"ARISE, SIR RICHARD!" PROUD DAY NOW FOR B. C.

HOSPITAL TAG DAY TOMORROW

Boys, Don't Forget to Provide Yourselves with the Necessary Dollars to Gladden the Hearts of Girls Helping the Hospital.

Tomorrow is hospital tag day, and the ladies of the Hospital Auxiliary, organized by Mrs. Angus Stewart, are arranging to make a very thorough duty of this event. Pretty patrols will be posted at vantage points and main thoroughfares of the city, and without accepting the flatterings tag for the masculine bosom it will be impossible to win a smile from them. The most chivalrous males are those who sally forth on a tag collecting expedition, and assuredly there is the prize of very marked favor from the fair ones for the man who can display the most imposing array of pinned on tags. Naturally there is competition amongst the ladies in the race to secure the best result financially for the hospital funds, so be generous, boys, and if you want your own particular fancy among the tag ladies to achieve a record you may conceal your first tag or two and run the gauntlet as often as your courage and your pocket will allow.

CEMENT DUTY

No News Yet of Supposed Victims in Village Close to Katmia—Wholesale Destruction of Vegetation by Gases and Ash.

(Special to Daily News.)

Cordova, June 14.—No word has been received from the revenue cutter Manner by the naval wireless station here today, and the fate of the people of Sfognak and Raspberry Island and on the main land in the district laid waste by the volcanic eruption is still unknown. Reports are reaching here daily of the destruction of all kinds of garden truck and grasses throughout all South-eastern Alaska by volcanic gases and ash, which have spread over a large area during the two days of the eruption. The leaves on the trees are turning brown and it is feared that all vegetation has been killed.

ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY VOTED BY NOON

Progress of the Money By-Laws Ballot and Triple Plebiscite at the City Hall Today Was Tedious---Many Colored Ballot Papers Enlivened the Occasion

City Clerk Woods, returning officer in charge of the bylaw voting and plebiscites being taken in the city hall today, reported at noon this morning that about 120 persons had voted.

There were no fewer than six ballot slips in six different colors. One or more color would have made a rainbow effect possible.

The six questions are for or against bylaws, as follows: City hall bylaw, $1,633,425; electric light bylaw, $1,635,875; telephone bylaw, $1,650,525.

The plebiscites are for or against leasing land for a labor temple site, for or against a Carnegie library rate, and for or against selling fee simple land to develop a recreation park with the alternative for or against the levying of a small rate for the same purpose.

Supplied each with a fistful of colored papers like Chinese prayers, the free and independent retired behind the Union Jack to mark their ballots. The result will be made known soon after 7 p. m.

AGAIN ABSOLUTE APATHY PERVADES BY-LAW MEETING

Empress Theatre Has Never Known a More Meagre House Than That Seen Last Night When the Mayor and Aldermen Advocated the Money Bylaws---Audience of an Odd Hundred or so Dwindled Away by Tens and Twenties Leaving Many Rows of Empty Stalls

Last night's bylaw meeting in the Empress Theatre was again an ill attended one. Considering the central position of the house, and the absence of other attractions of special type, there can be only one reason for the thinness of the audience—lack of public interest in the measures and in the men endeavoring to force them into public favor by threat and cajolment. It would seem as if the citizens have already made up their minds regarding the bylaws, and care very little what the Mayor and members of council have to say regarding them.

Mayor Talked at Length.

For a considerable time the Mayor talked, the burden of his tale being, "Vote for the bylaws, or, by jingo, we'll soak it to you with taxes," or "Vote for the bylaws like good boys and see how easy things will be for us all afterward." After endeavoring to assert that nothing can prevent the council's increasing the taxation if the bylaws are not passed, and giving vent to the

"it hurts me more than it will hurt you" phase of feeling, the Mayor went on to indulge in a little self-adulation about his honesty. He declared that only the fact that a few people had said he couldn't make the grade for mayor had resulted in his running and election. "When people say I can't do things that is just when I get down and do them," he declared emphatically amidst a little applause. Afterward the Mayor said that he had run for office to save the city from graft, and pictured himself as a sort of Horatius holding the bridge against an army of greedy grafters, or like the famous Fanny defending the family from the wolves. Again the small audience cheered.

Rapidly Dwindling Crowd.

A little talk on the plebiscites the Mayor added, favoring them all, but as he concluded the audience rose by tens and twenties and clattered out of the hall, Chairman Leblanc being indistinctly heard vainly protesting as they disappeared. Alderman Montgomery gave one of his blunt addresses to the reduced audience, favoring the bylaws and plebiscite in respect to the labor temple site, but not the other two. As he finished there was another stampede, and only about forty or fifty people remained to listen to Alderman Dybbavn, who was followed by the finance minister and others. Never has so much apathy apparently existed in Prince Rupert in respect to municipal affairs.

In Police Court.

Eli Faucett, driver for the Prince Rupert Fish Market, was fined $100 for supplying liquor to Indians by Magistrate Carss in police court this morning. James Auriol, an Indian of Metlakatla, was assessed $25 for the same offense. Michael O'Brien and Joe Petrie, d. and d., were each fined. The case against William Crosley upon a charge preferred by Joseph Schwanzew will be heard tomorrow.

WILL WELCOME ROYAL

C. P. R. Steamer Will Be Well Received on Trip to Tacoma.

Tacoma, June 12.—When the steamer Princess Royal steams into the port of Tacoma early in the morning of July 4 this year the first Canadian Pacific Railroad's passenger vessel to dock at this port will have arrived, according to officials of that company.

The Princess Royal is coming from Vancouver, B. C., under charter to the Tacoma Carnival Association to bring the 72nd Highlanders regiment of that city to the July Fourth festival events, and it is planned by waterfront men and others to have all the vessels in port at the time, together with the mills and factories, do honor to the newcomer by vigorous blasts of whistles as the steamer comes down the channel to her berth. She will lie in port all day, returning to Vancouver late that night with the Scottish regiment, which is coming 350 strong, including its famous pipers' band.

The only other Canadian Pacific passenger vessel to have entered Commencement Bay, say the company officials, was the Princess Victoria, which came into the bay in the fall of 1905 on her trial trip. She did not dock here, however.

CARS KEEP COMING

Horses Relegated to the Back Streets in London.

London, June 14.—The increase of motor traction in the streets is gradually diminishing the number of horsed vehicles, and one proof of this which strikes one forcibly is that the sight of a horse down, formerly one of the commonest and most frequent incidents, is now comparatively rare. But there is one interesting feature that remains, and that is the van dog. It is generally a rough haired active little mongrel, which does sentry-go backward and forward over the load, and patrols to right and left, with an occasional professional glance at the horse just to see that that subsidiary animal is also doing its work properly. It is impossible to conceive of a creature more absolutely devoted to the sense of its important duties than your little van dog. It is an absorbing passion. He is as jealous of intrusion as a cathedral verger, as resentful of trespass as a game-keeper. The van and its contents are sacred to him, and no profane hand may even be stretched toward his charge without angry protest, and to touch any part rouses him to frenzy. He knows the mischievous London boy thoroughly well, and keeps his eye upon him as he passes. This development of the sense of guardianship in the mind of an animal whose progenitors were predatory is one of the most wonderful things in the natural world.

AROUND WORLD TRIP TONIGHT

Fortunate Winner of H. F. Mc-McRae's Famous Free Trip Will Be Found This Evening.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the office of H. F. McRae & Co. on Second avenue there will be held the deferred drawing for the famous trip around the world, to be awarded by this enterprising firm in connection with the sale of forty-two picked lots in Prince Rupert.

It was necessary to defer the drawing until today because the sum of $150 had to be paid on each lot purchased. This condition has now been fulfilled and the winner of the delightful trip will be drawn for tonight. A good deal of special interest is awakened in this novelty in real estate transactions, the fact that the lots picked for sale in this contest will all enhance themselves in manner making their owners pretty soon able to take trips around the globe on their own account being subject of comment.

MISSION WORK IN PROVINCE

British Columbia Believed to Be on Eve of the Greatest Mission Era of Its History—Interesting Report.

Rev. George A. Wilson of Vancouver has made the following report on the conditions in the Sunset Province of British Columbia.

"There is every reason to believe that the great missionary era of this synod is before us. There is first the recently announced railway policy of the government, whereby over 800 miles of new road are to be built in territory where hitherto there has been none. This new policy which was endorsed at the recent, will mean that hundreds of square miles of territory hitherto inaccessible will be brought into accessibility, and thousands of people will find their way into regions which up to the present have remained uninhabited. It is proposed to place three additional men along the line of the G. T. P., to be stationed at Telique, Fraser Lake and South Fort George. Men of strong personality and intense religious conviction are needed to man these places, which are of strategic importance. For the support of Fraser Lake, the Y. P. S. C. E. of Mount Pleasant Church, Vancouver, has guaranteed the sum of $1,200 annually, a record worthy of emulation.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14

SCIENCE AND MORALITY.

Modern science has changed most things in this world during the past century, but heretofore it has had to do with the material only. Science has not tried conclusions yet with the human heart and conscience, which still correspond in a remarkable way to the hearts and consciences of the men of the most ancient civilizations of which there is record. But science having conquered the material world is beginning to turn its attention to the domain of the world invisible. In a most remarkable article in the June Harper's on some unsolved problems in science, Professor Robert Kennedy Duncan, director of industrial research at the University of Pittsburg, points out a line of possible scientific development that may have as great an effect on the morals of man as the taming of the electric fluid has had in the world round about us. He says, in part: "We have it frequently asserted among us that thought transference under certain peculiar and not understood conditions is a fact in nature, that it has become today almost accepted as the consensus of scientific opinion. The scientific acceptance of thought transference is based on a scientific interpretation. It is supposed that every thought is correlated with certain molecular vibrations in the brain, that these molecular vibrations in the brain give rise to corresponding vibrations in the ether around about us, that these ethereal vibrations proceeding from us are capable of affecting the molecules in a corresponding brain, so that under circumstances not understood the second brain thinks the same thoughts, much as a tuning fork in one corner of a room will sound in sympathy with that in another corner. But this is all theory. No one has yet discovered such vibrations. I may warn you, however, that the discovery of such vibrations might easily enough admit of mechanisms that might make thought transference generally and widely possible on a practical basis. Do you not see what the result of such a discovery would infer? It would mean the elimination of lying and hypocrisy among the sons and daughters of men."

A world full of wireless thought messages, a world in which everyone would tell the truth, because the man who tried to tell a lie could be shown the record of his attempt to deceive in the delicate pencilings of the Lie Detectograph! That would be a great world to live in. The millenium of which men dream, the golden age to which creation moves onward amid groaning and travailing, may come from a scientific discovery no more wonderful than that by which wireless messages are flashed through the ether over thousands of miles. To "think with" our friends when they are far from us, and to commune with them without words when they are near at hand; are not these qualities that must make for clean hearts and consciences and for nobility of soul?

It may be that to the least intellectual of us there yet may be possible that high and wordless intercourse of which Tennyson and Carlyle were conscious, and which was well illustrated on an historic occasion when the two sat a whole evening at the opposite sides of Carlyle's fireplace without exchanging a word. When Tennyson rose to go Carlyle went with him to the door. "Man," said he in parting, "it has been a gran' night!" —The Toronto Globe.

TIN STRIKE IN ALASKA

Assayer Said to Have Traced Ledge 3,700 Feet Long.

Tacoma, June 11.—Cables from Alaska bring news of a mineral discovery that probably exceeds in importance all the placer gold strikes yet made in Alaska. After three years' search, C. F. Robinson, an assayer, formerly of Nevada, has traced for 3,700 feet a ledge of tin ore which averages twelve feet in width. The discovery was made in the Hot Springs district, Tanana Valley, about 200 miles from Fairbanks. The ledge crosses the head of Lofty and Idaho Creeks and has been crosst in four places.

Placer tin, which has always been plentiful in the creeks of Tanana Valley, is supposed to come from this ledge. Robinson found a piece of flat tin and has spent three years prospecting for the main ledge. According to his report, tin ore running into millions of dollars in value is in plain sight.

If these reports prove true his discovery will undoubtedly have an important bearing upon the project of soon extending either the Copper River road (Guggenheim) or the Alaska Northern Railroad through the Tanana Valley to the Yukon River.

An announcement was made last week that English capital had been subscribed to enable William Owen, a former tin manufacturer of Swansea, Wales, to erect a mill on Puget Sound to produce annually a million boxes of tin plate for coast salmon and fruit canneries. Owen's tin supply will come from the Bering Sea coast north of Nome, where placer tin abounds.

CODICIL MEANS FIVE MILLIONS

Little Addition to the Document Makes All the Difference in Wallace Will—An Old Country Romance.

London, June 11.—A romantic story of a lost codicil, one which turns the disposal of a fortune of five million dollars, is contained in an advertisement appearing in the newspapers offering a reward of ten thousand pounds for the discovery of the formally executed copy. A rough draft of the codicil was found among the papers of the late Sir John Murray Scott, who persuaded Lady Wallace to leave the Wallace collection to the nation. He left a will bequeathing practically his whole estate, of which the exact value is not yet known, but is estimated at one million pounds to Lady Sackville.

If a signed and witnessed copy can be found of the roughly drafted codicil the result will be to divert all the estate except the income of a legacy of twenty or thirty thousand pounds from Lady Sackville to Sir John Murray Scott's next of kin, D. Malcolm Scott, on whose behalf the reward is offered, and his three brothers and two sisters. Sir John made his will in 1900. The question is whether he ever carried the draft codicil further into the form of a regularly attested amendment of his will. Since the draft of the codicil was found, a most thorough search has been made in all Sir John's house. Bureaus and desks have been ransacked, safes and despatch boxes closely searched and large masses of papers connected with the estate which were in the safe keeping of testators minutely inspected, but so far no completed copy has been found of the few lines of manuscript that control the fate of a million sterling. Sir John spent a considerable part of his time abroad and it is thought possible that he filled out draft and left it for safe keeping with a foreign banker or elsewhere abroad.

The Royal Hotel Cafe will be open until 4 p. m. after this date instead of 12 midnight, as heretofore.

REWARD FOR PIONEERS

Rupert's Early Land Settlers Present Claim to Hon. R. Rogers.

Winnipeg, June 13.—The pioneers of Rupert's land waited on the Hon. Robert Rogers today and asked for government recognition of their services in the early development of the country. The minister said the government would consider the request and that something would be done.

FEAR FRENCH CONSCRIPTION

Alliance With the Land Over the Silver Streak is Not Likely to be Popular With the Old Sod Yet.

London, June 12.—Assiduous efforts are being made in certain quarters to bring about an Anglo-French alliance, but the proposal is not taken at all seriously in official circles. Such an alliance would of course destroy at once any chance of maintaining good relations between Britain and Germany and for this reason it is not desired by the British foreign office.

Liberals who are anxious to cultivate closer relations with Germany cannot find words strong enough to condemn the suggestion which really emanates from the Unionist party. Ever since the Morocco crisis there has been a decided split between the two great political parties in the question of foreign relations. Liberals now want this country to be on equally good terms with France and Germany, whereas the Unionist aim is an anti-German alliance. This is significant in view of the possibility that the next general election will bring the Unionists back to power.

The Liberal press, in its anxiety to weaken the understanding with France keeps pointing out that an alliance between the two countries must involve conscription for Great Britain, but there is no doubt that such a contingency would be welcomed by a great many people here who maintain that Lord Haldane's territorial scheme has been tried and found wanting.

NEW INDUSTRY HERE PERHAPS

Extraction of Potash from Kelp or Seaweed, the Great Bulbous Growth of B. C. Coast, is Made Profitable by Proper Care.

Relative to the extraction of potash from kelp or seaweed in the United States, the British vice consul at Ensenada, Mexico (Mr. W. D. Madden) has forwarded a newspaper extract from which it appears that the kelp growths already exploited along the North Pacific coast of America can be made to yield from two to three times as much potash as is now imported into the United States.

These huge seaweeds, the article states, from "groves" exceedingly dense, some of those along the Pacific coast being five miles long and two miles wide, are rooted at the bottom among rocks, their stems being sometimes as much as 300 feet long, and bearing at their tops great air filled bulbs which serve as floats supporting enormous fronds of sterner like leaves. From the ocean water they take up large quantities of potash salts, the dried plants containing from 25 to 35 per cent. of their weight of potassium chloride, which is easily extracted. They also contain iodine, and it is thought that this and other by-products would pay the cost of extracting potassium chloride. All the groves are within the three mile limit. If properly protected, they will yield indefinitely, renewing themselves by fresh growth each spring. The heaviest growths are south of Point Sur, but large ones extend far north. The available output of potassium chloride from this source is estimated by the United States Department of Agriculture as equivalent to a value of $40,000,000 (about $8,222,000) per annum.—Board of Trade Journal.

Where Do You Shop?

Do you shop in a brisk, active store, or in a dull store?

Advertising makes bright stores. Failure to advertise goes hand in hand with dullness and stagnation.

Advertising brushes away cobwebs and dust, smartens shop windows, quickens the intelligence of salesmen, and lets in the sunlight.

Advertising makes the merchant think of you—of your wants and needs; makes him anxious to serve you to your liking and advantage.

Advertising keeps stock from having birthdays.

Advertising acquaints you with new things, and so brightens your home, your life, your person.

Advertising keeps a business from growing lazy and stupid. Advertising injects good red blood into the arteries of a business, and keeps it healthful and active.

Shop where your wants and needs are uppermost in the mind of the merchant. Shop in the store which reflects you, which you dominate. Shop where your money returns to you in better goods, better values, better service.

Shun the shop that is dumb and dark and dreary; keep away from the shop that never speaks to you, never smiles at you, never bothers about you.

Reward by your custom the merchant who lives to serve you, and who is doing his utmost to build up this community; who takes you into his confidence by means of advertisements in your local newspapers.

Smile back at the shop which smiles at you. Shake hands with it—keep company with it—your favor will be returned to you tenfold.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any good advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Building. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write, if interested.

ON NICE NOOKS BY THE OLD KHAN

Famous Canadian Writer to the Toronto Star Tells Quaint Story of Comfort That You May Possess but Can Never Buy.

Hasn't that a nook, my brother? Granted that thou hast houses and lands, that thou hast wealth and power; but again I ask, hast thou a nook, my brother?

Don't rattle your change; your money is no good. You can buy automobiles and corner lots; your money judiciously expended may land you in our senate; you can buy a woman with it—ah, yes, you can buy a woman with it, for we are savages yet. I saw old Hunt-in-the-Morning sell his daughter, Voice-in-the-Valley, for a discarded mounted police horse, a sack of flour, a pound of tea, and three flasks of "pain-killer."

You can buy anything on earth but nooks. Because nooks are not in the market. If you want a nook you have got to make it yourself. When you have made it you wouldn't part with it for millions. We are told that when we die we leave everything behind. I will leave thee, my dear reader, on the farther shore with infinite regret, for unless you pay your subscription arrears there is no hope of your following me; but I will have my nook with me if I can possibly smuggle it across the dark river.

What is a nook? John was the apostle whom Jesus particularly loved. That's one kind of a nook. Who wouldn't be a nook like John was? Heaven isn't a big singing school—oh, no! It's a great, big, beautiful place stored with the nooks of all the ages. There are no golden streets in the New Jerusalem. There be paths—paths are better. And each path leads to a nook. Isn't that just splendid! And who, do you think, will be waiting for you in one of the nooks?

Lover of mine, close your eyes, drop this paper for a second, and think! There be all kinds of fine places in this world here below. There's Mary Ellen; she's a castle, a magnificent thing, with a portcullis and a drawbridge and a moat—but she isn't a nook.

There's Catherine Ann (called after her two grandmothers); she's a splendid drawing room, but Catherine Ann isn't a nook. Sir, Ann is a big, warm kitchen, but no nook—no nook!

But Phoebe—Phoebe is a nook! She is only a working girl. Sits on the side of her bed every working night figuring how to make ends meet. She doesn't know, poor little thing, that she is priceless—she is a nook! A sweet, clever, dainty, nice little nook!

I laugh at some of the ambitions I had when I was a boy. I have wished to drive the four spotted horses in the circus parade, with the lady who jumps through the blazing hoop sitting beside me on the box seat with a lion kitten on her lap. And I've wanted to manage a baseball team, and drive a locomotive sixty miles an hour, and be a great detective, and a noble fireman and rescue beautiful girls, and all that.

I don't want to be any of these things now. I want to be a Nook! THE KHAN, in Toronto Star.

FLORAL COMPLIMENT London Will Bloom With Wild Roses from Queen Alexandra.

London, June 12—London is expected to decorate itself with wild roses on June 26 as a token of homage to Queen Alexandra. The idea comes from the continent. Vienna started the fashion with a daffodil day and Germany followed with a mulberry and cornflower day and so on. Flower sellers are to wear a distinguishing white dress with mushroom hats trimmed with wild roses. The flowers will be artificial blossoms made by crippled children, and will be offered at a penny each.

The modern, high class place for billiards and pool. Seale's, Third avenue.

The Russian government will dig a 15-mile tunnel between Tiflis and Vladikavhas, 125 miles apart, to cut off 715 miles that now separate the towns by roadway.
