Bernard Allen, manager of the Prince Rupert Dry Dock, when asked for a statement this morning as to the reported slowdown of construction in coast shipyards, had nothing to say other than the comment that "we are carrying on as is." ### Edouard Herriot . . .

Edouard Herriott, whose death is reported, was three times Premier of France and was one of the Rally Day service at 11 a.m. most widely travelled of French statesmen, with one of the widest international viewpoints. He knew Europe, including Russia, very well. Youthful tal- First Presbyterian Church ents gave him his start upwards. Developed abilities in politics and literature, coupled with a popular per- Mrs. E. J. Smith. Choir Leader. sonality, kept him at or near the top.

Herriot was elected to the chamber of deputies after relinquishing his senate seat, in November, 1919. He soon found himself the head of the historic radical and radical-socialist party which, despite its name, upheld only a sort of mild democratic liberalism, with anti-clerical leanings. He fought in opposition until the elections of May, 1924, returned his party and its socialist allies to power. There began his first premiership.

Financial problems, coupled with a stinging attack by ex-President Poincare, brought Herriot down to ship with the congregation is exdefeat on Good Friday of 1925. He was succeeded in the premiership by Paul Painleve, and himself took up the speakership of the chamber. In July of 1926, Herriot descended from the speaker's rostrum to combat the then Briand-Caillaux government on financial measures; caused its overthrow, and was told to form a cabinet himself. His combination, however, lasted only 48 hours, due to lack of confidence abroad—the franc was at 50 to the dollar. Then in came Poincare again with his "national union" government-wherein he made Herriot, whom he had always admired personally, minister of education. Herriot remained in that office until 1928.

The "all left" elections of May, 1932, brought Herriot back into power as premier and foreign minister for the third time. But it was a different Herriot-a far more nationalistic one than the Herriot of 1924 liberalism.

At the Lausanne conference in June, 1932. he agreed to the paring down of German reparations to a global sum of 3,000,000.000 gold marks. And at the same time he brought off the "gentleman's agreement" with England, providing for closer co-operation in foreign policy.

Because of his insistence that France should pay her war debt installment due the United States, and at the appointed time, Herriot was overthrown by the chamber on Dec. 14, 1932. President Lebrun offered him a chance to form another ministry, but Herriot declined. Finally Joseph Paul-Boncour. minister of war in the Heriot combine, was called to constitute a cabinet and accepted, taking 'Herriot's portfolio of foreign affairs.

This cabinet lasted only a couple of months and was succeeded by one under Edouard Deladier. Again Herriot was offered a place, but again declined so long as the chamber of deputies upheld the default on the American debt. But he remained in the forefront of affairs and was one of the most influential figures in France. Since the war he had been in eclipse.

TODAY, Alcohol, versatile member of the world's oldest and best known chemical family, is serving in countless ways at war. Alcohol, in many forms, has enlisted as a ground crew combatant to back up the heroism of United Nations flyers. As aircraft grow on our production lines, alcohol is there, in one or more of its many disguises, all along the way.

Alcohol is an essential ingredient in the manufacture of smokeless powder, in urgent demand as a propellent for any projectile from a .303 rifle cartridge to a 16-inch naval shell. Alcohol plays an important part in the manufacture of cordite and many other explosives needed to win the war.

One of the substances upon which the entire organic chemical industry is based is alcohol. Ether needs alcohol to complete its manufacture. No other substance could be used. Alcohol is the most used solvent in the preparation of medicines; anaesthetics, antiseptics, healing drugs and antitoxins all require tremendous quantities of alcohol. Alcohol has, in fact, so many uses at war, as well as in the arts and in the industries, that it may well be said to be indispensable.

Throughout the world, since 1857, the name of W. & A. GILBEY LIMITED—and their reputation - has, been known and acclaimed. The important discoveries of fermentation and rectification made in their several plants in many parts of the world have been handed down within the family. Through these long years new knowledge was gained. New scientific equipment was put into operation. New formulae were discovered, developed and perfected. TEN YEARS AGO, the Canadian plant of this famous English Firm commenced operations, and the knowledge and learning acquired by the owners was put into the planning and foundation of this new factory. Here as in the U.S., Australia and the Old Country, W. & A. GILBEY's plant is at the disposal of the Government and is able to add its not inconsiderable share to the Country's requirements of high-proof alcohol.

W. & A. GILBEY LIMITED is proud of its war assignment. On this, the tenth anniversary of our plant in the Dominion of Canada, it is our sincere hope that Peace will be restored quickly and return to earth the Friendship and Goodwill with which the name of GILBEY has so long been associated. Until that day comes it is our resolve to produce the greatest possible flow of alcohol for the war effort. It is our way and the Industry's way of speeding the day of Victory.
