The departure was without special incident.

WARDENS' MEETING

A.R.P. Problems Discussed Last Night—Need for Helpers Is Still Serious.

At a meeting of district wardens last evening in the Canadian Legion rooms various reports were presented, and difficulties aired. A general complaint was the continued apathy of the people themselves. There is still a serious need for helpers, it being emphasized that the civilian protection committee cannot organize unless the people give their full and active support.

WARDENS' MEETING

The amount of work done by the district wardens and their helpers has been considerable. Reports told of visits to houses with hang-ups and maps, the accumulation of detailed information, its organization and plans for its use. Maps have been made on which is filled in the detail of the reports, all this in order that the citizens may be spared the worst results of an enemy attack.

SHIP SINKINGS DISCLOSED

NEW YORK—Two more ship sinkings off the United States Atlantic coast are disclosed. One was a medium sized Greek freighter, carrying armaments, the crew of thirty-five of which is safe at Norfolk, Virginia. The other was an unidentified British ship, forty-six survivors have been landed at Nassau, Bahamas. This makes 100 ships the Allies have so far lost in this vicinity since the recent U-boat campaign there commenced.

Year of Progress and Problems Reviewed in Annual Report of Board of Hospital Directors

"The year has been one of progress but also one of extreme pressure in all departments mainly due to the increasing population of our city during the past two years and we are confronted with the problem of extending our facilities to meet this growing need," said the annual report on behalf of the board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital.

HE GETS ABOUT

Vichy authorities go to elaborate pains to push his popularity. Last summer the sultan spent several weeks making a series of visits to various provincial capitals. These were staged with great pageantry.

HE GETS ABOUT

He belongs to the alaouite dynasty, is descended from ancestors many of whom have been pro-French by choice. The most famous of these was Moulay Ismael, "the great sultan," who reigned in the time of Louis XIV.

HE GETS ABOUT

A staboo subject is the one average "unbelievers" most often associate with the sultan—his harem. How many women there are in the sultan's harem is a secret. It is known, however, that he requires a big bus when he takes the harem motoring. The bus brought the harem to the Casablanca docks once to see the sultan sail for France. The windows were so heavily curtained you could not see much except an occasional flutter as a curtain was pulled back a crack to let a pair of dark eyes see more clearly.

HE GETS ABOUT

The sultan paid no attention, since according to his religion it is indecent to show any affection whatever for a woman in public. Good Moslem males have been known to blush when they were told that women in most countries not only went out in public with faces and legs showing—but even walked arm-in-arm with men.

Typical Axis Propaganda . . .

The Japanese propaganda announcement of yesterday that Japan intended to retaliate for the "extreme warfare based on retaliation and hatred" which United States and Great Britain are alleged to have waged is, no doubt, meant to frighten somebody. Maybe the illuminating announcement is a prelude to some sort of new move by the Nipponese in the Battle of the Pacific. It is a comment typical of the propaganda that the Axis powers are so accustomed to put out before launching on some new drive. Where the chips will now fall just remains to be seen and it will probably not be long.

Of course, when the Japanese talk about "extreme warfare based on retaliation and hatred," they forget all about Pearl Harbor. Possibly the Japs think that sort of thing and the duplicity and treachery attached to it was not "extreme warfare" but something that United States and Great Britain are supposed to sit back and take without any resistance or counter-action.

Child Nerves in War . . .

Should children be allowed to hear what the newspaper headlines say?

This is the question being asked more and more often these days as families make the daily newspaper and the radio in the living room a central gathering point.

It's probably all right if you don't overdo it.

It would be foolish to attempt to keep children from hearing any war news. Children naturally are aware of the changed tempo of the times, the new urgency. To make a mystery of the war would be not only unfair, but dangerous.

Radio news bulletins offer children a form of vicarious excitement, a feeling that they have a personal part in the drama of the war.

Parents would be well advised to include children in the normal conversation about the war but to find other active outlets for their energies. Children and adults alike may develop "war jitters" after a continuous all-day stream of war news. Outdoor activities and games will relieve the tension.

Children in Britain have learned in a surprisingly short time to take the war and its dangers in stride. A calm and intelligent attitude on the part of parents will remove most of the hazards of undue excitement or anxiety.

Children normally are adaptable, thrive on excitement. If their outside interests remain normal, they should be in little danger of "war nerves."

FORWARDS ARE BEST

Record Possible in Picking N.H.L. Team of Stellar Players for Current Season.

By DICK SHERIDAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 21: — It hasn't happened before in the 12-year history of the National Hockey League All-Star teams but it is just possible New York Rangers' high-scoring forward line of Lynn Patrick, Bryan Hextall and Phil Watson may be picked as a unit for this year's club.

Many times a club has placed two forwards on the all-stars. Charlie Boucher and Bill Cook of Rangers made it in 1933. Charlie Conacher and Harvey Jackson of Toronto were chosen in 1934 and 1935. Marty Barry and Larry Aurie of Detroit got the nod from the writers in 1937 and Syl Apps and Gordie Drillon caught places on the 1939 team. However, on each occasion the third man who filled out the line failed to make the grade.

Score Leaders. If scoring power alone was the basis of selection, sports writers participating in The Canadian Press current poll to determine the team's personnel, wouldn't have to look beyond the Rangers.

Hextall has held the scoring lead almost from the start of the season and at all times has been closely pursued by Patrick and Watson. Hextall, who plays right-wing, had 53 points at the latest tabulation. Patrick, on left wing, and Watson were tied with 51.

If the line doesn't get all-star rating, no doubt, it will be due to the fact the sportswriters preferred someone other than Watson for centre. His greatest threat is Apps. Don Gross, Detroit; Bill Taylor, Toronto, and Bill Thoms, Chicago, also are prominent candidates for the positions.

Dit Clapper, Boston's great ice leader, was a sure-fire bet for one of the defence positions until he ran into a serious injury last January. He may get the odd sentimental vote from the writers but it is doubtful if he will be chosen over more active players.

Rearguard Prospects. The rearguard is expected to be picked from the following: Art Coulter and Babe Pratt, Rangers; Tommy Anderson, Brooklyn; Flash Hollett, Boston; Bingo Kampman and Bucko McDonald, Toronto, and Earl Seibert, Chicago.

If Seibert is selected it will be a climatic point in his career. He was on the 1935 all-stars; while a member of the Rangers but since that time he has been more or less in the background.

The goal-tending position is considered strictly a two-man duel between Turk Broda of Toronto and Frankie Brimsek of Boston. Broda took it from Brimsek last year, winning the Vezina trophy at the same time. It is quite possible the Boston boy will reverse the procedure this year.

In addition to Broda, Clapper and Hextall, other members of the 1941 All-Star cast were Wally Stanowski and Sweeney Schriner, Toronto, and Billy Cowley, Boston. Stanowski and Cowley have been beset by injuries that ruined their chances to repeat. Schriner has had a very ordinary year.

WOMEN AND WAR WORK

Some Should and Some Shouldn't Says New York Writer in Discussing Ways and Means.

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 21: — Should married women with husbands, children and homes to care for, go outside to do war work? That question is agitating a lot of families.

The answer, of course, is: "Some should and some shouldn't. But most should."

Mrs. Married Woman's first and greatest responsibility for war work lies within the four walls of her home. Her uniform is a kitchen apron, her baton the pencil that checks up on calories, comforts and costs. It is vitally important to the nation's welfare that husband and children be well fed and the house be kept well ordered in an atmosphere of peace so that the family may be in the best possible trim to withstand the hazards of war.

Must Consider Children.

It also is important that the children be carefully informed about the war—told enough to answer their questions, kept free from jitters and hate. (They are going to be the voters of the future—we hope—help build the peace.)

But although the first line of defence is at home, there are others. Much help is needed for civilian defence. Have you heard of the "latch-key children," who roam the streets with the family door-key and address tied around their necks, so that strangers can open the home when they want to go in? (They are found chiefly in defence areas, where their mothers work in factories all day.) There are also "key mothers" who look their children in at home while they go outside to work. Those children should be "parked" in day nurseries, where help is much needed to replace trained social workers now busy on other jobs.

Plenty of Tasks.

Somebody has to do civilian wartime jobs. No community has enough available people to cover the field. Busy people have to help. Many business women are doing a war work stint. So why shouldn't married women wedge some war work into their schedules by doing the same kind of time—budgeting as a career woman does in her life?

A business woman thinks nothing of applying her makeup drinking her breakfast fruit juice and planning a day's work—all at the same time, without getting jitters. Why can't Mrs. Married Jones knit while she helps junior with his spelling? Or read aloud something she wants the children to know while they do the dishes?

Recruit the Family.

The children themselves might give mother the "break" she needs to do war work. Many of them are worried and excited about the war. They need a release from anxiety. Chances are that if they know that making beds or wiping dishes is their contribution to defence, they will get a big lift out of doing it.

But suppose they are too young to help at home and are simply a charge instead? Then it might be a case of neighborhood team-work to get war work done. Mrs. Jones can keep the neighborhood children on Monday afternoon; Mrs. Brown on Tuesday, while the rest of the mothers in the block roll bandages or take first aid or nutrition courses.

Except for the class where there are very young babies or illness exists in servantless homes, it looks as though Mrs. Married Woman could find and do some war-work stint.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL

Annual Meeting of General Hospital Association Assured That Action Is To Be Taken

City Commissioner D. J. Matheson has signified his readiness to take some action in regard to the isolation hospital situation in Prince Rupert but is seeking the advice and co-operation of the general hospital authorities in connection with the problem, it was indicated last night when the matter came up for discussion at the annual meeting of the Prince Rupert General Hospital Association.

D. G. Borland said that he was inclined not to let his name go up for re-election to the hospital board unless some definite and immediate settlement was reached as to what was to be done in connection with the isolation hospital. He felt that the city should assume the responsibility which rightfully belonged to it in this matter. As for standing for re-election to the board, Mr. Borland referred to the attitude of "Let George Do It" which was so general. He thought there should be more than a mere twenty-seven members of the Hospital Association and that more people should show interest in hospital affairs by attendance at the general meeting.

President Frank Dibb, who agreed that the time had arrived when something must be done, informed the meeting that the City Commissioner was agreeable to put the old isolation hospital building in shape and to spend $2500 in making additions and installing a heating plant. However, Mr. Matheson was desirous that the isolation hospital should be operated under the direction of the Prince Rupert General Hospital. There were some who felt that the old isolation hospital building would not be satisfactory and that it would be better to dispose of the structure for what could be obtained for it and put up a new isolation hospital.

There was further discussion but no action was taken, it being agreed that the hospital board should pursue the matter further with a view to obtaining definite action.

YEAR OF PROGRESS AND PROBLEMS REVIEWED IN ANNUAL REPORT HOSPITAL

may I quote that in 1940 the cost of Canada's Air Force, plus her contribution to the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, reached a total of 225 million dollars. This might justly be regarded as a colossal sum for a country so small as Canada. During the same year illness (largely preventable) cost the country 25 million dollars more than her expenditure on her air force. Canada may be proud of spending 225 millions in her efforts to suppress tyranny but will gain little comfort in the thought that sickness cost her 25 million dollars more. The cost of sickness is not in dollars alone—Manpower is needed and it is estimated that 50,000 workers are idle every working day through illness.

"Hospitals, to their credit, maintain a service built to standard, not cut to a price, and one is concerned to discover that frequently the most reluctant to recognize this fact are the government departments, particularly the Department of Indian Affairs whose arrangements are far from satisfactory to hospital administrators. We are expected to do more and more with what really constitutes less and less but we are carrying on despite many added difficulties.

"The year opened with 45 patients in residence and closed with 50. There were 195 births—an increase of 37 over 1940. Total admissions were 1629—an increase of 301 over 1940. Average admission for the first six months was 125 and average admission for the last six months was 146. Discharges were 1,555, deaths 61.

"In commenting upon the balance sheet, particularly the revenue and expenditure account, I wish to point out that these statements cannot detail the actual services rendered by the hospital to the community. Last year it was not possible to make an actual comparison with the previous year as at that time the new hospital had not been two full years in operation, but this year we can compare our figures with those of 1940 and the following comparisons will give you a fair idea of our past year's activities; patient days in 1941 were 19,696 and in 1940 were 19,196, showing an increase of 2 1/2%.

"Hospital fees charged in 1941 were $70,345, or an increase of 10 percent over the previous year.

"From the above total $24,872.00 was written off as bad debts, etc. The write-off was approximately the same as in 1940 and, while it appears abnormally large, the usual practice of accounting is employed whereby full rates are charged for everyone entering the hospital whether they be indigent cases or otherwise.

"Other revenue amounted to $28,387 made up of provincial and municipal grants, per capita grants, x-ray, laboratory and other sundry fees. An increase of 8 percent over the previous year.

Free Services

"Each year I believe it well to state that 'free services' is definitely an unavoidable expense and there can be no criticism at the board for this loss. On the contrary it is a subject for commendation for the very excellent work done among poor persons in need of hospital treatment, and as far as we are concerned the expense of 'free service' is met—at least in the aggregate, by the statutory grants from the provincial government and the City, in some cases.

"Doubtful revenues, principally bad debts, amounting to $12,822, is in connection with deceased patients and includes persons in receipt of mothers' pensions, old age pensions' transients, persons who have left town and patients residing in unorganized territory. The above amount is approximately 25 percent less than what had to be written off in 1940.

"Rebates $1,658.72, an amount slightly higher than last year, is represented by various items charged to the Workmen's Compensation Board, Indian Department and other governmental branches which they arbitrarily refuse to honor.

"Under expenditures the main items are:

"Salaries and Wages—$28,149 or approximately 2 percent up over 1940.

"Dietary—$13,810 or approximately 14 percent up over 1940.

"Fuel—$3,298 or approximately the same as last year.

Light and Power—$4,178 or approximately the same as last year.

Surgical and Medical—$3,146 or approximately 5 percent less than 1940.

"Laundry—$4,000 or approximately the same as last year.

"Demolishing old building—$1,500.

"The increase in income reflects the additional use that has been made of our facilities by the increased population in the city and partly due to the improved economic status of the citizens. With the exception of dietary our other posts have been constant which indicates that the usual good care has been taken by our staff in keeping operating costs at a minimum.

Women's Auxiliary

"The ladies of the Women's Auxiliary report that war activities have taken a great deal of the time of their workers and that many members have moved to other cities. In spite of these handicaps they have managed to add to the comforts of the patients by various gifts. The Annual Ball, Tea, Tag Day, and Rummage Sale were quite successful. They purchased six more mattresses, two Catch beds, six bedside tables, four overbed trays and also contributed to the Christmas Cheer. They feel that the year 1942 will prove a trying one for us all and hope the work of the hospital association will still go on and that they may be able to assist in the good work of assisting to minister to the sick.

"It is interesting to note that our hospital still merits the good wishes of many organizations in the community as well as individuals, and I wish to express the thanks of the board to the hospital staff for their loyalty and co-operation; the doctors, who render unselfish service through our hospital to the indigent sick; the Women's Auxiliary, the Ministerial Association, tradesmen and individuals who were most kind in furnishing comforts to patients at the Christmas season; to the Press and all those persons and societies who have in any way showed sympathy and help in our hospital work."

With the opening of the halibut fishing season now little more than three weeks off, vessels of the fleet are now getting preparations well under way for the seasonal activity. Prospects are that there will be fewer boats than usual in operation this season but the tendency of that will be to spread the production out over a longer period of time which will be no disadvantage for the vessels that are in operation. Market conditions appear to be favorable and good prices are anticipated. There is every reason to believe that it will be a good year for such vessels of the fleet as are in operation.

A meeting of the Civilian Protection Committee was held yesterday afternoon in the Canadian Legion rooms with J. J. Little, chief protection officer, in the chair. Commissioner T. W. S. Parsons, of the British Columbia Police was present as were H. T. Lock, Inspector Ernest Gammon, Arnold Flaten, J. S. Wilson, F. N. Good, N. A. Watt, S. Massey, A. MacDonald and A. M. Davies, secretary.

Mr. Little reported on having attended a meeting of the advisory council of the British Columbia Civilian Protection Committee in Vancouver under the chairmanship of R. Mainwaring and at which the provincial officials were present. At that meeting admiration was voiced of the very satisfactory record of the Prince Rupert committee. It was the equal of the best in the province and much ahead of most districts. Mr. Little felt that under the new set-up effective work could be done and that Prince Rupert would be accorded the full measure of attention that it warranted.

Commissioner Parsons also congratulated the local committee on its record. He referred to the various spheres of work that would properly be the responsibility of the armed forces, the civilian police forces, the recently authorized reserve army units, and the civilian protection organization. Reports from H. T. Lock, Inspector Gammon, Arnold Flaten, Angus MacDonald, J. S. Wilson, S. Massey, F. N. Good and Norman A. Watt showed that steady planning was being continued and that a good measure of progress was being made. The imperative need for more active support from governments was stressed and the need for a bigger response from the general citizens. Fire protection, water-holes, air raid shelters, the new siren for Section Two, hospital emergency accommodation, evacuation, special police assistance were all matters under consideration.

A "perfect crime" story, replete with exciting mystery and drama, is "Rage in Heaven," the picture billed for feature showing at the Capitol Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Robert Montgomery and Ingrid Bergman head the cast.
 Montgomery, having become obsessed with the idea that his wife, Miss Bergman, is in love with his best friend, is the criminal, hatching a plot that is so clever he almost succeeds in getting away with it. There is always one clue, however, to undo the villain's work. The one in this picture is almost as clever as the crime and furnishes a spine-tingling climax. The cunning plot keeps the audience guessing until the last fade-out, it is said. The principals in the cast are given opportunity for powerful characterizations.
 The cast includes George Sanders, Lucille Watson and Oscar Homolka.
