Ill-Fated Expedition Aired In House

ROSTOV HAS NOW FALLEN

Soviet Admits Loss of Important City—Resistance, However, Continues

MOSCOW, July 28 (CP)—The Germans are driving into the northern Caucasus over widened bridgeheads across the Don River south of Tsimlyansk and through Novocheerkassk and Rostov in the gravest moment of the entire war for the Soviet. The Red Star newspaper says that the Germans are hurling forces into the fight for Caucasus "many times superior" to those of the defenders. The Germans are said to have made new crossings of the Don River in the Tsimlyansk sector.

MOSCOW, July 28.—The Russian High Command acknowledges the loss of Rostov, important city near the mouth of the Don River, which finally fell to the enemy on Monday. Nazi pressure from three directions—west, north and east—forced final capitulation. It is the second time within eight months that Rostov has been in the hands of the enemy. The German drive has continued to a point twenty miles beyond Rostov.

Today Moscow claimed that wave after wave of motorized attacks in the south Don area had been hurled back although further bridgeheads had been established on the Don by the enemy. The Red Army holds firm at Voronezh while in the Baltic the sinking of a Nazi u-boat and transport vessel is claimed.

AIR RAID EQUIPMENT

Stirrup Pumps Arrive for Use of A. R. P. Wardens—More Volunteers Needed

Considerable new equipment for the local Air Raid Protection organization has arrived in the city and is now being distributed among the wardens for use in case of emergency. The newly arrived equipment includes stirrup pumps, flashlights and whistles.

The need of further volunteer workers for the A. R. P. organization is emphasized. In view of the situation, it is felt that those who have no assigned functions for direct war service should take part in some form of civilian protection activity.

Householders who have air raid protection equipment inventories in their possession which have not yet been turned in are being asked to see that these be placed in the hands of their area wardens without further delay.

The threatening muzzle of a Bofor anti-aircraft gun points westward on Canada's Pacific Coast ready to blast away at the first sign of enemy raiders. Anti-aircraft defences have been vastly improved on the East Coast and the men who man the guns are ready for any eventuality. Because of the deafening noise which accompanies the rapid fire of these guns the cease fire order is given the trigger man by a yank of the rope which the soldier on the extreme left holds in his hand. This gun and others like it are manufactured in Canada.

Bush Fire Along Highway Put Out

Highway Construction Camp Was Menaced For a Time Yesterday Afternoon by Flames

A highway construction camp at Diana Creek beyond Cloyah Bay was threatened for a while yesterday afternoon by a bush fire which, however, was extinguished by the Forest Branch with the co-operation of Fire Chief H. T. Lock who went out with one of the A. R. P. Pumps.

IS SUNK IN GULF

Loss of Mexican Cargo Vessel Oaxaca by Enemy Action Is Announced

MEXICO CITY, July 28:—Another Mexican ship has been sunk in the Gulf of Mexico by a Nazi u-boat. It is the cargo vessel Oaxaca which was attacked and sent to the bottom a few hours after leaving Corpus Christi, Texas. Thirty-four surviving members of the crew have been landed at a Texas port and six are still missing.

This makes 422 Allied ships lost so far since United States entered the war.

Seaman Salvaged Silk Stockings

KENTON, England, July 28:—Able Seaman Jack (Rusty) Steel kept his promise to bring his fiancée three pairs of silk stockings as a wedding gift, but it was a narrow squeeze.

When H.M.S. Wild Swan was sunk while returning to Britain after 14 months foreign service Jack managed to snatch up the stockings before abandoning ship. Yes, his fiancée, Joyce Brook, wore a pair when she tripped to the altar in this Middlesex town after Jack had recovered in hospital.

Mrs. Jesse Bridden, after an absence from the Queen Charlotte Islands of two months visiting in Vancouver and Prince Rupert, leaves tonight on her return to her home at Massett.

There were casualties and damage was done. Eight enemy planes were brought down. The city was the industrial centre of Birmingham.

Homes and shops were hardest hit in Birmingham and a post office and residential areas were hit in a nearby locality. Enemy planes also appeared over counties near London and gave the metropolis its first night alarm since June 3. Incendiary bombs were dropped but no bombs were dropped by enemy planes which were also over Northern England and Ireland.

DISORDER IN HOUSE

Prime Minister Dubs Opposition "Mob" During Stormy Debate On Hong Kong

GENERAL RETIRED
OTTAWA, July 28 (CP)—Hon. J. L. Ralston, in the House of Commons last night, said that the retirement from service of Major General E. J. C. Schmidlin, quartermaster-general in the Canadian Army, was partly due to adverse criticism of Schmidlin's department in the Duff Commission report on the dispatch of troops to Hong Kong. Col. Ralston said that Lieut. Col. E. H. Spearing, in charge of movement control, had also retired as a result of delay which resulted in the Hong Kong expedition leaving Canada without mechanical equipment.

OTTAWA, July 28:—A tumult of shouting, in which Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King described Opposition members as a "mob" and defied them to silence him, marked the end of the morning stage of the Hong Kong debate in the House of Commons yesterday. The incident came just before the noon adjournment and, at the time, Mr. Mackenzie King and Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson were both on their feet at the same time, waving arms and shouting, their voices being drowned in calls for order.

At the resumption of the session, Mr. King withdrew his reference to the Opposition as a mob.

THOUGHTFUL ABOUT WAR

Replies to Questionnaire Reveal Deep Interest in Vital Matters

LONDON, July 28:—If the opinion of a cross-section of members of the Women's Guild of the Empire is a criterion, then it may be truthfully said that British women are doing a lot of thinking about the war and are far from satisfied.

Shocked at the sudden fall of Tobruk, officials of the Guild, founded by Mrs. Flora Drummond, widely-known as "General" Drummond during the old suffragette days in Britain, dispatched five questionnaires to 1,500 of the 50,000 women on the organization's mailing list to find out the people's reaction. Those polled included titled women, doctors, nurses, social workers, housewives, factory workers and business women.

A survey of the replies showed that:

- Eighty per cent thought the office of the minister of defence should be separate from the office of the prime minister;
- Seventy-six per cent thought British people should be informed of the true position regarding shipping losses and production;
- Ninety-six per cent asked for information of the loss in production due to strikes and faulty administration;
- Ninety-four per cent demanded assurance that before a second front is started the armed forces will be properly equipped, thus avoiding a defeat similar to Tobruk;
- Ninety-six per cent thought members of Parliament should be given frank and full answers to questions in the Commons.

The answers represented 40 parliamentary divisions whose members will be informed of the precise results.

Decisive Battles . . .

It may be that historians, poring over the records of World War II, will find that the summer of 1942, while the most critical of the war, did not in fact produce its decisive battle. They may even agree that the battle that insured the defeat of the Axis was not one in which the United Nations triumphed but one in which the potentially most powerful was caught fast asleep.

For as Sir Edward Creasy chose the battle of Saratoga instead of Yorktown for his "Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World," published in 1851 and now a classic, so it should turn out that the Japanese treachery at Pearl Harbor guaranteed the defeat of the Axis. It was the fact that Benedict Arnold's defeat of Burgoyne at Saratoga brought France into the American war for independence that Creasy considered decisive.

How long the United States would have remained a nonbelligerent party in World War II were it not for Pearl Harbor is anybody's guess. Perhaps not long. But it might have been a long time before the country would have developed even as much emotional drive as surged into being within a few hours on December 7.

But for decisiveness Pearl Harbor may have to share honors with that almost equally amazing thrust that Hitler ordered against Russia in his midsummer madness of 1941. Or shall we go back a little farther and ask who would be making the decisions in Europe today if the British people had not stood out alone against the German air might through a terrible year?

In a global war there may be a number of decisive battles the results of any one of which could affect all the rest.

Looking over Creasy's list, one is struck by the thought that the world's concept of decisive battles has been limited to epics of violence. There was Marathon, Arbel, Metaurus, Chalons, Tours, Hastings, Drake's victory in the English Channel, Waterloo and its prerequisite, Trafalgar. These are the nine that still look pretty important, out of the fifteen Creasy offers.

But they and all the rest were battles of destruction, as were the so-called decisive battles of World War I, which were fought along the Marne in 1914 and 1918. What the world knows today is that the really decisive battles among nations may be won or lost long after the shooting has ceased. The battles won along the Marne were lost again by stages from Versailles, through Manchuria, Ethiopia, the Rhineland and Spain. The lessons of that tragic moral retreat should help us to win total victory next time.

Ontario-Born Centenarian in Victoria Recalls Incidents of Pioneer Life in East

B. C. F. MORIARTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
VICTORIA, July 23: (AP)—A Canadian Press story describing her 101st birthday celebration has opened the happy prospect for Mrs. Jason Harms Post of hearing from Ontario relatives who lost track of her half a century ago.

"I'd like to go back there," she said wistfully when told that Mrs. A. J. Poltz, 497 Woolwich Street, Guelph, Ontario, had read the story and asked for her address. Mrs. Poltz recognized the centenarian as her husband's aunt.

"Granny" Post, as she is affectionately known by the Sister Superior, nurses and other patients in Mount St. Mary's Home for the Aged here, was just a bit weary from all the excitement of the birthday party when the reporter called. Her son and grandchildren gathered about her on the occasion.

"I was born on a farm at Richmond, near Ottawa, July 1, 1841," she said. "My maiden name was Margaret Neily and my parents came from northern New York—United Empire Loyalists who wished to live under the Union Jack."

"When I was four my father was fatally injured by a falling timber while helping neighbors build a barn. Then my mother, sister, brother and myself moved to Belleville.

"I went to school at Belleville and recall the Russell sisters, the Morton girls, the Robinson, Camerons and Murrys. I knew former Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia when he was 11 years old and used to visit his mother at Woodstock.

"When 15 I was married to Mr. Post, who was a carpenter. We moved to Winnipeg in 1881, lived there four years and then went to Port Arthur. Five years later we moved to Victoria."

Son Works at 85
Mrs. Post's husband died 10 years ago. She has one son, who at 85 works every day as a carpenter. Another son died some years ago. "He never recovered from the shock of losing his wife and young son in the Point Ellice bridge disaster here on May 26, 1895," she said. An overloaded street car plunged through the bridge, resulting in loss of 66 lives.

"Granny" recalled incidents of the American Civil War when she lived in Watertown, N.Y., and Jersey City. "Then there were the Fenian Raids in Canada. I was living in Gananogue and when the boys went away all the women cried. But the Fenians did not come far enough and the boys didn't have to fight them."

Mrs. Post remembered Confederation and said that she had seen Sir John A. Macdonald on several occasions. "We were Conservatives," she said, "but so long as Canada became a nation we didn't care who ran things. I'm a Canadian and always shall be."

She did not think that modern girls were different from those of her day. "In the old days some girls used something like lipstick and rouge. I didn't . . . and never saw blacks until a year or so before I lost my sight five years ago. I was a Methodist and never smoked, danced or played cards. Darning is good exercise, I guess, but I never learned."

Mrs. Post concluded the interview with the remark: "I honor any girl who puts on the Canadian uniform."

DUE TO WAR CONDITIONS

Canada will now on, have to depend as never before on the output of her mines to fill the ever increasing demands for coal. Much of this will have to be from Alberta mines, but this will be difficult if not impossible if consumers wait, as in the past, for cold weather before taking delivery.

Do your part in helping to avoid a serious situation, by filling your bin NOW and keeping it FULL.

CLOSE CALL ON THE EGYPTIAN FRONT

A British soldier does a quick duck knees as an Axis shell burst near him on the desert during the action near El Alamein. Despite heavy German and Italian attacks on this line, the British Imperials are holding fast and making gains in some spots. This picture was radioed from Cairo.

Canada's War Chiefs

MAJ-GEN. G. R. PEARKES
 Commander 1st Canadian Division

(By Ross Munro, Canadian Press War Correspondent)

They say Maj-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, commander of a Canadian infantry division overseas, is one of the coolest and most nerveless men in the army. His military record of the First Great War—he won the Victoria Cross, Distinguished Service Order, Military Cross and Croix de Guerre—is conclusive proof. But there is a little story they tell about the general that smashes tank attacks by proper deployment and surprise.

Gen. Pearkes insists on having young officers on his staff and at his headquarters there are officers in their 20's holding important appointments.

The troops find the general hard and gruff at times, but they would never challenge his fairness. He drives them in training but they respect his judgment.

The general is a "bug" on physical fitness. Hardening exercises are frequent in the division, with the commander participating himself. On recent manoeuvres, divisional headquarters has always been set up in the open air, never in a comfortable house.

A native of Walford, Eng., Gen. Pearkes came to Canada in 1906. He was a permanent force soldier in peacetime. His chief diversion is riding to the hounds and every Sunday finds him out with huntsmen of southern England.

GINGER IN NEW ROLE

Popular Actress Starred in Title Part of Roxie Hart

Ginger Rogers appears in a new sort of role in "Roxie Hart," coming to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here on Wednesday and Thursday of this week. Instead of a sweet young thing, she has a part which is definitely on the rowdy side.

Set in the roaring days of Chicago when a pretty girl could do no wrong, the story of "Roxie Hart" starts with the finding of the body of a murdered man in an apartment. The murderer confesses but a report finds that a woman—Roxie—has been on the scene. Thereupon, an attempt is made to exploit the situation for publicity purposes and the climax is an amazing court trial.

Miss Rogers has the title role while George Montgomery is the young reporter and Adolphe Menjou is a shyster lawyer. A talented featured cast includes Lynne Overman, Nigel Bruce, Phil Silvers, Sara Allgood, William Frawley, Spring Byington, Ted North and Helene Reynolds.

A satire on life fifteen years ago in the "Windy City," the picture is replete with action.

NAZI BARBARITY

LONDON, July 28 (P)—A Polish girl has been sentenced to death for "assaulting her German employer who slapped her face," a Stockholm report says.

PREDICTS THIRD WAR

STOCKHOLM, July 28 (P)—A fight between Germany and Japan for "mastery of the world," is predicted by Per Engdahl, blind vice-president of the Swedish Nazi party. This fight he describes as "the third and greatest world war."

Sockeye fishing is holding up quite well on the Skeena and Naas Rivers although the season is getting along. The fish are moving in towards the spawning grounds with the result that there is better fishing in the inside waters. Seining in the Naas River, is also showing some improvement. 20,000 pinks having been taken in that area yesterday. The gill net average for the Skeena, according to this morning's report, is thirty sockeye and 50 pinks and on the Naas River fifty sockeye and 150 pinks.
