Calls For "Yes" Vote—

AFFIRMATIVE ANSWER TO PLEBISCITE CALLED FOR BY CHIEFTAIN OF C. C. F.

War Effort Can Be Helped By This But Would Be Hurt By Negative, Says Coldwell

OTTAWA, April 22:—"Today Hitler and Japan are still dominant," declared M. J. Coldwell M. P., C.C.F. leader, last night. "At no time since the outbreak of war, not even at Dunkirk, was the condition of the United Nations more critical than it is now. And never before in the long story of human struggles, have the stakes been so high or the challenge so great."

"No group in this country has been or is as critical of the way in which the Canadian war effort is being conducted as the C.C.F. But this is not the time to be vindictive, to vote against the government on one issue because one opposes the rest of its policy. We must consider each question on its merits, and I believe that our war effort can be helped by a united affirmative answer to the plebiscite, but that it might easily be harmed by a negative vote."

"A united 'yes' will remove an excuse which some are able to use in trying to justify an inadequate war effort. If the 'yes' comes from all groups, races, and classes of our people, it will serve as a notice to the Government and to Parliament that the Canadian people mean business, that they want greater and faster results than we have had hitherto. It will tell our Allies and serve notice to our enemies that Canada is united in its determination to contribute everything necessary to the defeat of the Axis dictators. In short, a united 'yes' will raise the morale and the will to victory of our people and will reassure and encourage our Allies. A 'no' would have the opposite effect. It would depress morale at home, would disappoint and discourage our Allies, and give comfort to our enemies."

"We who live at this grave hour have in all truth, an assignment with destiny. The question is, have we the courage and the vision to shape that destiny?"

"In the past we have, with reason, mistrusted those who helped the aggressors to grow strong and allowed the first attempts to collective security to be destroyed. For we realized that had we, as late as year 1933, stood collectively for peace and stopped the profit seekers from arming our potential enemies, democracy would not now stand with its back to the wall. But all this is passed. Now, there can be no question but that the people of the United Nations fight for the opportunity to reach higher levels of human dignity. For this, the Chinese struggle doggedly against great odds; for this, the British people stand resolute in their beleaguered island and fight the enemy on many fronts; for this, the stubborn and brave Russian defends his soil; for this, the American and Canadian people must turn their continent into a more complete arsenal of freedom."

"In such a struggle there is no middle road. We are either for our cause or we are against it. If we are for it, then we must do everything in our power to further the war effort. We must not leave either ourselves or the Parliament elect to carry on this war any excuse, any loophole of escape from the responsibility to prosecute this struggle with every resource at our command."

"This is why I who abhor war; I, and those associated with me, who have denounced the policies which led up to this great struggle, call upon you to go to the polls on Monday next and vote to release not only the Government but the overwhelming majority in Parliament from any pledge or promise, the keeping of which might interfere in any way with our prosecution of this war."

"Yes" Vote Essential
The vote on Monday is not a vote for or against conscription of manpower for overseas service. It is a vote to release members of Parliament from their pledge not even to consider such conscription. Thus while the Prime Minister, in his radio address on April 7 quite properly stated the reasons why it is necessary to obtain a release from the pledges against conscription for overseas service, he made it quite clear that such conscription is not the issue which will be decided by the plebiscite. That issue will be decided by Parliament

Another Commando Raid Is Staged By Combined Force On Occupied French Coast

LONDON, April 22: (CP)—British commandos raided the German-held French coast near Boulogne this morning, drove back the Germans guarding the coast and withdrew after two hours, British combined operations headquarters announced.

The commandos ranged throughout the French coastal region in the first combined operation since the attack on St. Nazaire on March 28.

A naval force accompanying the commandos damaged one German trawler which attempted to intercept them and set another afire without damage to themselves.

British casualties were "very light."

United States Troops There With More To Come, 'Tis Reported

That Sphere Considered Vital To American Defence—Allied Sky Fighters Defending Australian Approaches—Further Withdrawal In Burma

NEW DELHI, India, April 22: (CP)—Louis Johnson, head of the United States advisory mission to India, said that, because defence of India was of vital importance to the United States, "troops of the United States already are in India and more will come." This was the most striking piece of news in regard to the war situation in the south Pacific Ocean today.

Allied sky fighters, defending the approaches to Australia, were credited officially today with shooting down of four Japanese "zero" fighters over Port Moresby, New Guinea, without loss to themselves. Meanwhile United States Navy torpedo boats are reported to have seriously damaged a Japanese cruiser in action in Philippine waters.

On the critical Burma front, British headquarters announce that outnumbered British-Chinese defenders have again been forced to make retreat under heavy pressing reinforced Japanese columns. Heavy fighting is going on in and around Yenanung which the Chinese recaptured a few days ago.

Tide Is Turning
Admitting that the tide appeared to be turning in favor of the United Nations in the south Pacific, General Douglas MacArthur said, however, that it would be foolish to imagine that the Japanese would concentrate on India and overlook Australia. "We must be prepared for the worst," he said.

In a broadcast from New Delhi General Sir Archibald Wavell predicted that great forces were being amassed by which the Allies would regain air, land and sea power in the Pacific.

The Plebiscite . . .

We have urged before but we feel we must repeat the desirability of voting and voting "Yes" in the manpower plebiscite next Monday. Indeed, it is more than desirable to do so. It is imperative that we should do so that the government may see how we all stand in the war effort.

Premier John Hart has concisely summed up the case for a "Yes" vote as follows:

"Events during the past two and a half years, have been of such nature as to change Canada's position and make it far more vulnerable than it had been originally. The strength of our enemies has been increased greatly by Japan's entry into the war. Our foes have marshalled the total of their manpower and every possible resource into a gigantic effort to enslave by one crushing blow, those nations whose people cherish liberty above life.

"On April 27, a manpower plebiscite will be submitted to the electors of the Nation, which asks the people of Canada to release the government from any obligation arising out of any past commitments restricting the methods of raising men for military service.

"The people of this province are aware of the critical situation confronting the United Nations. I feel confident that they desire an all-out effort on behalf of Canada for the preservation of liberty and conclusive victory and that that desire will be reflected by an affirmative vote to the plebiscite. I appeal to all British Columbians to exercise their franchise on April 27, and sincerely hope that the privilege will be used to the fullest extent, the plebiscite endorsed in the affirmative, and the last shackle restricting Canada's war effort removed."

People's Rights . . .

Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, has declared in an article that decent housing, education, security, leisure, liberty and a voice in business are the rights of all individuals.

He writes: "Christians are entitled to call upon their government to see before itself the following objectives and conditions, pursuing them as steadily and rapidly as opportunity permits.

"1. Every child should find itself a member of a family housed with decency and dignity so that it may grow up unspoiled by underfeeding or overcrowding, by dirty and drab surroundings, or monotony of environment.

"2. Every child should have the opportunity of education until his years of maturity, so planned as to allow for his peculiar aptitudes. This education should throughout be inspired by faith in God and find its focus in worship.

"3. Every citizen should be secure in possession of such income as will enable him to maintain a home and bring up children.

"4. Every citizen should have a voice in the conduct of the business or industry carried on by means of his labor, and the satisfaction of knowing that his labor is directed to the well-being of the community.

"5. Every citizen should have sufficient daily leisure, with two days of rest in seven and if an employee, an annual holiday with pay to enable him to enjoy a full personal life.

"6. Every citizen should have assured liberty in forms of freedom of worship, of speech and of assembly.

"7. The aim of a Christian social order is the fullest possible development of the individual personality in the widest and deepest possible fellowship."

COMMUNITY PROMOTION

BY SCOTT YOUNG

TORONTO, April 22:—Choose at random 1,300 industrial workers. Move them with their wives, children, dogs, cats, automobiles and domestic problems into 1,300 completely new and unused homes in a district never before used for residential purposes. Then figure out how to keep them happy.

There would be no library, no Red Cross branch, no civilian defence organizations, no poker clubs, no Boy Scouts, few or no church facilities, no women's auxiliaries, no Girl Guides. Maintenance of civilian morale, a most essential war industry, would demand that these services be organized immediately.

It would be a huge problem, and is. Multiplied several times, the problem belongs to Wartime Housing Ltd. and comes under the direct attention of Lionel Scott of Toronto. This organization's job is to provide living accommodation for workers in essential war industries where none has or can be furnished by private capital. It is a government-owned company and there are over 30 projects across Canada ranging in size from 50 to 1,300 units.

"It is our idea that community effort can be brought about by quiet promotion among the people," Mr. Scott said in an interview. "There is nothing foisted on them. The tenants' tastes and needs provide the basis for development."

Home Decorations

Mr. Scott is a housing expert and believes that decoration of a home reflects the personalities of the persons living in it and that they in turn are influenced by home surroundings. His long experience as a writer and lecturer on housing problems has given him a sound knowledge of people and their problems.

The work started first at the Wartime Housing project in Windsor, Ont. From organization there the technique was crystallized into a manual which would be a sound text book for men and women in similar jobs across the continent. There are 800 houses already occupied or under way and another 500 are to be started shortly, making 1,300 family units in Windsor. Among the community enterprises developed there are Guides, Cubs, Scouts, Civilian Defence Group (men) an advisory committee for Scouts, a Victory Garden Club (community enterprise), the Women's Auxiliary, the Wartime Housing Improvement Association, the Wa-Ti-Ho Club (women's group) and such things as Kindergarten, Glee Clubs and others in the process of formation. Harry Footman is district councillor in the Windsor project and Jessie Harding has been appointed recently as Halifax counsellor. There are about 1,000 wartime houses in the Halifax and Dartmouth developments.

When starting to organize a Wartime Housing community, the leaders of the various civic groups, service clubs and public bodies are interviewed. In Windsor at the first general meeting, there were 20 or 30 people, representing such bodies as the Library Board, Red Cross, School Board, Church and Service clubs and other civic and public officials and leaders of voluntary organizations. A magazine is published and sent to each tenant. It contains practical information on the various problems of home maintenance.

"These projects can and should form happy communities which may well serve as examples for general community development," says Lionel Scott, who is 35, and a native of England.

NEED FOR FIGHTERS

Real Soldiers Rather Than Trade Trainees Are Main Requirement of Canadian Army Now

Soldiers, not trade trainees, are the main requirement of the Canadian army today, Major A. S. Parkes, district recruiting officer, told a meeting of the local civilian recruiting committee in Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon. Reporting on a recent conference of recruiting officers in Vancouver, Major Parkes told the committee that a certain number of trade trainees can still be used but the need now is for fighting men and recruiting henceforth must be with that end in view.

The Canadian army, Major Parkes told the committee, needs 100,000 men during 1942 of which British Columbia so far has supplied about 2500. This means that 7500 men are still required in this province at the earliest possible date.

It was brought out at the Vancouver meeting that almost 25 percent of the available male population of British Columbia is already in uniform but there are too many men in the higher age brackets between 35 and 50 with a large percentage of the younger men still available.

The local committee was advised that the northern recruiting district had been extended to include Prince George with Prince Rupert, Major R. L. Gale, who has been recruiting officer at Prince George, is being moved south and Major Parkes will be in charge of the enlarged northern district with recruiting sergeants at Prince Rupert, Smithers and Prince George.

Alex MacKenzie, chairman of the local civilian recruiting committee, was presiding at yesterday's meeting. Sergeant John C. MacKenzie, transferred recently from Cranbrook to Prince Rupert, has taken over the duties as secretary of the local committee in succession to Sergeant C. B. MacFarlane who left recently for Victoria to take up officers' training.

A vote of thanks was tendered Major Parkes at yesterday's meeting for his report on the Vancouver conference.

MECHANIZED AGRICULTURE

British agriculture is being mechanized; twice as many tractors now are being used as three years ago.

"THE HOARDER"

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

People who buy more of anything than they currently need, and merchants who encourage them to do so, are sabotaging the war effort, and are therefore public enemies.

Loyal citizens do not hoard. They buy only for their immediate needs. They cheerfully adjust their standard of living, realizing that their country's needs must come first. They do not try to gain unfair advantages over their neighbours.

Are you a hoarder or a loyal citizen? Are you hampering Canada's war effort by unnecessary buying? Or are you co-operating to the best of your ability to save Canada from such horrors as Hong Kong?

If Canadians do their duty, there will be no more hoarding. Everyone will get a fair share of the goods available. More food can be sent to Great Britain. More raw materials—more manpower—will be available for making guns, tanks, planes and other armaments to back up our armed forces.

In cases where it is advisable for you to buy in advance of your immediate requirements—such as your next season's coal supply—you will be encouraged to do so by direct statement from responsible officials.

AS CRIPPS LEFT ON FATEFUL MISSION

Entrusted with one of the war's most vital missions—that of inducing India to accept Britain's offer of dominion status after the war, and of getting India's full co-operation on the side of the United Nations' war effort, Sir Stafford Cripps is shown shaking hands with the pilot of the plane that flew him to India, just before the take-off from England. Now he is returning to England after failure in his mission.

Farewell Party Is Happy Affair

Ronald Bridgett Is Honored by Children's Choir of St. Peter's Church

Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Henderson the children of St. Peter's Church (Seal Cove) choir gave a farewell party in honor of Ronald Bridgett, who has since left for Vancouver where he will take up future residence. The feature of the evening's proceedings was the making of a presentation to Mr. Bridgett in recognition of his work as leader of the children's choir.

guests were Canon W. F. Pushbrook, William Lamb, Mrs. David Scott and Mrs. Henderson. Following supper, the presentation was made to Mr. Bridgett of a handsome tie clip to which was attached one of the choir badges. Master Vaughan Tattersal made the presentation with a happy speech. Mr. Bridgett, in responding, urged the children to continue their musical efforts.

SPORT CHAT

They don't come any tougher than Micky Wood, unbeaten light-weight wrestling champion of Great Britain, former body guard for an Indian maharaja and now sergeant instructor to the Middlesex Home Guard. At 44, Micky still weighs only 135 pounds and when he puts his civilian soldiers through a commando-like unarmed combat drill it's hard to realize that the ribbons he wears on his tunic are for service in the First Great War. Wood, who has had more than 500 fights in his 25 years of wrestling and never been disqualified, has done almost everything, including walking bare-foot through fire.

The fire-walking stunt took place 12 years ago when Wood was serving as a bodyguard for the Maharaja of Borda. One night, during a celebration, an Indian fakir who had just walked across a bed of burning charcoal without injuring his feet, asked if any white person would like to try it. "Go on, Wood, you seem able to do anything, you can do it," dared the Maharaja. So, Micky took off his shoes and socks and with the fakir leading the way, walked eight steps along the blazing coals. He suffered slight burns where small lumps of charcoal lodged between his toes, but otherwise felt no ill effects. That's how tough he is.

Dance at Knights Of Columbus Hut

Over 200 Present At Very Enjoyable Affair Last Night

Last night in the Knights of Columbus Hut a very enjoyable dance was held for the forces. There was a large crowd of over 200 in attendance. Dancing was enjoyed to music supplied by the Ninth Heavy Battery, R.C.A., orchestra.

Dancing was from 9 until 11 p.m. when refreshments were served by the ladies of the Catholic Women's League, and the Junior hostesses under the supervision of Miss Margaret McCaffery. Then dancing continued on until midnight.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was C. P. Balagno. Geologists divide the earth into three spheres: lithosphere or rock; hydrosphere or water; and atmosphere, or air.

BIRTHDAY OF ROTARY

Local Club Comes of Age—Party Last Night Was Very Enjoyable Affair

The Prince Rupert Rotary Club celebrated its twenty-first birthday last night. The "coming of age" party took the form of a delightful dinner dance. About ninety persons were present, friends joining with Rotarians and their ladies for a delightful occasion. There were a number of novel features.

The toast to the Prince Rupert Rotary Club was proposed in a fine and appropriate manner by Major T. W. Sutherland, President. P. H. Linzey responded. John Dybhavn gave a history of the club which proved of much interest.

Other speakers of the evening included Co. F. W. Adams, whose presence lent a fitting international aspect to the affair; George L. Rorie, who represented the Prince Rupert Gyro Club, and Arnold Flaten, the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

The presentation of a great golden key to George C. Mitchell, the president-elect of the Rotary Club, lent a touch of levity to the proceedings.

A bouquet was presented to Mrs. Allan Landels, the bride of one of the members.

Another incident of the evening was the preparation of a large souvenir program, personally autographed by every person present, which was sent, together with a box of flowers, to H. F. Pullen, the last remaining charter member, who is ill in the Prince Rupert General Hospital and at whose inability to be present regret was expressed.

Music for dancing which delightfully rounded out a memorable evening was furnished by Mrs. Jean de Carlo's Orchestra. Lee M. Gordon was convener of the affair and master of ceremonies for the evening.

AN EXPERT ON THE JOB

BY WESTOVER

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

Building in Edmonton this year is running one hundred percent more in value than in 1941. Permits for the year to date number 120 with value amounting to considerably more than $200,000 in comparison with fifty permits and $100,000 value for the corresponding period last year.

A draft of Edmonton men has returned home from England for instructional purposes. They are Battalion Sergeant Major A. Symington, Sergeant Major E. P. Tam, Sergeant J. W. Dobson, Sergeant E. J. B. Braden, Sergeant D. A. Gower, Sergeant J. R. Hadden, Sergeant W. J. Rouston, Sergeant R. C. Miquelon, Sergeant W. A. Rendall, Sergeant S. McCullough, Sergeant D. Smith, Corp. F. E. J. Hancock, Corp. G. E. Hansen, Corp. J. Cunningham, Corp. J. W. Cram, Corp. A. G. Phillips, Corp. T. J. Keating, Corp. F. A. Gunn and Corp. J. J. Mackie.

Canada would rather have her men training to be soldiers than doing hard labor in her jails. It was stated by C. G. Purvis K.C., crown prosecutor, in Edmonton police court when a farm boy was given suspension of sentence for six months on a charge of failing to report for military training. In accepting suspended sentence, the youth agreed to proceed at once to Camrose basic training centre.

Edmonton sports circles mourn the death of George L. Parney who passed away at the middle of last week. He was one of the city's best known athletes in the early twenties when he starred in basketball and track and field events. In the last few years he had been prominently identified with hockey promotion. Mr. Parney had been a resident of Edmonton for thirty-eight years.

Heavy snowfall during the past week in the Edmonton district has altered the spring seeding outlook for many farmers. It has been described as a "million dollar snowfall" to parts of the district which had been short on moisture. The snow may cause a slight delay in spring plowing and seeding but this is more than offset

CARLOAD OF CONES

American Soldiers Have Weakness For Ice Cream

MONTREAL, April 22.—American soldiers do like ice cream and wherever Uncle Sam's service men proceed, ice cream, like Mary's lamb, is sure to go. Most of them agree that it tastes better when eaten from a cone.

Whether this is a fact or not is not known. What is a fact, however, is that 600,000 Canadian ice cream cones passed through Montreal yesterday enroute from London, Ontario, to St. John's, Newfoundland, in care of the Canadian National Express.

They went forward on the Canadian National Railway's "Maritime Express" to an eastern port whence they will go by boat to destination.

It is understood that American soldiers requested that a shipment of ice cream cones be sent along and that is, apparently, the first time in forwarding history, according to Harry H. Whiteman, express terminal agent at Bonaventure station, that such a commodity has been shipped by carload lot.

by the improved moisture condition.

Edmonton's citizens have been asked by Mayor Fry to give an overwhelming "Yes" vote in the forthcoming manpower plebiscite.

"The war is no longer a friends and neighbors' battle," the mayor says "but is the very defence of our homes."

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb and Prof. I. S. Morrison of the University of Alberta have left for Eastern Canada to take part in a short course in A. R. P. work to be given by an authority from England. The course will be attended by heads of public utilities from almost every city in Canada.

Seven members of the Second Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, left this week for active service. They are Company Sergeant Major C. H. Quick, Corp. R. W. Grierson, Corp. A. A. Gregor, Corp. E. H. H. Smith, Corp. B. R. Triscott, Corp. D. A. Smith, Corp. J. M. Anderson. An eighth man, Corp. A. W. Roseborough will leave at an early date.

WEST MAY NOT KNOW EAST VOTE

Plebiscite Returns Must Not Be Published in Any Province Where Voting Going On

By JAMES MCCOOK

(Canadian Press Staff Writer) OTTAWA, April 22.—Restrictions against the publication of results of the manpower plebiscite, April 27, in any province before the polls in that province are closed, are incorporated in the voting regulations for the day.

Similar restrictions applied to the returns of the Dominion general election, March 26, 1940, gave "great satisfaction" declares Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer on that occasion and chief plebiscite officer in the present direct submission to Canada's electorate.

It is recalled that the flow of returns into Canadian Press member newspapers on election night in 1940 was uninterrupted despite the restriction but results flashed from the east over coast-to-coast wires while the west was still voting lay unpublished in newspaper offices for varying times because of the new rule.

Prompt Results

Nor did the restriction affect the speed of the Canadian Press concession on the general result. The return of the Liberal government was flashed at 8:47 p.m. E.S.T., 13 minutes before the close of polls in British Columbia. The flash on the government's clear majority was carried at 8:57 p.m. compared to 9:42 in the 1935 election.

In the 1940 election, Vancouver newspapers, accustomed to publishing extras on eastern results had to wait nearly four hours after their receipt over Canadian press wires before they could put them into print. In the 1933 election, before the restriction was introduced, the west coast newspapers could tell their readers, two hours before their polls closed, that the Liberals were sweeping the East.

The defeat of the Bennett Conservative government in 1935 was conceded three minutes after the close of the polls in British Columbia and while complete returns from Saskatchewan and Alberta were being made public.

Officials associated with elections recall that provision for the restriction, inserted in the Dominion Elections' Act in 1933, caused much discussion in the House of Commons Committee reviewing the Act: It was argued that publication of eastern results in British Columbia or other western provinces as late voters went to the polls had a psychological effect on the voter and a definite effect on the trend of the vote.

Effect In West
Mr. Castonguay pointed out that British Columbia was the area mainly affected since conclusive results in the Maritimes might be indicated in B. C. before polling stations closed. Prairie areas were affected to a lesser extent because of the time required to establish the trend of eastern voting as returning officers checked their ballots.

The restriction against publication, Section 107, of the Dominion Elections' Act, 1938, follows:

"No person, company or corporation shall, in any province before the hour of closing of the polls in such province, publish the result of the polling in any electoral district in Canada, whether such publication is by radio-broadcast, or by newspaper, news-sheet, poster, billboard, handbill or in any other manner. Any person contravening the provisions of this section (and in the case of a company or corporation any person responsible for the contravention thereof) is guilty of an illegal practice and an offence against this Act."

Plebiscite polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. local daylight saving time as compared with 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in general elections.

Six Hundred Qualified To Cast Ballots Next Monday

SMITHERS, April 22.—J. L. McEwen has completed his work of enumeration for the forthcoming plebiscite and finds that there are just under 600 names on the Smithers' list. The polls will be managed by J. L. McEwen and Roy W. Calderwood as deputy returning officers while Douglas Kerr and Mrs. Margaret Warner will officiate as Clerks of the Poll.

The Advance Poll will be handled by L. H. Kenney and William Grant.

Smithers Chamber Meets At Noon

Change of Hours Results In Better Attendance — Hanson Is Speaker

SMITHERS, April 22.—The Smithers and District Chamber of Commerce altered its regular method of procedure in the holding of meetings on Friday last when it held a luncheon at the Hudson Hotel at noon which was followed by the regular business session. There was a much better gathering than has been attending the meetings and it was decided to hold similar luncheons every two months.

those present and was guest speaker for the occasion. His talk was confined mostly to the forthcoming plebiscite and he asked those present to work for a "Yes" vote on April 27.

Several other matters of local interest also came up for discussion.

SMITHERS

Olof Hanson M.P. left Smithers on Saturday morning, returning to Ottawa to attend the re-convening of the House of Parliament after the Easter holidays.

Jack McDonnell, who has been home on a short furlough, left on Tuesday morning for a Royal Canadian Air Force station in Ontario where he expects to get advanced training on Harvard fighters. Jack was teller in the Royal Bank here before enrolling in the Air Force last fall and has made excellent progress with his studies and training since joining the force. He is a son of Roy McDonnell of Smithers.

Affirmative Answer To Plebiscite Called For

in terms of our national interest and that of our Allies in this struggle for existence and freedom. It should be purely a question of strategy. The decision should depend only on how we can make our best and most effective contribution. This, and this alone, should be the governing consideration. If we can think in these terms we shall see that it is important to leave the government and Parliament free to act as the future developments of the war may demand. No one can foretell what may be the situation six months from now.

The war has entered on its most critical period. The great Russian army is faced with the certainty of a vast spring offensive by Hitler's desperate might. Our brothers in Australia, New Zealand, and India are all in immediate danger of invasion by Imperialist Japan. China is fighting bravely and barely holding its own. The sinkings of allied shipping in the Atlantic and Pacific are becoming daily more serious. These are, briefly, the facts of the situation. If we are honest with ourselves and refuse to be lulled by false optimism, we will realize fully the grave dangers which lie immediately ahead. In such a situation all of us, whatever our ancestry or language, must act unitedly as Canadians, proud of the measure of freedom which our French and British forbears won for us and determined to preserve it and extend it for the greater happiness of future Canadians.

Papineau, McKenzie and Canadian pioneers of self-government struggled united for freedom a century ago. Let us today prove worthy of their pioneer efforts and build an even greater unity and win an even greater freedom—a freedom securely based on economic security and social equality.

"One the plebiscite has been disposed of, the true issues of maximum production and equal sacrifice should be faced by Parliament. Thus far we have operated our war effort on the basis of business as usual. We have been producing automobiles and refrigerators when we should have been making tanks and guns. Only recently have serious restrictions on these commodities been imposed and even now we still employ too large a percentage of our labor power and machines in non-essential production.

"As our National Council stated last month, 'What Canada needs is maximum production and equality of sacrifice, which can only be secured by conscription of wealth and war industries.'

All-Out Effort

"A complete all-out war effort is essential to victory. This involves a comprehensive planning of our economic life. Not only must we have the power to control war industries but such control must be taken out of the hands of dollar-a-year men who represent monopoly interests and placed in the hands of men and boards who represent the people and are free to direct production for the national effort without concern for the interests of Big Business. Only in this way could every plant and every machine be fitted into its proper place in the national plan of production. This must be financed without inflation or the burdening of the nation with unnecessary debt. To do this, total war planning requires the complete national control of all our financial institutions.

"This is a people's war, and farmer and labor organizations must be adequately represented upon all war controls; the workers must be treated as partners with management in industry. This is an accomplished fact in Britain, Australia and New Zealand now. In other words, an all-out effort requires the active participation of all the people wholeheartedly and enthusiastically. Industry must forego its profits, accumulated wealth must be placed at the service of the nation without interest, incomes must be restricted, and a national minimum standard of living assured in town and on the farms for all families, in order to maintain efficiency and morale. These are essential to the all-out war effort which we insist must follow an affirmative vote next Monday.

"I want to make it clear, beyond the slightest chance of misunderstanding, that we of the C.C.F. will not only continue but will intensify our demand for the conscription of war industry, accumulated wealth and the financial institutions, on the same basis and at the same time as compulsory mobilization of human power. To us the value of the plebiscite lies only in the opportunity it gives our people of clearing away the underbrush of irrelevant argument. Once that is cleared away, the path to a total and just war policy will be open. We shall accept an overwhelming and united 'Yes' vote next Monday as another illustration that the people of Canada are anxious for a war policy which places all of the nation's resources at the service of the nation's cause—without profits, without special privilege, and without the evils of monopoly control.

"This is important not only for victory in the war but for the reconstruction problems which will face us afterwards. The way in which our war effort has been organized today is freezing and intensifying the control of our national economy by the same small group which was responsible for the years of depression and unemployment before the war.

"It is in this belief that on January 26 I moved in Parliament, on behalf of the C.C.F., that (and I quote) 'the forthcoming plebiscite should seek the support of the people of Canada for the complete and effective conscription of war industries, accumulated wealth and financial institutions, at the same time and on the same basis of sacrifice as the suggested extension of the conscription of manpower.' (end quote).

Part of Problem

"Unfortunately, the majority of the members in Parliament voted against this amendment, and the plebiscite therefore covers only a small part of the vast problem facing our country at the present time. But we shall continue to demand the all-out war effort contained in the amendment just quoted. I believe that in time events will force the authorities, no matter how unwilling they may be, to adopt some of these proposals even as they have been forced to introduce measures of social control which three years ago they would have shunned.

"I have pointed out that the present situation is most critical. During the past year there have been Russian army, the quantity and China, and Russia. Let us see if we can find reason for this, and from that learn the lesson which might help us to appreciate the needs of the moment and the correct policies which could meet those needs. I repeat tonight what, in substance, I stated to Parliament on January 26 on this point.

"In North Africa we have held our own because, so Mr. Churchill told us, we have concentrated most of our equipment there, and so at last a British army meets an Axis force on nearly equal terms. The reason for the stubborn resistance of the Chinese is that they fight for a China that had begun to make progress towards a greater measure of economic security, more than old imperial China ever knew.

"This, too, is the secret of Russian courage and Russian success. Whatever criticism we might have of their methods of government, the Russian people believe firmly that they are fighting to preserve and extend those economic and social advances which they themselves have made during the last twenty years. These advances have been real and marvellously efficient, the effectiveness of the quality of their equipment, and the magnitude of their industrial reserves, amply demonstrate. Surely we can learn some lessons from these facts. Laborious for over two years, we have been mobilizing our war effort, and in spite of our boasted industrial strength we have failed to provide the tools to get on with the job. It is true that Russia had built great war industries before the war. But she was also able to build new cities, new homes, new universities, new standards of life, while we did neither the one nor the other.

When the test came, there were no private monopolies, no trusts, no vested interests, no contractors who refused to accept war conditions no business men who needed the incentive of gain or the acquisition of wealth, to slow up her war effort and bring her to the brink of defeat. In a few weeks Russia was geared for total war, with the full support of a people with a future to defend.

"I say to you: Next Monday go to the polls and vote 'Yes' in the plebiscite. But don't stop there. Go forward from that first step toward national unity to an effective compulsory mobilization of all our resources for victory. Unitedly we can achieve this end and in spite of opposition. Unitedly we can win on the battle front and win also on the home front. We must win this war, but it is wrong to say, 'Nothing else matters.' We must make sure that we can win the peace too.

"Because of all this, I urge you to make every effort to get to the polls on Monday next and place your cross opposite the word 'Yes'.
