Prime Minister J. C. Smuts Of South Africa Calls For 7,000 Men Popular Young Sailor Succumbs After Illness of Several Weeks

CAPE TOWN, August 1: (CP)—Prime Minister Jan C. Smuts of South Africa, has appealed to the Union for 7,000 men to replace those lost or captured in North Africa.

G. Carlton Dones, president of the Transvaal Chamber of Mines, has assured the Prime Minister that 1,000 men will be released for active duty without delay and the general secretary of the South African Mineworkers' Union has guaranteed fullest co-operation.

Col. E. T. Stubbs, director of the non-European army services, after an appeal to a war council of native chiefs in Northern Transvaal, was told: "You can tell General Smuts we gladly respond to his call for we realize that the veil is ablaze and it is the custom of our people in such an emergency to go out any distance to meet the fire and extinguish the flames."

Many of the native tribes, including those in former German West Africa, have responded well to recruiting appeals.

It has been officially reported in Pretoria that contingents of South African land and air forces are now serving in Madagascar.

At home, new hoarding regulations have been announced by the Union government. Heavy penalties have been provided for infringement by the trades as well as householders.

PACIFIC WAR COUNCIL MEETS AT CONCLUSION OF CHURCHILL-ROOSEVELT CONFERENCE

BOLT SOUNDS FALSE ALARM

SMITHERS, Aug. 1 — Last evening a heavy thunderstorm broke over the Bulkley valley which deluged the countryside for about half an hour.

At the height of the storm and at about 9:00 p.m. a bolt of lightning short circuited the fire alarm system in town and caused a fire alarm to be sounded on the siren whistle at the C.N.R. roundhouse.

All were relieved to learn the cause of the alarm and to know that no fire had resulted from the lightning.

It is seldom that this district has more than a distant acquaintance with electrical storms and one was exceptional for here.

Japs Make New Landing

CHUNGKING, Aug. 1 (CP)—Japanese troops have landed anew on Chekiang province coast, this time thirty miles south of Wenchow and have started to drive inland the Chinese command announced tonight.

Women Needed In Commons

Ellen Wilkinson, British M.P., Declines Idea of All-Women's Party as Such

LONDON, Aug. 1 (CP)—Miss Ellen Wilkinson, Labor M.P. for Jarrow, wants more women in Parliament but not just because they're women.

Her words to the National Conference of Labor Women were: "I do not want more women as women in Parliament but women socialist members. I think a women's party in the House of Commons would be the very devil."

Meantime she cautioned women against being misled by people who say women are not good enough for Parliament and said anybody believing that should go and listen to the men members of the Commons. Women should choose a good woman to represent them, back her up and then not get jealous when she is doing well.

Heroine of the conference was a Mrs. Pryke, described as a "shock worker of Windsor." A plump, middle-aged little woman wearing a beret, she protested against unequal pay between men and women munitions workers. She knows all about the work women do in factories because she operates two lathes at once on the night shift.

Mrs. Pryke left her factory at 6 a.m., walked three miles home, changed out of her overalls and headed for the conference in London. She told the women it was a "damn shame" they should earn less than men for the same work and then headed back to her job with only a nap in her conference room chair and 40 winks during her train journey.

Her parting words: "I'm amazed that my strength keeps up."

Board Warns Of Coal Shortage

VANCOUVER, Aug. 1—The following is issued by the B.C. regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board:

"The general fuel situation in British Columbia has been a matter of considerable concern to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and an officer of the coal administration has been investigating the local situation.

"On May 21st, the coal administrator warned coal consumers in eastern Canada that they could not expect to be supplied with any particular selected size of coal but would have to be prepared to take whatever sizes are available.

"This warning is definitely applicable to the cities of Vancouver and Victoria and the surrounding district and every consumer who insists upon being supplied with any specific size or quality runs a grave risk of being without fuel. Consumers are urged to change their buying habits and to take delivery of any reasonably suitable coal that is available.

"With a serious shortage of bags, the problem of delivery is also becoming acute and house owners are urged wherever possible to arrange for coal storage facilities that will allow them to accept bulk deliveries."

Foster Mothers Are Kicking

NORTHAMPTON, August 1: (CP)—Foster-mothers of evacuees billeted in Northamptonshire are perturbed because they consider that London mothers are "getting rid" of their children and then going out and earning good wages and "having a good time."

Red Army Stands Before Stalingrad; Ask Second Front

Nazi Press Forward to Caucasus—Soviets Inform London of Grave Situation

MOSCOW, Aug. 1 (CP)—German divisions fanned out against the Red Army defences below the Lower Don today reaching toward the Sea of Azov and pressing ever deeper into the West Caucasus. Soviet soldiers defending the river bend before Stalingrad were reported holding their own and counter-attacking. Hand-to-hand engagements marked some of the battles around Bataisk fifteen miles from Rostov and Nazi pressure forced Russian withdrawals.

MUST HEW TO LINE

CARDIFF, Wales, August 1: (CP)—It's a serious business to break out of a queue in Britain. It cost Alice Smoldon five shillings in Cardiff court because she entered a tramcar before other people who were in front of her in the queue.

HOPEFUL ITALY

LONDON, Aug. 1 (CP)—Papers reaching here from Italy show Il Duce's government has a real "never, never" plan. Italians are encouraged to buy clothes, clocks, watches, radios, cameras, without restrictions, for cash. The only snag is the goods will not be delivered "till after victory." Meanwhile the money is "taken care of" by the Treasury.

Popular Author Dies In England

BATH, Eng., August 1: (CP)—Ernest Bramah, 74-year old writer of best sellers for 40 years although few people knew anything about him, has died in Somerset. Who's Who revealed nothing about his life beyond his name and a list of his publications and it was only a few years ago that he disclosed to an interviewer that his name was Ernest Bramah Smith and that he came from Manchester. His most popular books were about "Kai Lung," a Chinese philosopher.

Need More Nurseries

LONDON, August 1: (CP)—Lord Nathan, speaking in the Lords, urged the need for more wartime nurseries so that more mothers can be freed for war industry. British nurseries, he said, could provide for only 41,000 children whereas German nurseries take care of upwards of 1,000,000.

British Girls Like Farming

LONDON, August 1: (CP)—So many girls have expressed a desire to take up farming as a career it seems likely the Women's Land Army will continue in being after the war. It is expected a number of scholarships to agricultural colleges will be set aside for prospective farmerettes. The land army membership now has passed the 37,000 mark.

The New Outlook . . .

The discussions of the Richards Commission now considering the pros and cons of the seven day week in the shipyards reveal a hopeful trend, and certainly a new departure in government-employer-labor relations. Heretofore such conferences were more in the nature of a tug of war. Now with a few exceptions there is a genuine striving to sink differences, to achieve unity and increase production. The submissions of the unions to the Commission have been constructive. For the most part they have been concerned with the efficient use of manpower and machines. Little has been said of wages or special concessions. The only heated exchanges have been those concerned with production and management problems. And when management and labor make verbal sparks fly in the course of hammering out a more efficient production policy the public can only applaud the best aimed blows.

Surely this new attitude is the promise of a successful solution to our shipbuilding problems. The foregoing of sectional advantages, the unity at least in purpose if not in methods can bring only one answer; more ships to speed the weapons of war to our fighters across the seas.

Says the Vancouver Sun: "The tiresome battle between the Canadian Government and its House of Commons adversaries is rapidly reaching a conclusion. Soon we shall be able to devote all our energies to the war that really matters, that between the Allied Nations and the Axis." In other words the creation of a second front is needed almost anywhere except at Ottawa.

Hopes To Return To Army Overseas

Transport Driver Discharged As Medically Unfit Gets Back In Uniform

EDMONTON, August 1: (P) — John Ranger, 23, transport driver with the Canadian Army overseas for 19 months before being discharged as medically unfit, is back in khaki and looking forward to rejoining his buddies again.

When discharged military authorities did not tell Ranger why he was medically unfit, Ranger said. Interviewed here, he said he was in hospital but "I still don't know what for."

Upon leaving the hospital he registered under the National Resources Mobilization Act and because of his age—23—it wasn't long before he received his call to report for medical examination prior to compulsory military training.

Examined, he was found to be in category "A" and shortly was ordered to report for training. Instead, he volunteered for active service in the hope that he would go overseas again.

Ranger said he likes army life and that he "never had a better time anywhere than overseas" but that's not the only reason he wants to go back. He met an English girl, whom he was going to marry, four days after he was ordered to return to Canada.

The record shows he enlisted March 1, 1940, and went overseas the following month with the No. 1 mechanical transport vehicle reception depot, R.C.A.S.C. He was discharged January 9, 1942, after being sent back to Canada.

He registered February 2 and on July 2 received his call to report for a medical examination. Now he's in the army again.

SPORT CHAT

By Allan Nickleson

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)
Baseball is hitting the high spots these days as an up-and-coming sport in the British nation of cricket lovers. Just as in the last war, it's been introduced by troops and the sports-loving Briton gets a big kick from the incessant chatter of the players in comparison with the rather staid atmosphere of the cricket pitch and its "well bowled sir." The rules are a bit perplexing to the populace but they're willing to learn. For instance, the good people of Croydon streamed into the local reference library for books on baseball. The reason?—there was to be a game played between members of the Canadian and American armies and the worthy citizens didn't want to plead ignorance. Along the same lines, Canadian soldiers are teaching baseball to Edmonton residents during the Edmonton Stay-At-Home-For-Holidays drive.

Fashion note for gasoline-rationed Canadian golfers: Scotland's Hilton Park Golf Club, five miles from the nearest bus stop, has brought an ancient horse bus and two horses to convey players to and from the links. That brings the suggestion that for big matches, handicappers would have a stabling problem added to their woes.

There'll be no such thing as the London League next football season. The 16 clubs of last season will carry on under the name of Football League South and two new clubs, Southampton and Luton Town, will be admitted providing certain obligations are fulfilled.

As a test run for the classic St. Leger of Sept. 12, the King's Big Game will compete in the Champion Stakes at Newmarket Aug. 25 over a mile and a quarter. Lambert Simmel, winner of the 2,000 Guineas last year, has been retired to stud.

The Scottish North Eastern Football League will restrict membership to eight clubs in the coming season. Edinburgh City, Leith Athletic and St. Bernard's were excluded. Hearts and Hibernians will replace the last two clubs. . . . Lieutenant B. D. Carris of the Scots Guards, former Cambridge cricket and golf blue and Middlesex batsman, is missing in Libya.

Cambridge gained a dramatic victory over Oxford in an Inter-Varsity cricket match at Lord's. With but five Oxford wickets down, Cambridge claimed the extra 30-minute play. In the closing minutes G. L. Robins dismissed three men in an over and A. Austin, with the seventh ball of the last over, won the match by bowling the Oxford captain.

JEEPS HAVE TO "TAKE IT"

A test driver is shown putting a new jeep car through its paces on the Willys proving ground in Toledo. The ordinary car would be hopelessly bogged down in this fine sand trap, but the jeep, with power from its compact motor going to all four wheels, makes the sand fly and whips out of the trap like a ball hit by an expert golfer.

Provides Laughs For Russ. Troops

Cartoonists and Writers Produce Breezy Magazine for Men At Front

MONTREAL, August 1: (P) — The soldiers of Russia, in grim defence of their homeland, still find time for laughter.

A cablegram received by the Soviet Information Bureau here from Nil ai Radlov, Russian painter and cartoonist, tells how a collection of cartoons, jokes and humorous verses, conceived in the dark days when Moscow was in danger last year, grew into a semi-monthly magazine for the troops at the front.

"I experienced the greatest artistic doubts, and perhaps the happiest moments of my life as an artist during the grim days of October, 1941," said Radlov. "We felt no fear for Moscow when the enemy was nearing the city. But it seemed to me that the art most to my taste—that of satire and humor—had become unnecessary for perhaps a very long time to come."

"It seemed that those people must have forgotten laughter. Their face muscles lost the ability to form into a smile."

Then a representative of the Red Army on the Central front—the vital Moscow front, then endangered—went to see Radlov and asked for a collection of "front laughs" for the troops. In a small windowless room containing a desk and two chairs, Radlov and fellow artists prepared the collection and sent it to the front.

So popular was the collection that more and more were demanded until the plan blossomed out into a regular twice-monthly magazine.

"Yes," said Radlov, "it turned out that our valiant soldiers found time for laughter. Thus we cartoonists found ourselves mobilized—laughter had become an arm of the Red Army."

MAJ.-GEN. G. R. TURNER
 Deputy Adjutant and Quartermaster-General
 1st Canadian Army

(This is the last of a series on Canadian generals at home and abroad)
 By Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent

Most indefatigable senior staff officer in the Canadian army overseas, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Turner lives his work practically around the clock. He's on the job every day and goes back to his desk until the small hours of the morning. It's a routine with him.

When the going is really tough he sets up a bed in his office. Gen. Turner has been working with this even regularity ever since he came overseas with the 1st Canadian Division. He went to 1st Corps and now is at Army Headquarters as "MGA," major-general administration.

Major problems of administration and supply have been handled by Gen. Turner from the time the first contingent set foot on Britain. He never seems to have this big task off his mind. Meet him on manoeuvres in the field and he will start the conversation with: "We have an interesting question of supply here. Now look at this map." And he will outline in minute detail how the field force is being supplied. He thinks right down the line.

A solid, stocky officer, he knows what he wants and make sure he gets it. His stance is that of a wrestler and few men could push him off his feet. Few could make him change his mind once it is made up. He is recognized as a remarkable organizer and a wizard on detail. From the start he has been one of Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton's closest advisers.

Born at Four Falls, N. B., General Turner is now 53. He served with the engineers in the First Great War, being decorated with the Military Cross and the Distinguished Conduct Medal. After the war he remained in the permanent force.

He has a grizzled, short-clipped crop of hair and a fine sense of humor. Around Army Headquarters many of the old hands still refer to the general as "the brig," their name for him when he was brigadier, General Staff, at Corps Headquarters.

Youth Effort Essential to War

Youth Speaker Outlines Organisation's Program

Speaking at an organization meeting of the Canadian Labor Youth Federation last night Victor Hopwood, B.A., of Vancouver, called on the young people of Prince Rupert to unite in building the forces of victory. More production, a bigger and better army were the essentials; upon these depended the war and upon the outcome of the war the whole future of the youth. He told of how the young people of Great Britain, China and Russia were taking the road to victory by organizing themselves into a mass people's movement aimed at building the army and speeding production. Young people must press for and participate in labor-management committees, must take part in the A.R.P. and other auxiliary defense units. This is a people's war and to be victorious there must be a genuine people's effort behind it.

The organization, he stated, aimed to unite all progressive, anti-fascist youth in a struggle to preserve our national heritage and that this objective can only be realized by winning the war. He declared that lasting peace was possible only under Socialism. The program included strong support for trade unions, especially in their endeavor towards more efficient production.

The meeting was held at 738 Taylor Street.

CHEMISTRY HELPS TO WIN THE WAR

CANADA'S FIGHTING METALS

CANADIAN industry, factories, mills and shops, daily produce ever increasing quantities of ships, planes, tanks, mechanized transports and guns. But the continued production of these weapons depends on the ability of Canada's mines and miners to keep the "fighting metals" coming.

The "fighting metals"—iron, copper, nickel, lead, zinc, and many rare metals—are not yielded up easily by mother earth. Most of them are buried deep; all require powerful explosives to free the ore.

For more than eighty years the Explosives Division of Canadian Industries Limited has kept pace with the mining industry . . . continually improving explosives to increase production and reduce costs. Now, when Canada's "fighting metals" are needed more than ever, C-I-L commercial explosives give yeoman service to our mines and miners.

Commercial explosives are among the many C-I-L products of Industrial Chemistry which aid Canada's war effort.
