SCHOOLS ARE OVERCROWDED

In an effort to relieve the crowding in King Edward school, parents of Grade I pupils are being asked in some cases to send their children to Borden Street school, which has room for a limited number of pupils in that grade, explained by Mrs. J. A. Rutherford, school board secretary, when questioned this morning regarding the extent of overcrowding in city schools. Parents of children who are asked to change in this way, Rutherford continued, would not feel put out over it, as it is being done only as a last resort and it is hoped that the need for it will be only temporary.

Conditions in the King Edward school are definitely overcrowded and a room which is being used as a lunch room has been transformed into a classroom in winter days, when large number of students bring lunches they will thus be deprived of a proper place to eat. The school is also at the limit of its capacity, Mrs. Rutherford said. The only bright ray of light on the horizon is the assurance given by the school board that plans for the new wartime school are going ahead and that it is possibly may be ready for use by the end of November. In the higher grades the Borden school is also at the limit of its capacity.

A third son, Ray, also serving with the army, is now in Sicily.

Chateau Frontenac "Work Centre" of Conference

Framed in this picture by the flags of Great Britain, the United States and Canada, the Chateau Frontenac, world-famed Canadian Pacific Railway hotel in Quebec City, fulfilled its most important role as the "work centre" of the strategy conference of the democracies for which Canada was host. The towering Chateau, seen here from the cannon-guarded battlements of the historic Citadel, housed the technical experts who came to the conference on the staffs of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King (left to right in insets) who themselves stayed in the Citadel. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the British and American experts on foreign policy, lived at the Chateau Frontenac.

WAR'S BIG THRILLS—

TIDE TURNS IN DESERT

(Seventh of a series by AP foreign correspondents on their biggest moments in covering the war.)

TIDE TURNS
By FRANK MARTIN

NEW DELHI, India.—I witnessed on the African desert what has been called the turning point in the war. The Mediterranean was still reflecting the light of a full moon that had risen a short while before. The seemingly endless desert was quiet. As I climbed into an observation post with approximately 800 cannon squeezed together on both sides and behind me, the zero hour was only minutes away. For weeks I had seen guns, tanks and planes massed in the 85 miles of sand from Alexandria to El Alamein.

My watch read 9:30—one minute to go. I braced myself. Somewhere out in the blue a gunner couldn't wait. A single light flashed into the night five seconds too soon. Then as fast as I could see, cannons flashed into action.

For a few seconds the desert remained silent until the noise of the heavy guns traveling on slower sound waves arrived—only to be drowned out by even heavier cannon opening up directly behind me. The din was tremendous. The first part of General B. L. Montgomery's order to attack and destroy the Axis army in Egypt had been carried out.

Into the night, decorated by soaring signals of combinations of nearly every color, our red tracer bullets pierced the din and indicated our infantry was exhausted in the soft sand. Meanwhile supporting artillery slowed down to steady firing every thirty seconds, minute after minute, hour after hour.

This spectacular show lasted until 5 A.M. and as I climbed down from the observation post and back among the now quiet heavy gun positions with mountains of spent shells around them, the gunners stretched, exhausted, in the soft sand. I knew it was only a question of time before the Axis troops would fall back.

LOCAL BOY IS MISSING

Sergeant Pilot William Brown, Son of Well Known Local Soldier, Lost in Air Operations.

Sergeant Pilot William McIntosh Brown, son of Battery Sergeant Major and Mrs. W. M. Brown of this city, is reported missing in air operations overseas with the Royal Canadian Air Force. Advice to this effect was received yesterday by his parents and came as a great shock not only to them but to the many friends of the young airman and his family.

Sergeant Pilot Brown was born in Prince Rupert September 25, 1921. He matriculated from Prince Rupert High School and took a commercial course at St. Joseph's Academy.

In September 1940, Bill, as he was affectionately known, following in the footsteps of his father, who served in both First and Second Great Wars, enlisted in the Second Searchlight Battery, of which unit the father was Battery Sergeant Major at the time, and became attached to area headquarters. In October 1941 he transferred to the Royal Canadian Air Force and trained at various prairie stations, receiving his wings at MacLeod, Alberta. He went overseas in December 1941. "Bill" was to have been married on September 25 to Leading Aircraftwoman W. N. Fryer of the Royal Air Force.

ALLIED FORCES SAID TO BE ENTERING MANY POINTS AND TAKE SALERNO—TARANTO MAKES THIRD BIG FOOTHOLD—MOST OF FLEET ESCAPES

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 11 (CP)—Declaring that Allied forces "are entering at many points," Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain and President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States appealed to the Italian people today to wage war against the Germans. A joint statement urged the Italians to "strike hard" against German aggressors. The appeal came as confused reports indicated that forces were gathering for a battle of major proportions possibly in the vicinity of Rome which was said to have capitulated yesterday to the Germans.

The American Fifth Army has seized the port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge into the Naples area. Allied headquarters announced today, while chaos reigned through the German lines, that the American Fifth Army had seized the port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge into the Naples area. Allied headquarters announced today, while chaos reigned through the German lines, that the American Fifth Army had seized the port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge into the Naples area.

Smashing aerial assaults have prevented them from getting reinforcements over badly battered highways and railroads to the Naples sector and a large portion of Italy's capital naval strength, including battleships and cruisers, has reached the safety of Malta, official reports said.

Crack Nazi armored units lunged in several fierce counter-assaults against the Allied invaders at Salerno but these were broken and the Allies drove inland.

Meanwhile in the south the British Eighth Army met little opposition and, despite demolitions, went ahead more rapidly, now holding practically all of the territory south of a bottleneck formed by the Gulf of Squillace and the Gulf of Santa Eufemia.

National Broadcasting Corporation Correspondent Merrill Mueller said the Eighth Army had advanced thirty-five miles northward at such a pace that it is beginning to overtake the retreating Germans.

Official statistics said that an important part of the Italian Navy, including battleships and many smaller vessels, had escaped from the Germans and had arrived safely at Malta. Reuters said the vessels arriving included four battleships, seven cruisers and six destroyers. Soon after escaping from German-dominated ports in northern Italy, the Italian warships fought a half-hour battle with German bombers which attacked them off the island of Corsica and sank one battleship.

A Royal Air Force pilot said he saw the battleship sink after being split open by bombs from Nazi planes.

With the occupation of the important naval base of Taranto, Allied forces had gained their third big foothold on the Italian peninsula in the fast-breaking chess play on the giant board of the Mediterranean. Allied headquarters in North Africa announced last night. Nothing was said officially at first of the disposition of Italian fleet units which were at the big naval base at the time of the Italian capitulation. The fact that the occupation was completed in such short time indicated that the Allies met scant, if any, opposition.

The possibility was seen that the force landing at Taranto was the same force which had been earlier reported in Swiss

FINED FOR GAMBLING

Phillip Greenstein of North Star Club Keeper Fined $200—Government Detective Tells Story

Phillip Greenstein was convicted by Magistrate W. D. Vance in city police court yesterday afternoon on a charge of being the keeper of a gaming house at the North Star Club and was fined $200. Each of twenty-two inmates of the place were fined $10. Paraphernalia which was confiscated was ordered given over to the forces and approximately $100 in cash which was seized was ordered returned to the owners.

Principal witness for the crown was David Shand, detective of the criminal investigation department of the British Columbia Police, who told of obtaining membership in the Club and playing in a game. There was 25c rake-off on buying the original stack and 25c per player was taken off the table every half hour. This meant a total of $4 per hour for table with eight men at play. At the time of the game in the North Star Club three tables were playing.

City police officers gave evidence in regard to the seizure and identification of paraphernalia.

The inmates, each of whom was fined $10 were: Erwin H. Sherwood, Gilbert Berg, Luther Elder, John Knox Walkem, George Carson, Mark Rillance Pearson, Dan Kozachanks, David Skoglund, Harry Pelish, Watler E. Howell, Henry Edward Kunz, Einar Nels Jacobson, Mike Gentil, Frank Sorenson Paulson, Arvid Karl Olsen, Spaso Myovick, Alexander Byron, Leo Landack, Ragnar Nilsson, Adolph Seel, John Yikmic and Benjamin Windele.

dispatches to be heading for Albania which is said to have been occupied by German troops rushing in to replace surrendered Italian forces.

The situation in regard to Rome is still confused. The Germans claim to have placed the Vatican under their "protection." Premier Marshall Badoglio is said to have left Rome on a military inspection trip. There is no official information as to the whereabouts of Benito Mussolini.

DAILY EDITION Saturday, September 11, 1943

Happy to Meet, Sorry to Part . . .

The Governor General and Princess Alice have come and gone and we have all been glad of the opportunity to receive and welcome them, extending to them such hospitality as existing circumstances made appropriately permissible. His Excellency and Her Royal Highness we found extremely gracious and democratic, interested in our doings and solicitous of our well-being and real folks like ourselves. We hope they will come again.

Flight Sergeant William Brown . . .

Another of our well known esteemed local boys is reported missing in action overseas with the Royal Canadian Air Force—Flight Sergeant William Brown. We hasten to add our word of comfort to the parents in their hour of anxiety, joining in the hope of themselves and the numerous friends of the young airman that word may yet be received of his safety under some set of circumstances.

Young Bill Brown was another of the boys who served his time as a newsboy out of our office and we remember him favorably, knowing that he was of the material that would serve his country gallantly, unflinchingly and courageously in time of stress and peril.

We have good reason to single out young Bill Brown for particular comment at this time. We remember when his father, Bill Brown, a happy young Scotsman pioneer of Prince Rupert, sailed away for overseas in the opening days of the First Great War throughout the duration of which he served, returning here with his bride, later raising his family and enlisting promptly at the outbreak of the present conflict for active service, again getting overseas and returning to be discharged on account of ill-health.

Bill Brown was the worthy son of a worthy father and we think it fitting that, under these circumstances, we should sincerely salute them both.

Just a Little Inconvenience . . .

The city has been unable to maintain a normal garbage disposal service because it has been found impossible to secure the men necessary to meet the increased demands upon the utility. The citizens have been asked to move their cans a little nearer to the roads on the days set out for collection in the various districts.

Some people may find it a little difficult to accommodate themselves to the garbage can change after having become accustomed to the excellent measure of service they have been getting in the past. If they just think it over, however, they may feel that it is really little enough to complain about—a minor inconvenience in comparison with what many people are being called upon to put up with these days owing to the changed conditions of a nation at war.

If to move our garbage cans out towards the streets one day a week is all the inconvenience we have to contend with, there is really little ground for complaint.

EVENED UPStation Complement Wins by
Score of 10 to 1 Over Navy
In Softball

Notice that they are a force to be reckoned with in the Service Softball League play-offs was given by Station Complement in the form of a 10 to 1 victory over Navy in a softball game at Acropolis Hill last night. This win evened up a best-of-three games series.

Facing elimination if they lost, the Station nine produced timely hitting to score five runs in the first two innings. From then on it was just a matter of protecting their lead.

Navy went the seven-inning route for the winners. He held the opposition to five hits but lost a shut-out when he was nicked for a triple and a double in the last frame.

Lancaster, Station Comp. outfielder, made four putouts, including a difficult catch. He contributed a home-run and a double to the winners' attack, batting in four runs with these blows.

Swat honors went to Watson, Navy third baseman, and Aubrey, Station short-stop, who each poked out three hits.

McKerchen started on the mound for the Sailors but was knocked out of the box in the second inning after issuing three bases on balls and yielding four hits for five runs. Edwards replaced him and hurled the remainder of the game.

The winners secured their first runs in the initial frame when Cordenuts doubled with the bases loaded. The next two batters were marked up when Lancaster also doubled, with two on in the second. This was the drive that sent McKerchen away from the slab and proved to be the turning point of the game.

Score by innings:
Station Comp. 3 2 1 0 0 3

Line-ups:

Helping
Houston
District

(By BARNEY MULVANEY)

Houston and the surrounding district has taken on a new lease of lively activity largely through the efforts of Ermilido G. Belicini, one of the oldest settlers in the central interior.

After walking most of the way from Prince Rupert, Belicini arrived at Houston in 1908 during the days of the preliminary survey of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway before actual construction had commenced. Coming from southeastern Alaska, he followed his chosen occupation as a prospector and located valuable ore deposits in the Sibola district and even closer to Houston.

Always interested in locating settlers Belicini was induced to purchase the Houston Hotel in 1925 in order to afford accommodation to land seekers and prospectors but being unwilling to run the hotel at a loss, was obliged to close.

He then devoted his attention to the sawmill industry, his planing mill being one of the best equipped in the north.

After Belicini's representations to the Canadian National Railway regarding the necessity for a loading spur, the railway speedily installed one which is proving a boon to local settlers who are killing two birds with one stone—clearing the land and cutting timber from their holdings—hauling the processed lumber to the spur and receiving cash on delivery, thus facilitating land clearing operations and furnishing them with remunerative employment during the slack seasons on the farms.

The mill operation has greatly increased the demand for accommodation at one of the oldest road houses on the original old trail of '98, located half way between Smithers and Burns Lake.

Naturalized in 1913, Belicini, his wife and children are thoroughly Canadian in all their sentiments.

He was born at the foot of the Alps near the Swiss-Italian boundary and most of his life has been spent in the big hills on the northerly break of the Coast Range in British Columbia.

His experience as foreman in coal and hard rock mines in his younger days keeps his interest in mining development constantly keen.

All the output of Belicini's mills is under contract to the Pacific Lumber Co. of Vancouver for whom he is the sole agent between Prince George and Prince Rupert and is sold exclusively for war purposes during the duration, some of the select lumber being shipped direct to Scotland where the rehabilitation program includes the building of modern homes for returned Imperial soldiers.

ROSE HIP JAM

Cover hips with boiling water and simmer until tender; rub through sieve. To each pound of pulp, add three-quarters pound of sugar, boil rapidly, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking, until the mixture falls from spoon in sheet.

Note: a better consistency will be obtained if one part commercial pectin is added to each two pounds of pulp.

Halibut Fishing Season Over—Five
Skeena Canneries Still Packing

Within a couple of days after the closing of Area No. 3 this Wednesday, the last area of the Pacific Coast halibut fisheries to cease fishing under edict of the International Fisheries, all the full time Canadian halibut fleet operating out of Prince Rupert was back in port although a few American vessels are to be still accounted for, the expectation being that they will be in by next Monday. Up to yesterday a total of 16,297,000 pounds had been landed for the season at Prince Rupert compared with 15,415,800 pounds at a corresponding date last year. The total of American landings is 12,281,000 pounds in comparison with 11,504,000 pounds a year ago while Canadian landings are 4,016,000 pounds as against 3,911,000 pounds.

Five Skeena River canneries are still in operation—Claxton, Cassiar, Carlisle, Inverness and Port Edward (Nelson Brothers). They are engaged in packing chums from the Queen Charlotte Islands and cohos from the Skeena River. Fair amounts of both varieties have been available for packing across Hecate Straits from the seiners around Skidegate Inlet and the latter coming from the gillnets in and around the river. Salmon fishing on the mainland will terminate September 24. The Island chum run should gradually become stronger during the next couple of weeks, keeping the canneries busy until early in October.

John Buchanan, general manager of B. C. Packers, arrived in the city this morning from the south in the course of a tour of inspection of the company's packing plants along the coast. He will be here and on the Skeena River until next Tuesday afternoon when he will be returning south.

R. W. Sinclair, manager of Inverness cannery, was here this morning on his way from the Skeena River to Klemtu cannery.

Pretty Wedding Held at Massett

On Saturday evening last a very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. Murray of Massett at the home of the bride's parents in Port Clements when Nancy, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Williams, was united in marriage to David Leonard, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. David Orr, formerly of Revelstoke and now on the customs staff in Vancouver.

The bride, entering on the arm of her father to the strains of the Wedding March from "Lohengrin" was lovely in a floor length dress of white brocade taffeta and net with a beautiful bouquet of pink and white sweet peas and white streamers.

The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Dyson, wore a pale blue chiffon floor length dress and the matron of honor, Mrs. Albert Dalzell, sister of the bride, wore a floor length dress of yellow with brown velvet jacket. The groom was attended by A. Mattson.

After the wedding supper a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, followed by a dance in the Community Hall where friends from all over the islands had come to offer congratulations to the happy couple. Dancing to the strains of a portion of the Air Force band was in progress until 3 a.m. Mr. and Mrs. Orr left for a honeymoon in Tieli before taking up residence in Queen Charlotte City where the groom is employed as scaler for Pacific Mills logging camp. The popularity of the couple was testified by the number of beautiful and valuable gifts they received.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. David Orr of Vancouver and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dalzell of Prince Rupert.
