PRINCIPLES FOR PEACE

Are Outlined by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden in Speaking Before Canadian Parliament

OTTAWA, April 2 (P)—Three basic principles for enduring peace were outlined by British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to a joint meeting of the House of Commons and Senate yesterday. They were: Total disarmament of Germany, Italy and Japan.

Maintenance by the United Nations of a sufficient force to ensure that no Axis power can ever again plunge the world into war.

Close understanding between members of the British Commonwealth, the United States, Russia and China with full co-operation of all United Nations.

He called for full co-operation of all the United Nations in winning the war and ensuring the lasting peace. "Together we can win the war and the peace," he declared.

Capt. Eden paid tribute to the Canadians as he referred to their exploits at Dieppe. Canada had given Great Britain a measure of assistance that would never be forgotten.

ASPECTS OF CO-OP

Variety of Subjects Discussed as Institute Sessions Proceed

At yesterday afternoon's session of the series of Co-operative Institute meetings being held in the Eagles' Hall, L. H. C. Phillips dealt with the subject of co-operative employee and co-operative merchandising. He stressed the fact that the co-operative employee differed from no other employees in that his duty was to serve members with their own goods and to sell the co-operative idea to all persons.

Films shown were "Food as a Weapon of Conquest" and "Inside Fighting Russia."

The evening session began with the film, "The Credit Union, John Doe's Bank," which depicted the set-up of the credit union and its growth on this continent.

A. J. Wirick spoke on the subject of Credit Unions and explained how, through Credit Unions, people can establish their own source of credit co-operatively.

Jack Deane spoke on the co-operative marketing of fish. In the course of his address he explained the difference of marketing on a profit motive basis and the co-operative basis. He told why some co-operatives had met with disaster while others had succeeded.

When co-operatives adhered to the principles and methods of co-operation and were managed by co-operatively minded persons success was assured.

The meeting closed with the showing of the film "Fruit, Vegetables and Co-operation."

The Institute will close tonight with a grand rally at which David Smeaton, manager of the Alberta Co-operative Wholesale, will speak on the subject "Building the Co-operative Movement in Canada and the World." Through his activities with the interprovincial co-operatives, Mr. Smeaton has had contact with the movement all over this continent and in other countries and will speak out of his experiences.

SMITHERS, April 2—A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury here which investigated the death of the late Charles Wilson of Lake Kathleen, killed last week in a level crossing near his home at Lake Kathleen.

It is believed that factors in the fatality were Mr. Wilson's deafness and the noisy car which he was driving. It was known that he was a driver who habitually kept his eyes on the road ahead of him.

Deceased's car was struck by an eastbound fast passenger train which was running late. The car was badly wrecked and deceased suffered extensive injuries which resulted in his death about an hour later.

AIR WAR IS KEEPING UP

Allied Offensive from North Africa Continues Without Let-up

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, April 2—A fierce Allied air offensive, which has been almost continuous for twenty-four hours, has featured the war in Tunisia.

After the heavy attack on Cagliari, Sardinia, in which enormous damage was done to enemy shipping and installations, the Allied bombers turned their attention to Sfax and did extensive damage including the air field, seven enemy planes being destroyed.

In their great raid on Sardinia, to which Marshal Erwin Rommel might look for sanctuary in an evacuation of Axis forces from Tunisia, United States flying fortresses sank or damaged thirty-two Axis ships and destroyed seventy-one enemy planes. Not a single one of the American raiders was lost. Off Sardinia an Axis convoy was attacked and two merchantmen were sunk, two were left in a sinking condition and two were set afire.

On the various sectors of the land front, the Allies continue their advance, the British to the north and south and the Americans in the centre.

The British First Army was reported today edging east and north of recaptured Sedjenane while the Americans in the central sector were engaged in some fighting and General Sir Bernard Montgomery maintained pressure upon new German-Italian lines twenty-four miles north of Gabes. A communique said that the "Tunisian front was generally quieter yesterday," indicating a lull in preparation for the next round of the battle.

AUSTRALIA DISCOVERY

Important Strategic Mineral Deposit Adds to Those of Canada and Madagascar

MELBOURNE, April 2 (P)—An important discovery of phlogopite mica, believed to be of considerable size, is being developed in Central Australia.

Phlogopite mica is brownish-red, is used in the manufacture of airplane spark plugs, and is regarded as an important strategic mineral. It has very high heat resistance. The world's other important mica deposits are in Canada and Madagascar.

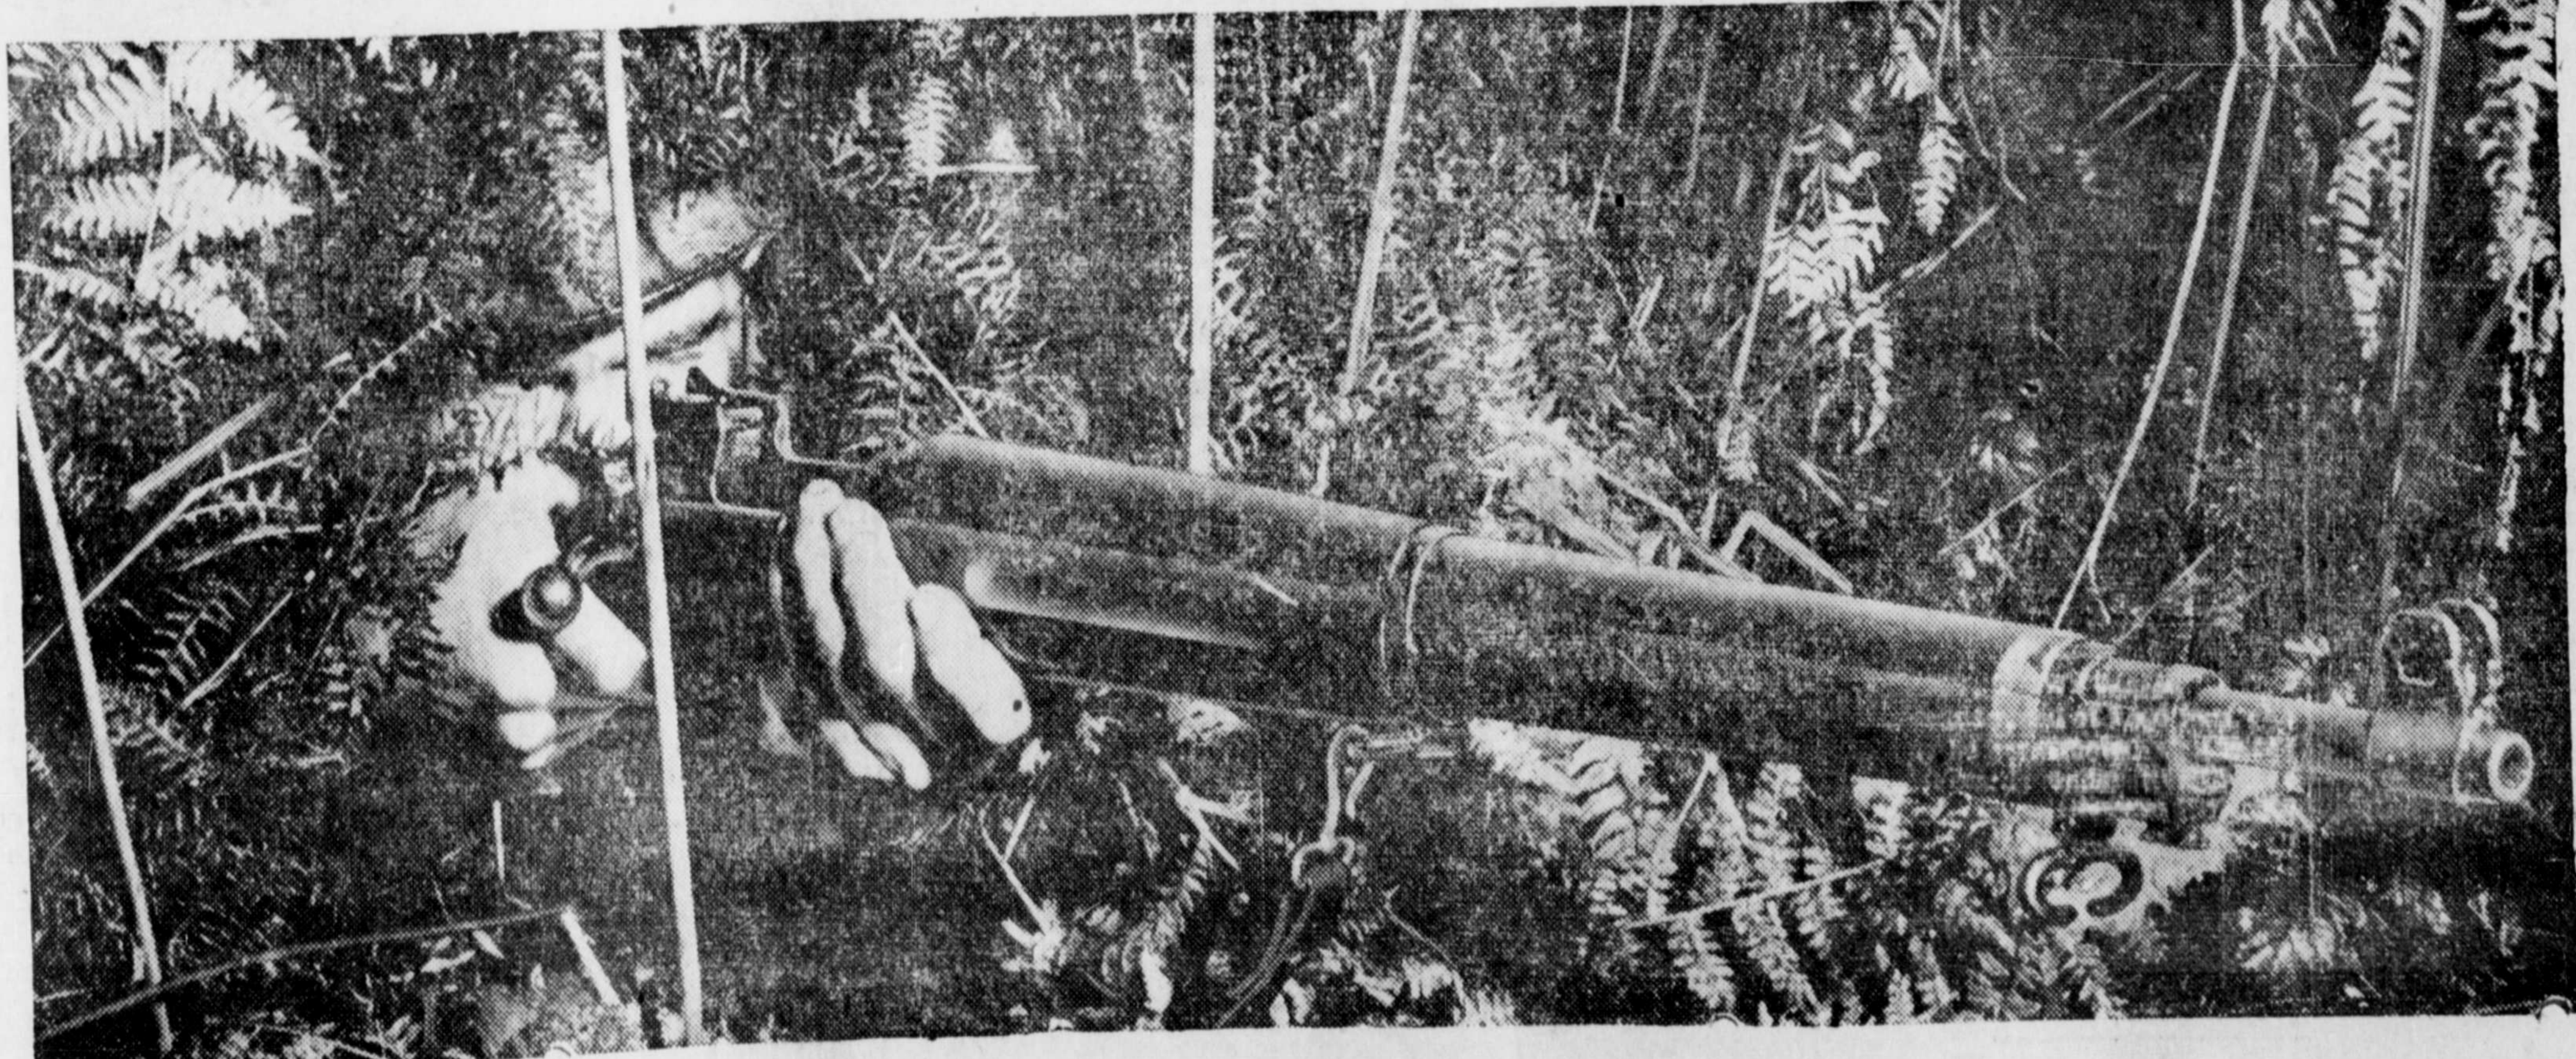

The Australian deposit was discovered about six months ago by G. A. Johanson, who has been in Central Australia many years. He thought it was ordinary muscovite mica, but when specimens were analysed, the Department of Supply decided on large-scale development and sent up workers under Mr. J. Peart, a mining engineer, who had been working in Burma until the Japanese occupation.

Militia Rangers Stand Guard

The eye that peeps with deadly steadiness along the sights of this rifle belongs to a member of British Columbia's civilian defence group, the Pacific Coast Militia Rangers. Made up of crack shots from many walks of life, the Rangers are mostly men who know the woods like the palms of their hands. If there should be an invasion from the West, these men would move into the hills and make life miserable for enemy by waging a constant campaign of "wasp warfare."

Strikes In Canada . . .

It does not speak very well for some of the important labor organizations in Canada that they should permit their own internal disputes to get so far out of hand as to cause strikes and disturb work in essential war industries. Strikes resulting from disagreements between employers and employees are had enough. Tie-ups due to differences between major labor organizations are less excusable particularly when we hear labor people talk so loudly about unity in the promotion of the common interests. But when internal disputes even within the organizations themselves are allowed to slow up the war effort in such grave times as these it seems little less than criminal.

Labor unionism is a good and valuable thing but the unions themselves must exercise some discrimination, control and responsibility within their own ranks if they are to preserve respect and confidence. Fortunately, here in Prince Rupert there has been no time lost from inter-necine labor strife. That is a tribute to the good sense, unity and earnestness of the local labor people. It is to be hoped that they may not become involved in defections such as have arisen at some other points.

On Behalf of the Babies . . .

We think it fitting that we should support without delay representations which are being made to have special dispensation made for Prince Rupert in the matter of a better canned milk supply. We base our representation entirely upon what we are reliably informed are the requirements of the infant population of the city, seventy-five percent of whom are fed upon the canned product and stand to suffer very much if their supplies should run short. Already mothers are having much difficulty in obtaining what they require. For some time there has been a shortage of fresh milk here and many others are finding it impossible to secure it.

Until increased supplies of milk become available for distribution under the unusual local circumstances, it might be considered a duty for those who can get along with less milk products to do so in order that the babies to whom it is vital are provided with what they require. There are few people, we believe, who would be consciously selfish in this regard although some may not have thought of the matter in this way.

Playing Fields . . .

Sports followers and supporters in Prince Rupert can view with satisfaction the recreation field development that is now going on near the McClymont Park area under the auspices of the army. Ostensibly, it is to be for exclusive use of the military in the meantime but later, it is suggested, civilian teams may get a chance to use it, at least in competition with military teams.

Then there is the field that Wartime Housing is contemplating establishing on Eleventh Avenue. This will be more or less for the exclusive use of the wartime industrial workers.

The sports ground situation is beginning to look better in Prince Rupert than it ever did before. Active steps are being taken to make provision for wartime requirements and, after the war is over, we will probably be better equipped in this regard than we ever were before.

MOISTURE FOR CROP

Precipitation From Fall and Winter Above Normal in Nearly All Areas

WINNIPEG, April 2 — Moisture conditions throughout the prairie provinces are the best in many years as grain growers make preparations for spring planting. During the six-month period from Aug. 1, 1942, to Feb. 28, 1943, precipitation was well above normal all over the grain region with Saskatchewan showing an increase above the average of 31 per cent. Meanwhile farmers in many areas are threshing large quantities of grain left in the fields last fall due to unfavorable weather and shortage of labor. The problem of farm labor is still acute, but hope is entrained that more help will be forthcoming this summer than in 1942 when the largest crops on record were harvested in Western Canada.

Central Alberta, with a deficiency of about three per cent, was the only district where precipitation was below the average according to statistics compiled by the Dominion Meteorological Service, Toronto. In the northern section of the province an excess of 16 per cent was recorded and in the south the mark was 24 per cent above normal.

Saskatchewan's prospects are particularly bright with heavy fall rains frozen into the topsoil and retained throughout the winter. In the arid southwestern area precipitation was 22 per cent above the average, in the southeast, 46 per cent. Western and eastern Manitoba registered excesses of 18 and 10 per cent respectively.

Manitoba precipitation figures were above the average for the third successive year. In the previous corresponding six-month period an increase of 23 per cent was recorded. For the 1940-41 period the excess was estimated at eight per cent.

Monthly Summary

The striking feature of the precipitation record was the heavy rainfall in August in southern Saskatchewan and southern Manitoba. In other sections of the prairies rains during the month were fairly normal.

September rains were normal or above the average in central and southern Alberta and in all parts of Saskatchewan. Deficiencies of about 10 per cent were shown in northern Alberta and western Manitoba. In eastern Manitoba rainfall was 30 per cent below normal.

Precipitation was again heavy over most of Alberta and Saskatchewan during November. It was 35 per cent below normal in southeastern Saskatchewan and 20 per cent below in Manitoba.

During the winter months of December, January and February snowfall was 30 to 75 per cent above normal in northern and southeastern Saskatchewan, nearly 50 above normal in Manitoba and 35 per cent in southern Alberta. The total fall was particularly normal in northern Alberta, but slight decreases were noted in southwestern Saskatchewan and central Alberta.

20,000 OPERATIONS

It is estimated that in the production of parts for one torpedo, workers perform about 20,000 separate operations.
