SEA BATTLE STATEMENT

United States Navy Department Officially Announces Outcome Of Bali Engagement

Nineteen Is Bag

Damage Was Wrought With Java Invasion Fleet.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 23:—The United States Navy announced officially Saturday that 6 destroyers, accompanied by Netherlands warships, sank two enemy destroyers off the island of Bali with only slight damage to the American vessels and minor loss of personnel.

Batavia announced that United States and Netherlands naval and air craft launched a second week-end attack against Japanese invasion forces heading for Java and are reported to have sunk 21,000 tons of shipping. This attack was in addition to an earlier one off the island of Bali which resulted in the sinking or damaging of nineteen Japanese ships including five cruisers, three destroyers and nine transports. One Allied destroyer was sunk and one was damaged in the sea battle off Bali. Four Allied planes were lost while the Japanese lost at least ten bombers and fighters.

GERMAN COMMANDER SURRENDERS, HALFAYA

In command of the German troops which surrendered at Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass to the besieging British forces, was Major Rev. Bach, a German army chaplain left in command when all other German officers quit the embattled bastion. He is shown here with a colonel of sappers as he came to make the surrender and to show the Allied forces where minefields had been laid so that occupation of the fortress could be completed.

Burma Making Strong Stand

RANGOON, Feb. 23:—The Rangoon radio has called upon the forces and the people of the Burmese capital to make it a second Moscow. After almost a week of trying the Japanese have been unable to dislodge the allied defenders from the Billin River. Allied aircraft are also said to be in control of the air which is proving an important factor in holding up the approach of the invasion forces. The Japanese have bombed the delta of the Irrawaddy River and several towns in central Burma.

RESISTANCE BY NATIVES

Japanese Are Finding Going None To Easy in Philippines

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 23:—General Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of United States forces in the Philippines, reports a rising tide of resistance by natives to the Japanese invaders. There has not been much action during the past two or three days on Bataan Peninsula. Saturday an artillery exchange was all that was reported.

CABINET CHANGES

Further Drastic Reorganization By Churchill Is Announced

LONDON, Feb. 23: — Prime Minister Winston Churchill last night announced further cabinet changes to appease critics of the government before the secret session of Parliament this week to consider the progress of the war. Most important change is removal of Capt. Davis Margesson as secretary of war in favor of Sir James Gregg. The latest cabinet reorganization announced by Prime Minister Churchill is the most drastic yet. In addition to Capt. David Margesson being dropped as secretary of war and replaced by Sir James Gregg, who comes from the civil service branch of the war department, other changes are:

Sir Archibald Sinclair continues as minister of air, but may be sent to India office to set up a new administration there in place of Leopold Amery against whom, as minister for India, there is much criticism.

ASKS AID OF INDIA

Generalissimo Chiang - Kai Shek Asks For All Out Support

CALCUTTA, Feb. 23:—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, who is still in India, is asking Indian leaders to go all out for the united nations in resisting the Axis nations. He is urging Great Britain to give India the governmental concessions she asks.

REPLANT FORESTS

Province to Put in 10,000,000 Trees a Year to Replenish Woods.

VICTORIA, Feb. 23: — A big reforestation plan for British Columbia, calling for the planting of 10,000,000 trees a year to replenish the province's giant forests now being logged off, will get into full swing this spring.

Land Minister A. Wells Gray said that all areas for replanting have been cleared and prepared in advance and spring planting will have begun on denuded areas Feb. 15. Many men will be employed to clear the land of snags and brush and plant the Douglas fir, Western hemlock and red cedar trees.

Trees production has now been accelerated in two branch nurseries, the minister said, and for the first time the 1942 nursery production will provide sufficient planting stock to carry out artificial reforestation on a large scale.

The minister emphasized the magnitude of the scheme by saying that last year, with the plan not yet in full swing, 98,000 snags were felled in 15,000 acres of forests and 30 miles of roads were constructed for motor truck travel so replanting crews could get into remote areas.

SOUTH AFRICA RESTRICTS

When Spring Comes . . .

During the winter the Russian armies have had a distinct advantage over the Germans and evidently Hitler is counting on reversing the advantage as soon as spring comes. That will be soon. Reserves of tanks are said to be piling up for use in the contemplated spring offensive. So also the Russians are making preparations for the big spring move. Russian factories are making more of the new and more effective tanks so there should be nothing to fear from the Nazis in that direction. The first important moves should be in the Crimea where summer comes quite early.

United States Navy . . .

The United States Navy has been busy in the East Indies and we are glad to join with the rest of Canada in congratulations on the splendid work against the Japanese. We shall be expecting great things from them.

The Spirit of the War . . .

Bulletins from Britain tells an interesting story of the navy. For seven days a ship's boat, filled with survivors from a torpedoed ship, had been tossing on the Atlantic when, in the dusk, the haggard sailors sighted a convoy passing three miles away. Frozen, hungry men looked at the long lines of ships with sunken eyes in which hope had been reborn. One of them raised a husky cheer. In an hour they would be snug and safe.

An able seaman fumbled with a flare, his cold and trembling fingers hardly able to hold it. Then he paused and looked at his mates. They all know what he was thinking. These flares were visible for miles and if an enemy submarine was lurking in the vicinity the position of the convoy would be betrayed instantly.

"Bit risky, ain't it?" said the seaman, and the others nodded assent. He slowly put the flare down and got out his pocket flash lamp. Several of the men followed suit and for a while there was silence in the boat while desperate signals were flashed across the waste of waters.

There was no acknowledgement, and slowly the dimly-seen shapes passed out of sight, leaving behind them the unseen boat tossing forlornly in the vast gray sea. For a few minutes after the last hull had disappeared no one said a word, and the mate spoke through cracked lips:

"Best make snug for the night, men."

Nothing more was said. All of them realized that they had sacrificed what was probably their last hope of safety, but they were not grousing.

Darkness fell and another slow hour passed. Then the look-out, straining his eyes through the gloom, gave a shout. The men huddled in the bottom of the boat lifted their heads weakly to see a light shining through the blackness. A British warship had seen their signals.

Tired of Monotony . . .

Men in the army often eat at the restaurants. They say they are well fed, the meals at the mess being excellent but the same kind of food day after day served in exactly the same way gets to be monotonous. So they pay for a poorer meal just to escape the monotony. That is why the men appreciate an invitation to a meal in a private home.

We understand that there are rules and regulations to follow but if there was some way of varying the monotony the men would be much better satisfied with their food. There will be always a great many who want to spend their own money for odd meals but the complaint of monotony seems to be general.

PENILESS AT START

The rise of Robert Randolph Bruce, LL.D., B.Sc., who died in Montreal Saturday, from penniless obscurity to wealth and the high position of lieutenant governor of British Columbia reads like a romance of fiction.

Born in a Scottish manse, July 16, 1861, the son of Rev. Charles and Margaret Sellar Bruce, his initial education was received at home from his father who in addition to his religious duties was the dominie at St. Andrew-Lhanbryde, near Elgin, Morayshire, Hon. Bruce's birthplace. Later he went to his father's classes at Glenrines, Banffshire, and then was entered as a student at the gymnasium and grammar school of Aberdeen, and on graduation went to the Glasgow University from which he won the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Civil Engineers.

Equipped with a sound and practical education he went to work for a time with Denny Bros., shipbuilding engineers of Dunbarton. Here, while his position was secure, he could see but little hope of advancement, so determined to emigrate to North America. It was in 1887 that he landed in New York with a determination to win success, a sound constitution and a good education and about $40 in his pockets. For a few months he worked at odd jobs in the United States metropolises, and then came north to Canada.

The Canadian Pacific Railway construction that had been so lately pushed through to the western seaboard had to be perfected and extensions and branch lines had to be built. So it was that young Bruce found employment with the C.P.R. in the passes of the Rockies and Selkirk, and for the next ten years he worked as an engineer or railway construction. At the end of that time he left the service of the railway and went to the Columbia Valley where, following mineral discoveries in the Selkirk, there was considerable mining excitement.

He worked at anything that came along, and eventually, was retained as mining engineer for eastern interests on a property. After a few months' work he advised his employers to spend no further money on the project, although he realized that his advice would result in his losing his employment.

His candor, however, brought him the respect and confidence of the late H. C. Hammond, of Toronto, who became associated with the young engineer and "grub-staked" him. With this backing the future lieutenant-governor searched the hills and valleys of the Selkirk and finally took over a prospect which under his management and expert direction became the Parridge Mine, a profitable shipper of high-grade ore.

As a result of his activities and interest in the country the town of Wilmer became quite an important centre. While the Parridge Mine laid the foundations for Mr. Bruce's fortune, it also robbed him of his sight, for the fumes from the lead content of the ore which he assayed affected his eyes, and while he was not absolutely blind his vision was greatly impaired. This, of course, was a terrible blow, particularly as good eyesight is probably the greatest asset of a mining engineer.

Never Lost Courage
But Mr. Bruce never lost his courage. He turned his attention to other matters in the Columbia Valley which he knew and loved so well. He saw that it was a rolling country which required only irrigation to make the broad acres productive, and in association with others he secured immense holdings. Old settlers termed his acreage "Bruce's Folly," but presently a railway was constructed through the valley, new towns sprang into being, his irrigation proposals took concrete form, and "Bruce's Folly" not only became profitable but resulted in populating the valley.

Thus with his land ventures and his mining interests the young Scottish engineer who had landed a few years before in America with only $40, became possessed of great wealth.

While in Great Britain in 1913 seeking the restoration of his failing eyesight Mr. Bruce renewed an old acquaintance with Lady Elizabeth Northcote, second daughter of the Earl and Countess of Iddlesleigh, a woman of great charm and possessed of a sweet disposition. They were married January 6, 1913, and went back to the Columbia Valley where they resided in a beautiful home on the shores of pleasant Lake Windermere. Mrs. Bruce died in September, 1916.

In 1926, upon the conclusion of the term of His Honor W. C. Nicol, Robert Randolph Bruce was selected as Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia, to which province he had gone as a junior engineer on railway construction. Upon his appointment as representative of His Majesty in the Pacific coast province he brought his niece, Miss Helen MacKenzie, from Scotland to act as chataleine of Government House.

Mr. Bruce visited Prince Rupert on several occasions.

CLASH ON AIR WAVES

Vichy Talks to French-Canada and Canada Broadcasts Its Objectives to People of Old France.

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. (C)—A war of French words rages over the trans-Atlantic air waves with French-speaking Canada the object of attack on this side and defeated and divided France the object on the other.

An analysis of French language broadcasts to this continent from Paris and Vichy indicates a two-fold purpose: First, to raise the stock of the Vichy government and at the same time justify collaboration with Germany; second, to create doubt about the righteousness of the Allied cause and undermining hopes for victory.

Going the other way over a shortwave station at Boston is a series of broadcasts arranged by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in co-operation with the Canadian government and Free French authorities.

Voice of Canada
Its purpose is to tell the people of France that the largest French-speaking community outside the homeland is in the war to win, and hopes for the eventual resurrection of the French nation. From time to time French-Canadians whose names are known in France address the French people.

Cardinal Villeneuve sent a Christmas message assailing collaboration, and stated the position of French-Canadians thus: "We are of French blood, we are French in spirit and heart, but we are also loyal to the British crown; we are convinced and defiant anti-Nazis, notwithstanding the lies they wish you to believe."

Observers believe it was an awareness of this war of French words which led Prime Minister Churchill to reserve his powerful blast against "the men of Vichy" for his visit to Ottawa. Mr. Churchill expected his speech from Ottawa would draw more listeners in France and be more widely reported and commented upon there than any utterance he could make either in Washington or London.

Messages from Canadian students and other people stranded or imprisoned in occupied France are frequently broadcast over the ter of the Earl and Countess of Iddlesleigh, a woman of great charm and possessed of a sweet disposition. They were married January 6, 1913, and went back to the Columbia Valley where they resided in a beautiful home on the shores of pleasant Lake Windermere. Mrs. Bruce died in September, 1916.

In 1926, upon the conclusion of the term of His Honor W. C. Nicol, Robert Randolph Bruce was selected as Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia, to which province he had gone as a junior engineer on railway construction. Upon his appointment as representative of His Majesty in the Pacific coast province he brought his niece, Miss Helen MacKenzie, from Scotland to act as chataleine of Government House.

Mr. Bruce visited Prince Rupert on several occasions.

Paris radio as a means of inducing people to listen in. After the message a bit of propaganda, specially directed at French-speaking Canada follows.

They Admire Quebec?
A favorite theme with the Vichy radio is admiration for Quebec's adherence to solid Christian traditions and virtues. The story told is that France after a period of decadence has now seen the light and is taking a leaf out of Quebec's book. Under Marshal Petain's motto of "Fatherland, family, work" a new France is being created.

For officials charged with the examination of enemy propaganda and the direction of counter-efforts no distinction exists between the straight German propaganda from Paris and the Vichy propaganda. They say that under the armistice terms the Germans control radio and the mails in unoccupied as well as occupied France. Hence nothing goes out over the radio from France which has not German approval.

They also look askance at press dispatches from Vichy and suspect German inspiration or control.

Canada Spitfire Has Fine Record

Memorial To Canadian Pilot Made A Name For Itself In Action

WINNIPEG, Feb. 23. (C)—The story of a Spitfire that flew through the skies to avenge Canadian's death and won for itself a brilliant war record is that it was wrecked in a collision.

The ship's name was Alloway, named after Fitz-Lewis Alloway (Hammy) Alloway, Winnipeg, who was killed in an air crash in Britain five years ago. Funds were raised to provide the Spitfire to the British and as part of the Newfoundland squadron it took part in operational flights, providing escort for bombers raiding German held territory and destroying at least two—and possibly three enemy aircraft that brushed past with it.

On one occasion Alloway encountered three Messerschmitts, climbed above them—dropped the tail of the trailing enemy machine and blasted it out of the sky with a cannon burst. The Spitfire circled and charged a second enemy craft, riddling the fuselage with machine-gun fire. The enemy plane raced away and disappeared in the clouds.

Masonic Rites Were Accorded

Funeral of Late James Munnis Held Yesterday Afternoon With Many Friends Gathering To Pay Final Respects

A Masonic funeral was given the late James McNaughton Munnis, well known pioneer of the city, ex-serviceman and for years line-man of the municipal telephone system, yesterday afternoon. In addition to members of the Masonic craft, who paraded from the Temple, numerous friends gathered at the chapel of the B. C. Undertakers to pay final tribute of esteem and respect to the memory of deceased. Also present were members of the Oddfellows' Lodge and the Canadian Legion.

Rites of the Masonic order were performed by J. W. Pottinger, worshipful master of Tsimpsen Lodge, of which deceased was a member, other officers of the lodge assisting. A. C. Small presided at the organ to accompany the hymn which was "Abide With Me."

Interment was made in the Masonic section of Fairview Cemetery. "The Last Post" was sounded by Bugler William Rance as the casket was lowered to the final resting place.

Christianity In Initiative With a School Lunch

Persistent Goodwill, Backed By Faith and Courage, Exhorted By Presbyterian Pastor

The need of the world today for applied Christianity—Christian living—was dwelt upon by Rev. A. F. MacSween in his morning sermon at First Presbyterian Church yesterday. As it was in sport, in war, in business and other enterprises, it was necessary for the church to assume the initiative and not wait until the forces of evil assaulted the church, asserted the pastor. There would be resistance and rebuff but, imbued with faith and courage, persistent goodwill could not but bring results not only in evangelism but in personal relations, community national and international affairs. Possibly if the church had assumed the initiative twenty years ago, there might have been a different situation today. However, nothing could be done about the past. Something could, however, be done about the future.

A.R.P. AT SMITHERS

One Hundred Enrolled For Civilian Protection Duty

SMITHERS, Feb. 23.—The Smithers Civil Protection Committee has about 100 members enrolled in the various departments, wardens, deputy wardens, fire fighters and first aid attendants.

At a public meeting in the big hall in Smithers on Friday evening the chairman of the committee, L. H. Kenney, presided and those taking part were J. W. Turner, chief warden, Constable W. Todd, H. B. Campbell, F. M. Dockrill and A. N. Dando. The hall was well filled, nearly 200 citizens of the town being out to hear the report of progress made by the committee and to see the demonstrations that were to be given.

The chairman called attention to the fact that the classes being rendered by A. B. Washburn in training the first aid attendants. During the winter these classes had been carried on regularly by Mr. Washburn and in the examinations held under Dr. Greene last week nineteen applicants took the examination, these being five ladies and fourteen men and high school boys. Every one of the applicants passed with good marks which speaks loudly for the capabilities of Mr. Washburn in that respect.

The chairman also displayed a map of the townsite which was marked off into five districts, showing the location of first aid posts and wardens' posts in each area. Some of these maps will be displayed around town so that the citizens may become acquainted with them and know just where to go in case of emergency.

The auxiliary fire service has been in practice and will continue its practices with hose etc. when the weather gets milder. Falls of sand have been distributed to every household and business place in town to be used to combat incendiary bombs.

Constable Todd gave a demonstration of how these incendiary bombs should be handled and lectured the audience on the proper method of approach etc.

Frank Dockrill, vice-chairman of the Victory Loan campaign for the division, spoke on behalf of the loan and H. B. Campbell, government agent, and A. Dando, manager of the Royal Bank, also spoke in support of this campaign.

J. W. Turner, chief warden, gave a good address and lecture to the audience on the war situation and the necessity of not taking things for granted and pointed out the possibility of this part of the country being in the war zone in future operations.

Following the speeches, the stage was cleared and a demonstration of first aid administered to a badly injured citizen. Also the treatment of a gas casualty was shown. The audience heard the explosion of "bombs" and saw the flashes. A warden clothed in proper gas protection clothing and wearing a gas mask brought in a patient and he was given the proper treatment by Mrs. Green and Mrs. Dando, two Red Cross nurses. This demonstration was under the charge of Mr. Washburn while Dr. Green gave a commentary all through the demonstration. The meeting was very successful and it showed the citizens of Smithers what progress has been made along these lines by the Civil Protection Committee.

Men's New Vests Maybe Unmatched

New York Wear Council Hints One Will Be Lucky to Get One.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—With a war on, the well-dressed American this spring won't wear a vest, at least not one that matches his coat and pants, according to the clothing industry leaders at the 1942 spring style clinic of the New York Retail Men's Wear Council. This vest business is really serious. There also has been much talk by the International Association of Designers of taking the cuffs off men's pants. That may come with the fall line. Spring styles, however, are fully equipped with cuffs.

SMITHERS

For the first time a Department of Transport plane landed at the new federal government airport at Lake Kathryn near Smithers at the first of last week. The plane carried a crew of four and conducted tests in connection with the radio beam station.

An Air Raid Protection meeting was held in the town hall at Smithers Friday night. It was followed by a Victory Loan rally. Dr. L. M. Greene, A. B. Washburn and Constable W. Todd gave lectures at the A. R. P. meeting and speakers at the Victory Loan rally were F. M. Dockrill, H. B. Campbell and A. N. Dando.

The Northern British Columbia Livestock Association, at its recent annual meeting in Telkwa, called upon the government for an increased bounty on predatory animals such as wolves and coyotes.

Given favorable weather conditions, it is expected that vegetable production in the Bulkley Valley will be doubled this year although the prospects for prices are not any too encouraging as yet.

Close to two hundred tons of timothy seed were marketed from the Bulkley Valley this year at a price almost fifty percent better than last year. The co-operative has made an initial payment to growers of thirty-five percent.

Mrs. Ernest Bradley and two children of Prince Rupert are visiting at Telkwa with Mrs. Bradley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Bussinger.

Pilot Officer Joe Dockrill, who recently won his wings, has been spending a few days visiting at Telkwa with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dockrill.

A Co-operative Farmers' Exchange is being established in the central interior. It will be comprised of farmers of the Smithers Telkwa and Quik districts.

Leading Aircraftman Walter Syrnok of the Royal Canadian Air Force is home at Smithers on leave. Returning East, he will proceed to Halifax.

Gordon Hetherington has returned to Prince Rupert after a visit with his parents in Smithers.

John A. Barman of Terrace has been spending a few days in Smithers on business.

J. W. Schroeder of Prince Rupert has his knee in a cast as a result of a fall on the slippery streets here.

CURLING IN HIGH PLACE

Scottish Winter Game Has Been Played in This Country 200 Years

BY SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—One hundred years ago Queen Victoria and her consort Prince Albert saw their first curling—on an oak floor at Scote Palace in Edinburgh, with the Earl of Mansfield pushing the stones.

Then as now, Scotsmen took their curling seriously. Lord Mansfield then was president of the Grand Caledonian Curling Club, formed four years before, and his fellow-members of the club had urged him to commend the game to the Queen and her Prince Consort during a visit to Scotland.

He presented a pair of curling granites to Prince Albert with considerable ceremony, and a short time later the oak-floor demonstration was given. The Prince Consort consented to become a patron of the club and the following year the Queen gave permission to use the prefix Royal in the club name. The "Grand" later was dropped, and the Royal Caledonian Curling Club today is the governing body for curling throughout the world.

Curling Army

Canada, with about 150,000 curlers, is the most important curling country in the world. About 800 curling clubs in Canada, United States, Scotland, England, Australia, New Zealand, China, France, Switzerland and Sweden, are affiliated with the Royal Caledonian. (At least, since there has been no announcement of Germanization of the game in France, it seems safe to assume that the French clubs still maintain allegiance to the parent club.)

Curling rules have been uniform since 1853, when an anonymous curler inserted an advertisement in the North British Advertiser calling for a meeting to be held in the Waterloo Hotel, Edinburgh to "make the mysteries of curling more uniform in future."

Scottish curlers have travelled to Canada several times and a few Canadian rinks have visited Scotland. Canadians now outcurl the Scots by a wide margin, mainly because Canadian curlers can depend upon several months of curling each winter while the Scots sometimes get only a few weeks.

Irons At First

Canadian curlers first used irons, molded from melted-down French cannon in the winter of 1759-60 by Wolfe's soldiers at Quebec. But the use of granites became standard in later years and although many Quebec curlers still use irons they agreed a few years ago to use granites in the Canadian curling championships, which will be held in Quebec this year beginning March 2.

SPORT CHAT

Dry Dock is now leading in the Intermediate Basketball League standing with Barons and High School tied for second place. In the latest game last week Barons defeated High School by a score of 46 to 28. Intermediate League playing nights have been changed from Tuesdays and Saturdays to Wednesdays and Saturdays.

The Smithers Curling Club held its fourteenth annual bonspiel last week-end. Besides ten Smithers rinks there was also a "Woodcock Special" in the competition this year. Many fine prizes were put up for competition. Last curling tournament in Smithers prior to the holding of the bonspiel was the Lucky Lager competition. With cool weather prevailing again, ice conditions have been ideal for curling at Smithers recently.

Tommy Burns, born Noah Brusso, at Hanover, Ontario, June 17, 1881, won a 20-round decision from Melvin Hart in San Francisco 36 years ago today, and held the title till Christmas Day, 1908, when Jack Johnson in Sydney, N. S. W., whipped Burns so badly that police jumped in and stopped the fight in the 14th round.

Syl Apps Scores Winning Goal In Dying Seconds—Canadiens Slay In Running

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—Syl Apps goal twenty seconds before the end of the game gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 4 to 3 victory over Brooklyn Americans in Saturday night's National Hockey League game and put the Maple Leafs into a tie with New York Rangers for first place. It was a rough and tumble game with twenty-four penalties called.

At Montreal, the Canadiens kept in the running for a playoff berth by winning 5 to 3 over Chicago Black Hawks. The Canadiens scored four goals in the first period.

Last night the Rangers went back into the lead by winning over Chicago while Toronto lost to Detroit.

Detroit's win over Toronto last night put the Red Wings into fifth place ahead of Brooklyn.

Tomorrow night Detroit will play Brooklyn, and New York Rangers will be at Boston.

Week-end results were as follows:

	Saturday	Sunday
Chicago, 3; Canadiens, 5.
Brooklyn, 3; Toronto, 4.
Toronto, 0; Detroit, 3.

Escaped From Continent to England They Tell of German Treatment in Occupied Country.

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 23: (P)—Two Canadian youths who as boys were taken by their parents to Belgium have reached England after a fiction-like escape from German-occupied territory through which they wandered six months. Sons of the Canadian fathers who married Belgian women after the First Great War, the pair related a tale of daring adventure which carried them through six imprisonments—one in a concentration camp. Once they feared they would be shot. Often they were hungry. Sometimes lost, often cold. More than once they bluffed their way past sullen German guards and sentries. The trail of freedom led through rivers and over mountains. When finally they landed in England they were clothed mostly in what had been given to them.

"But it was worth everything we had to endure," said 21-year-old Peter, a thick-set blond youngster who once delivered meat for his father in several southern Alberta towns and in Lethbridge. "Now we are going to be allowed to join the Canadian army."

"Yes," interrupted Irwin, his 21-year-old freckled-faced companion, "and perhaps we will get a chance to even the score with those brutes."

Parents Disappeared

Bitterness and revenge burned within the slight frame of young Irwin. And it was easy to understand why when he told his parents disappeared beneath the rubble that was once their home. Both lads asked that their full names be not disclosed for fear reprisals would be taken against Peter's family, still in Belgium. His Russian father, a naturalized Canadian, who fought with the Canadian army in the First Great War, took his family to Belgium eight years ago "on a visit."

It was the same with Irwin's parents. His father, an ironworker who was born in Harrison, Ont., took his Belgian bride to live in Sturgeon Falls, then to Buffalo. Finally the, too, went "to visit" the mother's homeland where war found the two families living as prosperous neighbors in a town near Brussels. They tried to flee with other refugees, but were turned back by the Germans for whom they were forced to work. "If you don't work you starve," Peter said simply, shrugging his shoulders.

Both anxious to be spokesman, the lads collaborated in telling now the German troops, "always polite as part of their propaganda to gain support of the people," had "bought everything there was to buy." Clothing, shoes, food, wines and all other supplies disappeared in six months. After that "everything just flopped."

People Starving

The result is, the youths agreed, that "people are slowly starving." All foods are scarce, "especially the things on which the working people live—bread and potatoes." Well, it really isn't "bread" at all, Peter explained. "More like putty," interjected Irwin.

Even that sort of bread can't be obtained if you don't work for the Germans, turning out shells or other war needs. Here young Irwin told of his own little sabotage campaign. As he worked in a shell factory he "condemned the good shells and certified the useless ones as perfect."

That was only his private campaign. Outside the factory he joined Irwin and other youths in cutting telegraph wires, slashing tires on German cars, distributing "underground" anti-German newspapers, helping form secret societies whose members swore to continue sabotage.

Workers Scarce

Because of the difficulty of organizing Belgian labor the Germans have been campaigning for

MILITARY CONCERT

A second military concert in connection with the Victory Loan campaign was held Sunday evening in the Capitol Theatre with talent from the Royal Canadian Air Force contributing largely to the program which was acceptable to a large audience which practically filled the house. Capt. Marsden of the Royal Canadian Engineers made a brief but appropriate speech. C. F. Leslie, area supervisor of the Young Men's Christian Association again had charge of the program and acted as master of ceremonies.

The program included vocal solos by Corp. Jack Quinn, Royal Canadian Air Force; saxophone solos, Corp. Kirby, R.C.A.F.; vocal solos by Leading Telegrapher Lewis Bond-Bernard, Royal Canadian Navy; piano duets by Leading Aircraftmen Bowell and Hilton, R.C.A.F.; monologues and tap dancing by Chief Petty Officer Bob Hope, R.C.N.; bagpipe solos by Sergeant Pilot Boyd, R.C.A.F.; vocal solos by Private Robert Armour, United States Army, and vocal solos by Aircraftman I. Le Claire. An especial feature of the program was the excellent rendition by Ronald Bridgett of "Sons of Empire," the song written by Mrs. William Brass of this city, with lyric by Miss Frances Moore, also of Prince Rupert. To give atmosphere a member of each of the services—navy, army and air force—stood on the stage. Mr. Bridgett responded to an encore by giving "There is No Death." There were selections by the R.C.A.F. orchestra and accompanists were Mrs. J. S. Black and Miss Frances Moore.

Capt. Marsden, in his brief speech, giving Prince Rupert credit for the fine showing it had already made in Victory Loan subscriptions, urged further support. He told of countries he had seen which had been the victims of aggressors. He hoped to God that there would never be similar experiences here. No effort of civilians to prevent such an eventual-ity could be too great. It required the best efforts of all in every way possible to see that the instruments of war were made available for the fighting forces. If the rest of Canada did as well as Prince Rupert was doing, the fighting forces would have little to fear.

Several short moving picture scenes appropriate to the war with particular reference to the Victory Loan campaign were projected.

There was a drawing for a Victory Bond in connection with the lounge seat sale. The winner was Renato Carrari who is using the bond as a basis to buy more.

EIRE'S PLANS FOR PULP

DUBLIN, Feb. 23: (P)—Because shipping restrictions have curtailed importations of paper a mill near here plans to experiment in the manufacture of pulp from Eire timber. An official said there was a possibility of procuring a plant from Canada.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Just twenty-four hours behind schedule on account of having had heavy freights for waypoints, Union steamer Venture, Capt. Lorne Godfrey, arrived in port at 7 o'clock Saturday night from the south, sailing at 10:45 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Union steamer Catala arrived in port at 4 o'clock this morning from the south and sailed at 8 a.m. for Stewart and other northern points whence she is due back here tomorrow morning southbound.

On a regular voyage from Vancouver via the Queen Charlotte Islands, Union steamer Camosun, Capt. James Watt, arrived in port at 2:20 this morning and will sail at midnight tomorrow night on her return south over the route.
