago this month there reached the editor's desk a long article descriptive of the British Isles to be "held for release" in the event of an invasion of those islands. Possibly, the public does not know that it is common practice for newspaper services to prepare such matter in advance for use in connection with events which appear imminent or about to break. Back those two years ago when France was collapsing and the fresh and mighty Nazi forces were at the height of their strength we were living in a state of nervousness that the British Isles would be invaded. The date for the invasion and the triumphal march of Adolf Hitler into London were even being set. Now two years have passed but England still stands and the invasion of Britain appears to be an unlikely event. Indeed, they are talking about an invasion not by the Nazis but by the Allies themselves. True, England, since those now yellowed sheets reached the editor's desk has gone through a sore testing and has suffered many wounds. Nevertheless, the invasion has not even yet been attempted. But the fear of an invasion probably did a great deal to make Britain strong in her island fortress as she is today.

This is just a demonstration that the worst we anticipate often does not happen but it is a good thing to be ready for it—just as we are getting ready for it in Prince Rupert today.

NEWS FOR MIDLANDS

Word has been received of the transfer of the First Midland Regiment, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Gamey, from Edmonton to the Canadian west coast. This unit was recruited at Cobourg, Bowmanville, Lindsay and Campbellford.

Active and reserve army forces of Cobourg co-operated to hold a successful parade and drumhead service. Led by the band of the Second Midland Regiment, approximately 125 officers and men marched from the Armory to Victoria Park where they were addressed by Rev. Major C. R. Spencer. On the march back following the service, Col. A. H. Boursall, commanding officer of the Second Midlands, and Mayor J. Burnet took the salute from a position opposite the Town Hall.

A three-day Music Festival at Colborne United Church was a complete success. Most classes were well filled and interest in the contests was at a high pitch throughout. Financially, the festival was also a success. A special train from Cobourg each morning carried entrants to Colborne and brought them back each evening.

Mrs. May Lindsay of Cobourg appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter in police court charged with causing a disturbance by swearing and by impeding or incommoding peaceable passengers. The complaint was laid by Mrs. Elsie Donnelly and arose out of a quarrel between the two women.

The recent Red Cross drive resulted in the sum of $8,000 being raised in Cobourg and Hamilton Township.

Cobourg citizens are buying more and more pork, veal and lamb as shortage of beef becomes more evident. There has been a shortage of steaks even in restaurants and boarding houses. Prices are up as much as 20 and 25 percent above the original ceiling.

The regular schedule of ferry trips between Cobourg and Rochester is under way for the season. On opening day 423 passengers came across Lake Ontario. There were only three cars. Most of the visitors were young people.

The Cobourg branch of the Navy League of Canada is making large numbers of ditty bags for use of men in the naval service. Donations have included $75 from the Rotary Club and $50 from the Kinsmen's Club. A tag day is being held today.

The Cobourg Kiltie Band drew a large audience and an appreciative one when it held its opening concert of the season in Victoria Park under the leadership of J. H. Goldring. The band consists of thirty-three members including a number of new recruits.

Lieut.-Col. J. W. Odell journeyed to Toronto last week-end to attend an anniversary dinner tendered to graduates of fifty years ago from the University of Toronto.

Capt. M. M. Hood, former editor of the Oshawa Daily Times, has returned to Canada after spending over two years in Britain with the Canadian Legion War Services. He will resume his duties as secretary to Attorney-General Conant and secretary of the Ontario Civilian Defence Committee.

Employees of the Oshawa plant of General Motors of Canada honored Miss Hazel Yelland on completion of twenty-five years of service with the company. Among other gifts, Miss Yelland received a bouquet of twenty-five roses.

Major H. K. Walker, commanding officer of the Thirty-Sixth Field Battery, was in Cobourg this week on a recruiting visit.

SPORT CHAT

Fred Slade was the first British jockey to fly to a race. He probably also was the most superstitious. In 1919 Slade flew to Belgium to take a mount in the Cesarewitch there. At lunch before the race someone spilled the salt and Slade's face fell about a furlong. He said that after such a catastrophe he could not possibly win the race. He was right. His mount finished second.

Another old-timer, Otto Madden, champion jockey who won the Derby in 1898 on the 100:1 shot Jeddah, died at Newmarket at the age of 70. In 1898 he also headed the winning jockeys' list with 161 firsts. He was champion jock again in 1901-03-04 and retired in 1909 but when jockeys became scarce during the First Great War he returned to win the classic Oaks on Sunny Jim and the English Cesarewitch on Air Raid.

At 43, Donald Finley not only is one of Britain's great air fighters and holder of the D.F.C., but a great hurdler as well. He won the 120-yard hurdle event in 15.6 when an Amateur Athletic Association team defeated a combined Oxford and Cambridge group 74 points to 39.

The war has gone to the dogs. The British Kennel Club decided no dog may be entered for a wartime show unless it is kennelled within 25 miles of the show. The restriction is designed to prevent travelling of great distances in line with the austerity program.

Twins and constant companions in sports participation, the Bedser boys are so alike that even their family has difficulty distinguishing which is A.V. and which is E.A. In a recent cricket match A.V. was run out. When E.A. followed the visiting umpire protested, "you're run out, you can't come back." He couldn't be persuaded otherwise until A.V. was brought from the pavilion and stood beside E.A. Both boys joined the R.A.F. the same day and both are sergeants.

Evatt, Australian minister of External Affairs, who passed through Canada on his way to Britain, is a connoisseur of the game, but he missed a match at Lords. The reason—duty before pleasure. He admitted it was a big disappointment to pass up the game.

Ernie Roderick of Liverpool, British welterweight champ, is a hot challenger for Jock McAvoy's middleweight crown. He outpointed Ginger Sadd of Norwich in a 12-round elimination middleweight contest at Norwich.

ROUTE IS USELESS

Member of Highway Commission Outspoken Against Highway Project

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 13:—Donald MacDonald, member of the joint international Alaska highway commission, bitterly criticizes the inland route for the highway on which work is proceeding. He describes it as "valueless and an economic monstrosity." It would be helpless in connection with air bases for fighter planes in the event of a coast invasion.

Mr. MacDonald favors the route from Prince George to Fairbanks.

LEST WE FORGET

By W. O. B.

Decoration Day, with its memories and its deep and abiding significance, will be solemnized again in Prince Rupert, Sunday, June 14. has been set aside for this sacred duty when comrades in arms, relatives and the active service forces and the I. O. D. E. do honor to those who marched away to battle more than twenty-four years ago and who now sleep in peace.

Now, as then, a bitter struggle rages. Now, as then, our boys march away—some to give their all in the war for Freedom and Justice. At this time, it is more than ever necessary to remember those who "offered themselves willingly, fought bravely and laid down their lives that we might be free."

Tomorrow at 3 p.m., headed by the band of the Midland Regiment with Firing Party, representatives of Navy, Army and Air Force, Standard Bearer, Regents and members of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L. and their auxiliary, the Decoration Day parade will march from the Legion Building to the Cenotaph, there to place a wreath and from thence to the Great War Veterans' Plot at Fairview, where a brief but impressive service will be held. Rev. J. B. Gibson will consecrate the new burial ground and Lieut.-Col. H. Strachan, V.C. M.C. C. O. of 1st Bn. Edmonton Fusiliers will deliver the Decoration Day address.

"In the name of Canada and the Empire, we place these flags and poppies on these graves in remembrance of Duty well done; May God ever bless and protect our countries, our homes and our people."

Fisheries Experimental Station May Be Moving—Landings Substantial And Prices Good

With the lower building on the government wharf already having been requisitioned for other purposes and the possibility that the upper building at the foot of McBride Street may also be taken over, the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and John Dybhavn, local member of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, are making strong representations to the authorities concerned with a view to retaining the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station in Prince Rupert where, during the course of the years since its inception, it has been a valuable adjunct to the port and the fishing industry. There apparently being no alternative but to move at least the one department from Prince Rupert to Vancouver, Dr. Neal Carter, director of the station, is now in Vancouver looking for premises in which Dr. H. N. Brocklesby and Dr. Basil Bailey, in charge of the oil and vitamin work, may re-establish themselves and their staff. Whether or not the whole station may have to be moved away from Prince Rupert is at this time uncertain. In explaining the situation, John Dybhavn stated that the whole question of moving was in a negotiable stage and what would happen was uncertain. Mr. Dybhavn gave assurance that everything possible with a view to retaining the station at Prince Rupert was being done.

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert for the 1942 season up to and including yesterday totalled 5,644,419 pounds compared with 6,226,400 pounds at the corresponding date last year. The American total for this year to date is 3,583,300 pounds in comparison with 3,628,000 pounds at the same date in 1941 while the Canadian aggregate is 2,061,119 pounds as against 2,603,400 pounds. For the week ending yesterday landings totalled 830,759 pounds including 330,759 pounds Canadian and 500,000 pounds American. Halibut prices were at even higher levels during the week with the top bid for Canadian fish 17.1c and 14c which the Cape Spear received for 13,500 pounds and the low 15c and 14c which a number of boats were paid. For American fish 16.4c and 14c was the high price of the week being paid the Happy for 17,000 pounds and the low 15c and 14c paid several boats.

DANCE AND SONG FILM

"Lady Be Good" Coming To Capitol Theatre At First Of Next Week

A talented cast, a gay screen play and delightful singing and dancing combine to make "Lady Be Good," coming to the Capitol Theatre at the first of next week, what is said to be a real treat for movie-goers. Eleanor Powell, Ann Sothern and Robert Young are starred with Lionel Barrymore, John Carroll, Red Skelton and Virginia O'Brien adding topnotch talent.

Based on the premise that when success goes to a husband's head love flies out of the window, the plot of "Lady Be Good" revolves about song-writing couple, played by Ann Sothern and Young, who resort to the divorce court when fame turns Young into a playboy. It takes the intrigue of Eleanor Powell, playing Miss Sothern's girl friend, John Carroll and Red Skelton to bring them together again.

Miss Powell's dancing numbers are outstanding for their novelty and include a number in which a trained dog acts as her dancing partner. Also a highlight is Miss Sothern's appearance for the first time in a singing role, among her numbers being the popular "The Last Time I Saw Paris."
