Roosevelt Confident—

United States Chief Executive Reviews Situation and Tells of Great Tasks to Be Carried Out to Bring Victory

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24:—"We, not they, will soon have the offensive. We, not they, will win the final battle. We, not they, will make the final peace." So declared President Franklin D. Roosevelt last night in a radio broadcast to the United States and the united nations on the progress of the war. Stressing the importance of maintaining uninterrupted production, the president exhorted his people to not stop production on any pretext for one single day until the war was won, not to seek special gains, privileges or advantages one over the other and to cheerfully give up conveniences and comforts if their country asked. Dealing largely with the Pacific situation, Mr. Roosevelt said it would be a large operation but, eventually, the united nations would overwhelm Japan by land, sea and air. Meantime, it had been necessary to yield ground, as had been expected and planned, but this, he promised, would all be regained. Already, in spite of the enormous distances, reinforcements in quantity were reaching the Pacific theatre to make themselves felt. The chief executive, optimistic throughout this discourse, although admitting difficulties, odds against and reverses, predicted an early turn in the tide.

Washington's birthday was an appropriate time to talk of how things were and how they would be. Mr. Roosevelt commented in opening. For eight years Washington had faced heavy odds and recurring reverses. He had had the problems of lack of equipment. He too had had his fifth columnists. But he had set a model of moral stamina which might well be emulated even in this day. Every continent, every island, every sea, every airline in the world were involved in this war. The broad oceans, which had once been looked upon as a protection, were now an endless battlefield. The job today was to fight at distances extending all the way around the world. "We must strike whenever and wherever we can." Although ground had been yielded and was still being yielded, a heavy toll of the enemy was being taken every day. The object of the Nazis and the Japs, Mr. Roosevelt declared, was to separate Great Britain, the United States, China and Russia, isolate them one from the other, cut off their supplies and reinforcements—in short, the old Nazi technique—divide and conquer.

Japan's Opening Advantage
 President Roosevelt described the tremendous advantage which Japan had at the outset in the Far East theatre of war with short stepping stones and many bases. Even before the war started, the Philippines were surrounded on three sides. Under the Washington Treaty of 1921 it had been agreed not to add to the fortifications of the Philippines. Encirclement by the Japanese had prevented sending reinforcements. The intended strategy in connection with the Philippines had been delaying action with a view to applying a policy of attrition to Japan herself. "Eventually we can overwhelm Japan by land, sea and air but it will be a large operation." Nothing had happened since the war began to cause a revision of the plan in regard to war with Japan. General McArthur's resistance, however, had far exceeded the estimate of endurance. In Malay, Burma, the East Indies also Japan was being forced to pay an enormous price.

The surprise attack on Pearl Harbor had not been responsible, as many said, for the situation on the Philippines, declared the President. That would have been the same no matter what had happened at Pearl Harbor. The consequences of Pearl Harbor were, indeed, greatly exaggerated. Axis propaganda in this regard, unfortunately, repeated by Americans themselves. Despicable had been the whispering campaign that the fleet had been destroyed, that more than 1000 planes had been destroyed, that the government had withheld the real extent of the casualties. Some Americans had served enemy propagandists. Axis broadcasts from Berlin, Rome and Tokyo had put out "damnable misstatements" of Americans themselves.

The government had confidence, went on the president, of the ability of the Americans to hear the worst without flinching or losing heart. The people must have confidence that the government would not withhold anything except such information as might be useful to the enemy. There must be discretion not only on the part of the government but on the part of its critics. The people wanted to know and would be told of the real progress of the war. He warned, however, against "rumor mongers" and "poison peddlers."

 Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that there had been 2340 killed and

Victory May Be Sudden

DESTROYERS ON ESCORT DUTY TAKE SEVERE POUNDING

For days on end during December, violent gales swept across the North Atlantic. For 48 hours the weather maintained a slashing, pounding blitzkrieg. Five Canadian destroyers returned to their ports, their men telling with pride stories of overcoming grave danger and damage. Seaboats were stove in and wrecked, big life rafts were torn loose by giant seas that poured inboard, stores were ruined, compartments below decks throughout the ship in which Sub-Lieut. Moore, cited for heroic conduct, served, were awash with four to six feet of water. Repair parties worked in gas masks in one section where calcium flares burned under water for 48 hours, releasing dangerous fumes. —Official R.C.N. Photo.

PRESSURE ON BURMA

Drive on That Country by Japanese Appears to Be Nearing Maximum Power.

LONDON, Feb. 24: (CP)—London military quarters said today that the Japanese drive into Burma appears to be nearing maximum power with the invaders throwing fresh troops against British positions along the Sittang River, twenty miles from the Rangoon-Lashio Railway. Empire troops have been forced to withdraw but fresh Chinese reinforcements are reported streaming into Burma to stem the Japanese onslaught.

A Mandalay dispatch today said that fighting raged for 100 miles along the lower Sittang River to which the British forces withdrew after abandoning the Biliu River line thirty miles to the east.

Civilian evacuation of Rangoon was carried out February 20 and depots containing supplies which could not be carried away were fired by the authorities.

Royal Air Force bombers attacking roads at the rear of Japanese positions say troops and transports are thick as ants and cannot be missed.

Meanwhile, Netherlands and Allied troops are reported to be still resisting fiercely in Sumatra and Bali.

Churchill Also Admits Possibility Of Longer War Due To Difficulty

Prime Minister Tells Commons That Japan Rules Air in South Pacific But Naval Command Is Waning—To Start Plans for Post-War Reconstruction

LONDON, Feb. 24: (CP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today that Japan rules the air and is exercising temporary and "waning command of the sea" in the area of her operations but he predicted final victory which he said might come unexpectedly. The Japanese are also employing numerically superior land forces of about twenty-six divisions, probably 390,000 combat troops and 100,000 additional supply and auxiliary forces—in the south Pacific area, he added, and their command of the air "makes it costly and difficult for our air reinforcements to establish themselves and secure dominance." Efforts to reinforce the area are further complicated by Britain's heavy shipping losses and Britain must reckon with "evident prolongation of the war" perhaps until 1943 or 1944.

The premier announced, however, that he shortly would submit a scheme for post-war reconstruction because "we cannot be sure that, as in the last war, victory may not come upon us unexpectedly."

TWO NAVAL SHIPS LOST

United States Destroyer and Stores Vessel Pounded to Pieces Off Netherland With Heavy Toll of Crew.

WASHINGTON Feb. 24: (CP)—A United States destroyer and a naval stores ship have been pounded to pieces off the rocky east coast of Newfoundland in a "roaring gale," the Navy Department announced today, with loss of at least 139 officers and men. Among the dead is Lieut. Commander Ralph Hickox, who commanded the destroyer—the Truxton, an old four-stacker of first Great War vintage.

The stores ship was the Polux whose commander is safe.

The heavy loss of life is attributed to the fact that the ships, constituting a portion of a convoy, were torn to wreckage under the battering of a storm soon after they ran aground.

WAR NEWS

PACIFIC SITUATION

MELBOURNE—There is little change today in the war situation in the southwestern Pacific. The Japanese are continuing to press against Java and Burma. The Australian Air Force staged another raid on Rabaul, capital of occupied New Britain, today and lost one plane while shooting down one and possibly two more of the enemy. One thousand miles to the south of Port Darwin in Australia trenches are being dug. Prime Minister John Curtin has promised a full inquiry into all the circumstances of the recent air raid on Port Darwin with particular reference to fifth column activities.

SUBS OFF CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO—Enemy submarines are again off the California coast. One attempted to shell an oil station north of Santa Barbara, the missiles landing in a field. There were blackouts last evening, radio stations also going off the air. Astoria, Oregon, had a forty-five minute blackout but it was of local initiative, not having been ordered by the authorities.

MUST EXPECT HARD BLOWS

LONDON—A spokesman for the British government said today that the Allies must expect hard and difficult blows yet but confidence was expressed in ultimate victory.

KAI-SHEK JOINING COUNCIL

LONDON—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek of China has accepted an invitation to join the Pacific war council, it is reported here.

TWO MINES VERY BUSY

Two Collieries Near Telkwa Turning Out Product at Increased Rate

Both the Bulkley Valley Collieries and the Aveling mine, coal producers near Telkwa, have been turning out coal at increased rates during the past year. While the former is the older mine and enjoys long established markets, the latter mine has received some big orders for its coal at coastal points such as Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Statement To Lull Allies?

LONDON, Feb. 24: (CP)—The Vichy radio was heard today broadcasting a statement attributed to the German radio that the Russians had launched the biggest offensive of the war and relief of Leningrad was expected at any moment. (No such German broadcast was heard in New York and the Vichy version may be propaganda designed to lull the Allied peoples.)

Bus Line Buys Dyer Garage

The property known as the Dyer Garage on First Avenue just beyond the Knox Hotel was sold by the city today to the Arrow Bus Line for $1250, this being the highest bid. The bus line has already been in occupation of the place for some time.

DETAILS OF PLEBISCITE

Voting Will Be Conducted Along Lines of General Election

OTTAWA, Feb. 24:—Parliament was given details yesterday of the forthcoming plebiscite to relieve the government of its anti-conscription pledge. The voting will take place in individual ridings as in a general election and the result will not be lumped together on popular vote as it was thought by some might have been done.

Hon. R. B. Hanson, Conservative leader, asked the government for a forthright statement as to what it intended to do in the matter of conscription if the plebiscite passed.

J. W. Nosworthy, C.C.F. for York South, who defeated Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in the recent election, demanded an all-out war effort.

Protection Is Taken Against Mercury Poison

The prevalence of mercury poisoning at the Inchi Lake cinnabar plant of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. in the Omineca district was the subject of questions asked at the recent session of the Legislature by E. E. Winch, C.C.C. member, and answered by Hon. George S. Pearson, minister of labor. Mr. Pearson said that necessary measures had been taken to prevent this type of injury. Extensive searches and tests had been conducted to determine whether there was free metallic mercury in the mine and none was found, an examination of the mine atmosphere also proving negative for mercury vapors.

RESIGNATION DEMANDED

Ian Mackenzie, minister of pensions and British Columbia's cabinet representative, be called upon for his resignation.

FURTHER CHANGES

LONDON—Further changes in the British war administration are expected to be made by shifts in undersecretaryships but the major cabinet shuffle is now believed to have been completed by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

The Line of Defence . . .

According to Bruce Hutchison it took President Roosevelt to waken the Ottawa government to the need of better protection for the Pacific coast. He says it will cause Ottawa to revise the whole war scheme and adopt a heavier Canadian defence plan. A mobile defence is to be kept in Canada to be prepared to meet the Japanese in case of invasion. Evidently the whole scheme is being considered at a secret session of the commons today.

It is plain to see that a strong mobile force, even though equipped, would not be of much use without roads on which to drive. It indicates that the government has been negligent in not putting through the highway before this and that it may not yet be too late if the work is rushed through. People here will resent the idea that the Rocky Mountains are to be the western Canadian line of defence. We should be better off as a part of Alaska if that is to be the policy.

The Chinese Soldier . . .

After a visit to China where he spent about seven months, a special correspondent of the London Times wrote just before this war began: "The curious thing is that the Chinese soldier has it is him to be a very good soldier. He inherits all the advantages of the Japanese soldier except his military traditions. Though you might not think it to look at him, he has great strength and endurance. He can live on next to nothing. He is often a man of courage and resource and he will be loyal to a good master. On regular pay and a full stomach his high spirits combine with his fatalism to keep his morale high even when things are going badly. Add to this that every Chinese is some sort of a craftsman by nature. There is no reason why, if he could be shown some good cause to take this particular craft seriously, he should not become as adept at drill and musketry as he is at more difficult and less indigenous trades."

The writer blames the leaders for most of the past failure. He says that most battles have been won or lost by secret negotiation under cover of a cloud of bombastic and defiant telegrams before a shot is fired. For a time in one of the foreign settlements the general will live on the bribe that bought his departure until crisis again coincides with opportunity. Even when the general is loyal to his own cause it will be strange indeed if all his divisional commanders are. If the big man cannot be bought or is too expensive some of the little men say "we'll be content with a safe return before the bottom drops out of the market."

It seems that Chiang Kai-shek has proved impervious to fighting a barter battle and that he has taken steps to insure that none of his subordinate do so. Also he has seen that his soldiers are well fed and well treated generally with the result we have seen of recent years.

PROTECTION OF RUPERT

Message Sent to Ottawa as Result of Victory Loan Success—Attention Being Given.

At the week-end after the Victory Loan quota here had been reached, Col. J. W. Nicholls, chairman of the local Victory Loan committee, wired to the prime minister and to certain members of the cabinet that the quota had been reached due to the spontaneous response by over one thousand Prince Rupert citizens. He pointed out that this emphasized the feelings of the people of Prince Rupert towards the war and that this was a call to supply them with certain urgent needs. Mr. MacKenzie King replied as follows:

"Your wire just received. I should like to congratulate citizens of Prince Rupert upon splendid response to Victory Loan and bringing representations your wire to attention of colleagues in government."

A wire has also been received from an important member of the cabinet to the effect that local representations are having the immediate attention of the authorities.

"The quick response of the people of Prince Rupert to the appeal for funds to prosecute the war and especially in this city should, and must, get tangible results immediately," said Col. Nicholls. "It is our intention to do all possible to follow the matter up."

"The Victory Loan campaign in Prince Rupert is by no means completed and, while the results secured so far are extremely satisfactory, we must get a minimum of eighteen hundred subscribers and exceed $600,000 if we are to do our duty. Canvassing will continue this week and next but it will relieve the strain on canvassers if applicants can purchase their bonds through the bank, dug-out or Victory Loan office. Come on Prince Rupert! Let us make it overwhelming and demand ample protection!"

CANADA TO GET WOOLS

Kick-pleated frocks and juvenile flared skirts in shipments on way here

Written for The Canadian Press By BARBARA BRITON

LONDON, Feb. 24:—Tailored, woollen dresses like those chosen by the Duchess of Kent are among models on their way to Canada.

They are from a selection of new models, each made with two and a half yards of cloth, the quantity to which designers limit themselves because of the war.

One model has four double kick-pleats back and front. Just over an inch in depth and stitched at the edge, their number and closeness give full play and the appearance of depth. The model has short sleeves, a Peter Pan collar and an original, deep-squared yoke set in the middle of the front from the shoulder seams, with two small pockets directly in the middle.

Another dress in peasant style, has extra-wide shoulders, apron skirt shirred into the waist belt and round pockets set in the fullness at the sides.

Another Selection

The Duchess selected a fine, black wool frock buttoning from shirt collar to hem. Fashioned with long, bell sleeves, a sash tie, two patch pockets on the skirt and one left-hand breast pocket. It was simple but well tailored and flattering.

The Duchess of Kent's daughter, Princess Alexandria, is following in her mother's footsteps as a director of fashion. Her little frocks are copied from photographs

954 wounded at Pearl Harbor. Of many great warships of various types, only three had been put out of commission permanently. Many great ships had not been there at the time of the attack. Others slightly damaged had already been repaired and rejoined their units. Others were under repair. Ships that had been repaired, as a matter of fact, would be more efficient than ever before. As for planes, the Japanese did not know how many the Americans had lost and he (the President) did not intend to tell them. "I can say, however," said Mr. Roosevelt "that we have destroyed more Japanese planes than they have destroyed of ours."

There had been shipping losses in Atlantic and Pacific and there would be more before the turn of the tide, admitted Mr. Roosevelt. "We have been compelled to yield ground," he went on "but we will regain it."

The united nations were pledged to destroy the military power of Japan and Germany. "Soon we, and not they, will have the offensive. We, not they, will win the final battle. We, not they, will make the final peace."

The future depended upon united action of the forces which were now lined up to resist the aggressors. To do this and "to save our own skins" the one thought must be fulfillment of the task of uninterrupted production. Germany, Italy and Japan were close to the limit of their production. The united nations, particularly the United States, were far from their limit. The special job of the United States was to build up production so that an overwhelming superiority should be achieved on land, sea and in the air.

On January 6, the President recalled, he had set goals of production which the Axis had called fantastic. "I can tell you definitely now that those goals will be attained. Labor, capital and farming were coming to the realization that now was no time for undue profits or advantages. We know that, if we lose this war it will be generations or centuries before our conception of democracy can rise again. We know that we can only lose the war by slowing up the war or sniping at each other.

Everything for Victory
"We shall not stop work a single day," declared Mr. Roosevelt, "until the war is won. We shall not demand special gains, privileges or advantages. We shall give up conveniences and comforts if the country asks and do it cheerfully."

Mr. Roosevelt asked the people of the United States to reject such "absurdities" of enemy propagandists as that Britain was faint, that China and Russia were about to quit. He challenged the Nazi and Japanese propagandists to repeat to McArthur's men, to the sailors on the waters of the South

Man in the Moon

Some day there is to be a conscription vote taken and some day there is to be a movement of aliens from danger zones. Some day there may be a Pearl Harbor on this coast. Some people suspect there may be a fifth column at Ottawa.

Asked how she felt after a ride, a young lady remarked she never thought anything filled with hay could be so hard.

A stag party is a place where any old buck can get a deer if he has the doe.

Axel got into the mine elevator, chucking out loud. "What's the joke Axel?" asked the mine foreman.

"Ay bane have a good yoke on Ole" he replied. "I just find out Ole bane pay my wife five dollars to kiss her and I bane do it all the time for nothing."

Fair lady—"Would you mind writing that down?"
Teck—"Why?"

Fair lady—"He's my husband, and I want to use it on him sometime."

Housewife—"Dinah, I hear your daughter is happily married."

Dinah—"Yes, ma'am. Ah'll say she is! Her man sho' skeered to death of her."

REAL OLD MINES

Mexico's silver and gold mines, still being worked, were old when Cortez arrived in the country in 1519.

Pacific, to the boys in the flying fortresses, yes, to the marines, that Americans were "weaklings or playboys"

The united nations, Mr. Roosevelt declared, were dedicated to a common cause. They must share a unified plan, playing their different parts, one dependent on the other, with unified command, co-operation and comradeship. They were agreed on certain broad principles such as those contained in the Atlantic charter. British and Russian people knew what actual conflict meant. The fate of Moscow and London had been in doubt but they had never admitted defeat. Chungking had been bombed nearly out of existence but it remained the capital of an unbeaten China. That was the spirit of the united nations. United States too would have trials to face that would test its people to the uttermost. Never before had there been so little time in which to do so much.

NEAGLE IN NEW ROLE

Famous English-Born Actress Featured in "Sunny," at Capitol Theatre This Mid-Week.

In a strikingly different role than any of the great ones she has already played, Anna Neagle is featured in "Sunny," showing this Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol Theatre here. The story recounts the romance of an alluring dancer with a badly-smitten young man of society. The picture is laid against the colorful setting of a New Orleans of today gay with Mardi Gras celebrations. A supporting cast of screen and stage notables includes John Carroll, as the hero, Ray Bolger, Edward Everett Horton, Grace Hartman, Paul Hartman, Helen Wesley and Frieda Inescourt.

Although Carroll's nobbish sister endeavours to break up the affair with Miss Neagle, a wedding is scheduled to take place at the family home but, just before the ceremony, a group of carnival folk, friends of the bride-to-be, arrive to pay their respects. They embarrass the guests and reduce Sunny to tears. Feeling that she can have no place among the would-be husband's people, Sunny runs away and rejoins the carnival but, spurred on by a hard-boiled old aunt, Carroll pursues and a reconciliation is effected.

"Who?", "D'ya Love Me?", "Sunny" and "Two Little Bluebirds," big tunes of the original show, are worked into the film and dance routines are featured by the Mahotcha.

Laredo Inlet, on the west coast of Princess Royal Island, is still providing an ample supply of herring for the canneries at Prince Rupert, Butedale and Namu which are putting forward an effort to meet the 1,600,000-case order for Britain which this coast is working on. There has been quite a run of herring in Port Simpson harbor during the past few days but the fish have been close to shore. One seiner got twenty tons there yesterday but had some trouble with its net amid rocks.
