Terrified Indians Arriving in Crowds at Alaska Cannery Sites with Lurid Accounts of Death and Disaster Caused by Volcano

(Special to Daily News.)
Naknek, Bristol Bay, Alaska, June 15.—(By wireless to Cordova.)—Natives flocking from the interior to the large cannery centres on the Bristol Bay side of the Alaska peninsula are bringing reports that many of their tribesmen perished in the mountains during the eruption of Katmia volcano last week. These reports are not given too much credence here, however, as the natives are greatly excited and so terrified that they cannot give an intelligible account of their experiences during the eruption.

Finance Minister finally tagged figuring out how much the city can come through with for Dominion Day now the bylaws have passed. Tagged fore and aft, the most popular business man in town passes proudly down Sixth street, purse in hand. Waterfront hails the Helori with welcome, wishing her well on her way northward to volcano country. "It's not often a red cross girl can get money out of a man," remarks Merely Mabel, "but it's a mean man who fishes out his last year's tag today."

FINEST POWER BOAT EVER SEEN IN PRINCE RUPERT

At her moorings in Cow Bay, near Johnson's float, this morning floats the prettiest power boat ever seen in Prince Rupert harbor, as well as the finest purely pleasure craft which has yet entered this port. The boat is the "Helori," belonging to Mr. O. O. Denny, a retired millionaire business man of Seattle. His yachting party includes Mrs. Denny, Miss Caroline Denny, his niece, and Miss Bertha Starr, also Messrs. Lloyd Johnson, the builder of the Helori, and Ted Geary, designer of the boat. Mr. Geary is prominent in the boat designing world in the south, having been the designer also of the famous Spirit I and Spirit II of Vancouver.

Superb Power Boat.

The Helori is a superb power boat, beautifully equipped. Her length is 100 feet, beam 15 feet 6 inches, draft 5 feet 6 inches. She is the largest boat of her own class on the whole coast. Her power is derived from a twin set of 100 horse power, six cylinder Eastern Standard engines set deep in her amidships and she develops great speed. The fact that she came from Seattle here in a week's time, including a stop of two days at Vancouver, and traveled only in daylight all the way, tying up at night, shows her capabilities.

Rich Accommodation.

Accommodation for owner's party and crew is of the finest. There are staterooms for the ladies and gentlemen, exquisitely fitted galley, dining saloon, and all conveniences in lavish style. The engine room is like that of a Cunarder for polish and perfection. The Helori has five of a crew, and their quarters forward are marvelous in so dainty a boat. Mr. Denny, the boat's owner, is a pioneer of Seattle. He has the distinction of being the first white boy born in that city. On this trip he intends to reach Skagway, and possibly Sitka, but will spend at least a couple of days in Prince Rupert.

MR. ASQUITH ASSAULTED

Stylishly Dressed Suffragette Tries to Tear the Epaulettes from His Official Coat and is Ejected from Reception.

(Special to Daily News.)

London, June 15.—While Premier Asquith was holding an official reception tonight in honor of the King's birthday, a stylishly attired suffragette approached and tried to tear the epaulettes off the Premier's official coat. Mrs. Asquith tried to rescue her husband from the unwelcome attentions of the woman and then an usher literally dragged the suffragette away from the Premier and ejected her from the building. Two minutes later a pale faced youth was introduced to the Premier. He took hold of Mr. Asquith's arm and roughly shouted something. He also was unceremoniously thrown out of the room. According to some reports of the occurrence, the woman beat Asquith over the head with her fan.

ALL THREE BY-LAWS THROUGH BUT BY NARROW MAJORITIES

Mayor and Finance Minister With Members of the City Council Have Cause for Jubilation---Three Plebiscites All Prove Unpopular and Are Rejected by Rather Larger Majorities Than in the Case of the Three Bylaws

Quite evidently the property owners of Prince Rupert had made up their minds regarding the money bylaws irrespective of mayoral and aldermanic eloquence. By slender majorities of five, four and two votes, respectively, the telephone, city hall and electric light loans have the sanction of the citizens, and presumably now the work already done in these undertakings before the bylaws were put up to the people will be paid for and the necessary work done to complete the utilities as far as is intended by the present administration. There is understood to be a surplus after the loans voted for have been appropriated in the directions described. If this is so, the money will doubtless be administered according to the wisdom of the present financial administration. There are all kinds of avenues for any odd amount of surplus.

The Plebiscites.

Not one of the plebiscites was approved by the people. The citizens do not want at this stage to grant a site for the labor temple; they do not want a Carnegie library; they do not want to sell fee simple property in order to establish a fund for the laying out of recreation grounds. The plebiscite on the granting of a labor temple site very nearly carried. There were two alternatives before the public in the case of the recreation park plebiscite, and it was noticeable that the proposal to sell land in order to create a park fund was more popular, judging from the voting, than the idea of raising money by levying a one mill rate. A majority of the citizens interested in the ballot yesterday are not in favor of the Carnegie library.

City Clerk Woods acted as returning officer, Mr. A. E. Thatcher assisting him. The polls closed at 7 p. m., at which time 400 persons had voted.

WHAT AN EASTERN PAPER HAS TO SAY ABOUT OUR CITY

Mr. Franklin A. Hough, barrister of Amherstburg, and Mr. John A. McKay, publisher of the Record, of Windsor, Ont., have just returned from a five weeks' trip to Prince Rupert and northwest British Columbia and northwest cities. Following are their expressions published in the Record and widely quoted throughout the east.

Prince Rupert

They were astounded with the remarkable development in all the western cities, but perhaps what impressed them most was the future possibilities of the newest city of the coast, Prince Rupert, which, although only three years old, has a population of 6000. The townsites have been carefully laid out and the terminal arrangements provided for by the Grand Trunk Pacific railway are adequate for the requirements of a large metropolis. The municipality itself is building for the future and under the able direction of Colonel W. M. Davis, city engineer, formerly of Berlin, Ont., the city is constructing permanent sewers and pavements, while the telephone and water works systems are both owned by the city and are excellently managed. Colonel Davis, after making a careful study of the situation, conceived the idea of bringing the city's water supply from Lake Woodworth, a beautiful mountain lake seven miles distant and over 300 feet above the sea level. His plans also provide about 2000 horse-power, which will be sufficient for the operation of all public utilities.

The enormous fishery industries, now only in their infancy, the unlimited supply of timber and the fact that it is the western terminus of one of the great east transcontinental roads, all go to insure the future of this city and to place it among the greatest seaports of the Pacific.

Facts About Prince Rupert

The mean temperature is about the same as London, England—no extreme cold or heat. The coldest last winter was 16 above zero, and only 72 inches of rain fell during the whole year—much less than is generally believed to be the case by easterners.

The townsites on Kaien Island, three miles long by one mile wide, containing about 41,000 building lots. The present prices for residential lots, 25 feet by 100, range from $500 to $1,500, according to location. In the business sections from $10,000 to $20,000 a lot is obtained. As a comparison, it may be stated that business property situate on Pitt street, this city, which recently sold for $400 a foot, in as prominent a position in Prince Rupert would bring $600 a foot. On what is supposed will be the best residential street the price is $60 a foot against

BYLAW RECOUNT.

A number of citizens waited upon Returning Officer Woods at noon today, requesting a recount of the votes on the money bylaws. He has agreed to hold the recount this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the city hall.

This has been done to clear the atmosphere regarding the closeness of the majority and also on account of the fact that there appears to be considerable variance in the spoiled ballots thrown out on the plebiscites as compared with the spoiled ballots on the bylaws.

Had the necessary three-fifths majority been calculated on the total number of votes cast, including the spoiled ballots, all of the bylaws would not have passed.

ROMANTIC INCIDENT

Lady Cavendish, Widow of the Phoenix Park Victim, Meets Irish Nationalist Leader, Who Was Deeply Affected.

London, June 14.—Fresh from his triumph on the floor of the House of Commons, where, with the most masterly speech of his parliamentary career, he helped to carry by an exceedingly sweeping majority the second reading of the bill granting home rule to Ireland, John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish party, shook hands with Lady Frederick Cavendish, widow of the man who was slain by the knives of the "Invincibles" in Phoenix Park, Dublin, 30 years ago—almost to the day.

Never before had John Redmond met Lady Cavendish, and it was sweet for the Irish leader to hear from her own lips how she had sat in the ladies' gallery listening to his impassioned appeal to end once and for all the rancor that had caused the death of her husband in the flower of his early manhood—simply because Irish and English neither understood each other nor had belief in the other's good faith.

LOCAL MAN IN MISHAP

L. A. Van Horne Arrived from Hazelton in Vancouver and Dropped 25 Feet After Going to Bed.

Arriving from Hazelton in Vancouver the other day, L. A. Van Horne had a startling experience a few hours later. He fell from a hotel window through the skylight of the Cordova street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Van Horne retired to his room in the Stanley Hotel at 10 o'clock. About half an hour later the hotel attendant was surprised to hear a crash and noise in the bank next door. Fearing that robbers were in the bank, they called Detectives O'Gady and Campbell, who found Van Horne on the floor. He had climbed out of the window of his room onto the closed aircourt and had stepped on and through the skylight of the bank, falling 25 feet.

The detectives made efforts to find the bank officials, but with no avail, and procuring a rope they lowered themselves through the broken skylight and brought the man out by the front door to the police station. Dr. McTavish examined him and ordered his removal to the hospital, where his injuries were found not to be very serious.

TWO GREATEST BALL TEAMS OF THE PRESENT DAY

A COMPARISON OF THE GIANTS AND ATHLETICS—MCGRAW AND MACK AS LEADERS—SNIPPY BASEBALL NEWS FOR FAITHFUL FANS—POINTERS WORTH NOTING.

The public sits in admiration and awe of Connie Mack's world's champion Athletics. The team which humbled the Giants in the world's series last fall is universally conceded to be one of the very best aggregations produced in the history of the national pastime. Yet, in its veneration of the capability of that wonderful machine, the public is prone to overlook the genius of the man who fashioned it.

Connie Mack did not fall heir to any such collection of stars. He had to dig up each and every one of them. His ultimate success is but a tribute to the foresight and rare judgment. For in his own unassuming, quiet way Mack has changed the business policies of the great organized profession.

Mack Developed Youngsters.

The leader of the Athletics was a pioneer in his way. He foresaw ten years ago the great development to which this sport would attain in a decade. He realized that each year it would become more difficult to secure desired talent through purchase and trade. Before the rival managers ever dreamed of paying serious attention to the scouting end of the business, Connie Mack had raked the minor organizations and colleges with a fine tooth comb.

No club in organized baseball has such a perfect scouting system as that of Connie Mack. He himself is the great chief of the sleuthing department and his is the final judgment. He is tipped off to more good "green" players than any other three managers, simply because his great network of espionage was established before rivals woke up to his wonderful advantage. The Athletics were in on the ground floor, and so long as Mack remains in the game Philadelphia's Americans will continue to have first call.

New Developments.

Until Connie Mack entered the major league field managers looked little further ahead than the tips of their noses. They were content to dwell upon the present so far as results were concerned. Mack studied the future. He planned fully five years ahead. He looked the situation squarely in the face. He saw in a star not his present capacity, but the day when he must begin to pale and fade. He figured to have by that day some newcomer to step into the declining veteran's shoes; and he always planned on having in his substitute a man far more capable in every department of the game.

Connie Mack was caught napping just once. That was in 1906. He was fooled by his champion aggregation of 1905, the bunch that was so badly shown up by the Giants. Mack overestimated the period of usefulness of many of his veterans. The series with the Giants opened his eyes to his mistake. There was a general house cleaning the following year. Then it was that the wily Quaker set out in earnest to develop almost single handed the great machine he now controls.

Giants Have Great Team.

His case was similar to that of McGraw. The gallant leader of the polo grounds was in identically the same fix as Mack, though he did not know it. Half of the old champions of 1905 had cracked on McGraw's hands during the hot pennant race. The world's series of that year gave McGraw no warning. A disastrous campaign followed the next season. The New York leader immediately began the weeding out process, which eventually resulted in the wonderful team now at home in Brush stadium.

The 1912 Giants appear to outclass the National League as far as the 1914 Athletics outclassed the American League. Eliminating unusual misfortune each should have a strangle hold on its pennant long before fall. In many respects the rival aggregations are very similar. McGraw specializes on speed, Mack on hitting ability. Each, of course, attempts to combine all possible of the one with the other. Both are solidly established in the matter of youth. Yet each is fortified with unusually brilliant substitutes. McGraw maintains that as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, a team is no stronger than its substitutes.

Athletics Are Strong.

Of the two teams the Athletics appear the stronger. Whether they would prove so at the end of a strenuous campaign may remain for the next world's series to show. Mack's players have the advantage of longer experience together. It is even thought the players may be every bit as young in years as New York.

Mack has far more seasoned pitchers than has McGraw. Mathewson is New York's sole veteran standby, while Bender, Coombs, Plank and Morgan have shown year in and year out for seasons that there are few better so long as they can cheat Old Father Time. Mack also has a lot of promising young tossers who may deliver when the opportunity arises. None have shown the promise of "Rube" Marquard.

McGraw has the greatest catcher of the age in Chief Meyers. Wilson is as fine a second string man as could be found anywhere. But the world's champions are not weak behind the bat. Thomas and Lapp are of the best in the league perhaps almost the equal of McGraw's Indian in plain backstopping and throwing, though not, of course, so deadly with the ash.

Mack's Men Heavy Hitters.

McGraw's team is the faster; Mack's the much more powerful in hitting. A club that hits close to the .300 notch collectively can do fairly well in any league behind even mediocre tossing. Give it one of the finest battery departments in the game, such as the Athletics boast, and it will prove night invincible.

In the opinion of most experts, Connie Mack has the greatest infield ever known. This goes doubly strong if little "Stuffy" Melnis can deliver such goods at first as he showed last season. Baker, Barry, Collins and Mc-our $25 and $30 on Victoria and Ouellette. The original prices, three years ago, were from $75 to $5,000 a lot.

WHAT AN EASTERN PAPER HAS TO SAY

A remarkable feature about the G. T. P. terminus is the number of hours of daylight, there being in summer about 18 hours of glorious sunshine.

The harbor is one of the three harbors in the world in which navigation is not affected by the tide. There are 23 feet of water at the G. T. P. wharves at extreme low tide. The entrance to the harbor is 2,000 feet wide at the narrowest part at a minimum depth of 60 feet. It is fourteen miles long and has not a rock in the whole distance. It is said to be large enough to shelter the whole British fleet.

While the city has now only a population of 5,000, its citizens are building public works to accommodate a population of 50,000. The hills are being levelled, waterworks and sewers constructed, parks laid out and schools and hospitals erected. As already stated, the city has its own telephone, electric light, water and power systems. It believes in and practices municipal ownership and single tax.

Wages and Cost of Living.

Wages are high. Common laborers obtain 45 cents per hour; mechanics, $5 a day up; clerks, stenographers, etc., $20 a week up; $150 a month is a common salary.

The cost of living, however, is much higher than in the east, owing to the present lack of transportation facilities, but this will be overcome when the G. T. P. is completed, which, it is expected will be in two years. Steel is now laid for 160 miles east and grading has been completed for 100 miles beyond that. Where the rails are laid the road is in daily use. The G. T. P. claim to have a great advantage over the other transcontinental roads, owing to its grade over the mountain sections of two-tenths of 1 per cent, so near to level that it is almost inconceivable. This is said to enable them to draw as many cars with one engine as other roads can with two.

Three lines of steamships, the G. T. P., C. P. R. and Union, are now running between Prince Rupert and Vancouver, giving practically a daily service. All the boats are of modern construction. The C. P. R. and G. T. P. are particularly good, their cuisine being equal to that of the best hotels. The G. T. P. boats are propelled by oil. There are also other steamers touching this port for points up the Skeena River, Port Simpson, Stewart and Naas Harbor, and northern points to Alaska, and Prince Rupert is rapidly becoming a prominent ocean port.

Great improvements are now under way. The G. T. P. has constructed a dock and freight shed 1,000 feet in length, and a government dock of about the same

A GREAT SEAPORT IN THE MAKING!

Only When Canada Stops Growing Will Investors Cease to Make Money on Land

Do you think Canada is going to stop growing soon? No, of course not. She has only fairly started.

And as Canada grows so must new centres of population develop.

The place for the investor to make big profits is in some town or city where development is inevitable.

Take Alberni for Instance

Alberni is as certain to become a large shipping centre as Vancouver. Situated on the west coast of Vancouver Island—some eight to twenty-four hours nearer the east than is Vancouver—Alberni will shortly see the largest boats of the Pacific docking at her waterfront.

With the Canadian Pacific Railway already there, and the Canadian Northern Railway rushing its tracks toward the city as fast as possible,

Alberni will develop within the next year in a way that will surprise you all.

Your chance to buy a lot in Alberni is something which you cannot afford to overlook.

We do not ask you to buy because of the few reasons we have given above.

But we do want you to get our new booklet about Alberni. It is handsomely illustrated and will tell you about Alberni in a way that is convincing. Get it today.

Lots can now be bought for $150 on easy terms. See us and talk it over.
