ENEMY IS HARD HIT

Royal Air Force Bombers In Effective Action Over Germany and Italy

LONDON, April 13: (Canadian Press) — Far-ranging bombers pounded strongly at Axis arsenals in Germany and Italy last night and early today in a bombing offensive designed to smash equipment of many German divisions before it is able to leave the factories.

The Royal Arsenal at Turin, where munitions are produced, is reported to have been one of the main targets of the raid against Italy and is stated to have been carried out without the loss of a single bomber.

The Krupp works at Essen was another objective.

There were also raids during the night on occupied French ports including Le Havre.

Yesterday afternoon there was a fierce air battle between British and German planes, fourteen British and four German machines being shot down.

Two Nazi planes made a weak raid on the south coast of England last night but damage was light and casualties few.

CHUNGKING, April 13—Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-Shek returned today from a visit to the Burma front as a result of which hopes are now high that drastic steps will be taken to halt the Japanese advance northward with United Nations military playing an important part.

In addition to an inspection tour, Chiang attended a conference with United Nations military leaders where important decisions are said to have been made.

COUNTING OF VOTES

Plebiscite Enumerators Start On Rounds—Voting To Be Held in Toc H Hall

Enumerators are starting out in Prince Rupert this week to list voters for the forthcoming federal manpower plebiscite. The job, involving dwelling to dwelling calls, is expected to take about a week to complete. The enumerators will leave slips which the voters are to keep and take to the polls with them. This will simplify the direction of the voters to the polling booths on voting day. The voting, as in the general federal election, will be according to districts, this city having been divided into twenty along geographical lines.

Deputy returning officers are now being lined up by the returning officer, T. W. Brown, the endeavour being to obtain as many as possible with previous experience.

The polling place for the plebiscite in Prince Rupert will be the Toc H Hall on Second Avenue. Hours of voting will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

There will be advance polls in Prince Rupert and Smithers, the advance poll here to be in the office of the returning officer.

The Situation in India . . .

The situation in India, following the negotiations of Sir Stafford Cripps at Delhi with Indian leaders, is full of implications. How the failure of the Indian people to agree with the British government on principles of autonomy and defence for the period of the war will react on the democratic cause in the war remains to be seen. The situation is indeed unpredictable except for the general anticipation of further trouble in the rich country of the crossroads between Asia and Europe where Japan and Germany evidently plan on joining hands. India may be a headache for the Allies today. It may be just as bad a one for the Axis tomorrow. There are many possibilities and there may be many surprises.

The Retailer's Wife . . .

It has been said that every great business is but the shadow of a man. The biggest industrial and trading company in the world—that of Lever Brothers and an associated Dutch company—is the projection, all over the globe, of William Hesketh Lever's shadow.

Lever didn't have much schooling. In his mid-teens he joined his father, a grocer in a small way, in Bolton, England. His main job was cutting up bars of soap. Then Lever went "on the road" for his father. While still a young man he set up for himself as a wholesale grocer, majoring in soap. His business prospered. He became a soap manufacturer. Then Lever began buying out rival soap factories. He became a very large advertiser of soap. In the course of the development of his ever-widening activities, he acquired ranches in South America and coconut plantations in Africa—to supply him with fats and oils. He bought a whaling fleet, to get whale oil cheap. He bought and built railways and ships to carry his raw materials. He built box and other factories. He made many other products besides soap. Then came a day when Lever's business made up the world's greatest industrial concern.

What retailers tomorrow have the largest and most stable business? Who cast the largest shadows? They are those who, like William Lever, have married their individual businesses to the people of the community and beyond, with undying affection and loyalty. Truly, the public is the retailer's wife—his partner, his helpmate; and the bond of enduring union is communications—advertisements published in our newspaper.

The Battle for Health . . .

It is gratifying to see so many Prince Rupert people interested in the fight against cancer as was evidenced by the large attendance at the annual meeting Thursday night of the Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Association for the Control of Cancer. Wars, large and vital as they may loom when they are on, are passing phases. The battle for health, however, is a continuous one. Cancer and such maladies are insidious enemies with which we must always combat but which, happily, we are making progress in coping with. Those who work in this connection are also helping to win a war.

Gardening

A GOOD TONIC

Even in invasion threatened Britain the authorities, early in the war, came to the conclusion that it was dangerous and inefficient for a man to work long hours without a break. They advised him to get away, to turn to something that would make him forget the war for an hour or two. For this sort of relief both in Britain and in Canada, gardening has been universally recommended, and surrounded by grass, flowers, shrubbery or trim rows of thriving vegetables, a man or woman will soon have tired nerves restored. One can get out and weed, hoe or trim the grass when it would be impossible to sit down and read or knit. Many doctors declare there is something healing about digging in the clean, fresh earth and one doesn't burn up a lot of gasoline finding it.

A MAJOR FACTOR

Usually all the difference between a fine, thriving garden that one likes to show off to the neighbors and the kind a man slinks away from is one or two thorough cultivations. Before the garden is planted it should be spaded or plowed thoroughly. Then just as the seeds or plants go in it should be cultivated or raked fine. When the first plants are coming through old gardeners advise another thorough cultivation and a couple more at ten days' intervals later on. This may sound like a lot of work but it is surprising how easy it is if carried out early and regularly. The weeds never get a chance to grow and the soil to bake. On the other hand, even in dry weather most vegetables will come right along if the soil about them is kept fine and crumbly. This work will be easier if one has the proper tools.

THINNING WILL PAY

Another important job that looks harder than it really is is thinning. No vegetable can develop properly unless it has plenty of room. Small things like carrots need about three inches between beets about four, corn three sprouts to the hill. With fine seed much drudgery can be saved by sowing thinly in the first place. With flowers that are grown from seed, thinning is equally important. They must have room or they will grow spindly and break down probably in the first windstorm.

SPREAD SOWINGS

Modern gardeners spread their sowing over two or three weeks. The old habit of putting in the whole garden on one Saturday afternoon was not a good one. Many things were planted too soon. The entire garden going in at once resulted in a feast of fresh garden peas, corn, carrots, beans, then a famine. A properly planted garden, with sowing spread from early spring to early summer should provide a steady supply of the freshest garden vegetables from the first week in July until weeks after killing frost. This, of course, is a general statement.

SMITHERS DWELLINGS SOFTBALL STARTING

Many Residential Properties There Change Hands

SMITHERS, April 13 — Several house properties have changed hands in Smithers recently.

The Sangster house near the station was recently purchased by J. Morland and is being occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Olson.

The property owned by Gus Mogdan on Broadway was recently sold to Oakley Senkpiel of Hazelton and Mr. and Mrs. Senkpiel will shortly move from Hazelton to Smithers to make their home. It is reported that Mr. Senkpiel will shortly sever his connection with the Hanson Co., with whom he has been identified for the past 15 years, and will enter the employ of the Canadian National Railway this summer.

Mrs. Joseph H. Rife has also disposed of her dwelling on Broadway to S. P. Jones and has moved to Cloverdale where she will make her home.

Mrs. Axel Peterson of Prince Rupert arrived in Smithers with her family two weeks ago and has taken up residence on the Matthews house on Third Avenue, while Mrs. Lessard planted it should be spaded or raked thoroughly. Then just as the seeds or plants go in it should be cultivated or raked fine. When the first plants are coming through old gardeners advise another thorough cultivation and a couple more at ten days' intervals later on. This may sound like a lot of work but it is surprising how easy it is if carried out early and regularly. The weeds never get a chance to grow and the soil to bake.
