Royal Air Force Blasts Heavily At Work of Unit Being Established Here Described By Dr. Macdonald, Director

Sewage disposal is the most serious problem affecting health conditions in Prince Rupert at this time, Dr. R. J. Macdonald, director of public health, told the Prince Rupert Gyro Club in a luncheon address yesterday in which he interestingly outlined the functions of the newly established public health unit here of which he is the head. The greatest immediate need is an improvement in sanitary services generally. Conditions which he would have deemed inconceivable had he not seen them existed in Speaking of dairies of which a preliminary survey had been made, Dr. Macdonald said there must be certain rectifications but he had found dairy operators ready to cooperate. Weekly checks on milk would be made as one of the public health service activities.

As for restaurants there were some conditions which must be changed but here again there was willingness on the part of the op-· erators to co-operate.

Checking of water supply was another public health service. The source here was beyond question, Now Dead + Dr. Macdonald felt.

Dutch Harbor Is Quiet After Bombing Yesterday But Whole Coast Continues To Be Alert

Third Raid!

OTTAWA, June 4 .-Defence Minister J. L. Ralston told the House of Commons today that it was reported there had been a third raid on the United States naval base of Dutch Harbor last night. The minister said there was no further information on this raid which was additional to the two others reported yesterday. The raids were of a type "not unexpected on the West Coast," the minister said.

GENERAL STUART

New developments in the situation in the Pacific theatre coincide with the visit to Prince Rupert of Lieut. General Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff, and Major General John Peter Mac-Kenzie, who have been here for the past couple of days. They have been busy in conference with the local military authorities in view of the intensified situation.

Gunnar Selvig, Henry Stangbye, K. Dahlie and Dr. Jens Munthe, lat a meeting of Norwegians and other interested persons last night were appointed a committee with power to add to their numbers to take charge of a campaign to raise $12,000 for the purchase of training plane for the Royal Norwegian Air Force. Plans were drawn up for the campaign which will start in about a week's time. The meeting was held in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Gunnar Selvig was in the chair and Peter Lien presided at the organ to accompany the singing of national anthems. There were a number of

INTENSIVE DEFENCE PREPARATIONS BEING CARRIED OUT FROM TIP OF ALEUTIANS TO MEXICO, INCLUDING PRINCE RUPERT— MOVE IS NO SURPRISE

The whole Pacific Coast from the tip of the Aleutian Islands to the Panama Canal zone, including, of course, Prince Rupert, was on the alert last night with a sudden intensification of defence preparations-naval, military and air as well as civilian-following two air raids yesterday on Dutch Harbor, Unalaska. Here in Prince Rupert Lieutenant General Kenneth Stuart was already here and was in conference until a late hour last night with the local military authorities. In all the services there was an obvious speeding and tightenng up of the defences. A precautionary blackout was called at 10:30 p.m. and throughout the night local A.R.P. wardens maintained patrols to insure that civilian protection regulations were being observed. An official announcement by the United States War Department at Washington stated that warehouses had been set afire in the first air raid on Dutch Harbor but no details had been given up to this morning as to the results of a second visit by Japanese bombing and fighting planes several hours later. All along the Pacific Coast, military, naval and air force leaves were concelled. Official statements all agreed that the raids on Dutch Harbor came as no surprise. Inspector S. F. M. Moodie, head of the A.R.P. for British Columbia, in a statement from Victoria, said there was no cause for alarm. Ordinary precautions had been redoubled.

QUIET TODAY

The United States Navy at Washington, describing the situation at Dutch Harbor as quiet at present, reported today that a second wave of enemy planes flew over the base yesterday but failed to drop bombs and probably was engaged only in reconnaissance. A communique declared that total damage at the base was not extensive and fires were quickly extinguished after the initial raid yesterday morning. There was no mention of casualties.

While the source of the attacking aircraft has not been definitely determined, the communique said that they are believed to have been carrier-based and not direct from Japanese territory.

The raids against the Alaskan outpost put defences from the Aleutian Islands to Panama on the alert against a further thrust.

OFFICIAL STATEMENTS

At a press conference shortly before the Navy issued the communique, War Secretary Henry L. Stimson predicted attacks on Dutch Harbor were "not the only and the last raids" to be expected on American territory.

Governor Ernest Gruening of Alaska and other authorities said that the raid on Dutch Harbor was not considered as a surprise and preparations had been made against just such attacks.

Anthony G. Dimond, Alaska delegate to Congress, gave this warning after the Dutch Harbor attack: "I am afraid we may have a struggle on our hands to keep that area." He expressed fear that there were not enough defending planes to beat back a sustained series of attacks in case the Japanese opened a big-scale of-

WHOLE COAST ON ALERT

The entire Pacifc Coast checked blackout precautions and radio stations went off the air last night about 9:45.

At Victoria Air Raid Protection workers were ordered to be on the alert and stand by their telephones.

Inspector S. F. M. Moodie of the provincial Civilian Protection Committee said: "In view of the unsettled condition in the Pacific, while there is no cause for alarm, we have have redoubled ordinary precautions."

Lighthouses along the coast have been ordered extinguished.

There were unconfirmed reports today that an enemy aircraft carrier had been disabled off the Alaska coast.

I hear a great deal of complaint about the small amount of money that is now left after the cost of lliving is paid and a large number of men do not stay here because of the cost of living, lack of living accomodation and the lack of amusements.

While I do not know a thing about the reason for closing up some of our local places recently, it is my opinion that we are supposed to be able to exercise our own judgment to a certain extent and we are not compelled to patronize any place that is not all it should be. Again, some people do not like the things that others find to their liking. Which brings us back to the question of how much freedom one really has left; anyway. I know a good many people who have been in Rupert a year or two and they have not, been invited into a private home at all. They have no prace to pass a sociable evening and their only recourse is the theatre, beer parlors and the clubs. In fact, there are no roads, no cars and no place to go for a ride into the countryunless one admires dead timber and muskeg.

One cannot ramble around town and watch the new constructionor waterfront doings, without bumping into a sentry, who says "Verboten." I am not criticizing all precautions but merely mention the lack of sights one may see They all receive nice fat cheques

gers of Queen Charlotte Islands

S. E. Parker, local member of the provincial Red Cross campaign committee, has done a thorough job in organizing the outside units of the local branch for the campaign, it was stated today by W. R. McAfee, the local preseident. There has been a gratifying and generous response from the loggers on the Queen Charlotte Islands, all of which goes to swell the total of the local branch.
