PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 4 — A speckled trout weighing seven pounds, 15 ounces and one measuring 27.8 inches in length is the largest caught in this district since 1923. The catch was made by Charles H. Mullian, a tourist from Sioux City, Iowa, on a fishing trip in the Nipigon River region recently.

Trade Regained In South Africa

Experts Cut Down by War Are Replaced by Sale of Supplies To Navy and Convoys

CAPETOWN, August 4 — Losses to South African export trade due to the war have been partially replaced by the business of supplying foodstuffs to the Royal Navy and merchant convoys calling at Union ports. It is estimated that stores to the value of $13,000,000 were sold to vessels, other than those of the Navy, during 1941. Cape wines, especially, have experienced a minor boom.

Winnipeg Man Treats German Prisoner: Son of Old Patient of First Great War

WINNIPEG, Aug. 4 — Capt. Arthur H. Ezard of Winnipeg, serving with the Canadian Dental Corps in England during the First Great War, extracted the teeth of a German prisoner and made him a set of plates. Recently in an internment camp in Eastern Canada, Capt. Ezard did some dental work for another German prisoner—the son of the patient he treated 25 years ago. Contact through International Red Cross established his identity as authentic. The son, an airman, gave Capt. Ezard his German Air Force cross.

Nazi Reign Of Terror In Poland

LONDON, August 4.—There can be no better indication of the real spirit and attitude of a nation than its treatment of the hands of the Germans. Those that are indifferent to the Allied cause, or inclined to collaborate with Hitler, are exploited economically, but otherwise allowed to live their own lives. Nations which continue the struggle and believe in the victory of the Allies are cruelly persecuted.

The story of Poland's martyrdom is the best evidence of that country's indomitable faith in the ultimate victory for freedom.

The persecution is thorough and all-embracing. First of all the Poles are condemned to poverty and semi-starvation. Their rations are half or less of those of the Germans themselves, which are not very generous either. There are, in Warsaw, restaurants where a German can get an excellent meal for as little as two shillings. A Pole would have to pay several pounds in the black market in order to get the same kind of food.

With low wages and high prices, with their businesses and houses taken from them, with no freedom of any kind, the Poles in Poland live miserable lives.

But they are fortunate compared to those that have been pressed into labor gangs and sent to Germany, to work there as slaves. About two million Poles have been deported to Germany in this manner. The usual method is to round up everyone in a street, or a square and pack them into cattle trucks, which carry them straight to forced labor in Germany.

Even worse, however, is the fate of the thousands of prisoners in prison camps—especially the notorious camp of Oswiecim—where torture is a daily occurrence and the chances of survival are very small indeed.

Perhaps those that are executed from time to time may count themselves lucky, for they escape the horrors of the prison camp. The executions, by hanging or shooting, take place in public. Sometimes schoolchildren are compelled to attend executions, to "educate" them after the Nazi manner. Some children may thus have seen the death of their own parents, or brothers and sisters.

A conservative estimate of the number of people executed in Poland since the German invasion is 80,000—to say nothing of those slowly put to death in prisons and camps, or of those that died in labor gangs, or starved.

The vitality of the Poles is such that before the war the population increased every year by half a million—more than the natural increase in Germany itself. After the war Poland will be able to make up her losses quicker than most nations. But that won't bring to life the victims of the Germans and there will be accounts to be settled.

The spirit of Poland is unabated. Resistance and sabotage continue in spite of everything. There is a secret press and scores of newspapers continue to be read by everybody. People listen secretly to the Polish broadcasts of the BEC and then they pass on the news to their friends. Four days after the declaration of the Atlantic Charter, Mr. Churchill's and President Roosevelt's photographs appeared on board a British battleship appeared in the Polish secret press. How they got there is still a mystery.

The resistance of Poland is a matter of serious concern for Germany, especially as all the supply lines for the Eastern Front pass through Poland. There was a moment when the German governor general wanted to negotiate with the Poles. He made an offer, which may have seemed tempting: all Polish prisoners to be released, no food to be taken out of the country, a degree of autonomy and economic freedom to be granted. In return for these substantial concessions, the Germans asked for one thing only: they wanted the Poles to give up resistance to abandon the idea of an Allied victory.

True to their Allies and to their honor, the Poles refused to collaborate. Their refusal filled the Germans with amazement and anger.

A new wave of terror swept the country. The Germans proclaimed conscription—in western Poland, which is formally annexed to Germany, the Poles are forced to join the German army. This is the height of cruelty, for nothing could be more revolting to a Pole than fighting for Germany. In the "General-Government," the Germans introduced a veiled kind of conscription, by forcing Poles into special labor battalions, a sort of pioneer corps. The idea is, of course, that it would be dangerous to give them other arms than picks and spades.

The very ferocity with which the Poles are persecuted is proof of their strength. Had they been weak the Germans would have subdued them long ago. Fear is the motive of oppression. Fear dictated the offer made to the Polish nation by governor Frank. The Germans are afraid of Poland, even though they have the country in their power. Their fear is not unjustified, for there is punishment in store for the torturers.

Poland is asking a sacrifice that has no equal in history. But it will not be in vain.

Price Control For Cent Candy

VANCOUVER, August 4.—When Hon. J. L. Isley brought down his budget recently he did not overlook many opportunities for gathering money to pay for the war.

There was a tax increase on candy bars and similar confections and this has affected the price of candy for kiddies.

Investigation shows there is a considerable trade with juveniles in what is known as "one-cent candy." For the modest copper coin the kids can get a confection mounted on a stick which provides some happy minutes of intensive sucking and there were other varieties in smaller units which retailed at two, three, five or six for a cent.

Into this happy world of lip-smacking youngsters stalked the grim spectre of war, via Mr. Isley and his budget, and the kids found that some dealers were passing on the impost on a too big percentage. For instance, some shopkeepers have been charging two cents for a one-cent candy.

Heedful of the cries—not to say yells—of protest from Canada's outraged children, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has taken time out from such major problems as fuel supply and rentals and set up a schedule for the time being which eases the budgetary strain on the kids' pocket book.

For the present, the one cent candy shall sell at one cent and the two-for-one cent shall also retail at that figure.

The storekeepers will have to absorb the tax on these lower figure deals but they will recoup themselves when the candy consumers proceed into the higher brackets.

Three pieces of candy for one cent now becomes five-for-two cents; five-for-one is to be sold as four-for-one and six-for-one goes down to five-for-one.

So the enthusiast with just one copper may still go on an orgy of face-smearing consumption.

Living Bonus Increase Aug. 15

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics announced today that the cost of living index went up 1.2 points between June 1 and July 1 and simultaneously the National War Labor Board said that a corresponding upward revision of the cost of living bonuses will come into effect August 15.

Soviets Outflank Germans North Of Stalingrad

Timoshenko Sweeps Around Nazi Flank in "Battle of The Bend"

LONDON, Aug. 4 (CP)—Soviet despatches declared today that Marshal Timoshenko's armies, sweeping around German flanks had cut off Nazi forces in "the Battle of the Bend," eighty miles north of Stalingrad but the invaders continue to surge forward on the lower Don River and in the Caucasus. A bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that German mechanized columns had rolled up to the Kuban River, deep in the Caucasus at several points and captured the town of Voroshilovsk, 180 miles east of Rostov. If this is true it would mean that the Germans had already advanced nearly one third of the distance to the great Caucasus oil fields.

THIS WEEK IN OTTAWA

By W. A. Wilson (British United Press Staff Correspondent)

OTTAWA, Aug. 4 — The House, with final full-dress speeches by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson and Quebec's Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, passed the Mobilization Act 141-45 and sent it to the Senate for the Upper House to debate and pass. The Government's enabling bill to provide authority to resort to conscription for the overseas army was passed with the support of the Conservative representatives, who disliked it as inadequate, but over the opposition of the C.C.F. group and the Quebec anticonscription bloc who voted against it for exactly opposite reasons.

The C.C.F.'s opposition was based on the two objections that it provided for conscription—if it comes through an order-in-council and that the government has made no provision for the supplementary conscription of wealth and industry.

The Quebec bloc shared the opposition to the order-in-council feature but their main objection was the historic one that arose in 1917—the belief that Canadians should not be compelled to fight outside their own country.

The long and bitter debate ended, however, with the same assurance the country received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917 when the Military Service Act was passed; Cardin told the House that the people of Quebec are law-abiding and that they will submit to the will of the majority if the rest of the country insists on imposing it.

"The people of Quebec are law-abiding citizens. They have proved it in the past. They will prove it again when the law is passed, although it is the worst law that has ever been passed in Canada," Cardin said. "We will submit. There will be no trouble. We will in all sincerity do the best we can to accommodate ourselves to a position that is intolerable."

"Exercise your authority, you in the majority," Cardin said at the end of an impassioned speech, "but with kindness."

The former minister who resigned from the cabinet in protest at the Government's course delivered the first of three impassioned addresses the chamber heard as the conscription debate ended. The others were by Prime Minister King and Conservative Leader Hanson. Both attacked the other and ended their speeches with appeals for unity. Hanson charged King with procrastination and seeking always to protect his own political position and that of his party. The Prime Minister, replying the following day to the Conservative leader, accused Hanson flatly of seeking to destroy him personally and of attempting to undermine confidence in the Government for political advantage.

The end of the conscription debate interrupted consideration of Finance Minister J. L. Isley's budget which progressed last week through the resolution stage to passage of three of the budget bills. The finance minister amended his original proposals by broadening the types of personal savings which taxpayers will be allowed to set off against their re-

Keeps Telescope Lined With Star

EDMONTON, Aug. 4 — August will see completion of a $2,500 building to house a 12 1/2-inch telescope weighing 700 pounds, constructed and donated to the University of Alberta by Cyril G. Wates, an official of the Edmonton city telephone department.

The building, being erected on the university campus is about 30 feet long and 18 feet wide. It will be a one-storey structure and will have a dome 16 feet in diameter, which will be covered with a flexible material made from wood fibre.

Made by Mr. Wates as a hobby, the telescope weighs nearly 700 pounds, exclusive of the supports. The main tube is about 10 feet long and has a reflector, or curved mirror, instead of the familiar lens, possessing a power at least 1,000 times as great as the naked eye.

It took Mr. Wates five years "and a lot of patience" to build the telescope. Materials cost him approximately $100 but a similar one made by a firm would be worth about $1,000, he said.

The telescope will be mounted on two pillars connected by a bar. Mr. Wates explained: "You set your telescope on the star you wish to observe and then let out a sort of clutch on the machine which starts a motor. This motor keeps the instrument set on the star which otherwise would soon be moved out of line by the rotation of the earth. The whole thing works much like the clutch of an automobile."

fundable tax, including a provision under which the tax on alimony will be paid by the person getting it, and eliminating a discrepancy which left junior officers in the armed forces with less pay than their senior non-commissioned officers.

The finance minister rebuked the opposition leader for protesting at the necessity of disclosing certain of his personal financial arrangements to the comptroller of the treasury and pointed out that the United Nations have suffered serious reverses and that greater sacrifices have been made elsewhere.

Hanson replied that he had been fully co-operative during consideration of the budget but that he still did not like the provision against which he has been protesting. It was the clause under which wage-earners, to avoid having to pay all of their refundable tax and then get a refund, will have to file statements with their employers showing their payments on insurance and mortgages.

What Canada must demand of You...and why

CANADIANS realize this to be a war for survival that must be won the hard way. It should be as unthinkable for those at home to evade any part of what Canada needs of them, as for our fighting men to desert in face of the enemy. If you have doubt as to what your country needs of you in these critical times, the following facts should dispel it.

Canada must now spend about five times as much per year on war effort as at the peak of the war of 1914-18. This huge effort will absorb in the financial year of 1942-3 nearly 12 million dollars a day—over half the Nation's total income!

Canada must raise this money from her people. She must spread the burden over each according to his or her means. It is as critical a problem as any in history. How does it affect you?

Voluntary Savings MUST Grow

Necessarily severe taxes will provide just over six million dollars a day—only half the money needed! Because part of this money is returnable, with interest, after the war, every taxpayer is making a minimum wartime saving. Many people will have exemptions in the form of insurance premiums, payments on mortgages, pension funds, etc., offsetting the compulsory savings requirements. Whatever the case, compulsory savings cannot replace voluntary effort! The six million dollars a day still needed must be lent by people like you!

This means severe economy in which spending must be cut to bare necessities, with all spare dollars put into War Savings Stamps, Certificates and Bonds. The Government regulation of prices means that you are spared loss through inflated living costs and have more savings to lend. To lend is no longer a matter of sentiment or emotion, but of necessity.

Nevertheless, the harsh dictates of war can be used to help your future. Money spent now can bring you little benefit...a backlog of savings in peace will bring much. Canada is depending on you. Look up and take your rightful place!

Sugar Rationing For Canada

VANCOUVER, August 10.—The rationing division of the Prices and Trade Board, national office, warns that there is no provision for sugar for making apple other fresh fruit sauces.

Any sugar used for must come out of the holder's ration of half a pound a week.

For home preserving sugar is available in half a pound of sugar, a pound of fruit, three-quarters of a pound of jam or jellies and 1 1/2 pounds of fruit when used, but this concerns only to fruit which is preserved. It definitely apply to apple sauce, sauces, etc., prepared for use.

The board also expressed the opinion that the purchase of sugar at one time and is left over a part of the hold ration.

On this point the board is unlawful to be canning ahead of requirements. It is the what is left over of the household ration under No. 15, which covers rationing, states that "no sugar shall be used by a consumer for any other purpose."

The ration division pointed out that dried fruits are under the provisions of rationing.

Consumers who need preserving must fill a purchase voucher at the retail store and it is the ration book number in.

Wedding Rites Solemnized

The First Presbyterian Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock when Doreen May, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Johnson of Vancouver, became the bride of James Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart, former residents of Vancouver but now residing in this city.

The front of the church was attractively decorated with pink gladioli and mixed flowers where the solemn vows of holy wedlock were made in the presence of sixty relatives and guests.

To the strains of the Bridal March from Lohengrin played by Mrs. E. J. Smith, the bridal party entered the church, the bride on the arm of the Groom's uncle, J. G. Stewart, by whom she was given in marriage. As the bride approached the altar she paused a half step behind the groom while the charge to the contracting party was given, and then to her place beside the groom when presented by Mr. Stewart. Rev. C. A. Wright officiated.

The bride, looking charming in a wedding dress of haze blue with white accessories and a white hat misted with a shoulder length veil, carried a bouquet of rapture roses and white heather with asparagus fern.

The bride was attended by Mrs. S. Corbett who looked winsome in a dress of pink sheen with tan and pink accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. The groom was supported by Tom Jones of this city.

The groom's mother wore a rose colored dress with navy blue accessories and wore a corsage of carnations and fern. The bride's parents were unable to attend.

During the signing of the register the organist played, "O Promise Me." The ushers were Donald Wilson and Ted Parkhouse.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents at 330 Second Avenue East. The bride's table was attractively decorated with a clunney lace table cloth, mauve and pink sweet peas and white heather. The bride's cake in the centre of the table was embedded in pink tulle with pink candles arranged on either side.

The happy young couple will reside in Prince Rupert and will make their home on Overlook Street.

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Chapter of the B. C. R. N. A. was held last night in the nurses' home. There was a good attendance. Miss Graham, president, was in the chair. Dr. McDonald was guest speaker.

Mrs. Forbes was elected recording secretary, following the resignation of Mrs. Brentzen.

A report was given by Mrs. O. L. Murray on the refresher course for nurses to be held here in the fall.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. J. B. MacKay.

A very interesting talk was given by Dr. McDonald, medical health officer, who explained the organization of the health unit, its functions and the many services it renders to the public. One being the free immunization of communicable diseases which may be given any person from 10 to 11 a.m. Saturday. He expressed the dangers of typhoid should this place be under siege.

Refreshments were served.

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Aug. 3: (CP)—Pilot Officer D. D. Murchie's popularity with his fellow officers won't last if his bombing continues to be so effective. The 21-year old St. Stephen, N. B., school teacher attacked a warship with such success that it blew up and pieces flew into the engine cowlings of the plane behind him.

Six Hurri-bombers were attacking three destroyers off Cherbourg. Murchie dropped his bombs at set level and they apparently struck the vessel's store of mines or depth charges. The destroyer, he said, "just blew up in my face and my kite jumped 100 feet."

Sgt. D. S. Conroy of Plymouth who was behind Murchie got the worst of the deal. When he got back the ground crew picked two pieces of aluminum out of his cowlings. The "trophy" now hang in the flight's dispersal hut.

Murchie found romance since his arrival in England more than a year ago. He was married recently to a W. A. A. F. Jessie Andrews of Colchester.

Flt. Sgt. D. W. Wescott of Winnipeg doesn't talk much about this, but his companions will tell you all about it.

The 21-year-old Hurri-bomber pilot suddenly missed the rest of his section during a flight over France. He looked behind and saw three aircraft so he waited for them to catch up. Wescott wasn't particularly anxious to be alone with so many Jerries about.

The three machines drew up and one overshot him. Then he began to get worried. The plane in front of him wasn't a Hurricane or Spitfire it was a Focke-Wulf.

Wescott was stumped for a minute and decided the wisest thing was to sit tight. The pilots behind him couldn't fire without endangering their mates in front. Wescott continued flying in formation with the nazis until some of his companions saw it plight and chased the Jerries away.

He's being kidded now about teaching flying formation to the Germans.
