PRODUCING FOR NAZIS

Plants in France Have Huge Orders For German Forces

By William Stewart
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, May 21: War factories in occupied France, the target of heavy Royal Air Force blows, are working on German orders estimated to run into billions of francs.

Production schedules imposed by the Nazis are said to call for manufacture of airplanes, motors and parts, tanks, lorries, torpedoes, shells, bullets, armor plate and various types of precision instruments.

In one month alone, the Germans placed with French factories orders totalling almost 4,000,000 francs, mostly for airplanes to be produced over a period of a year.

However, standing in the way of their fulfilment and completion of other war production schedules are said to be French workers' "go-slow" tactics, shortages of fuel and raw materials added to destruction wrought by British bombs.

Planes For Nazis

In six hours' bombing of the big Renault and Matford works, the R. A. F. reportedly deprived the Germans of potential output of 20,000 lorries, tanks and armored vehicles, or enough to equip five armored and mechanized divisions.

Twelve factories started work last July on some 2,000 of the 5,000 airplanes France is scheduled to manufacture for Germany before the end of 1942. The plants are located at St. Nazaire, Les Mureaux, Sartrouville, Bordeaux, Le Bourget, Fourchambault, Colombes, Courbevois, Suresnes, Putaux, Billancourt and Villacoublay.

Torpedoes for the Axis are in production at the Toulon State arsenal and its branch at St. Tropez. Shells and bullets are being made at St. Joseph, Le Portrik, Fougeres and Essai, and various instruments at Levallois-Perret, Cholet and Paris.

The Delahaye and Citroen works are turning out lorries and so is the Hotchkiss plant, also building and repairing tanks.

Bomb Production

Among the factories devoted to bomb production are listed Escat and Meuse at Ansin, and Ste. Louvrol at Aulnoye whose output is estimated at 6,000 of an unspecified type monthly.

The drain on French raw materials resulted in a salvage campaign for metal, particularly copper, lead, brass, bronze and nickel.

While the Nazis pressed French production, their labor recruiters are seeking workers for factories in Germany. Paris newspapers carry hundreds of advertisements for skilled men, drawing attention to "favorable conditions" in Germany.

MOSCOW, May 21: Marshal Timoshenko's army reported today it had crushed one of the key German defence strongholds on the Kharkov front, wiping out a Nazi garrison in a fierce forty-minute battle and storming forward six more miles. Artillery, planes and tanks were used in concerted battering of a strong point, clearing the way for an infantry charge which took the position, Red Star newspaper said.

Meanwhile the Russians are reported fighting off German flank assaults aimed towards Lyum and Barvankova, eighty miles southeast of Kharkov, and holding on grimly at the eastern tip of Kerch Peninsula, barring a short cut to the Caucasus.

R. A. F. IS INDEPENDENT FORCE FOR STRIKING

Night Raids Concentrate On One Target And Keep Nazi Fighters Busy On Large Scale On West Front

LONDON, May 21: (CP)—In discussions on the R. A. F.'s daring raids into Germany the new bombing technique has been explained in London as a strategy aimed at concentrating on one target virtually all the bombers sent out in any one night. This means such a plastering of bombs for the target town that for the time being at least it can be wiped off the list of objectives. In other words the air force is being employed as a full, independent striking weapon, just the opposite of the German raids on Britain a year and more ago when they were intended as the spearhead for an invading army already waiting on the "invasion coasts" of France.

As to the daytime fighter sweeps in which sometimes as many as 300, 400 or 500 participate, the air ministry explains their value is two-fold: 1. To force Germany, already dangerously short of fighters, to keep at least half of them in the west. 2. To bring this half of German fighter strength to combat and thus gradually to destruction of alternately to oblige it to operate incessantly and on a scale beyond its endurance.

Nazi Strength

Germany at present is so short of fighter planes, authorities in London state, that their fighter strength in the west cannot be relieved. "The Luftwaffe is in a cleft stick," said the air ministry in an official review. "It dare not keep its fighters on the ground in the face of our sweeps for they would be liable to destruction by the cannon fire of our Hurricanes and Spitfires."

"Both French and German morale would be seriously affected (though in opposite ways) if our unchallenged squadrons called forth no visible response from the German fighters."

"Yet, though obliged to operate almost continuously and in very large numbers with a consequent strain upon aircraft serviceability, personnel and fuel, they dare not risk a general combat so urgently do they need to eke out their dwindling fighter resources."

The strain goes beyond the German air force because, while keeping some 500 German fighters occupied on the western front the British sweeps also immobilize a force of 1,500,000 men in defence jobs. For Germany's benefit they would be much better used in industry if the R. A. F. would allow it.

BLACKOUT PRACTICE

Darkness Prevails For Half An Hour All Along British Columbia Coast

Along with the rest of the British Columbia coast, Prince Rupert had precautionary test blackout for about half an hour last night. Except for the odd light left on inadvertently, the response was general and effective. However, little inconvenience was caused since, even at 10:30 p. m., it was not completely dark. Traffic voluntarily was almost completely immobilized and such vehicles as did move had taken measures to provide the necessary masking of lights. Although some of these appeared quite inadequate.

The blackout, commencement of which was signalled by a long blast of the air raid alarm sirens, started on the lower coast at 10 p. m. and in Prince Rupert twenty minutes later. When the street lights came on again about half an hour later the blackout test was officially over.

A. R. P. police wardens patrolled the streets to check up on lights. In most of cases local people turned all lights out instead of putting up their blackout equipment. There was some comment as to the long time it took to get the street lights out.

Boys' Vandalism Is Cause of Fire

Confessed to Starting Blaze in Gasoline Line of Waterfront Fuel Plant

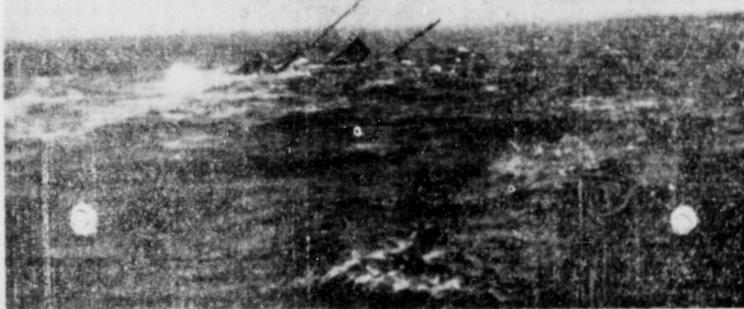

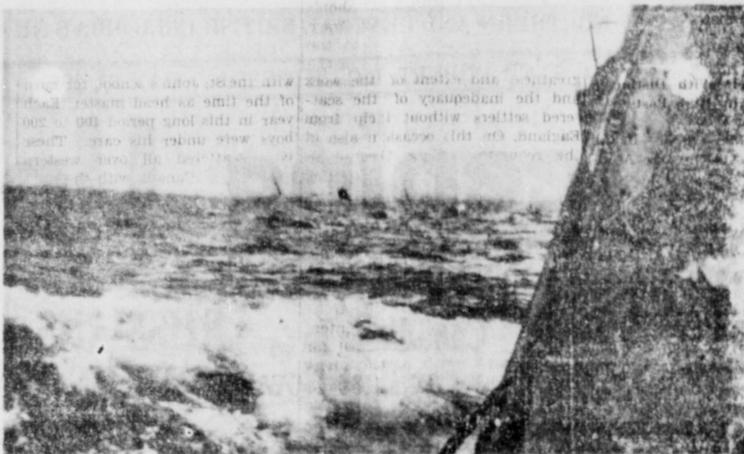

Straight vandalism on the part of two boys of teen age caused what might have been a serious fire among the oil tanks of the local waterfront a few nights ago. The boys deliberately started a fire in a gasoline line on the Home Oil Distributors Ltd. dock and it actually assumed some proportions. Albert Kisser, a waterfront resident, detected the fire and did much to keep it under control until the arrival of the fire department. Later the boys were apprehended after investigation by police and military authorities. They were reprimanded in the presence of the parents who were urged to exercise closer supervision.

Men or Machines . . .

In spite of all the machinations of science to destroy human life and property in warfare, it is the quality of man himself that will decide the issue of modern warfare, Commander A. H. Reed, naval officer in charge at Prince Rupert, suggested to the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday. This reflection of Commander Reed's is worthy of thought. If man has become soft, no quantity and no quality of machines in the final analysis can save him. And possibly the quality is a more important consideration than the quantity. We need the men of quality to produce and to use the machines of war. Possibly we have been too prone to place the value of the machine before the value of the man. This, of course, brings up the question of morale, something that has not yet been tested in Canada such as it has been in Britain. Our testing time may yet come. We might as well determine ourselves that we must stand up without compromise. The machines of quality and quantity are essential. The same can indeed be said of the men.

Archbishop Matheson . . .

The late Archbishop Samuel P. Matheson, former Primate of All Canada for the Church of England, will go down in ecclesiastical history as one of Canada's greatest churchmen. The affectionate esteem in which this able, astute yet gentle and Christian man was held was a notable feature of his career.

In the quarter of a century of Archbishop Matheson's guidance and administration of Rupert's Land diocese and ecclesiastical province as metropolitan, and for a greater part of this period as primate, there has been great expansion and development in the work of the church. While these eminent services will be borne in grateful memory, to a far greater degree will His Grace's memory abide and be blessed by the people of the land for the spiritual help and inspiration that had been given them by His Grace's life and by his sermons and addresses.

"To sever myself officially from my long and happy association with the work of the church in the diocese brings upon me a very severe and painful wrench," His Grace said on his retirement. "But it is not something that I have done lightly and without serious thought . . . I felt convinced that it was my duty to hand over the reins to a younger man, and to one who will be more generally fit for the duties of the position, so that the work of the church will not suffer.

"I have said that my severance from the work which I dearly loved costs me many a pang, but the demonstrations of goodwill are a very pleasing mitigation to my sorrow at parting from it. I have never been influenced or swayed by a 'wanderlust,' but have remained practically in the same locality where God placed me as a child. Perhaps it is not known how frequently I was tempted to change my sphere of labor, but, in the providence of God, I could never bring myself to yield, and today, as I retire from my post, amidst the atmosphere of abounding kindness which surrounds me, I felt that in doing what I did I must have been carrying out God's will. I have stayed here in old St. John's which has grown dearer to me every day with the flight of time. I have seen the old Red River settlement grow from the day of small things to what it is today. I have seen the little outpost of Fort Gary grow into the fine metropolis of the city of Winnipeg. I have seen the few churches dotted along the banks of the two rivers, with their one scattered diocese, develop into an ecclesiastical province of eleven dioceses. It is perhaps a unique experience to have witnessed all this during my lifetime, and, looking at it all, I thank God and take courage for the future of my native country and for the church which I love. If, under God, I have been able to do my little in all this development, I can only thank Him not for what I have done, but for what He has done. None of us can say, 'Look what we have done,' but exclaim, 'What hath God wrought.'" Such was the way the late lamented Archbishop expressed his spirit in his own Godlike words.

FRENCH DETEST NAZI INVADERS IT IS CLEAR

Voices of Vichy Distrusted and Most of Old Republic Remains Pro-British and True To Allied Cause

(One of a Canadian Press series by the Free French Labor and Interior Commissioner on conditions in Nazi-ruled France before his escape to Britain.)

(By ANDRE DIETHELM)

LONDON, May 21: (CP) — From one trial to the next, French morale became more assured and the certainty of final triumph grew. The determination of the French to resist and play their part again in the war grew as well.

From the very first days of the conflict, a certain propaganda had tried to set the French people against England and to make the mere sight of a British uniform odious to them.

I do not want to reveal here how at the risk of their lives, our compatriots hid British soldiers and airmen. You may have heard the story of an Englishwoman who found herself in the occupied zone. Her name happened to be Churchill and everywhere she was the object of the most devoted attention.

When British bombers carried out their duties, it is no exaggeration to say that in the eyes of all, they were viewed as Heaven-sent.

British Bombers Welcomed
 When bombs landed accurately on the target, everybody said the R.A.F. was marvellous and had extraordinary sighting apparatus. If, by bad luck, civilians were hit, then it was proof of German perfidy and everyone supposedly found splinters showing that the bomb was made in Germany.

The same attitude was taken in connection with French internal policy. When the collaborators announced some illusory concession, everybody's common sense protested. Admiral Darian's triumphant communiques were regarded as fresh proof of treachery.

Even in the unoccupied zone, the press dared not announce immediately that Japan was "protecting" Indo-China, that French workmen were compelled to take employment in Germany, or that an anti-Bolshevik Legion was being formed in Paris.

The entry of Russia into the war was the last stroke. All Frenchmen of all classes apart from the Communists began to love Russia again. The old promises of the Franco-Russian Alliance were revived. I think even that certificates of the old Czarist loans which our grandparents kept sadly in their strongboxes had advanced several points by the end of May.

When after a few weeks of fighting, fears of a Russian collapse were dispelled, I am certain there was not a single Frenchman who did not rejoice, who did not detest the invader so much more,

MANPOWER IS NEEDED

War Cannot Be Won By Machines Alone, Declares Commander Reed In Gyro Address

Speaking before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday, Commander A. H. Reed, naval officer commanding at Prince Rupert, expressed the opinion that, in spite of the great scientific developments for the prosecution of mechanized warfare, the element of man himself would yet play the decisive part. The development of the commando type of man to man fighting with men of superlative physique and unflinching character, he submitted as an example of the reversion to the human element. "After all the man is the thing," declared Commander Reed who, with characteristic candor, referred to certain types of men who could not be expected to rise to the occasion when the time came for them to do so. Among these he suggested the men whose main object in life seemed to be pleasure and self-indulgence.

Commander Reed's subject was "Anti-Submarine Warfare" and on this he gave a highly interesting discourse drawn upon personal experiences from the last war. Serious as the situation might be today in regard to shipping losses, Commander Reed referred to the desperate situation which faced the Allies in the spring of 1917 after Germany had cast all international codes in regard to warfare to the winds and had embarked upon her campaign of unrestricted submarine warfare. He described how the challenge had been met after Admiral Jellicoe had declared that unless some means could be devised to counteract the losses of sinking there would have to be unconditional surrender by August 1917. The q-boats, with which Commander Reed himself had been identified, had proven one of the answers. He paid tribute to the courage of the men who had undertaken the perilous job of hunting the q-boats.

Incidentally, Commander Reed declared that the submarine was not nearly as vulnerable a vessel as some were led to believe. Even as in the last war, however, steps were being taken in this to meet the challenge of the submarine.

President George L. Rorie was in the chair at yesterday's luncheon and guests were Dr. R. J. Macdonald, a member of the Pouce Coupe Gyro Club, who has arrived in Prince Rupert to locate, and R. S. Greig and T. W. E. Henry.

MATHESON WAS GREAT CHURCHMAN

Former Primate of All Canada Acquitted Himself With Distinction In Many High Posts

WINNIPEG, May 20 (C)—In all his executive posts the late Archbishop Samuel Pritchard Matheson, former Anglican Primate of Canada, who is dead in Winnipeg, acquitted himself with distinction. His first rise to eminence, however, came when he was selected as coadjutor bishop in the diocese of Rupert's Land to assist Archbishop Machray whose failing health made an assistant necessary. On the latter's death in 1905 his previous record stamped him as the logical successor to the great western churchman as Bishop of Rupert's Land and metropolitan of the ecclesiastical province of the same name, carrying with it the title of Archbishop. This proved but a preliminary to his election in 1909 as "Primate of all Canada," again in succession to Archbishop Machray. Thus he attained to the highest office of the Anglican Church in the Dominion and gave for the first time since 1889 the Seagram stable had no eligible entrant for the Woodbine classic, Tabhim finished eleventh in the field of 14.

Willie the Kid, carrying the colors of Miss M. A. Kane, won the eighty-first running of the horse race track in Toronto two years ago yesterday. After losing many lengths when he swung wide entering the stretch, the game little three-year old came back to outrun Curwen from the H. C. Hatch stable and won by three lengths.

Philip Seagram bought Tabhim from the Jim Fair stables at Brantford, Ontario, for $1, four years ago and entered him in the King's Plate the following Saturday. The deal was made because for the first time since 1889 the Seagram stable had no eligible entrant for the Woodbine classic, Tabhim finished eleventh in the field of 14.

DODGERS STAY UP

Have Six Game Margin In National League In Spite Of Defeat Yesterday

BROOKLYN, May 21. (C)—Although the booming St. Louis Cardinals needed only one run yesterday to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Bums are still reigning supreme in the National League standing with a margin of six full games over the Boston Bees. The Cardinals are now in third place but half a game behind Boston which scored a close four to three victory over Pittsburgh yesterday.

In the American League the world champion New York Yankees are again in the lead, but only mathematically, over the Cleveland Indians. The Yanks downed the Chicago White Sox four to one while Cleveland had its game with the Boston Red Sox postponed.

Yesterday's Big League scores: National League St. Louis 1, Brooklyn 0. Chicago 6, New York 3. Cincinnati 10, Philadelphia 3. Pittsburgh 3, Boston 4.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

There were some 130 passengers aboard the steamer Prince Rupert, Capt. Neil MacLean, which was in port from 11:30 yesterday morning to 11 o'clock last night northbound from Vancouver via Powell River and Ocean Falls to Ketchikan. The vessel, which had on board the usual large freight cargo, will be back here again tonight southbound.

The archbishop attended the now famous Lambeth conference in 1920, when the celebrated re-union appeal was issued. At this time he preached in Westminster Abbey, the second occasion being the formal closing of the Archbishop's Western Canada Fund. His Grace made an eloquent appeal to the assembled audience, describing the greatness and extent of the work and the inadequacy of the scattered settlers without help from England. On this occasion also at the request of King George he preached before their Majesties and the Royal Household in the private chapel at Buckingham Palace. The honorary D. C. L. degree was conferred upon Archbishop Matheson by Cambridge and Durham universities in 1908.

Throughout his life the Archbishop was always greatly interested in education. He served for a time as chairman of the advisory board of education for Manitoba, while for many years also he occupied the post of Chancellor of Manitoba University. Although generally associated with the "low church" school of Anglican theologians he always evaded controversies. In an administrative way many difficult situations presented themselves to him, but his tact and diplomacy were invariably equal to the occasion. He never lost that humility and kindness which made him loved by all.

Five Children

The primate married in 1879 Seraphine Mary Fortin who died in 1897 after bearing him five children. He married a second time in 1906, Alice E. Talbot.

Archbishop Matheson led a very long and very arduous life, a slave to his office. Trained and educated in the school of an earlier day, he did all his work with his own hand, never having a secretary to relieve him of burdensome details.

In the financial affairs of the diocese most of the business was in the hands of the executive committee. He had, however, an uncanny judgment in the matter of investments in the interests of the church, excelling that of almost all the laymen interested in the same affairs.

No one in the present generation in the Anglican communion had such a hold on the church. This was really secured in the 30 year period between 1874 and 1904 when he was so closely identified with the St. John's school, for most of the time as head master. Each year in this long period 100 to 200 boys were under his care. These boys scattered all over western and eastern Canada with the happiest memories of their master, and in the course of time many of them rose to positions of high responsibility and power in civil life, and also assumed corresponding positions in the church.

The archbishop also owed much to his marked ability in the pulpit. While not the greatest preacher in the Anglican communion, it is admitted from coast to coast he was the most winsome. Of a dignified presence, endowed with a genial wit and with the spirit of a good father, he at once won the confidence and trust of his hearers, wherever he went.

In 1930, when 78 years of age, Archbishop Matheson placed his formal resignation before the proper authority, and it took final effect on January 31, 1931. On that day within the hallowed walls of stately St. John's cathedral, before a gathering that filled to overflowing the spacious interior of the edifice, he closed his active ministry in the diocese. It was a notable gathering, representative of all classes in the community, that attended the service.

Throughout his life the Archbishop was always identified in some way with St. John's College and the parish of St. John's. In his early years, however, he did a considerable amount of mission work, once the church began to exert its influence beyond the limits of the old Red River settlement. As a student and a young clergyman he took charge of the district round Rockwood, Man., and in 1876 he was instru-

GAME IS CRUCIAL

Signals and Fusiliers, Tied For Leadership in Soccer Standing, To Meet Tonight

In the last Gihuly Cup senior football game to be played, that on Monday evening between Signals and Midlands, the Signals won seven goals to nothing. It was a one sided affair. The victory put the Signals into a tie for the leadership in the standing with the Edmonton Fusiliers. Tonight these two teams will meet and the issue as far as the first quarter of the season is concerned will probably be decided as a result. A game scheduled for Tuesday night between Air Force and Area Headquarters was postponed on account of rain. The detailed standing is as follows:

British Munitions Worker Not Satisfied With Less Than 60 Hours

HANDSWORTH, England May 21 (C)—The job was all right, but, complained 26-year-old Alice Strasser, the hours weren't long enough. After completing her training for munitions production Miss Strasser was asked to work a 50-hour week. She wanted to work a 60-hour week but the longest work week available was 54 hours so she has to be satisfied with that.

After the service, luncheon was served in the Commodore Cafe. Guest speaker was J. V. Scrivener who gave a very educational and interesting talk and was thanked by G. P. Tinker. A corsage was then presented to Miss R. M. Davies O.B.E., the President, by Mrs. Thomas Andrew.

At the afternoon meeting in the Cathedral Hall, Miss Davies, the president, who was resigning after a very faithful service for six years, gave a splendid address. Following her address, tea was served and the meeting adjourned.

In the evening a reception was held by Dean and Mrs. J. B. Gibson in the Cathedral Hall. The speakers were Rev. E. W. Slater, Rev. E. W. Scott, Dean Gibson and Miss Bird. A very enjoyable evening was spent with music and refreshments.

Major A. S. Parks, recruiting officer for Northern British Columbia, returned to the city on Tuesday night's train after a two weeks' trip through the interior. During the trip he signed up some fifteen recruits.

Miss Eleanor Graham, from Duncan, and Miss Elizabeth Ochs, from Abbotsford, arrived in the city on the Prince Rupert yesterday from the south. Keeping of Nurses Proving Problem—Conference With Director of Public Health Unit

The Prince Rupert General Hospital is very busy these days and the maintaining of the nursing staff at strength owing to a shortage of nurses is proving a problem which took up a good deal of the time at a meeting of the board of directors on Tuesday night—the first meeting to be held since the annual general meeting of the Association some time ago.

The board was also in conference with Dr. D. J. MacDonald, director of the new public health unit here, a number of matters of common interest being discussed including the question of handling infectious cases and the isolation hospital situation.

The board received the usual monthly reports of committees.

Frank Dibb was re-elected chairman of the board with G. P. Tinker, R. E. Benson, W. O. Fulton, Dr. R. G. Large and Mrs. S. A. Kielback, directors; Miss Mary Fraser R. N., lady superintendent, and H. W. Birch, managing secretary.

Will Be Ready For Specialized Service When Called Upon

TORONTO, May 21:—In addition to the regular Girl Guide preparedness training, a new plan of emergency service training has just been launched for Girl Guides over 15 years of age.

This new Wartime Emergency Service plan will enable older girls to be ready when called upon for specialized service. It is planned in the form of tests which include intensive training in physical fitness discipline and dependability, and such specialized subjects as child care, home nursing, emergency cooking, transport, messenger service and land work.

Each girl as she qualifies in the general test will receive an armband to which stripes will be added as each specialized section is passed.

JAP HIT-AND-RUN EXPECTED

CAPE TOWN, May 21 (P)—Tobruk, Libyan seaport successfully defended by Australian troops against Axis North African forces for eight months last year, is now garrisoned by a South African division. Prime Minister Jan. C.
 Smuts of South Africa made this disclosure in a recent address.

Speaking at the Anzac Day memorial service in Johannesburg, General Smuts reviewed the military situation in the Far East. He said he had no doubt Australia and New Zealand would defend themselves successfully.

"Now a force is gathering on Australian soil which will in due course roll back the tide of war until it reaches Japan and until Japan finds her doom which I am persuaded will be one of the greatest judgments of history on a nation whose record is stained with so much blood and injustice," the Prime Minister said.

Hon. H. G. Lawrence, minister of the interior, speaking at Cape Town said that the possibility of a Japanese hit-and-run attack on the Union could not be excluded.
 The government had taken many steps for the military defence of the peninsula and other vital points. Evacuation of Cape Town and Durban was unnecessary, he said.

Too Much Buying

Johannesburg shopkeepers are complaining that business is too good. Shoppers, they say, are making purchases out of all proportion to their needs, apparently fearing extension of rationing. Some merchants are advocating rationing on the coupon system.

Financial Briefs

The scheme, based on gasoline rationing regulations, allows for new oil every 2,000 miles. Price increases for various petroleum products were posted April 27.

During March 451 new motor-cars were registered in South Africa compared with 725 in the previous month and 2,968 in March, 1941. Gasoline rationing will go into effect in Southern Rhodesia on June 1. The regulations will provide a basic ration to permit 170 miles driving per month.

Railway revenues in the Union continue to rise. During the last week of April earnings were nearly £60,000 ($270,000) more than the corresponding week in 1941.

Transvaal provincial revenue collections for the financial year ended March 31, 1942, showed a surplus of nearly £800,000 ($3,600,- 000).

Southern Rhodesia's exports last year reached a new record despite a decline of £500,000 ($2,250,000) in gold sent abroad. Chief exports were tobacco and preserved meat.

Wide Restrictions

New paper control regulations in South Africa impose drastic restrictions on newspapers and magazines. Week-end issues of daily newspapers have been reduced to 60 percent of their pre-war size, dailies to 55 percent. Other newspapers have been cut to 50 percent and magazines to 40 per cent.

A rationing scheme for lubricating oils went into operation May 1.

DRAMA OF GANGSTER

Robert Taylor and Lana Turner in
 "Johnny Eager" at Capitol
 Theatre

"Johnny Eager," powerful drama of a gangster's futile career, comes as the feature picture to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here this Friday and Saturday. Robert Taylor and Lana Turner make their first appearance together in the picture.

Taylor takes the part of an ex-convict taxi driver who meets Miss Turner, daughter of the prosecutor who had sent him to prison, in a faked murder, thus giving him the upper hand over his enemy, her father. It is only when he experiences a psychological change that a new man emerges from the cold-blooded criminal who goes to his death after having accomplished the one unselfish act of his career.

The portrayal of their roles is said to take both Taylor and Miss Turner to new peak performances in their screen careers. Van Hellin gives an outstanding performance as Taylor's drunken bench-man. Edward Arnold has the powerful part of the girl's father. Other important members of the cast are Henry O'Neill, Robert Sterling, Patricia Dane, Glenda Farrell, Diana Lewis and Barry Nelson.
