WEST OF KHARKOV

This is Where Most Spectacular Land Fighting Has Been Raging in Russo-German War

NAZIS HEMMED IN LONDON, Feb. 26 (CP)—Closing a trap about remnants of the German Caucasus army huddled in Novorossisk and wedged against Kerch Strait, the Red Army smashed into the railway town of Angelinskaya, about sixty miles northeast of Novorossisk, and then took a town a few miles to the south, the Soviet radio said today.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26 (CP) — Most spectacular fighting on land in the Russo-German war has been in the area west of Kharkov where the Russians announce the taking of two large towns within twenty-four hours.

West of Taganrog, Orel and Kursk as well as in the Donets Basin the Russians have overrun several German positions.

It has been announced that the Maikop oil wells are in production again for the first time in seven months.

Northwest of Moscow a new German drive has started to cut the road between Moscow and Smolensk and leading toward Poland.

IN FITTING EMPLOYMENT

Rehabilitation Committee of C.N.R. Is Doing Good Work

MONTREAL, Feb. 26 — Re-establishment in gainful employment of men who have become industrial casualties is the function of the rehabilitation committee, Canadian National Railways. The committee recently met here with E. P. Maloney, chairman, presiding, and data abstracted from the minutes was made public today.

The committee has been in existence since October 1931, succeeding the committee on physical requirements which had been in existence for some years. The previous committee had been set up to determine the type of work which an injured employee should undertake. Later this was extended to include all employees who became physically unfit because of injuries or physical disablement. The committee also undertook the duty of rehabilitating these men at employment suitable to their reduced capacities within the service when possible.

During the twelve years which have elapsed since the organization of the rehabilitation committee, 1142 individual cases have been reviewed. Of the total number of individuals, 399 returned to their former work to continue under proper safeguards and 475 individuals were re-established in work suitable to their reduced physical capabilities. Thus, 874 individuals or 76 percent of cases presented for consideration, have been placed in gainful employment.

The rehabilitation committee of the Canadian National Railways is composed of representatives of management and labor. The members of the committee are continuously on the lookout for positions which can be filled by employees who, through misfortune by accident or ill health, find themselves unable to carry on at their regular work. In this plan for rehabilitation the committee is receiving complete co-operation from the employing officers in all departments of the national railways and from the representatives of the railway labor organizations.

"Individual effort, although admirable, is of little avail in such an emergency. "A trained, well-armed force is vitally necessary if we are to have any defence worthy of the name."

"Such a force is being organized—the First Reserve Battalion, Prince Rupert Regiment. If you are in reasonable health and can possibly spare two evenings per week you should join this unit now. The training is interesting and offers the best opportunity of meeting our obligation to the community. "I'll be with you when my term expires."

Regiment Padre Questions Feasibility of Schemes to Meet Post-war Problems

Post-war problems and some of the projected plans, such as the Beveridge Plan, which have been advanced to meet the reconstruction period were discussed by Capt. W. R. Hullin, padre of a Manitoba regiment, in speaking before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at luncheon yesterday. The padre questioned the feasibility of the most of these plans because they took away individual initiative which he considered necessary to the development of any person or nation. He mentioned several community schemes which had been essayed in Canada and United States without successful results.

George C. Mitchell, president of the club, was in the chair and there were a number of guests as well as a good attendance of members. The winner of the Queen's Fund raffle of a war savings certificate was Thomas Trotter.

EDITORIAL

DAILY EDITION Friday, February 26, 1943

Trend of Times . . .

The attitude of indifference and irresponsibility to be found among so many people, and particularly the youth, today is at once deplorable and alarming. Of course, these attitudes are a reaction to the times in which it is so easy to get by. They are easy attitudes for almost anyone to fall into and are traceable to the situation in which manpower is so scarce or so badly handled that any old thing goes on a job. The employee can do almost anything he likes and for the employer it is just about a case of—so what?

Of course, it is all only a passing phase. No matter what the outcome of it all may be and what kind of economic system will eventually be set up, the day will most certainly return when the quality of service that is given will be the measuring stick of a person's own progress and reward.

Meanwhile, many people, particularly the youth through lack of diligence and application, contented with merely getting by as easily and with as little effort as they can, are developing along a line that will react to their detriment in the future when quality of service and ability to function efficiently will again be prime factors in determination of individual welfare and self-respect.

Respirators for Babies . . .

Yesterday afternoon two rather worried young mothers left their prams outside and visited the editor's office to inform us of something that we were not aware of, and had not thought of—that there are no gas masks in British Columbia for children under the age of five. While we may not have agreed with the attitude the young mother's struck, we were, of course, constrained to sympathize with their stand: Why buy gas masks for ourselves when our babies are unprotected?

In Britain, we have since learned, they have devised a more expensive and more elaborate type of respirator especially to meet the requirements of the infants. Evidently, they have been thinking about doing something along the same line in British Columbia, but have not got very far with it.

Thinking of these young mothers and, appreciating how they feel about it, we are here to say: Gas masks for babies, by all means, and bring them on as soon as possible!

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.
 By DOROTHY GARBUTT
 The Hostess

It was gratifying to see such a large number of members present yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Service Wives' Club. Not only members but also present were nine adherents in the form of service children—five boys and four girls. Very young Master Walter Bryan Cooper, not quite four weeks old, attended his first meeting and brought good luck to his mother who won the raffle. As Mrs. Dennisoun was resigning from the president's office it was decided to have the meetings of a more informal nature and dispense with a president, retaining only a secretary-treasurer. In place of regular minutes a scrap book would be kept in which all newspaper notices of the club's activities would be pasted. Red Cross work and hospital mending would still be done when required. A letter was read from Mrs. Hodge, a member of the club who lost her husband in a recent airplane crash and is now in the East. I know Mrs. Hodge will not mind my quoting one paragraph from her letter as it is so poignantly truthful. Mrs. Hodge says:

"We all know that service wives are sometimes criticized by selfish people for following their husbands from one posting to another but, believe me, the only slight consolation I have now is that we were together until the last and made the most of the years together."

LETTERBOX

WHAT DO YOU THINK?
 Editor, Daily News:

The following appears in the Vancouver Sun:
 "Radio listeners of the Lower Mainland are not as C.F.P.R. conscious as they might be, so any facts presented here regarding 'The Voice of Northern British Columbia, in Prince Rupert' possibly will be news."

"The duties of an announcer at this little northern station differ somewhat from those accepted in the city, demanding a 'jack-of-all-trades' nature and a rather hardy constitution to weather such chores as sweeping, carrying scuttles of coal and ashes to and fro—and facing unusual situations."

"Syd Anderson had a 'typical' experience on his first day at C.F.P.R. Repairing equipment in the presence of a friend, Anderson had his head buried deep behind an instrument panel. He had just vouchsafed an appropriate reply to his friend's query, 'Watcha fixing?' when a grunted 'How?' interrogated him further."

"Anderson relled, 'Oh, by shielding the grid.'
 'How!
 'By grounding the shield—it cuts the hum.
 'How!
 'Oh, by—what the!' The technician yanked his head from the maze of wires to find himself being regarded fixedly by a row of five Indians!

SPORT CHAT

Billy Buxton of Victoria, Canadian Army lightweight boxing champion, steered himself along the road for another go at the British Army title in helping the Princess Patricia's Light Infantry to the team championship of a Canadian division in Britain. Pte. Billy regarded the bout as a preliminary warm-up for the Canadian Army individual championship at London's Queensberry Club the end of this month. Billy won his bout with convincing ease and the knowledge that from the individual titlists will be picked a team to enter the British Army championships in March. He fought in the British tourney last March but failed to reach the finals.

In ringing the division title, Buxton's unit defeated the Royal Canadian Regiment 25-20 in points. And although Billy and Pte. Ted Edwards of Chatham, N.B. staged a good scrap, the best bout was between R. E. Westfield of Victoria, another Princess Pats private, and Pte. A. W. Cornelius of Galt, Ontario, who slugged each other all over the ring in a three-round welterweight go before Westfield got the nod. Royal Canadian Regiment ringmen were most successful in the heavier divisions with Pte. D. C. Hunt of London, Ontario, taking the light-heavyweight title, and Pte. E. J. Earnshaw of Toronto bashing his way to the heavy-weight crown. Other Princess Pats winners were Ptes. J. R. Scholey and D. S. Morrison, both of Winnipeg, and Cpl. D. P. O'Keefe of Fort William, Ontario.

The team ring crown of another division went to the 17th Duke of York Royal Canadian Hussars by the margin of one point over the North Nova Scotia Highlanders. Among the Hussar winners were Pte. D. Webb of Montreal, Canadian bantamweight champion in 1941 now fighting as a feather Tpr. L. Slabonian and R. Walker, both of Montreal, and W. MacFarlane of Truro, N.S. Ptes D. Avery of Berrick, N. S.; H. B. Borden, Truro; H. J. Cuff, Sydney, N. S., and Cpl. T. A. Barrow of Springhill, N. S., contributed to the Highlanders' victories.

The Irish Regiment of Canada qualified for the finals of a Canadian division cross-country tourney in winning the championship of its brigade. Perth Regiment runners finished second in the points total with Cape Berton Highlanders third. The winning time of 26:35 over a rough course was made by Pte. J. E. Cleve of Toronto, with another Irish Regiment member, Pte. R. Currey of Orangeville, Ont., second. Other members of the winning team included Ptes. D. Dost of Springhill, N.S.; F. E. Vines of Kincairdine, Ont.; J. W. McAllister of Owen Sound, Ont., and R. J. Brown of Stratford, Ontario.

WHAT IS JR. MISS?

Mothers Join Daughters in Dress Shops in Search of Youthful Styles

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 © — What is a junior miss? Strictly speaking, she's a teenage youngster too old for the pinafore frocks of the pigtail set and too young for sophisticated styles. So, in most stores throughout the land, she has inherited her own department, with fashions designed especially to fit her figure and her highly definite specifications.

More and more, however, stylists have noted that mothers as well as daughters have been haunting the junior miss departments, finding dresses there that seemed to require less alterations than the standard adult sizes.

Recent government revelations regarding the measurements of the "mean woman" show that the average American woman is inclined to be short and — well — plump. In that case, junior miss sizes are right up her alley, since they are cut slightly wider and shorter than regular misses' sizes, and now come in simple, sophisticated adult styles as well as the campus fashions demanded by teenagers.

Mrs. Dorothy Anderson, executive director of the New York Dress Institute, reveals that today the dress industry regards a "junior" dress as a size rather than an age, and suggests that women who find their alterations bills high try their luck with junior sizes.

This does not mean that teenage girls are to be neglected. They still have their own special, youthful date dresses and school clothes. But the junior miss department has been enlarged to include also styles suitable to mothers and even grandmothers who happen to have "junior" size figures.

One important characteristic of junior dresses is that they are shorter in measurement from neck to waist than regular misses or women's sizes. Women who always have to have the waistline of a ready-made dress raised may find a perfect fit in the junior department.

INTERESTS OF MRS. BRACKEN

Wife of Progressive Conservative Leader Had Active Life in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Feb. 26 © — Mrs. Alice Bracken, wife of the Progressive Conservative Party leader, likes to recall the days some 25 years ago when she was kept busy sewing clothes for her four sons—the days when her husband was a young professor at Saskatoon.

Mrs. Bracken, who will return to her home province to make her home in Ottawa said that after she married John Bracken in Guelph in 1909 her mother was skeptical about the young couple moving to western Canada.

"When I went west my mother thought I was going to the end of the earth," she said. "My grandmother warned me to take good care of my stock of linen."

Since those days Mrs. Bracken, formerly Alice Ruce, has lived in Regina, Saskatoon and Winnipeg. From the task of being a busy housewife, sewing and cooking, she has taken an active part in women's affairs, social and club work since her husband became premier of Manitoba in 1922. Her comment after Mr. Bracken's election here in December as leader of the Progressive Conservative party, was: "I had implicit trust in Jack."

Mrs. Bracken is vice-chairman of the Bundles for Britain organization here and is a member of the board of the Victorian Order of Nurses and the advisory council of the Winnipeg Central Volunteer Bureau. She is honorary president of the women's auxiliary to the R.C.N.V.R., a member of the Agriculture and Home Economics Faculty Club, the 100 Club, Winnipeg Women's Curling Association, the 20 Club, Pi Beta Phi sorority and the Big Sister Association.

THE EXPERTS SAY . . .

OTTAWA, Feb. 26 (C)—Hints for housewives blazing a trail on the front:

GLOVES—Everyone is glove-conscious these cold days and the consumer section of the Prices Board asks you to take care of them as new styles are prohibited and the number of gloves manufactured has been reduced. They suggest you take extra care in putting them on. Turn your ring settings toward the palm, insert the fingers, working the glove on gently and never pressing down between the fingers. Keep the seams straight and smooth the back over the hand and wrist and adjust carefully before fastening.

DESSERT—For those special occasions when your daughter or son in the armed forces come home on leave or when it's junior's birthday here is a caramel pudding from Laura Pepper, chief of the consumer section, Department of Agriculture, that will fill the bill without using too much of your brown sugar ration:

Melt ½ cup brown sugar in a heavy saucepan, stirring constantly until it turns a rich caramel shade. Carefully add ¼ cup boiling water. Simmer and stir three minutes. Scald 1½ cups milk in top of double boiler. Mix four tablespoons cornstarch, ½ teaspoon salt and ½ cold milk. Add to hot milk and stir until thickened. Add caramel, cook 30 minutes. Add one egg well-beaten and cook three minutes longer, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add ½ teaspoon vanilla. Chill well before serving.

CANNING—Summer and preserving are still a good piece over the horizon but Miss Pepper says it's time to think about it. When you get your new ration book remember you have to fill out the application form in it to obtain sugar for canning, she cautions, and she asks you to plan to make less jam and jelly this year as preserving fruit is the most economical way to use sugar.

MEALS—This note is dedicated to those who eat most of their meals in restaurants, but applies to anybody when they eat a meal out. Marion Harlow of nutrition services suggests you order raw foods frequently. Why? She says vegetables often stand for some time before being served in restaurants and so lose some of their vitamins. So the next meal you order try to include tomato or orange juice, fresh grapefruit, fruit or raw vegetable salads.

JEWELRY—Think twice before you give away or donate to a salvage organization, that massive piece of costume jewelry or smart "fake" pin that you have been wearing on your simple black dress, for Herman H. Levy, administrator of jewelry, has dwelt a crippling blow to its manufacture by cutting designs down 25 per cent. Remember most of this jewelry has been made almost entirely individually and requires a disproportionate amount of skilled labor.

HOUSEDRESSES—The house-dress will be coming into its own with housewives seeking to save their better clothes for street wear. Here are a few tips from the experts to watch when washing yours. Always test colored cottons for color fastness, never soak them unless the color is fast, and wash in lukewarm water, hanging out to dry as soon as possible after washing. Bluing is sometimes used on white cottons, particularly when dried indoors, but follow instructions carefully. Thorough rinsing is important. Some experts advise at least three rinses, using hot water except for the last rinse.

Yearn For Invasion

South Africa Provides for Armored Division for Service Anywhere In Allied Program

CAPE TOWN, Feb. 26 (AP)—Is South Africa preparing a spearhead for Allied forces of an invading army pointing to the heart of Rome or Berlin from the south? Some observers here say the new South African Armored Division is the affirmative answer to that question. Brigadier Everet Poole has been promoted to Major-General to command this division to be composed of men volunteering for service anywhere.

Prime Minister Smuts has frequently voiced the desire of the South African forces to take a prominent part in any Allied nations war plan for the invasion of Italy and Germany. It is pointed out that the new attestation oath for service with the sprinbok forces "anywhere in the world" gives recruits an opportunity of joining "the liberators of oppressed Europe." The new attestation is also open to women for the auxiliary forces.

The South African Senate has confirmed, by 21 votes to six, the resolution of the Union House of Assembly that South African soldiers be allowed to volunteer for service overseas—that is, off the African continent, where in the northern and eastern areas they already have given outstanding service for Britain and her Allies).

Good Harvests

Harvest time is approaching in South Africa and although the present season's maize (Indian corn) crop is not expected for some time, agrarian authorities estimate it at about 22,000,000 bags. It is predicted this will be adequate for all the Union's human and animal needs. Last year's shortages, it is hoped, will not be repeated.

The two-month pineapple harvest which started in the eastern provinces at the end of January is expected to yield 6,000 tons of fruit. In the Bathurst area alone 70,000,000 to 80,000,000 plants have been grown. Choice pineapples in South Africa now are fetching five guineas ($23.75) a ton.

Tung oil, important to aviation construction, is becoming a new South African industry. The Union now has 60,000 tung trees in full bearing.

Revenue Improvement

With an improvement of $3,150,000 in Union of South Africa revenue for January, 1943, as compared with January, 1942, the government has brought the revenue collected for the last 10 months up to $283,750,000. This is more than $36,250,000 greater than the figures for the corresponding period of the last fiscal year. South Africa in the past six months' lease-lend goods arrangement with the United States has received the equivalent of $42,750,000 excluding munitions. It is expected that in the present year the Union will receive similar goods worth over $225,000,000.

Owing to a water shortage since the war, Pretoria will now supplement its supply from the Rand Water Board system. The sum of $1,935,000 is being spent as Pretoria's share in the construction of the necessary giant pipe-line and additional to the Rand system pumping plant.

Johannesburg has given five civic receptions to successive contingents of its men from the First Division home on leave from North Africa.

CARRY ON MISSIONS

Returned Missionary Woman Tells How Chinese Native Pastors Keep Going

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 26 (AP)—Mrs. D. G. Menzies, United Church missionary in Honan Province, China, for 50 years, until her expulsion three years ago by the Japanese, said in Trinity Church here that native pastors "are carrying on with almost unbelievable courage and vigor since all foreign mission workers were expelled."

When the Japanese invaded, she said, they seized medicine, instruments and equipment from the hospitals. As a result, the Chinese are enduring pain and hardships today such as they had not for many years, she added.

A group of Chinese workers took over the central hospital on the Honan mission field and continued to operate it with a Japanese inspector constantly present, said Mrs. Menzies, but other hospitals on the field were closed.

Most of the personnel and students of universities fled ahead of invading armies, taking with them as much equipment as possible. "As a result," she said, "educational and Christian work has moved in force into western China, which formerly seemed to be neglected."

The native pastors have found means to keep news filtering out through Jap lines. Mrs. Menzies said that since she left she has learned that four new churches have been built on her field and others have erected additions.

"The church in China still wants the help and co-operation of the western world. . . . The Chinese are a clever people . . . and well worth helping and saving," she declared.

MID MUCK AND MIRE IN TUNISIA!

by PHILIP JORDAN

World-famous war correspondent, on the scene of battle with the British First Army, has sent this dispatch to General Motors of Canada from "Somewhere in Tunisia".

With the British 1st Army on the Tunisian Front—I am writing these words amid the muck and mire of Tunisia and I can hear the sounds of battle on a range of hills down a valley to the east. But neither I, nor our guns, nor our men, could be here at all were it not for the great work that has been done in the factories of North America. This campaign, more than any other I have seen in this war, depends on motor transport for its success. The enemy knows this. Daily they try to search our roads with their fighters, shooting up isolated vehicles as well as convoys. Nothing is too small for their attention. We are living in a world without railroads here, a world of twisting mountain roads that rise thousands of feet into the clouds: By day and night—the latter without lights of any kind—the allied forces move forward along these roads in trucks that you supply. Without them we would be immobile, still far back, some 500 miles, in the neighborhood of Algiers. As it is, our goals are in sight and from here I can see a bare mountain that rises just this side of Tunis.

One of the many splendid things about this allied campaign is the way in which our transport has withstood some of the most difficult conditions I have ever known. "Lame ducks" are rare, and this tribute is not only to those who are responsible for the maintenance of our vehicles but above all to those who built the trucks in which we move. Last month, I drove a daily average of well over 100 miles in a Chevrolet. Without it, I would have found it impossible to report the war for something like two million readers daily.

Veterans of many fronts say they have never seen such weather anywhere. Every field and all the side roads, after days and days of rain, are as bad as any Irish bog. A big armoured tank sank to the top of its turret in the muck the other day even after a solid week of comparatively dry weather. A crust forms over the ground, but it is thin and deceptive, and heavy vehicles break through. A few hours of sunshine are followed by walls of rain driven down by gales from the steep mountain sides.

This is a spot where your General Motors Transports are getting their severest test of the war. Trucks and more trucks are needed. We hope you're busy making them.

This lorry load of men travelled for three days and nights, through enemy territory at times, to get back to the British lines after being close to capture.

A remarkable close-up picture by an R.A.F. official photographer who directed his camera from a shallow sand hole at the wall of fire which meets raiding Axis aircraft. At night, without lights, the allied forces move up supplies in these trucks, shown against the fire of bursting shells.

Philip Jordan's direct cable is another confirmation of the statement that Canadian-built General Motors war products are serving in every theatre of war. Letters from many fronts, reaching workers in GM plants, further convince them that their jobs are vital to victory wherever a tough transport problem must be solved to support and supply our fighting forces.

WEDDING IS UNIQUE AND BEAUTIFUL

Lovely Home Ceremony When Nuptial Rites for Chinese Performed for First Time Here

Beautiful as it was unique was the first wedding of Chinese people in Prince Rupert which took place last evening before a large gathering of friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. May Tong Lee, 315 Sixth Avenue West, when their only daughter, Miss Ruby Mae Mah, became the bride of Kee Duck (Sam) Kwan, elder son of Y. N. Kwan of Victoria. The ceremony united pioneer Chinese families of Prince Rupert and Victoria. The bride's mother and father have been residents of Prince Rupert for thirty years, having come here in October, 1913. The groom's father is a retired United Church minister whose field for many years was in Victoria.

The lovely home setting for the ceremony was designed and constructed by the groom himself. It took the form of a large French window of pure white with small square panes outlined in powder blue framed with ruffled white fringed drapes and white columns topped by black candlesticks with red candles. A triangular canopy was covered with pink roses, made and arranged by Mrs. H. T. Lock, and salal leaves, centred with a white bell.

With the officiating clergyman, Rev. James A. Donnell, pastor of First United Church, in his place, the bridal party entered the room as the "Wedding March" from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss M. A. Way. The bride, on the arm of her father, by whom she was later given in marriage, was charming indeed in her full wedding gown of white lace and sheer with long train and white flowered veil. The bride's shower bouquet was of sweetheart roses and white stocks.

Equally attractive was the bridesmaid, Miss Violet Mah, cousin of the bride, whose costume was fuchsia colored net and taffeta with matching colored veil. Her bouquet was of yellow carnations and mauve iris.

Dainty was the little trainbearer, Janet Wong, whose frock was of yellow organdie.

Kenneth Mah, brother of the bride, was groomsman and the ushers were Wesley Mah and Alex Mah.

During the signing of the register in an adjoining room, Mrs. H. T. Lock sang sweetly, "When Love is Sweet."

Then the bride and groom re-entered and received the congratulations and best wishes of some one hundred invited guests assembled. During the re-entry and later in the evening incidental music was played by Fire Chief H. T. Lock.

Mrs. J. T. Mandy acted as mistress of ceremonies for the reception. After referring to the uniqueness of the occasion, she called upon Rev. C. D. Clarke, former pastor of First United Church, to propose the toast to the bride. This was fittingly done, Mr. Clarke mentioning the deserved esteem in which the bride and her family were held in the community and making special reference to their long association with the church.

Novel Incident

Another novel incident was the reading by Mah Jing Bing of a letter of congratulations from co-workers of the groom at Billmor. This was in the Chinese language.

The toast to the bridesmaid was proposed in jolly and fitting vein by Dr. Joseph T. Mandy and responded to by the groomsman, Kenneth Mah.

A beautiful three-tier wedding cake on an attractively arranged table was cut in the traditional manner by the bride and the serving of refreshments proceeded. Mrs. H. T. Lock and Mrs. J. T. Mandy poured and the waitresses were Miss Grace Lee, Miss Margaret Lee, Mrs. Green and Mrs. Gordon Crane.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Kwan left for a two week's honeymoon trip to Vancouver and Victoria. They will return to Prince Rupert to take up residence.

The bride was born in Prince Rupert and educated in the elementary and high schools here. She excelled in art and had great talent for painting. She was also very popular among numerous friends.

The groom came from China as a small boy in 1914, received his elementary education at Victoria and High School training in Vancouver. Then he was a student in Y.M.C.A. College in Chicago and at the University of Chicago, majoring in architecture. His sister, Grace Kwan, had the honor of being the Jubilee Queen in Vancouver in 1936. His brother, Phillip Kwan, is in the Air Force and is now engaged in special work in connection with parachute training in Georgia.

LAMBS IN INTERIOR

This Type of Breeding Goes on Satisfactorily at Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE, Feb. 27—With a production quota of 12 percent increase in sheep asked for the coming year, one way that will help make this possible is by more careful attention at the lambing season. An increasing number of farmers are breeding the ewes earlier, having them lamb during March or early April. If these lambs are brought along nicely they are large enough to make good use of the tender grass during May and June, and can be marketed by early summer, says R. G. Newton, superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Prince George.

Ordinarily the ewes will keep pretty much to the open but some protection should be provided during cold or wet weather. As lambing time approaches the ewes should be carefully inspected and those heavy with lamb should be caught and placed under cover. The flock should be looked over every few hours to see that everything is alright, or to assist in any difficult parturition. Care and attention at this time will save many a lamb and also a few ewes. Once a lamb is dry and had a good feed of its mother's milk, it will stand considerable cold. Weak lambs may have to be assisted for a time or two by backing the ewe into a corner and holding it with your knee, your two hands will be free to assist the lamb at nursing. Child lambs should be immersed in warm water for a time and then thoroughly dried, before returning to the ewe. It may be necessary to assist them at nursing or even give them a feed with a spoon, but a little careful attention will save many a lamb. A few hinged hurdles that will make into pens 4 feet by 6 feet will be found useful in penning up the ewe and lamb for a day or so, particularly in cases where ewes do not wish to own their lambs.

A flock of Hampshires on the Prince George Experimental Station has averaged over 150 percent increase for a number of years, lambing in an open front shed during March. Of the ewes lambing in March, 1941, there were 8 single lambs averaging 70.6 lbs. on June
