OUR CITY ENGINEER RESIGNS.

There is an old saying in France which, freely translated, is simply this: "It is only the first step which counts." Proverbs are seldom as absolutely applicable to cases as they seem, and yet there is always a good deal in them. To the man who laid the first axe blade to a tree trunk on this townsite Prince Rupert owes something, though who can tell today who that man may have been? To every man who has pioneered the rough, difficult beginnings of any kind of development work in this city Prince Rupert owes a great deal. Col. Davis was our first city engineer. Upon him fell the responsibility of making the start, of taking the first step (which the French proverb says counts so much) toward the construction of the streets and the other engineering feats which today are considered so much to the credit of the city. It is usual in all cities for the man in the street to criticize the man who made the street. There is little weight in lay criticism. Only a properly qualified civil engineer can fairly estimate the problems of pioneer engineering in Prince Rupert. There has been a little lay criticism of our first city engineer. Every city engineer is criticized by the citizens he serves. Colonel Davis has, however, been less criticized probably than any of his city engineer compeers throughout Canada. Col. Davis very early in his experience in Prince Rupert won the respect of the whole community. He resigns, but he retains it more than ever.

VANCOUVER HAS STOLEN OUR PIPE.

Oh, the perfidy of Vancouver! Not content with attributing to the fair city of Prince Rupert a rainfall rather worse than that which occurred in the days of one Noah, that wicked, wicked Vancouver has now made off with our water pipe—the pipe which was our pride—the very first direct shipment of freight to Prince Rupert from Great Britain. Oh, villainous Vancouver, why did you serve us so?

"But," exclaims the citizen of Prince Rupert, "the pipe is here. Did not the Director arrive yesterday afternoon, and is she not even today beginning to unload her consignment of 1,000 tons of steel pipe for Prince Rupert? Our first direct shipment of freight from the old land has been duly and safely brought hither by the faithful and appropriately named Harrison liner. Vancouver has not stolen our pipe. Really, these newspapers are the limit!"

Never mind. The Daily News is not misinformed. Vancouver has stolen our pipe. Citizens of Prince Rupert, you will look in vain for any entry concerning that 1,000 ton direct shipment to Prince Rupert from Britain on the customs records of Prince Rupert. That consignment, valued at $36,000 and paying duty to the amount of $700, will never swell the import figures of its own port of Prince Rupert. Our beautiful, long desired, safely brought and honestly paid for first consignment of freight direct from Liverpool was "cleared" at the customs house of Vancouver. Vancouver will claim credit for that extra $36,000 worth of imports. Great big greedy Vancouver has gone and gobbled our pipe!

HON. FRANK COCHRANE

Ontario government, and organizer of the Conservative forces in Ontario in the recent election, when they took 72 out of 85 seats.

Frank Cochrane was born in Quebec, in a little village named Clarenceville, fifty-nine years ago, and got his education in the public schools of that province, although a Methodist. For a time he worked as clerk in a hardware store at Pembroke, but early in life the call of the woods came to him and he went to Sudbury when Sudbury wasn't much to look at. There he made his headquarters, but he lived most of the time in the open, and developed muscle, acquired that clear gray blue eye and learned that habit of carrying his head up when he walks.

Swung His Axe, Too.

A man either is or isn't in that great north country of pioneers and trail breakers. There was no place for the misfit or the weakling in those earlier days. Frank Cochrane made good in the forests and, later, in the mines. From swinging an axe himself he soon got things so that others were swinging it for him, and in a comparatively short time he had hewn and mined his way into a competency. Then he reverted again to the hardware idea and established his store at Sudbury. Here his business rapidly developed and soon there wasn't anything you could possibly want in a lumber or mining camp which could not be procured at "Cochrane's," and everything was the best, too.

Chosen at Sight.

About this time Sir James Whitney had been called to the premiership of Ontario and was casting about for a northern man to "run" that great new district, itself larger than many an old world kingdom. His eye fell upon the Sudbury store keeper, the experienced woodsman and miner, and went no farther. Frank Cochrane was transplanted from the wilderness into a modernized office in Queen's Park, labeled "Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines."

Sensational Experiment.

It was a remarkable experiment. But it worked out well. The tall, sinewy, silent man from the north set to work to "run" the country he knew according to his idea of its future. He christened it the "Greater Ontario." He looked askance at politicians, silk hatted deputationists and newspapermen. But an open sesame always awaited the man in the corduroy, the practical fellow with ideas.

Revolutionized Office.

There was almost an uncanny energy about this new northern minister of the Crown. He came to his office on crutches, his amputated limb succeeded by an artificial member. In a few months the crutches were cast aside and an ordinary stick took their place. Within a year he was walking his twenty miles a day through the bush, the only unwearied man in a party of inspection. He likewise revolutionized ministerial hours at the Parliament buildings. Long before the official hour of opening he comes striding in and settles himself at his desk. He gets in his best work before the rest of the building wakes up.

Takes Tall Chances.

Mr. Cochrane is alike the admiration and despair of practical politicians. In battle there is no more ardent, daring or doughty warrior. He is an enthusiastic man, and throws himself into the campaign with a consecration and abandon that keeps his followers alternately thrilling and shivering. He takes tall chances as though they were everyday occurrences. He is none of your smooth, gumshoe political artists. He is as direct in his methods and moves through difficulties much as a moose travels through the northern bush. He crashes through obstacles and may smash many branches and destroy the undergrowth, but he gets there. As an administrator he is the bete noir of the party man. He has a clear visioned sense of public service, coupled with personal integrity. Matters of patronage are as naught in comparison to the public weal. He meets deputations with a "yes" or "no."—H. W. A., in Illustrated Globe.

Making a Flat World Round

When Columbus set out to reach India by sailing westward, he met with opposition and ridicule. He believed the earth to be round. Wise men held that it was flat—that Columbus was mad—and that he'd fall off somewhere if he departed from established beliefs.

But Columbus' belief found him a continent and made him blessed of memory.

The Business World is flat to some men

Their profit-bearing shores of Opportunity stretch only so far as their grandfathers trod. Custom, superstition and apathy have set them confines which they may not pass. For instance, they believe the business year is a flat one—not an all-year round of trade, with East joining West, with Spring merging into Autumn—but just two distinct seasons, with saved-off edges gaping into space.

They confine their activities to a Spring trade and to a Fall trade. To them there is no intervening continent with stores of waiting wealth. Their world is flat. They have not explored the mid-year months of Summer trade. June, July and August are never-never land.

Surely this conception of Summer as a "dull" season is as fallacious as the delusion that the earth was flat. People have just as much money in the hot weather and spend quite as freely as in Spring and Fall. Granted that they are not buying skates and snow shovels in August, yet they are buying staple articles. Furthermore, they have an eye on luxuries and comforts they are counting upon purchasing in the Fall.

The modern Columbus has discovered this Summer trade—this golden West lying between the known continents of old beliefs. Departing from established habit, many have made their energies and their Advertising an all-year-round proposition.

Keeping up Advertising during the Summer months not only links your Spring and Fall, but produces rich harvests from the Summer months themselves.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write, if interested.

TURF SCANDAL OVER THE DERBY

Paddock Tipsters State That Sweeper II. Was Doped Before Running in the Famous Event—Worst Charge Laid for Ten Years.

London, June 24—What promises to be the worst scandal on the British turf in ten years became known yesterday when the sporting weekly, "The Looking Glass," announced that Sweeper II, the American colt which started favorite in the Derby, was doped before the race.

Sweeper II. was heavily backed by Americans, including J. P. Morgan, who is said to have lost $60,000. Wall Street men are said to have cabled several hundred thousand dollars to London. A significant fact in connection with the story is that H. B. Duryea today dismissed Danny Maher, who rode Sweeper II. and engaged Frankie O'Neill, another American boy to pilot Sweeper II in the remainder of his stake engagements.

It will be remembered in the story of the race that a note was sounded indicating that something was wrong with the showing of the Duryea colt.

An investigation shows that in the opinion of a large number of racing men Sweeper II. was doped. The trainer is unable to account for the miserable showing of the colt. It is suspected that two or three bookmakers who stood to lose fortunes on Sweeper II.'s victory, know more about dope than they care to say.

It was certain that when Sweeper II. left his stable for the big race he had never looked fitter. When he returned to his stall after the Derby the colt was listless and feeble.

You Do Not Know

Where to Invest?

Let us tell you. There should be no difficulty about a matter of this kind if you take the trouble to exercise ordinary care and common sense. You would not select an old decaying city whose pulse has almost ceased to beat, would you? NO, you would put your money into a Going Concern where there is life and hope!

Well! Why Don't You Try the West?

We suggest the west, because the west spells Progress! Here are the cities of the future, where hamlets existed a few years ago. Here are the towns which possess both sea and rail transportation facilities! Here are the towns whose strategic positions ensure them becoming large commercial distributing centres in the near future! Here is Alberni, the future Liverpool of Canada.

A Seaport Town of no Small Renown

So situated at the head of Alberni Canal on the west coast of Vancouver Island, its importance as a seaport town cannot be doubted, or too strongly emphasized. This central opens itself out into the Pacific Ocean, after its land locked course from Alberni, extending for a distance of 26 miles. Its water is of great depth, permitting of safe navigation to the largest vessels plying the west coast, being one to three miles in width. An investment in a place possessed of such enviable features

Must Surely be One of the Best!

Yes! Without a shadow of a doubt it is one of the best! Don't be asleep to these great chances, which do not come too often. Remember, Alberni is a port served by one of the great transcontinental railway systems, the Canadian Pacific Railway, and by the end of the year the Canadian Northern will have completed its track into Alberni. Then will come the dredging of Seymour Narrows, connecting the island with the mainland. Mail and passengers from the Orient and other routes via the Panama Canal, to be opened next year, will be landed at Alberni, and transported by rail to Vancouver, saving from eight to twenty-four hours to the present route.

ALBERNI therefore is where you should invest.

Lots can be bought for $150, inside the town limits. Easy terms, 10% cash, 5% per month.

Test it for yourself. Buy a lot today and help to develop the west.
