Naval Base Is Captured By British

Canuck Troops Train at Sea To Learn Invasion Tactics; Gruelling Job Is Involved

By ROSS MUNRO

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, May 7:—Special forces of Canadian infantry have been training at sea with the Royal Navy on combined operations and coastal raiding as the Canadian army steps up assault training of every battalion with the ultimate objective of striking somewhere in Europe.

In the last few weeks I went to sea with one of these infantry commando units.

This training is making the entire army think offensively of operations across the North Sea or the English Channel. The troops are training and planning harder than ever before for action which might be launched anywhere from Narvik to the Spanish border.

With the R. A. F. giving continental targets a non-stop pounding and with talk of a second front heard from Whitehall to country pubs, the Canadians are preparing for anything from reconnaissance to all-out attack.

Shock-Troop Training

This shock-troop training has been built up secretly for months to a climax of work with the navy in commando-like forces. Raiding parties have been established following battle drill instruction throughout the army. Hundreds of officers and men have been going to these schools to instruct the battalions in assault.

The goal is to make every infantry unit as hard and as skilled as commandos so they can stage frontal assaults and push on into enemy territory. Maps, photographs and relief models of the European coast are being studied.

Close contact is kept with Lord Louis Mountbatten's combined operations headquarters and the Canadian detachments doing advanced training went to sea aboard combined operations ships which have carried British commando raiders. They were the first Canadian army units to train with the Royal Navy.

The force I was with was commanded by Maj. Brian McCool of the Royal Regiment of Canada

ALASKA RAILWAY

Project For Line Across Canada Considered—Inquiries Regarding P. G. E.

VICTORIA, May 7: (CP)—Government circles said last night that they had been approached by several United States interests regarding acquisition of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway as a link in a possible railway to Alaska. No details are available.

Such a railway would mean construction of sixty-two miles of line from Quesnel to Prince George and thence to Finlay Forks along the Rocky Mountain Trench through the Yukon to Alaska.

The statement here coincided with a dispatch from Washington saying that plans were being considered for the eventual construction of a railway across Canada to connect the United States with Alaska, United States Army engineers to be sent out to make surveys.

British Fleet Entering Suarez Harbor Today; French Resistance Was Brief Bloodshed in Battle

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, IN AUSTRALIA, May 7 (Canadian Press)—Increased Japanese naval activity in waters around New Britain, presaging perhaps a southward thrust against the life-lines of this invasion-threatened continent, was announced here today. LONDON, May 7: (CP)—Strong British land, naval and air forces have captured Diego Suarez, naval base, and surrounding territory on the north tip of the French island of Madagascar and the British fleet is expected to enter Suarez Harbor today, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons. The cost of the attacks to the Germans was one destroyer sunk, another damaged severely, at least two dive bombers destroyed and others perhaps crippled, the Admiralty said.

EMPLOYING RESTRICTED

Particulars Received Here of New Federal Order-In-Council

Particulars have been received by local military authorities of a recently passed order-in-council which definitely forbids the employment in any restricted occupation of any male between the ages of seventeen and forty-five who has not either been discharged from the armed forces or has been rejected for active service. The reason for the promulgation of the order, it is explained, is because of the growing scarcity of men available for service in the army forces and for employment in the war industries. This means is being taken to restrict the entry of men who are of military age and physically fit for service with the armed forces into certain occupations which are relatively unessential or can be satisfactorily filled by women or men who are beyond military age or are physically unfit for service with the armed forces.

LONDON, May 7 (Canadian Press)—Royal Air Force bombers continued smashing attacks on industries, feeding the German war machine by hammering Stuttgart for the third successive night and roaring into France again today by daylight. Seven of the night raiders are missing, the Air Ministry said. Docks at Nantes were also bombed during the night.

RED ARMY ATTACKING

MOSCOW, May 7:—The Red Army, attacking across bogs on the Leningrad front, was reported today to have driven a wedge between two German forces and encircled one Nazi detachment in an important sector west of the long-besieged city. Red Cross Budget ...

The Canadian Red Cross is now asking for $9,000,000 to finance the work of the Society for another year. The Red Cross knows what it is going to do with the money and desires the public to know. This money is needed for: Food parcels for British prisoners of war in Europe, $3,150,000; food for Canadian prisoners in Far East, $400,000; hospital supplies and merchandise purchases for comforts for the armed forces and civilian war victims, $3,750,000; disaster and emergency, including assistance to Allied Red Cross Societies, $1,000,000; Blood Donor Clinics, $200,000; campaign and publicity, $200,000, and administration, $300,000.

Corregidor ...

We have no reason to feel downcast over the outcome on Corregidor. The wonder about Corregidor was not that it fell but that it lasted so long. The garrison, sick and exhausted, short of food and ammunition and without hope of immediate reinforcement, was in a hopeless position.

Although our side has lost Corregidor, its great defence was an epic and historic tribute to the American fighters. We know our enemies under similar circumstances would never have been able to make such a stand.

If what we got at Corregidor is a sample of the fighting that our United States allies are to give us in this war, it is just another reason why we need have no fear of the final outcome.

Corregidor was costly for our enemies and the defence there may in time prove to have been an important factor in the final issue of the Battle of the Far East.

Organization Of Manpower ...

The extension of National Selective Service to all Canadians and to all industries contributing directly or indirectly to war production will answer effectively the question that many have been asking—"Am I doing all that I can to assist in Canada's war effort?" says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada. Many have already found the answer through voluntary enlistment in the armed forces or through special service for the government and in war industries. Now every Canadian will know his place and to some will come the humbling if salutary answer that the greatest service we can render is to carry on to the utmost of our ability the tasks which we are already performing. These tasks are the essential civilian services upon which, as the foundation of community life, the war effort must be based.

We are often told of the highly technical nature of modern warfare and of the necessity for organization of the home front to support the fighting services. Calculations have been made, showing that every man on active service must be supported by the efforts of eighteen men at home, in industry, agriculture and transportation. Many services on the home front are as directly contributory to the war effort as those of the fighting men themselves. This is readily apparent in the actual manufacture of munitions, but the construction gangs that build the factories, the farmers who produce food for workers as well as for soldiers, and the railway workers who check the lines in isolated sections of the country to guard against accident and sabotage, all have a right to recognition of their contribution to the common effort.

It has been said that manpower is the third side of the triangle of men, money and machines which supports the war effort of a country. The organization of manpower is, however, a much more subtle and complicated problem than the organization of money or machines. It cannot be solved simply by the allocation of so many men or women to such and such work according to age groups or by lot. The complexities of aptitudes and training of workers, on the one hand, and the value of a particular industry or job, on the other hand, must be carefully taken into account. This applies to civilians and to industry just as truly as it does to the armed services.

DODGERS TOO GOOD

Pilot of Detroit Tigers Thinks Brooklyn Nationals Look Good

NEW YORK, May 7: — Delmar David Baker, the placid pilot of Detroit Tigers, is one American leaguer who likes to keep an eye on the hub-bub in the National League and he opines that "maybe those Brooklyn Dodgers are getting too good for that company."

This is an unusually forthright observation for the quiet, transplanted Texan, who generally does not commit himself beyond something like, "they're going all right, got bad at all."

"Schoolboy Rowe may help the Dodgers a lot," Baker continued, "if he gets off to a good start he might have a real big year."

"There isn't anything wrong with him. In fact he looks better now than he has in the last couple of years and maybe a change of scenery is all he needs to get going."

"We let him go because we have half a dozen or more young pitchers coming along fine and we are trying to rebuild the whole club with young fellows. Rowe is 30 years old and he didn't figure in our plans. But he's a grand guy and I hope he has a great season with the Dodgers."

"They have the kind of a club that he ought to fit into well. Lots of power and they can give him a big inning every now and then. I see Enos Slaughter of the St. Louis Cardinals is in. If he is called who will give Brooklyn any opposition?"

SENIOR FOOTBALL

Rainy weather last evening caused a second postponement of the Gilhuly Cup football game between Royal Canadian Air Force and the Navy. Area Headquarters and Royal Canadian Navy are scheduled to meet in a regular fixture tonight.

CANUCK TROOPS TRAIN AT SEA TO LEARN INVASION TACTICS

that what's tough for the real commandos will be duck soup for us," said a soldier in a dirty woolen skull cap.

The army and navy officers planned everything together and the idea of combined operations was followed fully. Lt.-Cmdr. K. S. MacLachlan of Westmount, Que., former deputy navy minister for Canada and now attached to Lord Louis' staff, was with the force. He followed the training and gave the Canadians high praise for the way they co-operated with the navy and carried out their mock raids.

The training schedule was jammed with activity. After preliminary landings gave the Canadians the feel of the landing craft, raid after raid, was planned and carried out.

Landings were followed by long treks across country which would harass a mountain goat. The Canadians had only compasses and the stars to guide them in the inky dark, but there was not a man lost during the whole training period. The only casualty was a soldier who fractured an ankle in a fall.

Ten to fifteen miles were covered each night over mountains and swamps, in the face of cliffs, over peat bogs and through tangled forests.

Former Local Man

I went through the training with the force and the toughest attack I was on was staged by a section of Calgary Highlanders and Royal Regiment men commanded by Lieut. Bobby (Elmer) Cross of Watrou, Sask. Lieut. Bill McQueen of Medicine Hat was the other officer with the section. Another officer is Lieut. Cy Nixon, formerly with the Irish Fusiliers at Prince Rupert.

It was a midnight raid against two inland objectives and after 12 miles rapid, stealthy movement the Calgary-Royal section ran three miles at top speed to the embarkation beach where the navy picked them up again.

Maj. Bert Sucharov was officer in charge of a demolition crew. He was called the "midnight job" by the navy because he carried three guns, kept a cabin stocked like a section of Westmount arsenal and tried to catch fish by tossing explosives into the sea.

Second in command was Capt. Norman Young of Winnipeg. Capt. Jack Sturdy of Calgary and Vancouver, medical officer, was a member of the headquarters staff.

BUY EARLY TO SECURE BARGAINS

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the people of the whole district are doing the same.

To advertise or not to advertise, when demand exceeds supply or when withdrawn completely from the domestic market is one of the many problems that confront business today.

THE QUESTION many business men are asking today...

"is it sound policy to advertise in a Seller's market?"

THE ANSWER is—

"yes—if you expect to be in business when we return to the inevitable Buyer's market."

THE DAILY NEWS

ADDING INTRIGUE

In screening, it is not necessary nor desirable to cover the whole of fence, wall or garage, unless the same is unsightly. Much more pleasing results follow where the shrubbery, vines and flowers merely break the lines of the man-made structures behind them, but leave enough showing for contrast.

For this work the gardener usually employs perennial plants, permanent shrubbery and hardy creepers. One can, however, get very fair results with quick-growing annuals in both the bushy or vine-growing types.

Weed Killers

There are many special liquid killers to prevent grass or weeds growing along walks or driveways. Care must be exercised to keep these materials away from wanted grass, flowers or shrubbery as they destroy all growth.

Suitable material for driveways is common salt, the cheaper and coarser the better. Not only will a liberal application of this—about one or two handfuls to the square foot—destroy grass, weeds, poison ivy, etc., but it will also bind gravel and soil together into an even surface, keep down dust and repel frost.

Rock Gardens

Steeply sloping, narrow lots make ideal situations for rock gardens. With this sort of ground, the creation of a really unusual and individual garden is made simple. Experts do not advocate carrying on as it is, however, but would sharply divide the different levels. To do this a variety of devices is recommended such as a stone wall, a less ornamental but stronger concrete wall screened with a hedge, or a rock garden with a few stone steps connecting the levels.

Sometimes, where the slope is very great and over a few feet wide, a combination of all three methods will be the most practical and effective. Big trees will be depended upon to hold the general slope in place, with here and there extra support furnished by steps or short bits of wall.

For the part intended for a rock garden simply fill in space loosely with well enclosed rocks, as rough and picturesque as obtainable, and fill in space between with special rock garden plants listed in any good seed catalogue.

RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Railway Employees To Be Solicited by System-wide Organization

MONTREAL, Que., May 7— In support of the appeal by the Canadian Red Cross to collect $9,000,000 for the pressing needs of the society, Canadian National Railways' employees will be solicited by means of a system wide organization established at the request of R. C. Vaughan, president and chief executive of the National Railways. Over Mr. Vaughan's signature letters have been addressed to all executive officers requesting their full participation in the Red Cross campaign.

In the course of his letter he states: "I am sure everyone will give readily and as generously as his or her circumstances will permit."

Mr. Vaughan noted the tremendous responsibilities undertaken by the Red Cross throughout the world, the task in Canada, the British Isles and in assisting prisoners of war. The President recalled that "the record of the Red Cross is one of continuous and sustained service, generously and sympathetically provided without question as to creed or nationality and based on one requirement only need."

The Western Region has been organized under the direction of W. R. Devenish, general manager, and a special appeal to all employees will be handled through the regional and district officers. Every employee on the Western Region will be given an opportunity to participate in this urgent appeal to assist the Red Cross

The organization will operate throughout the entire system in Canada, reaching into all offices, shops and to men in the maintenance of way departments.

A. R. P. IS STRESSED

J. J. Little, District Chairman, Speaker Before Local Gyro Club

The importance of all business men and householders of Prince Rupert arranging for the protection of their property from damage in the case of air raids and the necessity of further workers enrolling in the local Civilian Protection (A.R.P.) were points stressed by J. J. Little, district A. R. P. chairman in speaking before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday.

Mr. Little spoke on various aspects of local A.R.P. organization in which Prince Rupert throughout had always led. Interest in civilian protection had livened up event of an air raid was not to considerably since the entry of Japan into the war and the position of this coast becoming much more vulnerable. Now 400 were registered in addition to 260 at the dry dock and seventy among railway employees. Yet there was still more or less apathy.

The speaker mentioned how the local A.R.P. jurisdiction had been extended to include other small settlements in the district. He also discussed new blackout regulations.

The most important thing in the panic, Mr. Little declared. More damage could be done that way than even by the bombing. After all the risk from bombing or personal injury was quite small. Fear should be mastered.

"If you are not already in the A.R.P., I ask you to join up and influence others to do so," concluded Mr. Little.

Past President W. F. Stone occupied the chair at yesterday's luncheon and guests were Fred Dunn, Dr. John Nickerson and C. W. Nash.

Attention was drawn to the meeting of the civic centre carnival organization committee to be held tonight and the Red Cross concert Sunday night.

RECRUITING SEA CADETS DISCUSSED INSPECTION

Local Committee Has Meeting With Col. Goodman — Steady Flow of Men Required

Discussing the recruiting situation more particularly in regard to what may be done in Prince Rupert to assist in keeping up the supply of men which the army needs to provide strength and reinforcements both overseas and at home, the civilian recruiting committee was in session yesterday afternoon with Lieut. Col. H. E. Goodman of Victoria, district recruiting officer for military district No. 11. The conference was of an informal nature and a number of matters pertaining to recruiting were discussed. Voluntary enlistment was still meeting with a good response, Col. Goodman informed the committee, but conditions might change at any time when a great many more men for active service would be required. There was need for a steady flow of recruits, especially of the fighting man type.

It was decided that some expenditure should be made to make the local recruiting headquarters more attractive.

The suggestion was made that an officer of the Canadian Women's Active Service Force might come to Prince Rupert to receive recruits.

This was Col. Goodman's first visit to Prince Rupert. Accompanied by Major A. S. Parks, local recruiting officer, he left on last evening's train for Prince George.

Allan Carolan of Stewart, after a brief visit here, sailed by the Catala Tuesday afternoon for Vancouver on business in connection with his theatre building project here.

Lieut. Richardson Puts Local Boys Through Paces and Later Addresses Them

The Prince Rupert Sea Cadets Corps was inspected last night by Lieut. Richardson of Victoria, inspecting officer of Sea Cadets and also prominently identified with the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve. The Cadets turned out in almost full muster at St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral Hall to display seamanship pursuits and at the Court House grounds for drill and March Past.

Speaking to the Cadets, Lieut. Richardson complimented them on certain aspects of their work and made suggestions as to where improvements might be made. Efforts would be made to provide adequate instructional facilities and a whaler might be obtained.

The Corps was in command of Lieut. Commander Alex Mitchell and R. M. Winslow, chairman of the local branch of the Navy League of Canada, and other members of the executive were in attendance.

PREPARING FOR SEASON

Salmon Packing To Be Carried On In Normal Way In This District

Preparations are going ahead for a normal salmon canning season in Prince Rupert fisheries district again this year. Most of the canneries which operated last year will be running again in 1942 although there is some uncertainty about Nelson Bros plant which may be moving away from the present location although it will be in the market for fish.

The canners do not seem to be particularly worried about the question of obtaining fishermen. Indians, to a large extent, it is expected, will take the places of the evacuated Japanese. Many of these Indians will turn from seining to gill-netting.

The sockeye fishing season will open on June 28 and this will, as usual, mark the commencement of the canning season.

The canneries expected to operate this season will be as follows: Naas River — Arrandale and Wales Island.

Skeena River—Claxton, Carlisle, Cassiar, North Pacific, Sunhyside, Inverness and Prince Rupert.

Butedale area — Butedale and Klentu.

Bella Bella area—Namu, Bella Coola—Tallieo, Rivers Inlet area—Goose Bay.

Some seventeen gillnetters are already operating on the Skeena River, fishing spring salmon while River fishing spring salmon which are being delivered into Prince Rupert.

Increasing numbers of trolliers are moving out to the trolling grounds.

NEW TEAM ON SCREEN

Bob Hope And Madeleine Carroll Head Cast of Rollicking Picture In "My Favorite Blonde"

Bob Hope and Madeleine Carroll, a distinctly new type of team, head the cast of a speedy cops-and-robbers comedy which is the feature offering for Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre here. It is "My Favorite Blonde."

The rollicking and hilarious story is that of a ham vaudevilian who becomes mixed up with Nazi spies. Miss Carroll plays the part of a gorgeous British secret agent. A thrilling cross-country race starts in New York and ends in Hollywood. Before it is over Hope is wanted for murder, robbery, misrepresentation and a flock of other crimes including the evading of arrest. He drives an oil truck, swipes a bus, flies a monoplane that is shot at in the air, spends a night with Madeleine in a freight car, outwits the Nazi murderers and finally takes a wild ride in a hearse with a secret military message that sends a flight of 150 American bombers on their way to Great Britain.

The supporting cast includes a villainous lot of heavies—the spy gang — headed by Gale Sondergaard, George Zucco, Lionel Royce, Walter Kingsford, Victor Varconi and Otto Reichow.

B. C. JAPANESE CHOPPING HIGHWAY THROUGH ROCKIES

Several hundred British Columbia Japanese have been transferred from vital defense zones on the Pacific Coast into the heart of the Canadian Rockies in Northern Alberta. Here these enemy aliens have been put to work under supervision to build the western end of a road from Edmonton to Vancouver. The Japs have been grouped in camps under canvas, where they are responsible for their own community life. The sign on the mess hall (upper left) warns in Japanese and English that no snacks will be served between meals. The grinning gong-ringer is the camp cook; he was also a cook in peacetime. Letters from relatives, drawings for the children and other items of general interest are tacked on the tent walls (upper right) of the mess hall. Newspapers are sent daily into the various camps. A glance at the headline will explain why the two men were reluctant to pose for the bottom photograph.
