War Now Going Badly For Axis

Masset Cannery Is Destroyed

Storm Two Weeks Ago Swept Entire Plant Away $25,000 Value

Nootka Packing Co. Establishment Was One of Best Known on Queen Charlotte Islands—Established Quarter of Century Ago

Word has reached Prince Rupert of the complete loss by being swept into the sea during a fierce storm on November 20 of the entire salmon cannery plant of the Nootka Packing Co. at New Massett, Queen Charlotte Islands. The destruction, involving an estimated $25,000 property loss, including the cannery buildings and the machinery and equipment of the one line packing plant. There was also a wharf which, with the rest of the cannery property, completely disappeared. The government wharf close alongside remained intact, weathering the great storm.

The New Massett plant was one of the oldest and best known salmon canneries on the Queen Charlotte Islands. It was originally the enterprise of the late E. H. Simpson, having been established close to a quarter of a century ago. Later it was acquired and operated by the Nootka Packing Co. (1937) Limited. During recent years it had not been operated and lately had been acquired, along with other Nootka Co. fishing and cannery property on Graham Island, by the Massett Co-operative Association in connection with a new enterprise, managed by Sam Simpson which was to nave engaged in co-operation with the natives, in the production of canned clams and other products.

REDS MOVE QUICKLY ON

Further Points Captured in Stalingrad and Rzhev Areas—Many Nazi Planes Downed

MOSCOW, Dec. 2—More villages have been recaptured west of Stalingrad and in the Rzhev area by the Red Army in its great counter-offensive against the German invaders.

The Volga River is freezing up rapidly, snows are deepening and desperate efforts have been made by the Nazis to deliver munitions and supplies by air. The result is that the Germans lost fifty planes on Monday and thirty more yesterday.

CONVENTION OF NATIVES

Many Important Matters Taken Up at Sessions in Interior Village During Past Week

Because of economic conditions among the natives, their organization, the Native Brotherhood of British Columbia, is going to make a serious study of the co-operative system of production, distribution and exchange and a college professor will be engaged to lecture to them on this co-operative system, particularly as far as the fishing industry is concerned. Such was one decision reached at the anual convention of the Native Brotherhood which was held during the past week at the village of Skeena Crossing in the interior.

The convention dealt with many problems affecting the economic welfare of the natives, particularly in competition with the white men, and concerning jurisprudence of the Indian Department, the health and education of the natives. It was felt, among other things, that promising native students should be accorded the opportunity of studying for the professions.

The Skeena Crossing convention was one of the most successful in the history of the organization.

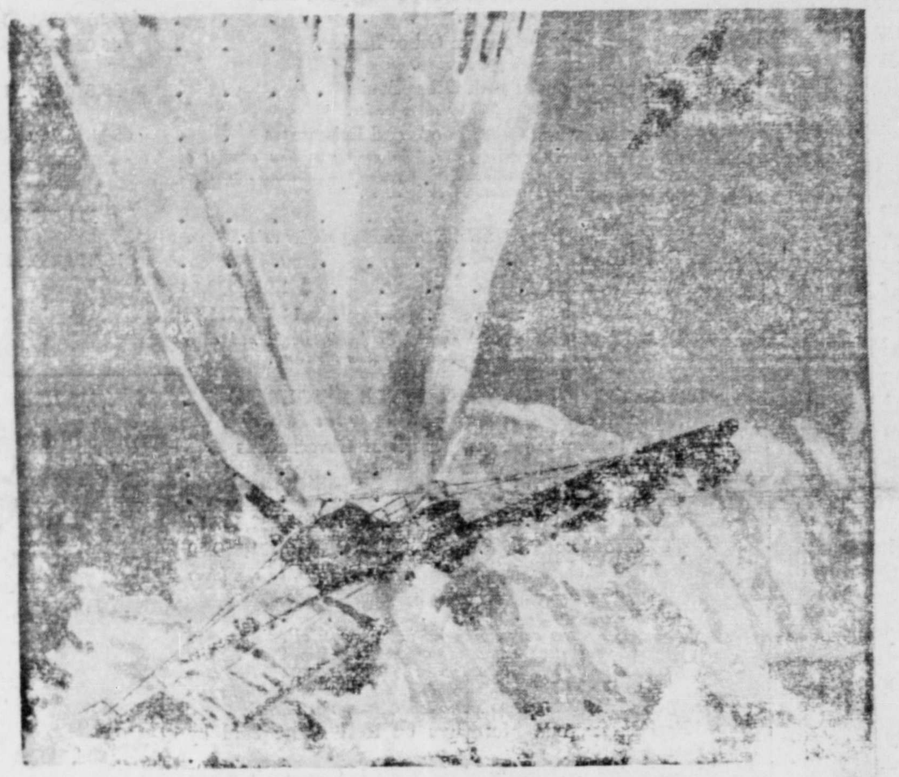
A U-Boat Disposed Of



Constant vigilance of Royal Canadian Air Force crews patrolling long, wearying hours in fair weather and foul over the North Atlantic has been rewarded by a substantial toll of Nazi U-boats. From accurate details supplied by the crew of a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber which made what was believed to have been a successful attack, R.C.A.F. artist Donald Anderson has depicted the result of a direct hit by depth charges. The submarine was blown so far out of the water its propellers were vis ble, the navigator reported.

MANY AXIS SUBS FEEL STING OF ATTACKS BY CANADA'S AIR FORCE

At Least Half of These Damaged, Some Severely and Some Actually Destroyed

OTTAWA, Dec. 2 — Many Axis submarines operating in Canadian coastal waters have felt the sting of Royal Canadian Air Force attacks in little more than a year, Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of National Defence for Air, revealed today. Of this number approximately half are now officially presumed to have been damaged, at least to an extent where crews were badly shaken up. In other cases the submarines were severely damaged so that it is doubtful if they were able to return to their bases. In some instances they were actually destroyed.

In his statement today, the Air Minister gave details of three attacks occurring within recent weeks and paid high tribute to crews of Canadian coastal reconnaissance squadrons who, with little fanfare, have been pressing home relentless attacks upon the under-sea raiders. In at least one of the attacks the aircraft swept down to within 25 feet of the submarine.

Singled out by Mr. Power was Squadron Leader N. E. Small, A.F.C., of Hamilton and Vancouver, a former bush pilot and TransCanada Air Lines captain, who heads the list of Canadian flyers operating over the Atlantic with five attacks to his credit.

"The first attack launched by R.C.A.F. patrol aircraft against a submarine occurred in October, 1941, slightly more than a year ago," said the minister. "Since then there have been 39 more of which it can be assumed that at least twenty were successful in varying degree."

"Details of all these attacks have been studied carefully and the crews' claims checked and rechecked both in Eastern Air Command and at Air Force Headquarters. The estimate of the damage caused and of the ultimate consequences to the subs is, if anything, a minimum appraisal of our successes."

Continuing, Mr. Power detailed three distinct episodes in the ceaseless warfare being waged by R.C.A.F. airmen against the subsurface marauders, all of them occurring this fall.

Vancouver Man's Bag

Two of these occurred in October. A crew from an East Coast base, captained by Flying Officer E. L. Robinson of 975 Bute Street, Vancouver, sighted a submarine some distance off the coast. The conning tower was clearly visible and the craft partially surfaced. Within a minute the attack was launched. The aircraft let go several charges. Effect of the blasts was to hurl the vessel clear of the water to such an extent that the propellors were clearly visible. Afterward, the submarine was seen to settle into the waves and a huge oil slick, followed by air bubbles was seen. The aircraft continued the attack by firing 300 rounds of ammunition some of which were direct hits. It remained for 52 minutes in the area before continuing on to its base.

Two of the depth charges were seen to explode within a short distance of the submarine, while a third was observed to bounce off the hull and explode.

A crew from another R.C.A.F. East Coast base launched what is thought to be another "good" attack against a submarine on the same day. The aircraft was returning from convoy patrol and while about 125 miles east of its coast detected a submarine surfaced with its deck wash. As the attack commenced the submarine crash-dived. Charges were dropped landing directly on the target. After the first explosion a dark object was seen to protrude and

Hitler Withdrawing His Armies From Russia in Frantic Effort To Stave Off African Disaster

Axis Forces in Tunisia Cut Off From Sea — Premier Mussolini Appeals to People to Fight on or Face Extinction

LONDON, Dec. 2 (CP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler was reported withdrawing at least part of his army from the bloody 100-day old siege of Stalingrad today while on the shores of ancient Tunisia the Allies cut off the Axis escape corridor to Tripoli. Dispatches from North Africa said Hitler was frantically rushing reinforcements to Tunisia by sea and air in the attempt to stave off threatening disaster even as American and French troops severed the coastal road two hundred miles north of Tunis.

Meanwhile Premier Benito Mussolini broke months of silence to warn the invasion-jittery Italian people that any weakening would mean that Italy would "renounce forever the dream of being a great nation." Bitterly Mussolini assailed Prime Minister Winston Churchill's blunt notice to the Italian people to get out of the war or be bombed out and promised that Germany would help Italy with "powerful contributions." In the same breath Mussolini disclosed that women and children were being evacuated from Italian cities to leave the fighters "masters of the situation." Asserting that the Italians will not be inferior to the British and Russians, Mussolini declared the war would last forever—until we achieve complete victory."

On the Russian front Soviet dispatches reported that Hitler was pulling his troops from Stalingrad to bolster other German forces now all but trapped and threatened with annihilation on the snow-covered steppes between the Don and Volga Rivers. Newspaper Red Star said that the Stalingrad defenders, rolling back the Nazis' weakening lines, had recaptured Yuzhnaya Hill, dominating the southern side of the city, and had pushed out from two to five miles farther from Stalingrad.

In North Africa Axis armies caught in a gigantic Allied vise pressing from east to west also were strictly on the defensive. On the Eastern flank the British Eighth Army opened up with big guns in a preliminary assault on the Germans entrenched in the El Agheila defile, a narrow corridor at the base of the Gulf of Sirte, and Cairo dispatches indicated that the westerbound offensive was about to start anew.

EDITORIAL

Social Security Planning . . .

Sir William Beveridge's social planning commission has presented to the British government the most elaborate plan for social legislation that has ever been put forward in any country, dispatches from London say. It is not indicated what the government may favor doing about it or how soon it may be implemented if at all. Social security, it is becoming increasingly admitted, is one thing that must be made certain if the morale of a contented people is to be maintained. It is pretty safe to concede that people as a whole will not be satisfied to go back to the old way where it was a constant struggle to merely exist, where the great majority of the people faced the spectre of charity or starvation in their old age and where it was always a case of survival of the fittest and the devil take the hindmost.

It is interesting to see what Britain will do about social legislation since Canada in a measure at least may be expected, in the normal course of things, to follow suit in such a way as may be adaptable to her particular needs.

Federal By-elections . . .

Monday's federal by-elections, in which a minimum of interest was taken this far away in view of the more important world news, had results of little significance in the general political picture in Canada. No issues of importance were involved unless it might have been in Montreal-Outremont where the new minister of national war services, Major General LaFleche, sought and won a seat against an opponent who professed to represent the French-Canadian draftees. The principle of conscription, in which Canadians some time ago expressed themselves clearly enough, may have entered into this contest but the new minister, a conscription supporter personally if not actively, was safely elected. Of course, he had a great advantage even in anti-conscription Quebec.

In Charlevoix-Saguenay, another Quebec riding, it was a mix up between candidates professing various conditions of independence. Mrs. Pierre Casgrain, who had made certain statements in regard to the war to which exception was generally taken, was defeated.

No change was expected in the Winnipeg North Centre seat and none took place, another Socialist clergyman succeeding the late J. S. Woodsworth.

Today is the Day . . .

There are two days in every week about which we should not worry . . . two days which should be kept free from fear and apprehension.

One of these days is yesterday with its mistakes and cares, its faults and blunders. All the money in the world cannot bring back yesterday.

The other day we should not worry about is tomorrow with its possible adversities, its burdens, its large promise and poor performance. Tomorrow also is beyond our immediate control. Tomorrow's sun will rise either in splendor or behind a mask of clouds—but it will rise. Until it does, we have no stake in tomorrow, for it is as yet unborn.

That leaves only one day . . . today. Any man can fight the battles of just one day. It is only when you and I add the burdens of those two awful eternities . . . yesterday and tomorrow . . . that we break down.

It is not the experience of today that drives man mad . . . it is remorse or bitterness for something which happened yesterday and the dread of what tomorrow may bring. Let us, therefore, journey but one day at a time, doing today's work well, profiting by experience and building for the future.

Don't Get Left Behind . . .

Without current publicity, the best known people and the best known business names fade quickly from the public mind. The business that hopes to use its good name after the war must keep it alive with current publicity . . . with advertising. Many businesses died during the last war and during the depression because they failed to recognize the need for advertising in an oversold market. Today, with new methods, new materials, new names and products ready to pop up the minute the war is over, an established, living name will be about the surest asset that any business can carry over into the post-war period.

While you neglect to advertise, your competitor may capitalize on the opportunity to start intensive cultivation of customers you thought were yours. If he doesn't, it is the opportunity to capitalize upon his negligence.

In wartime and all the time it pays to advertise.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT, Hostess

I said yesterday that I would quote from a letter Martin Van Cooten wrote to his mother, Mrs. Brass, from England where he is stationed with an artillery unit. Mrs. Brass's second son, Bill Brass, is also overseas while her youngest boy, Peter Brass, leaves for the south this month to join his unit in the R. C. A. F. Martin says:

"Dear Mother and Dad:

"We have finally moved into billets and glad of it. We are only six miles away from our previous camp but right in the centre of a small village. The name of our house is 'The Old Priory' and I believe 'the brains' must have searched all over England to find such ancient quarters as these.

"It is a small place. The walls are about three feet thick and are made of stone and the original stone floors have been covered over with a wooden floor but are very uneven. The quaintest part of the place in the doorways. The highest are five foot nine and a really low one just about four foot six which leads into our bedroom. Smithy, our equipment repairer, can go in and out without ducking except into our bedroom and he is 5 ft. two. Baldwin, our technical storeman, is six foot two and has banged his dome about four times the first day as he always forgets to duck. There is a fireplace in every room so we should keep warm this winter, that is if we are allowed enough coke or wood. The place was built about 1200 and has beams and uprights four foot square. They must have all been carved by hand and are very solid. There has been a little lean-to added which houses all the plumbing.

"We have our other troop in a big mansion across the street. This place is also very old and is called 'St. Mary's Rest House.' It is quite historical too and has old hand-carved staircases and all the doors are covered with leather and studded with brass. One of the rooms in this place has a sliding panel and, of course, is supposed to be 'haunted' by some old friar. But so far none of the boys have been 'done in.'"

The remainder of the letter is devoted to family matters. What tales the boys will have to tell when they return and what a better understanding this should make! Perhaps our boys overseas may have a kinder feeling towards the "limeys" than they had before they went over and were so certain of their ready-made likes and dislikes. Like Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady, we are all sisters—and brothers—under the skin.

St. Andrew's Day Celebrated Here

Delightful Dance Held Monday Night With Two Hundred Persons Attending

The Oddfellows' Hall, with some two hundred persons in attendance, was the scene Monday night of a delightful dance in celebration of St. Andrew's Day. Splendid music was furnished by the Midlands Orchestra and the affair was in full and happy swing from 9:30 p.m. until 1:30 a.m.

One of the features of tht evening was the drawing for a cash raffle with prize-winners as follows:

First, $20, Corp. Barkwell, ticket No. 495.

Second, $15, Billy Smith, No. 953.

Third, $10, Mrs. George Scott, No. 1017.

Fourth, $5, S. W. McInnnes, No. 1111.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. George Howe, Mrs. E. E. Yager, Mrs. C. Scharff, Mrs. J. Murray, Mrs. S. Calder, Mrs. H. Smith sr., Mrs. A. McNeil and Mrs. E. A. Evans.

Kits for Survivors

When you read—"Another ship torpedoed off the West Coast" you know that the unseen enemy is not so remote. On each rescue ship which hastens to the scene of disaster, are Red Cross survivor's kits—blue bags of stout material, containing 16 essential articles inclusive of outfits of warm clothing. The Provincial Red Cross has distributed 500 of these kits and another 250 are being assembled.

Diamond Pendant

Mr. Chapman, winner of the diamond pendant, recently donated by Mrs. C. E. Tryon to the Parksville Red Cross unit, has returned half the proceeds of the sale of it to the unit, thus adding $25 to the fund and bringing up the total to $132.70.

Give Farm Products

T. Swanton and his sisters, who have a fruit farm at Rawleigh, 12 miles from Kamloops, donate fruit, vegetables and flowers regularly to the Red Cross—this being sold at the Kamloops Superfluity shop.

Catering for Dances

'MANHATTAN TALES' FINE

Outstanding Cast Features Picture Coming Here For Three Day Run This Week-end

A screen play which cuts the very heart out of old New York and lays it before the moviegoers to behold, "Tales of Manhattan," replete with adventure, humor and palpitating romance, comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here for a three-day engagement commencing tomorrow.

The story is an unusual one and in order to carry it in the film there is an outstanding cast which includes such stars as Charles Boyer, Rita Hayworth, Ginger Rogers, Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton, Edward G. Robinson, Paul Robeson, Ethel Waters, Rochester, Thomas Mitchell, Eugene Pallette, Cesar Romero, Gail Patrick, Roland Young, Elsa Lanchester, George Sanders and James Gleason, all of which is an imposing enough array to be sure.

The action moves from a tenement to a penthouse, from Park Avenue to Hell's Kitchen.

Even Walter Winchell has described it as "one of the greatest films I have ever seen."

The representation by delegates included coast and interior from the United States border on the south to Alaska in the North.

In keeping with the expansion of the organization, the province was divided into three districts for executive attention, namely, northern coast from Alaska boundary to Skeena River, central district from Skeena River to Rivers Inlet, the southern district from Smith's Inlet to the Washington border. Vice-presidents to act as presiding officers for the districts were chosen as follows: north coast, Joshua McKay, Port Simpson; central coast, Guy R. Williams, Kitimaat; south coast, Daniel W. Assu, Cape Mudge.

Alfred Adams of Massett was re-elected president for his thirteenth term. H. D. Bailey was returned as secretary and William Jeffrey as treasurer with Albert Wesley as recording secretary, Andy Paul of Squamish as general organizer and business agent and Ambrose Reid as business agent for the northern district.

The Brotherhood retained in office the older chiefs who have been the inspiration behind the efforts of the Indians and additional life members were added from the interior as well as Sam King of Bella Coola.

H. S. Clifton of Hartley Bay is honorary president and Moody Hamchitte of Bella Bella is honorary vice-president with other honorary officers as follows: Harry Brooks, Port Simpson; Edward Gamble, Kitkatla; Peter Calder, Greenville; Sam King, Bella Coola; Albert McDames, Skeena Crossing, and Robert Wilson, Kispiox.

Delegates from coastal points north and south have been passing through the city during the past day or so enroute to their homes from Skeena Crossing. All reported having been shown fine hospitality while there, many social functions being interspersed with the business sessions of the convention.

MANY AXIS SUBS

then settle back beneath the surface, followed by air bubbles and a large oil slick. The aircraft remained in that area for 30 minutes before darkness fell. When it departed an oil slick 100 by 300 yards in size was clearly discernible on the ocean's surface.

In addition to the depth charges, thirty rounds of ammunition were fired, but there is some doubt as to whether they found their mark.

The crew participating in this attack included: Flying Officer D. F. Raymes, Toronto, captain; Pilot Officer J. Leigh, Toronto, second pilot; Flying Officer R. B. Martin, Toronto, navigator; Pilot Officer J. S. Johnston, Ottawa, wireless operator-air gunner; and Sergeants J. J. Gilfallan and F. H. Bebec, wireless operator-air gunners.

Another Hit

Two days later, another aircraft from an R. C. A. F. East Coast base, while 220 miles at sea, picked up the wake of a submarine which was apparently stalking a convoy. In the attack which followed, a depth charge was seen to explode directly ahead of the conning tower. Following the blast, the submarine was seen to roll over to port and to subsequently slide under the water without forward speed. The aircraft remained 85 minutes before turning for its base.

A "kill" is not claimed in this instance, but Air Force officials have good reason to believe the sub was damaged sufficiently to make further operations difficult.

The crew of the attacking aircraft comprised: Pilot Officer L. T. Ross of Assiniboin, Sask., and Sergeants M. D. Buchanan of Peterborough; W. G. Butler of Aylsham, Sask., and L. A. Hollinger of Pembroke, Ont.

A STATEMENT about BUTTER

In spite of the fact that in some Canadian cities butter supplies recently have not been sufficient to meet the greatly increased demands, the situation does not constitute an emergency; nor is it as serious as some people seem to think. There are two main causes for these temporary and local shortages:

For the past year we have been consistently using 10% to 15% more butter than in normal times—with consequent disturbance to the distribution of our butter supplies.

Many people have been buying more butter than they currently need.

The limited nature of the present shortage is shown by the fact that if every home would reduce its consumption of butter by only one ounce per person per week (for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week)—or if we reduced our national consumption to the peacetime rate—the shortage would soon disappear.

There is no Reason for Panic Buying

It is unpatriotic and unnecessary for housewives to rush out to beat their neighbours to the nearest grocery store. Butter will not be rationed to meet the present situation. Butter production is actually above normal for this time of year. The Board itself is taking special action which it is believed will speedily restore normal supplies in retail stores.

These supplies will however be adequate for normal consumption, if housewives in all parts of Canada co-operate.

You can help in these ways:

Scrupulously avoid waste and extravagance. Waste is wrong at all times. In time of war it is sabotage.

Reduce present consumption of butter by at least one ounce per person per week—(for the average home this means a quarter of a pound a week.)

Do not buy more than is needed for immediate use.

HOW TO SAVE BUTTER

AT MEAL-TIME
1. Use butter only for spreading on bread.
2. Never use butter just out of the refrigerator. Wait until it is soft enough to spread easily.
3. Add a small amount of milk when creaming butter for sandwiches.

IN COOKING
1. Do not use butter in baking and cooking, when lard, shortening or meat dripping can be used.
2. Use level measurements of butter. . . . Guesswork means waste!
3. When adding cheese to a cream or white sauce, use only half amount of butter stated in recipe.
4. Use paper wrappings from butter to grease baking dishes.
5. Do not use butter for re-warming vegetables.
6. Serve meat gravy to avoid the use of extra butter on potatoes.
7. When adding butter to vegetable dishes, add it sparingly. Do not melt it and then pour on.

Announcement

Restrictions placed upon us by the Wartime Prices & Trade Board compel us to announce we shall be unable to put on our "Christmas Special" this year.

This practice of sending a small box of smoked fish, typical of the dominant industry of Prince Rupert, has become increasingly popular and we are very sorry we shall have to disappoint our many customers this year.

After the war, we hope we shall again be able to make this special Christmas offer available to our many friends.

RED CROSS OVERSEAS

Valuable Work Reported On To Local Executive

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Red Cross executive held last evening with President W. R. McAfee in the chair, further amended information regarding prisoner - of - war parcels and this information is available from the secretary. Over 400,000 acknowledgment cards have been received to November 4 from parcels sent to prisoners-of-war by the Canadian Red Cross.

The following letter was read from the Provincial Commissioner regarding Canadian Red Cross hospital visitors overseas. "Each Canadian hospital has its quota of hospital visitors who work in under a convenor, also handicraft workers and librarians. Every man in the hospital is visited several times a week and those on the seriously ill lists are seen every day. Letters are written for the men and any shopping that they may wish to do is always gladly undertaken by the visitors. Cigarettes, chewing gum and papers are given to every man each week. Invalid delicacies are supplied to men dangerously or seriously ill.

"After the Dieppe raid, when casualties were brought in during the night, hospital visitors remained on duty for twenty-four hours, seeing that these men got Canadian Red Cross comforts.

"We have visitors also in every British hospital where there are Canadian patients. These are mostly R.C.A.F. men. They get the same supplies as the men in the Canadian hospitals.

"The matrons of all outlying hospitals received franked postcards, one of which is completed for each Canadian admitted to that hospital and returned to us. A parcel is despatched to him on receipt of this notification. As, on an average, there are 7000 Canadian patients in hospital at any given time, it is obviously impossible to send a report on each man.

"Reports on the condition of patients which are sent back to Canada by visitors are always first approved by the hospital authorities."

The commissioner requested that this information be given as wide publicity in this area as possible.

BUILDING IS LIGHT

Not Many Permits in November But Year to Date Much Heavier Than Last

Building permits issued in Prince Rupert during November numbered but four and totalled only $1,300 in value. However, due to the heavy start earlier in the year, the building value in Prince Rupert for 1942 to date stands at $495,300 as compared with $172,188 in the first eleven months of 1941.

Chris Berg, Ambrose Avenue, outside porch, $50.

Roy Scherk, Seal Cove Circle, addition, $800.

L. Basso-Bert, Biggar Place, garrage, $50.

J. G. Jackson, Ninth Avenue, move building, $400.
