SCHOOLING IN BRITAIN

Education Has Followed Evacuees to Country But 25,000 in Coastal Areas Don't Attend School.

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, March 20:—Britain's children are still going to school, but in a setting like their parents knew rather than in classrooms a modern generation might expect.

HAROLD FAIR

Many young Britons will have strange tales to tell of school days in the villages of Wiltshire and the mountain hamlets of Wales, many miles from London and the big industrial cities they left behind when war reached out at them from the sky. Cockneys from London's east end will recount how they chased crows and hoed gardens in between their lessons in reading, writing and arithmetic, and sons of Clydeside dock-workers will recall their days beside the lochs learning the history of Scotland's wars in its natural setting.

There will be many stories of Second Great War "Mr. Chips," who came out of retirement or quit other jobs at the request of the government when 25,000 of Britain's 165,000 teachers were called to the forces.

Some School-Less.
Education authorities are proud of their record of keeping 98.6 per cent of the country's elementary school population of 5,000,000 in the classrooms. They would be proud still if they could educate the 25,000 boys and girls in the front-line coastal area who haven't been to school for months and won't be going unless they move.

For every child out of school, at least 250 others are receiving education. This record was attained despite lack of accommodation, the biggest handicap to Britain's wartime education, shortage of teachers and the effect of changed environment on thousands of children evacuated early in the war to safe districts.

The shortage of teachers was partially overcome when authorities retained those earmarked for retirement and called back those already superannuated. In London, many teachers who had turned to business returned to the schoolroom.

Wartime Task.
Changed environment continually harassed authorities. After the great evacuation of September, 1939, turned placid villages into veritable beehives of children, they faced not only the accumulation problem but also the difficulty of reconciling city youngsters to rural life.

"Front line" schools on the coast nearest German-held France were worst affected by closings. One at Dover has opened but there is no uniform policy for these schools. Secondary education also ran into difficulties. In some places parents withdrew children prematurely to take advantage of high industrial wages for youths. London County Council blamed this tendency when there was a drop of 1,000 pupils a year in fee-paying entrants.

RIVERSIDE REOPENING

Tungsten Property in Portland Canal District Going Back Into Production.

The Riverside mine in the Portland Canal district up Salmon River on the Alaska side of the international boundary is about to be reopened after having been closed down for the past six months, it is announced by J. H. Scott of San Francisco, the managing director, who is here today on his way north to spend two weeks on the property. Employing a crew of about thirty men, it is expected the mine and mill will now continue in steady operation. Tungsten and lead concentrates will be shipped by way of Prince Rupert, the Jones shipping bill having been so amended as to permit of this being done.

Also going north today is Austin H. Merrill who will be superintendent of the Riverside mine with headquarters at Hyder. Improvements to be made in the property include sixteen new motor driven flotation cells for the month which are now on the way.

IS CALLED TO SOUTH

Rev. J. H. Myrswang Has Not Yet Made Up Mind.

Rev. J. H. Myrswang, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, a few days ago received a letter of call from a Lutheran parish a short distance from Seattle on the Puget Sound. Mr. Myrswang states that it will take some time before he can finally decide in the matter.

Also Mr. Myrswang states that he has become much attached to his work in Prince Rupert to all the people here, and to the city as such. It is his opinion that Prince Rupert will yet become the active and busy and progressive outlet for the magnificent material development that will take place in the northwestern part of British Columbia. With the wonderful harbor, the transcontinental railroad and the coming highway that will connect not only with the interior but with the entire North America, the city of Prince Rupert will have a great future. In such a place there is work to do in every field of activity not only in material things but in cultural and spiritual things. With vision and ambition, there will be desire to build harmoniously for the future.

Further improvement was reported this morning from the Prince Rupert General Hospital in the condition of H. F. Pullen.

PARACHUTE-SKI TROOPS AT REST—IN BEDS OF SNOW

Tired from ski-hiking over the rugged snow-covered Rocky mountain terrain in Utah, soldiers of the 503rd Parachute-Ski Battalion of the U.S. army take their well earned rest in sleeping bags on the snow. Men and equipment, including skis, are dropped to the snow from planes—and then are on their own. The picture, from the U.S. Army Signal Corps, was made near Alta, Utah.

Says Seabiscuit Tops in Horses

So Says "Silent Tom" Smith, Veteran Trainer.

LOS ANGELES, March 20:—"The best race horse 'Silent Tom' Smith ever saw?" "Why ask me that?" countered the veteran trainer, amused. "Why there isn't any argument about it. Seabiscuit—by a long way!" The grey-haired, bespectacled specialist, who handles the C. S. Howard string, gained fame as trainer for the turf's all-time high money winner, Seabiscuit. "He was the greatest I ever saw," Smith mused. "I don't think we ever knew just how great he was."

Pet Kept by Vancouver R.C.A.F. Officer Makes Flight.

LONDON, March 20:—"Timmy, a pet cat kept by the R.C.A.F. Hurricane bomber squadron led by Sqdn. Ldr. Bob Morrow of Vancouver, is a 'Puss in (flying) boots.'" Timmy slipped through a hole in the wing of a machine while armorers were loading the guns and he spent an afternoon flying thousands of feet up in the air. The cat wasn't discovered until the following morning when aircrewmen noticed it peering from behind the lamp panel in the wing. A saucer of milk was all that was required to restore Timmy to its normal condition.

ARE NOT SATISFIED

Natives of Kitwanga Insist They Be Allowed To Catch Salmon For War Food Supply

KITWANGA, March 20:—The natives of Kitwanga are not satisfied with replies of the Department of Indian Affairs and the Department of Fisheries to their request that they be permitted to take salmon from the Skeena River during the war and ship the fish to the canneries for processing as food for Britain. The request has been refused on the grounds that much of the fish thus caught would be unfit for canning and, further, that catching the fish in this manner would deplete the fisheries to such an extent that in a few years there would not be sufficient fish for the Indians themselves.

Harold Sinclair has been delegated to further discuss the matter with the authorities, pointing out that the concession was being asked largely because production of food and more food under the war effort is being sought. In view of the war emergency and the need for food, it is felt by the natives that the risk of depletion might well be run. By permitting such fishing work will also be provided for Indians aged, infirm and unable to otherwise make a livelihood for themselves, receiving no support from any department.

PLANS OF MACARTHUR INDICATED

Battle of New Guinea Is Developing—More British and American Forces Reach Australia.

MELBOURNE, March 20:—As well as conducting the campaign on behalf of the United Nations against Japan from Australia and the islands to the north, General Douglas MacArthur, new commander-in-chief of the Allied forces in the Far East, plans to relieve the defences of the Philippines, he states.

General MacArthur disclosed that President Franklin D. Roosevelt had ordered him to organize an American offensive against Japan for the primary purpose of relieving the Philippines, this statement being made while opening shots were fired on the action front in the Battle for Lower New Guinea.

Australian forces are sniping at the Japanese endeavoring to advance into the Markham Valley in New Guinea. There are indications that the battle in New Guinea will develop like that of Burma with ambush and sniping tactics by the defenders. There is considerable activity on the east coast of New Guinea. Port Moresby on New Guinea, Port Darwin on the northern tip of Australia and the Solomon Islands continue to be the immediate objectives of the enemy.

Another raid on Port Darwin resulted in two persons being killed and a few wounded. Further detachments of United States and British soldiers are arriving in Australia from Singapore and the East Indies and United States planes from Java.

Just Busy Days For Princesses

King's Daughters Lively And Lessons Cover Lot of Ground

LONDON, March 20:—Lives of the royal princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose are very active. Princess Elizabeth, it is generally known, longs for the day when she might have a small car, for she has a quick mechanical mind. Meanwhile she cycles.

Elizabeth has been out shooting with her father, using a light 16 bore gun. She joins the local company of Girl Guides each Saturday at the church hall or out in the woods. She attends A. R. P. lectures and firewatching instruction, uses a stirrup pump and can give artificial respiration. She drives a governess cart and has been well taught by the King's head groom, Mr. Owen. And then again both sisters garden and also have a small library of cookery books and pamphlets and can turn the produce of their allotments into good wartime dishes.

In fact, with the love of gramophone records, the radio, the films, (they are generally the ones to choose the films shown in the evenings), they lead the active life of any growing girls in Britain. In addition, of course, their lessons are far more strenuous and cover more ground than those of the ordinary growing child.

JUST A FEW OF THE NAZIS' 1,500,000 CASUALTIES ON RUSSIAN FRONT

These German soldiers, taken prisoner at the south end of the far-flung Russo-German battle line, found that the Russian winter was one enemy against whom precision training in the art of killing was useless. All of them are suffering from frostbite, having been inadequately prepared for winter campaigning. Just how many of the 1,500,000 casualties admitted by the Germans on the Russian front were put out of action by General Winter is not revealed.

Air Raid Shelters . . .

The local A.R.P. organization will be gratified, and the public generally might be well appreciative, of the announcement made by T. D. Pattullo, the local member, of Premier John Hart's assurance that steps will be taken to give particular financial consideration to Prince Rupert in connection with civilian protection measures.

We have heard on many hands of our vulnerability and a realistic survey of the Pacific war scene makes obvious the potential possibility of attack here.

The authorities have been slow to move, the most of us think, in this and other matters. It would seem there may be little time to be lost now.

With more substantial finances now being in sight for civilian protection organization, it appears that one of the very first things we should have would be something in the way of air raid shelters with substantial capacity.

Not a few of the citizens have been working earnestly and diligently these many weeks now in organizing forces for service in the event of disaster conditions.

Now it is high time that the authorities were also doing something about it.

One good bombing might pulverize a great deal of Prince Rupert. The immediate spending of a few thousand dollars in providing air raid shelters might save many lives a little later on.

The Truth Won't Hurt Us . . .

There have been justified complaints of overly optimistic war headlines in certain Canadian and American daily newspapers, comments Financial Post. Undoubtedly the public morale has suffered and will continue to suffer unless prompt steps are taken to correct this situation. The average Canadian reader is not as gullible and immature as some of these headline writers seem to imagine.

Sooner or later the public must face the truth and when it does it will be better prepared for the long, hard and bitter war ahead of us. There is absolutely nothing to be gained by continually minimizing our losses, by trying to arouse a belief that there is a short cut to victory.

The other day we were told that a great naval victory had been scored in the waters around Java. The public went to bed confident that Java was saved and that the Japs were in retreat. Next day the same papers which had headlined the naval victory reported, in smaller type, that the Japs had landed and were cutting the island in two. They were also told that the Japs, not the Allies, had air control.

A glance at the map and the most casual appraisal of the position would have indicated that the situation in Java was desperate the moment the key point of Singapore fell. Indeed with a little more reasoning it was apparent that the whole Far East situation was gravely imperilled once the facts about Pearl Harbor had been digested.

Without immediate and strong fleet protection Singapore was well-nigh helpless and after it had been captured then Java, Sumatra and the rest of the East Indies represented merely follow-through operations for the Japanese. There was nothing to be gained by raising the hopes that the enemy would stop after taking the key. It would have been much better to have adopted the realistic course of preparing the public for the inevitable sequels.

Believers of groundlessly optimistic dispatches and headlines are not going to co-operate readily in any scheme to conserve scarce and vital materials like rubber, gasoline, sugar, tin and fats. They are bound to have difficulty in realizing the need of an immediate and total war effort. They are more than likely to lapse into a state of complacency, which by long odds is the gravest of the many dangers the United Nations are facing at this critical time.

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the people of the whole district are doing the same.

Gardening

The secret of high yields in small gardens lies in immaculate cultivation, good feeding and constant care. Yet all this takes less work, where no space is wasted, than poor care in a garden which is too large.

There is a psychological effect involved. The small garden does not make one tired to look at it when warm summer days arrive. A garden 25 by 50 feet made on the rear of a lot can be devoted to vegetables and flowers.

The labor of caring for it is not really labor, it is recreation.

Vegetables grown in well-fed, cultivated and watered rows mature rapidly and yield heavily; and in quality they far exceed those grown in much greater space which have to struggle with adverse conditions. They are more tender, and of far better flavor. The lettuce is lush and richly green, which means it has the maximum vitamin content. So with all the crops.

The variety of food placed on the table has much to do with the quantity which the family eats. Enough different things should be grown so the menu never grows monotonous. The family taste should always be considered, and planning should be based upon the actual food needs of the summer. To grow many times the quantity of greens that can be eaten at home is wasteful, however rich in vitamins the greens may be.

Here is the reason for insistence upon conserving human energy. The work devoted to growing food that cannot be used helps to discourage us from growing other things we need. A garden so large that we neglect it when summer comes is not an asset to national defence, but a serious mistake.

The moral of this story is: Great care, rather than great space, makes the successful Victory Garden.

Timely Recipes

HONEY CAKE

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup honey
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
2 cups cake or pastry flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ginger
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup raisins

This recipe is worked out for use with cake or pastry flour. If bread flour is substituted, only 1 3/4 cupfuls of the bread flour will be required. The amount of milk should be increased to 3/4 cupfuls (1 cupful less 2 tablespoonfuls); and the baking powder should be increased to 1 1/2 teaspoonfuls.

To mix the cake, cream the butter, add the sugar gradually, beating between additions. Add the honey and the well-beaten eggs and mix thoroughly. Mix and sift the dry ingredients. Add a little of the flour to the raisins, then add the remainder, alternately with the milk, to the butter and egg mixture. Beat well, then add the raisins. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 to 60 minutes. If desired, frost with a plain vanilla frosting. This cake keeps well.

BANQUET IS HELD

Annual Gathering of Women's Auxiliary of Canadian Legion.

Some forty guests attended the tenth annual banquet of the Women's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion last evening at the Boston Cafe. Mrs. William Rothwell, president, welcomed the gathering in a few well-chosen words, expressing pleasure at the splendid co-operation of the past year and the hope of even greater for the future.

After grace had been pronounced, "O Canada" was sung, followed by the toast to the King and singing of "God Save the King," after which the guests did ample justice to the excellent dinner provided.

Two presentations opened the proceedings with a pleasant ceremony. Mrs. Henry Smith Sr., on behalf of the members, presented the traditional gold badge of the Legion to Mrs. Rothwell as past president for 1941, also a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

In a short speech the president thanked the members, then took the opportunity of presenting to Miss Edith Gandy a pair of earrings as a testimonial of gratitude from the auxiliary for her patient and untiring work of the past year for the bombed refugees of Britain. This faithful member has made 355 garments with her own hands. Thanks were also extended to Mrs. Richardson who, though not a member, has attended weekly and given generously of valuable assistance to the sewing club.

A short program followed, the following taking part: Mrs. J. A. Teng, accompanied by Mrs. Kellback, solos.

Mrs. William Brass, readings. Mrs. Fred Hunter, accompanied by Mrs. Hanley, solos.

Community singing, accompanied by Mrs. Hanley.

Bridge and bingo made the rest of the evening pass pleasantly. Prize-winners in bingo were Mesdames Killin, McGreish, Garlick, Bremner, Johansson and Davis, and in bridge Mesdames Connery and Guyan.

Lee MacPhail has a big job, for a young fellow. It also would be a big job for an old fellow, or a middle-aged fellow. He has been given the job of hoisting Toronto Maple Leafs off the bottom of the International Baseball League. If this 24-year-old, chub-cheeked son of Brooklyn's Larry MacPhail succeeds, it will be in the best family tradition. Larry picked Cincinnati Reds out of the nether regions and built the constant pennant-threat Reds are today. Once Cincinnati was on the way up, Larry lost interest and moved to Brooklyn. The way he revived Dodgers' lagging fortunes in the National League made history. Toronto hopes Lee has the same ability. "There's one thing about this job," Lee said in an interview, "You can't do much worse. The club finished in last place last year. The only trouble is that several of the best players on that eighth-place club of last year have moved up or otherwise been lost to the club. That means we have to spend a lot of money before we've even got an eighth-place club again."

Lee's activity as general manager of the Toronto club has been constant and inspiring. Few days go by without announcement of another player-deal. His connections with bigtime owners and managers have helped plenty, and he's the first to admit it. His father's advice and moral support and the same from Branch Rickey of St. Louis Cardinals probably counted heavily in landing a working agreement with Pittsburgh Pirates. Leafs also have an agreement with Philadelphia Athletics. Lee has executive courage. Pittsburgh told him he could have Oral Hildebrand, the old Yankee ace, if Hildebrand would come to terms. A pitcher like Hildebrand probably could give Toronto a terrific lift, in shape and working right. But he asked for what MacPhail considered too high a salary, and the youngster refused to dicker or cajole. He sent Hildebrand to Indianapolis of the American Association.

Lee was signed as general manager last December 1. Between that date and the end of the 1941 season, Toronto had drafted two players and elected a new president, Pete Campbell of Toronto. Since MacPhail was signed, here is his record: Acquired Fred Chapman, shortstop, from Athletics; arranged working agreement with Pittsburgh; signed Burl Grimes as team manager; bought Joe Talley, pitcher, from Wilson, N.C.; Lynn Myers, shortstop, from Rochester, and Jimmy Grik, catcher, from Sacramento. Signed Ralph McCabe, pitcher, a free agent; acquired Jack Haiey, pitcher, from Newark (later returned when drafted); bought Burgess Whitehead, second baseman, from Giants; Jim Bucher, infielder, from Columbus; traded Carl Fischer, pitcher, to Seattle for Lloyd Brown

TEACHERS' SALARIES

Gene Weims, physical training instructor in Booth Memorial High School, brought up the question of minimum salaries for teachers in British Columbia at the annual meeting of the Prince Rupert Liberal Association Wednesday night, telling how the agitation for an increase from a minimum of $780 per year to $900 had been one of the factors actuating the British Columbia Teachers' Association in taking steps to affiliate with organized labor. Already this request has been made to the government by the Teachers' organization but nothing had been done about it. The result now was that education was actually being denied children today because the money would not be spent on teachers. In the Prince George district today there were thirty-five schools without qualified teachers.

T. D. Pattullo, M.L.A., agreed that a minimum wage of $750 a year for teachers was outrageous and he favored at least $900. He did not believe, however, that teachers should go on strike.

and George Windsor, pitchers, bought Oral Hildebrand from Pittsburgh, later sent him to Indianapolis; bought Harry Shunan, pitcher, from Harrisburgh and acquired Johnny Gee, pitcher, on option from Pittsburgh. Bought Joe Mack, first baseman, from Indianapolis and Jim Davis, pitcher, from Kansas City; signed Walter Ringhofer, catcher, a free agent, and traded Johnny Hill plus cash for Mickey Haslin, infielder, of San Diego. In addition, Lee said he will get help from Pittsburgh, probably a few pitchers, a catcher and an outfielder. There were 26 names on the Toronto roster for the club's muster this week in Camden, South Carolina, for spring training. MacPhail and Grimes have combined to line up nine pitchers, three of them southpaws; three catchers; eight infielders and six outfielders. Of this number, only eight were with the club last year.

Shower in Honor of Miss Patricia Bunn

The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers and large wedding bell. The table was covered with lace cloth centred with the bride's cake, pink tapers and yellow daffodils. After delicious refreshments were served the bride-to-be was presented with a portable typewriter filled with many beautiful and useful gifts. Those present were Misses Patricia Bunn, Thelma Doiron, Edna Gillies, Edith Cromp, Jean Cameron, Joyce Keilback, Helen Gamula, Lillian Davies, Messrs. Peter Doiron, Mike Lemon, Leo Doiron, J. P. Will Resume Birthrights

Andrew Cecil of Port Edward returning to Village of Kitselas After Absence of Thirty-Seven Years. KITSELAS, March 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cecil and family of Port Edward were unexpected visitors to Kitselas for a few days during the past week. On Saturday a reception was given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Solomon H. Bevan. There were speeches of welcome by the host, Walter Wright, Mark McKay and S. W. Bevan and Andrew Cecil responded. The guest of honor said that he and his brother, Sam Cecil, had decided to return within the next few months to the native village and resume their birthrights which had been voluntarily abandoned for about thirty-seven years. The late Chief Richard Cecil, father of Sam, Andrew and Kenneth Cecil, was one of the pioneers of this village of Kitselas which was originally known as N-Doo-Doon.
