Two Japanese Submarines Are Hit

Enemy Undersea Craft Caught On Surface By Air Attack On Kiska

Details Revealed Of How Submersibles and Planes Were Hit By American and Canadian Fliers In Aleutians

ANCHORAGE, Sept. 29 (CP) — The Alaskan Defence Command said today that two enemy submarines in Japanese-held Kiska Harbor were believed damaged by United States and Canadian fliers who caught them on or near the surface. Air Force officers said that one submarine came up underneath a squadron headed by Lieut. Col. Jack Chennault who strafed it himself. A second squadron, headed by Major Wilbur Miller, used the same tactics after sighting another submarine. Chennault also got one of the Japanese float plane fighters which rose to greet the raiders. Lieut. Gerald R. Johnson of Eugene, Oregon, got a second and Wing Commander Kenneth Boomer of Ottawa, leader of the Royal Canadian Air Force in the action, got a third.

It is estimated that 150 Japanese were killed or wounded in the raid. No American or Canadian planes were lost.

Forty-Two Japs Down

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 29—Forty-two Japanese aircraft have been shot down over the Solomon Islands during the last four days since Friday without loss of a single United States plane. In addition three other enemy planes were damaged. Announcement was made yesterday of the action by United States Army and Navy planes. Direct hits were scored on two enemy cruisers and an aircraft tender and a transport or large cargo vessel was set afire.

FIGHTING BY YARDS

Battle Goes Back and Forth In Stalingrad—Reds Capture Some Heights

MOSCOW, Sept. 29 (CP)—Through-out the city of Stalingrad victory and defeat were measured at times in yards today. Nazi tanks pivoted and charged within the workers' settlement in an effort to hold gains from the assault yesterday. While Russian street fighters struggle to hold their own, Soviet forces northwest of Stalingrad advanced somewhat and captured several heights in swift night assaults, the noon communique said, declaring that more than three companies of Germans had been wiped out.

Field dispatches indicated that fighting flamed along a front of more than forty miles as Soviet shock troops struck against the Axis flank across the Don-Volga corridor. A Nazi-occupied stronghold and two villages were declared recaptured.

OTTAWA, Sept. 29 (CP)— By order-in-council yesterday, the federal government declared that only six statutory holidays should be observed by employers and employees in Canada for the duration of the war apart from Sundays or weekly days of rest apart from Sunday.

The government order set forth the following days as statutory holidays:

BLACKOUT ON COAST

Prince Rupert Like Rest of Country Darkens When Unidentified Aircraft Appear

OFFICIAL STATEMENT VICTORIA, Sept. 29 (CP) — Western Air Command said today that the coastal blackout order for three hours last night was because of the presence of an unidentified aircraft which was later found to be friendly.

At the instance of Western Air Command, there was a precautionary blackout at Prince Rupert, as elsewhere along the coast, last night from 9:55 until 11:05 p.m. It was later announced that the alarm had been caused by the presence of an aircraft which was at first unidentified but which later turned out to be friendly. The blackout covered the entire mainland and Vancouver Island. It lasted for three hours at some places. Shipyards at Vancouver and Victoria were exempted. Radio stations were off the air for a while.

On the sounding of the air raid sirens local Air Raid Protection wardens proceeded to their beats, later reporting that householders and others in control of lights had co-operated well and there were comparatively few that had to be checked. For the most of the time of the blackout the city was in complete darkness. Dry Dock and street lights all went out. Once again, however, the effectiveness of the blackout was somewhat spoiled by glaring automobile lights.

The alarm was taken in good spirits by the people and there was, generally speaking, little excitement or undue anxiety.

The effect of the alarm has been to give a filip to blackout preparations which is some cases had undoubtedly been slackened up on.

The worst transportation disruption in twenty-five years was brought about and thousands of dollars damage was done to roads, railways, buildings and crops.

Public announcement of the storm was deferred to week in compliance with censorship regulations.

TRIAL NOW TRAVERSED

Mental Condition Causes Atlin Murder Case to be Deferred From This Assize

The case of William Scott, charged with the murder of John Clee at Spruce Creek near Atlin on August 5, was finally traversed at the Supreme Court Assizes here today after having had a number of delays in getting started. It was set over until the next Assize session here in view of the mental condition of accused.

When the case was called again last evening following an adjournment from morning, W. O. Fulton, defence counsel, asked for the adjournment until this morning as he had been unable as yet to interview an important defence witness who had just arrived from Vancouver. Furthermore, crown counsel, T. W. Brown, was unable to appear, being indisposed with a severe attack of influenza.

In granting the adjournment, Mr. Justice Harold Robertson said that the delays were both unfortunate and inconvenient but every opportunity must be given to ensure a fair trial for the defence. He trusted that all steps would be taken to expedite the trial.

On the reconvening of the court this morning, Mr. Brown informed the court that, as a result of information from Dr. J. G. MacKay, Vancouver psychiatrist, he (Mr. Brown) was of the opinion, in an opinion in which defence counsel concurred, that accused was not mentally well enough to stand trial at this time. Dr. MacKay had not certified as to accused's insanity but had found accused so confused in mind that it would not be possible for him to stand trial fairly. He therefore, asked that the trial be traversed until the next assizes. This would give opportunity in the meantime for further mental examinations of accused.

Mr. Fulton agreed to the application of the crown for a traverse. His Lordship remarked that it was unfortunate that the circumstances were such that the trial could not be proceeded with. The expense to the government in bringing witnesses had been considerable. However, in a British court of justice the animating requirement was that a prisoner must have a fair trial and, in view of that, he could see no other course than to traverse the case to the next assize.

Jurors were excused from further service at this session of the court.

Inside Drop Letter Box

At last an inside letter drop box is to be installed at the local Post Office, it was announced today by Postmaster J. R. Morrison. It will be located in the box section at the east end.

War News

On Russo-German Front...

MOSCOW—The Russian offensive northwest of Rzhev was reported today to have cleared the Germans from the banks of the upper Volga while Soviet troops expanded their flanking attack from the lower Volga to the Don bend in an effort to relieve the embattled garrison of Stalingrad. A fresh German penetration from the northwest, however, added to the gravity of Stalingrad's position.

Churchill Disapproves...

LONDON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill today voiced emphatic disapproval of speculation on the time or place of a second front as the subject cropped up in the House of Commons. A British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast to France that an Allied offensive "is in the making."

Claims Quite Untrue...

LONDON—The Ministry of Information declared today that a German claim to having sunk American troop transports in the Atlantic is "quite untrue."

Allies On Offensive...

MELBOURNE — Allied forces have taken the offensive in the land fighting on the southern slopes of Owen Stanley Mountains in New Guinea, infiltrating into and outflanking enemy positions. Lae, Buna, Kokoda all have been bombed from the air.

Ran Into Bad Weather...

LONDON—Royal Air Force fighters, in an offensive sweep over northwest France, ran into bad weather and abandoned the expedition. Their wings iced up. Eleven planes failed to return.

The Second Front ...

Clement Atlee, Secretary for the Dominions, at present a visitor to Canada, says that Allied leaders do not need to be "prodded" about the opening of a second front. From what Mr. Atlee says it is to be implied that the Allied leaders are fully appreciative of the desirability if not the downright necessity of opening a second front to relieve hard-pressed Russia.

Dieppe has no doubt suggested to us the vital importance of well-considered and perfectly-timed preparation and organization for such an important undertaking. What we want now is real second front, not merely a costly diversion.

The Second Front will be our big stake and we want a cinch hand. Bluffing won't go.

General Wavell's View ...

General Sir Archibald Wavell, regarded generally as Britain's No. 1 military genius and probably just as great a hero as General Douglas MacArthur although not glamorized quite so much, declares that Japan is not strong enough to launch another offensive. The opinion is of more pressing interest to us here in Prince Rupert who are pretty vitally concerned in the Japanese war power.

There is no reason to suppose that, when General Wavell makes such a statement, he is merely uttering wishful thinking. If any one on our side has, he should have a pretty good idea of just what Japan's strength is and her possibilities for the future from a fighting standpoint.

Of course, we all underestimated Japan's strength at the start. We can look back rather repentantly now on the opinions that were being bandied about just before Pearl Harbor about Japan's vulnerability, that she could not last six weeks before she would be blown into the ocean, that China had almost beaten her anyway.

We must admit that Japan has done a lot of winning and has taken a lot of ground. She has given us plenty of unpleasant surprises. At the same time it is reasonable to suppose that she may have gone a considerable way in exhausting her organized war resources.

Possibly General Wavell may be right but even he does not suggest that there may not be a good deal of fight left in Nippon yet.

Once again we might suggest that it is still a little early to think about letting down our guard.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT, Hostess

I have had a letter from the Hamblin girls, Eileen and Phyllis. It's so very like them and so full of news that I just can't help quoting it almost in full, just to sort of prepare the Grenadiers for them when they burst upon us on their return with their good cheer and sunny smiles.

"Dear Mrs. Garbutt: Just had to write and give you a report from our end of the line. We're having a grand holiday!

"And here's the news! Monday morning a troop train passed through, a troop of boys who had been in Prince Rupert, Scotties and R. M. R.'s. And was it grand seeing all our boys again. And to think that we should be there and able to see them. Scads of the boys we knew, including Sig. Jimmy Aiken, believe it or not. Tell Ina Robertson that an R.M.R. said to say 'hello'. The train stopped for 45 minutes so Phil and I had plenty of time to renew acquaintances. Gee—it was grand!

"Monday night we came down to Vernon and now we're apple pickers—for the next couple of weeks. Don't ever let anybody tell you that apple picking is easy—it isn't. It's awful! But we're doing it just because it's different from anything we've ever done. We break off work about 3:30, bicycle to the lake a mile away and have a swim. And by 8:30 we're ready for bed. And we get up at 6:30—aren't we wonderful.

"Tell the boys their $1.30 a day is a cinch compared to apple picking at 6c a box. We each picked 31 boxes today but a good picker picks 100. Love from Eileen and Phyllis.

COLLECTING BILLS PAYS

Most Canadians Are Honest Says Man Who Has Had Some Experiences—But There Are Funny Excuses

Written for The Canadian Press By FRANK RASKY

TORONTO, Sept. 29: Right from the outset Charlie Buchanan will have you know that he does not like to be known as a wolf at the door—he would not think of evicting widows into the cold—he has never forced money from orphans. He's the head of a medical audit agency and this year he'll try to collect 200,000 overdue doctors' bills from taxpaying citizens in every province of Canada.

Buchanan, 53, is a bluff, cigar-smoking businessman and he'll stake his 29-year-old collection business on the principle that the average Canadian is honest. He believes that western farmers rank as aces in paying ability.

Hanging from the wall in Buchanan's office is a chart of Canada dotted with thumb tacks. These represent agents that Buchanan has located in every Canadian district, men whose ordinary jobs vary from bank managers to policemen in various Canadian provinces. As super sleuths their job is to investigate and report the finances of overdue clients.

A Good Summer: Despite increased taxes, Buchanan believes this summer has been the best ever for bill collectors. Bumper crops have given extra dollars to farmers while booming war industries in eastern provinces are handing out pay envelopes to former Jobless Canadians.

In a general way Buchanan has a lot of fun collecting bills, but now and then something comes along to annoy him. For instance an old fellow in British Columbia died after a doctor had nursed him along for two months. When Buchanan tried to collect the bill, the man's family answered, "Well, you didn't cure him, and because it's not our fault that he died, we won't pay." Incidentally, this bill still is owing.

More honest was the widow who opened her mail one morning and was surprised to learn her husband owed a dentist's bill when he died. Not knowing what work had been done, she wrote and asked Buchanan, who replied that it was for a set of false teeth. Next day the woman came down with the teeth. "I'm not able to pay the bill," she explained, "but my Alf was buried without his teeth and I'll be giving them back to you. Maybe the dentist can sell them over again." She still has the teeth.

These Fellows Paid: One of the toughest dental customers Buchanan ever encountered was a farmer who lived in the Peace River country. For months Buchanan sent him letters reminding him about his debt for a set of false teeth. And for months the farmer haggled bitterly refusing to pay. It was only after the farmer got a letter threatening to sue for the outstanding debt that Buchanan received the cash plus a note which read: "Since my son and I both use the same teeth and since we both are helpless as babes without them, we have decided to remit enclosed check. Thank you."

WOMEN IN SERVICES

Must Be Flood of Volunteers or Auxiliaries to Obviate Application of Compulsion

LONDON, Sept. 29: More than 5,500,000 of the 8,000,000 women registered with the Ministry of Labor are in full time war work, but compulsion for women may soon be extended unless more volunteers come forward for the home service of everything but three auxiliary services.

Women's service directorates say nothing short of a spate of volunteers greater than anything the war has yet produced can obviate drastic revision of the voluntary system.

The Auxiliary Territorial Service and the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, it is reported, could use twice as many recruits as they get each week. More and more women are needed to replace men going overseas.

Even the Women's Royal Naval Service, closed for a long time to recruits, has called for 14,000 before Christmas. The present call-up system is not producing women quickly enough to meet expansion of the forces.

Possible Extension: Extension of the conscription age, drastic examination of deferment and sweeping overhaul of regulations applying to married women are among suggestions put forward for increasing the intake of women.

Compulsion in the case of wives of soldiers will be avoided, it is

WILL ASK REPUBLIC

South African National Party To Urge It at Peace Conference

CAPETOWN, Sept. 29:—Subscriptions to South Africa's new warbond issue are pouring into the treasury in ever increasing volume. In one morning alone, reported Finance Minister J. H. Hofmeyr, subscriptions totalled $522,990. Associations have been formed to raise units of $76,000 to purchase tanks bearing their name, and Johannesburg is investing $1,117,500 to buy 15 tanks which will bear the city's name.

The Union's National Party plans "sending an independent delegation to the peace conference" to demand the establishment of a republic in South Africa, stated Dr. D. F. Malan, prominent party member. He spoke at a public meeting at Pretoria held in conjunction with the Nationalist Congress, and said they would follow the same policy as in 1919 and, he hoped, with greater success.

Prime Minister J. C. Smuts said in a speech at Pretoria that South African Second Division losses in the North African campaign have been replaced already. "Recent recruiting here has been very satisfactory indeed; we have almost 10,000 male recruits and 2,000 women," he said.

Why Madagascar?

Regarding the current Madagascar campaign, the Rand Daily Mail has declared operations are necessary owing to the unreasonable attitude of central authorities, and will probably continue until the whole island is occupied and a friendly administration established under British protection.

Commenting on South African participation in the operations, the London Times said every citizen in the Union must be deeply concerned because the Union's communications and the safety of its territory are involved.

Prime Minister Smuts sent a message to Sgt. Quentin Smythe congratulating him on the brave action which recently won him the Victoria Cross. The Prime Minister also congratulated Maj.-Gen. Pienaar on the honor conferred on the First South African Division by this award.

Rubber Control

The South African public has been warned that it must not use more than one-third of its normal rubber requirements for the next 18 months, and probably longer; production and sale of manufactured goods is drastically curtailed. The rubber controller has asked for a general reduction in mileage by all vehicles, and has issued precautions for saving wear on tires.

The director of the Johannesburg Publicity Association believes South Africa will become one of the foremost tourist countries in the post-war world. Last year a new record was created when 40,888 people entered the Union. In addition 53,000 evacuees paying their own way settled in South Africa. It has been estimated that newcomers are bringing $53,640,000 in the Union yearly.

The British government in consultation with the Union government will forthwith construct a Royal Naval Training Camp accommodating 8,000 ratings in Durban.

BOARD TO CO-OPERATE

Building Trades and National Service Relations Amicable

OTTAWA, Sept. 29:—The National Selective Service Board has expressed a willingness to cooperate in every way in the application of its regulations in the building trades, a meeting of the management committees of the Canadian Construction Association held here last week, was informed. The National Selective Service Board, it was stated, has invited the National Joint Conference Board of Employers and Employees in the building trades to act in an advisory capacity on construction labor problems. Realizing also the peculiarities under which this industry operates and that an unusual amount of lost time and a high turnover of mechanics is inevitable, the board is prepared to extend special consideration so as not to hamper the industry's effectiveness.

In cases in which it is not possible to get satisfactory decisions on questions of operation under the National Selective Service regulations from local officers of the board members of the C.C.A. should communicate particulars immediately to General Manager J. Clark Reilly, who will then endeavor to get immediate rulings in Ottawa. This procedure, it is felt, will be helpful in having the regulations work as smoothly as possible throughout the industry.

The Canadian Construction Association, it was decided, will ask for representation on the committee

BROTHERS FROM SASKATCHEWAN MEET IN LONDON

Some one once said that if you stand in London's Trafalgar Square long enough you are bound to meet someone you know. Well, the Myers brothers from Saskatchewan, Canada, believe that. It was in Trafalgar Square that Harold encountered brother Alfred by the merest chance. While they were talking they saw another Canadian soldier go by on a bus. They hailed him. It was brother Phil. Arm-in-arm, the three brothers went into a bar to celebrate the reunion. Who do you think joined them at the bar? Yes, the fourth brother, Ed. Above are the brothers after the unusual reunion. LEFT TO RIGHT: Harold, Phil, Alf and Ed.

Chief Justice Robert Greenshields Of Quebec is Dead

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 — Chief Justice Robert Alfred Ernest Greenshields of Quebec died unexpectedly in Montreal last night. One of Canada's most eminent jurists, his death came as a shock throughout the Dominion. Death was due to a heart attack at the age of seventy-two.

Most young lawyers go through a painful period of waiting before their first client appears, but Robert Alfred Ernest Greenshields stepped out of the room in which he had successfully passed his final examinations not only to a client, but to fame.

Mr. Greenshields passed his oral examination before a committee of lawyers and judges in 1885 in Sherbrooke, Que., and as he came out of the room he heard a telegraph messenger calling his name. A telegram was handed to him and it was an invitation from Charles, later Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Q.C., afterwards minister of justice at Ottawa, inviting him to go to Winnipeg to help in the defence of a very famous prisoner, Louis Reil, who was under arrest after North West Rebellion in which he had played a leading part. Mr. Fitzpatrick was defending Reil and with him were Francois Lemieux, who 44 years later as Sir Francois Lemieux was to be Mr. Justice Greenshields' fellow chief justice in Quebec, and J. A. N. Greenshields, a brother of the fledgling lawyer.

From this auspicious beginning Mr. Greenshields travelled the full length of legal experience, holding various offices in the Bar Association of Montreal and Quebec, until in 1910 he was appointed puisne judge of the Superior Court in Montreal and in 1929 acting chief justice of Quebec, the latter appointment rounding out a career which made him one of the foremost British authorities on criminal law.

Mr. Justice Greenshields was born at Danville, Que., Feb. 2, 1861, the son of John and Margaret Greenshields. He secured his primary education in the Danville schools and at Danville Academy, Richmond, Que. He graduated at McGill University with the degree of B.C.L. from the law faculty in 1885.

Defended Louis Reil

After the Reil trial Mr. Greenshields returned to Montreal and took up the practise of criminal law in association with his brother. In 1889, after he had been appointed Queen's Counsel, he was made crown prosecutor of the Montreal district, but he preferred being on the defence side and resigned after a short while. For many years, first associated with his brother and afterwards with N. K. Laflamme, K.C., late Senator Laflamme, Mr. Greenshields was called in to defend all the more notorious criminals who were haled before the Quebec courts. One of the most romantic of his clients was McManus, an American who was committed to Devil's Island for robbing the American Express Building in Paris of $25,000. McManus escaped in a box of cheese, made his way to London and afterwards to Canada. He was convicted of burglary in Ottawa and after serving seven years in the penitentiary at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., was arrested on behalf of the French authorities as he left that institution. Mr. Greenshields was able to prevent his client going back to Devil's Island.

After nine years as puisne judge Mr. Justice Greenshields was appointed a judge of the court of appeal in Montreal. His first task was to bring the calendar of cases in the court of review which was very much in arrears, up to date. He did this with despatch. As an appeal court judge, associated with other English speaking and French speaking judges, he became noted for the soundness of his judgment in criminal and civil cases. Very few of his findings were upset on appeal. During his regime a number of causes celebre came up for decision. One of them was the libel action brought by Madame Rebecca Morin against Le Croix, a Catholic newspaper, for stating her father, the one-time Rev. Charles Chiniquy, had not been legally married because he had been a Catholic priest and had taken the vow of chastity. His lordship found for the plaintiff. He was also a member of the court which rendered judgments on the Hebert-Cloutre and Tremblay-Despatie cases, which involved the right of the courts to validate a church decree annulling marriages. Mr. Justice Greenshields' ruling that such decrees could not be given civil effect was upheld when the cases went to the Imperial privy council maintained his judgment that the provincial statute of 1903 which placed Jews under the protestant school board, was ultra vires of the Quebec legislature.

Public attention was focussed on Judge Greenshields in 1933 when he concluded the trial of James J. Harpell, publisher of the Journal of Commerce, who was charged with and convicted of criminal libel, the plaintiff being Thomas B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

Judge Greenshields became chief justice of Quebec on the death of Sir Francois Lemieux in 1933.

Mr. Justice Greenshields was a Liberal in politics and was a great personal friend of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. In his younger
