MADE TRIP TO SICILY

McNaughton in North Africa following Visit to Embattled Island—Highly Pleased

RALSTON SATISFIED OTTAWA, July 21—Hon. J. Ralston, minister of national defence, in a statement last night concerning the visit of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton to Sicily, said it was a source of great satisfaction that General McNaughton had found the Sicilian campaign and plans for the invasion of Europe working out so well.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 21—General A. G. L. McNaughton, commander-in-chief of Canada's overseas army, has returned to North Africa following a visit to the Sicilian front. The Allied invasion of Sicily which he saw he describes as "the most perfect example of combined military operations the world has ever seen." He expressed pride in the part played by Canadians which he said had been marvellous.

The chief lesson of the Sicilian landings, General McNaughton said, was the evidence afforded that the Allies were now capable of striking with tremendous efficiency and force on any front. He said the invasion of Europe, begun by the Sicilian operation, was certain to damage the morale of the Japanese as well as that of the Germans and Italians.

IT WAS THE SUN

Men, women and children on the streets of Prince Rupert paused for a short time and gazed at the sky in wonderment. Even people in stores and offices left their desks and counters to look heavenward and voice their awe and puzzlement at a phenomenon rare in the recent annals of the town. For high in the sky was a thing of great and dazzling brilliance such as few could remember. So garish was the brilliance of this heavenly orb that young children, who in their pristine ignorance had never heard of the existence of such a thing, cowered, and covered their eyes in fright. Even among older people opinion was unsettled. That thing in the sky, some opined suspiciously, might even be some secret enemy weapon. But finally an elderly man who looked as though he had done a good deal of travelling in his time, settled the matter. He had, he said, seen that thing before in various places. It was the sun.

RAILROADER IS KILLED

John Joseph, O'Neill, Switchman, Crushed Between Two Railway Cars

John Joseph O'Neill, 51, Canadian National Railways, switchman, was killed at 5:45 last night in the yards when he was crushed between the coupling of two railway cars. The accident occurred when O'Neill, who was on duty at the time, with the apparent intent of coupling two cars together, gave engineer H. L. Nicholas of the switching engine a signal to back up one string of cars. O'Neill then stepped between the couplings of the two cars to be joined, and was caught between them. He was killed instantly. His back and pelvis were fractured. The accident occurred in the coach yards near the roundhouse and it is believed that there was one eye witness, although he has not yet been identified. Another employee, T. M. Duguerin, switching foreman, did not see the accident happen but became aware of it shortly afterward and rushed to the scene. Railway and city police also arrived to investigate. O'Neill, who was unmarried, came to Prince Rupert about 18 months ago from Port Arthur, Ontario. He was born at Ottawa, Ontario, of Irish ancestry. It is not known if he has any relatives. Coroner M. M. Stephens announced this morning that an inquest will be held this afternoon to determine the cause of the accident. A coroner's jury under Coroner M. M. Stephens investigating the death of O'Neill met this afternoon to view the body and adjourned until the evidence of witnesses could be assembled. The jury members are Frank Skinner, Douglas Wood, Clifford Abercrombie, Roger Bell, Alvin Donald Ritchie and John Bulger.

MAJORITY EXPECTED

South Africa Awaiting Overseas Services Vote—Government Confident of Strength

CAPE TOWN, July 21—While the South African Union awaits the outcome of its overseas voting in the July 7 general election to add to the results of the home vote, it is calculated 1,250,000 voters polled in the election in South Africa and overseas.

According to the confident forecast at the United Party (Government) headquarters, the government majority in the Assembly will be not less than 30 and may reach 50. Prime Minister Smuts, in a message to his supporters said he feels sure the result, when finally computed, will be a "pleasant surprise" even to government supporters.

Dispatches from India say a conference of prominent people of India considers the South African government's restrictive legislation on Indians owning property in South Africa as "discriminatory legislation." Demands for retaliatory action have been widespread. One suggestion is a demonstration of displeasure by withdrawing India's High Commissioner from South Africa. Bulawayo reports the death of Air Commodore J. W. B. Grigson, who was acting air officer commanding the Rhodesian Training Group, in an air crash near Kezi in Southern Rhodesia.

Sir Godfrey Huggins, prime minister of Southern Rhodesia, has announced the government will encourage the right type of settlers to live there. Ambition and energy would be much better than capital, he said, but he emphasized Southern Rhodesia would first see her own people had enough work and then bring out new blood from Europe. It is not correct, said Sir Godfrey, that the government intended to place all primary industries under state control, but they were not going to allow private enterprise to exploit people either.

As long as private concerns worked for interest of the country, the government would not interfere, but when selfish motives came to the top, the state would not hesitate about taking them over. New industries now being planned for Southern Rhodesia include an iron and steel plant at Queque and a big scheme for cotton production.

Jam for Britain Large quantities of South African jam are now being exported. Much goes to Britain, and Cape gooseberry and pineapple preserves are specially popular. Two years ago South Africa produced 56,000,000 pounds canned jam. This year's figure has risen to 125,000,000 pounds and more than a third of it is for Britain, mainly for the services.

FEWER LONDON TAXIS

London has 45 per cent fewer taxis than before the war and less than half the prewar number of cabbies to drive them. In 1939, there were about 7,900 taxis and 11,450 drivers. Today, there are 5,000 drivers and 4,300 cabs.

AXIS COLLAPSE IN SICILY LOOKS POSSIBLE

NEW RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE JAP NAVY HIT

SICILY—Canadian and American troops have seized Enna, defence prop of all central Sicily, cutting off large numbers of Axis forces and forcing general withdrawal as resistance of the island weakens hourly almost to a point of collapse. The British Eighth Army hammered at the doors of Catania, last bastion protecting the entire east coast, shattering another Nazi counter assault with heavy casualties and advancing on the sea port. For all tactical purposes half of Sicily is now in Allied hands. Enna's fall cut off Catania from western Sicily except for one long northern coastal road. Allied observers report a general Axis retreat along all roads leading from the centre of Sicily and Italian prisoners declare German forces in the central sectors are speeding eastward for a quick getaway.

RUSSIA—A great summer offensive began Tuesday over a 450-mile front extending from Orel to the Mius River where the Russians breached German defences before Taganrog. At least 50 more towns were recaptured by Soviet forces driving on Orel.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—American bombers Wednesday sank a cruiser and two destroyers of a Japanese convoy attempting vainly to run the Allied sea and air blockade around Munda air base in the Solomons. The remainder of a Japanese convoy of nine warships and two transports fled northward. The action served to maintain steady Allied pressure on Munda which has been hit by land, sea and air attack since July 1.

ITALY—Rome suffered its second air raid of the war Tuesday night, the Berlin radio claimed. The report was not confirmed by other sources. In London observers considered a night attack on Rome as highly unlikely.

Dictators in Parley

Hitler Gravely Concerned Over Morale of Junior Partner

LONDON, July 21 (CP)—Adolf Hitler flew into Italy Monday for a conference with Premier Benito Mussolini at a northern Italian town and the Axis reported that "military questions" were discussed. The move is seen in London as indicating that the Nazis are gravely concerned over the fate of Italy and are making up a last minute attempt to whip up flagging Italian morale. It is reported that Mussolini appealed for further German help.

COLLAPSE IN SICILY

Official Reports of Mutinies—Great Damage in Rome Admitted—Allies Advancing

LONDON, July 21—Official news of mutinies among Italian troops in Sicily has raised hopes in American quarters in London of a collapse of the defence in at least the western central portions of the island. Meanwhile Italian communiques admit that "very great damage" was done in the bombing of Rome on Monday. A Berlin report is that Rome was bombed again last night but there was no confirmation of this. Canadian and British forces were reported today to have captured Enna in their drive up the centre of Sicily while the British are closing in on Catania in spite of stiff Axis resistance.

Being Tried On Serious Charge

Preliminary Hearing of Abortion Case is Closed to Public

The preliminary hearing of the case of Mary Martin, charged with attempting to procure an abortion, was begun in city police court yesterday afternoon. By a ruling of Magistrate W. D. Vance the public was excluded from the hearing. The testimony of several witnesses, including a man and wife, was heard, before the case was adjourned until this afternoon. At the session this afternoon the testimony of doctors and police is expected to be heard and it is thought that this will conclude the evidence for the crown. Witnesses for the prosecution yesterday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. John Laschynski, Miss Eileen Hemmons, Gunner J. Deauak and Constable J. A. MacAllister. Dr. L. W. Kergin, Dr. C. H. Hankinson and Dr. J. A. MacDonald gave evidence this afternoon. Staff Sergeant F. W. Gallagher is prosecuting with W. O. Fulton appearing for the defence.

Winning the War With Food . . .

Dispatches from the Mediterranean area reveal conditions which will have a very direct influence upon food production in North America. They relate that, while the British-Canadian and American troops are fighting the Italian and German armies, Allied ships are unloading at the island's ports food for the civilian population in Sicily.

When the British and Americans landed in Africa they found the Germans had robbed the civilian population of everything except a bare sustenance. All surplus foods and agricultural production which could be used for munitions had been removed by the Nazis. Undoubtedly there is a similar situation in Sicily. As the invasion is extended, every island and part of the continent of Europe freed from the heel of Hitler will be found to be in the same condition of starvation.

Every pound of food and bushel of grain which Canada can produce will be needed before the war is won. That statement has been made with variations in all parts of Canada by the press and various spokesmen. Having in view the remarkably quick disappearance of the "surplus" stocks which existed in the United States eighteen months ago, within the past week predictions have been made that Canada's immense surplus of wheat may disappear within twelve months, like snow before a chinook. If the progress of freeing Europe proceeds at anything like the pace which has been followed in Africa and Sicily, there is good chance of this prediction coming true.

When the Nazis are rolled back across the countries they have occupied what now remains in these countries will be taken as they retreat. France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway have been robbed and looted of everything movable by the Germans, and the people of these countries are living under conditions of rationing which do not provide more than enough to sustain life. It will be the task of Britain, the United States and Canada and the South American republics within the community of the United Nations to provide the food without which the people of these ravaged lands will be unable to rebuild.

The existence of the immense stores of food which have been held by the peoples of the United Nations has not proved to be an inducement to the peoples of Axis countries to get out of the war, not up to the present. Probably this is because in the Axis-dominated countries the dictators have promised that they would soon control the world and the food would be captured and brought home. But as the course of the war has undergone a great change in the past six months, the dream of conquering the remaining free portion of the world and looting it of food must be fairly well dissipated by now. The end of the war and food in abundance must soon become a very attractive objective of all the peoples of Europe, including Germans and Italians. Abundant food for Sicily will help to get the message of hope to Italy.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT
The Hostess

I had a rush of work to the head this afternoon. Some time ago Mr. McRae gave me copies of Norman Rockwell's "Four Freedoms" which appeared in the Saturday Evening Post. I was much struck with them and had them framed. So yesterday afternoon I hung them in the ladies' lounge. I know that lots of pictures in a room are considered old fashioned but I think the boys like them, and go well with the plants in the windows and the kitten "Sarge" asleep on one of the cushions. It may not be an interior decorator's dream, but it is as homelike as I can make it.

Last time I quoted a letter from Signalman Cliff Humford I got a shot across my bows from Security for not deleting one item. So today I'm being very, very careful. Cliff says: "I guess it's about time I answered your letter with another news bulletin and, while I'm in the hospital, is a good time to catch up on a lot of correspondence. I was deep in the middle of my leading hand's course when I suddenly get a high fever and first thing I'm flat on my back in the hospital. This hospital is really swell and by now I'm feeling O.K. I was talking to Lieut. Covernton last week. Rene Jeanotte and I are taking this course and there are an awful lot of old Prince Rupert boys here. Johnny Pascoe is also with us. Frankie Edwards and Massicotte are nearly finished a course and I saw Keith Turner in Montreal a few weeks ago. Sid Taylor and Jimmy Pattullo are here too. I guess it really is quiet there now. I can hardly believe that Rocky and Mickey are gone. I never hear from Cliff Perry at all and I don't know where he is. I'm surprised he doesn't write to me but I'll look him up in Halifax. I had a nice trip across and got six days' leave. I met my brother who is also in the navy. I hadn't seen him for two years. It's sure hot here these days. I guess it's fairly warm there too. (If you only knew, Cliff, if you only knew). Say hello to anyone who knows me. I wrote to Mrs. Keilback yesterday. (Cliff was on lodge and camp at Mrs. Keilback's). Goodbye now. One of the old gang, Cliff."

Yesterday Mr. Seadden put up my beautiful new Hostess House

Sign—Sent to me from Toronto. It was on the west side of the building and could be seen all down the street. I was very proud of it. Today some souvenir number has it—leaving ironically enough—only the top beam on which are written "A friendly place to meet." Right now I feel decidedly unfriendly.

Wives Stay Awake As Alarm Clocks

Clocks Scarce in Australia and Men Have to be at Work On Time

SYDNEY, N.S.W., July 21 (P)—Many Sydney women have to stay awake half the night to make sure their husbands get up in time for work because of an acute shortage of alarm clocks.

More than 25,000 alarm clocks could be sold immediately in New South Wales if they were available, a city jeweler said. His firm receives about 100 inquiries daily for alarm clocks of all kinds—many from wives wanting to end their early morning vigil.

Some women had told me that they depend on the baby to cry and wake them up. The main cause of the shortage was that most of the clock factories in America and Canada had switched over to war work.

Aussie Blondes Are Restricted

Government Puts Ban on Many Of Color Aids to Womanly Beauty

MELBOURNE, July 21 (P)—Australia's artificial blondes have dark days ahead if the reply on hairdressers to retain their color. Color rinses, manures, marcelling and eyebrow arching are now under a government ban.

But the government has been generous, realizing that the feminine morale must be maintained. Manicures went long ago because of the absence of varnishes and removers, but on the priority list again are permanent waves, shampoos and sets, tinting (to help the middle aged), facials and pedicures.

CANNING THEIR VOICES

LONDON, July 21 (P)—The War Office is working on a scheme by which very light and extremely cheap gramophone records will be made available to troops overseas for messages to the folks at home.

MAJ.-GEN. G. G. SIMONDS
By DOUG HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The Canadians in Britain know Guy Granville Simonds commanding the Canadians in Sicily, as a man who got to be a general young and deserved what he got. He was recognized as one of the army's men of brains long before he became a major-general commanding first one, then another infantry division within comparatively few days.

As a sharp, quick thinker who gave able expression to the things he thought, they saw him coming. He was a major-general at 39, the youngest of his rank in the 1st Canadian Army, one of the three under Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar in the Infantry Corps. He went to North Africa as a brigadier from the Canadian Army, saw the Eighth Army outfox Rommel at the Mareth Line and take Sfax. He came back — beckoned unexpectedly from his observer's post in the battlefield—convinced that the minefield had put infantry ahead of the tank in fighting importance and found himself a divisional commander.

Gen. Simonds is a tall, dark man with an imposing moustache. His accent indicates his English birth. He leaves reporters with the impression of a fully capable man confident of his capabilities. His present wartime rise started from the rank of major.

Born at Ixworth Abbey, Bury St. Edmunds, England, in 1903 he came to Canada as a youngster. He was educated at Ashbury College, Ottawa, and at Royal Military College where he graduated in 1925. He entered the permanent army as an artilleryman.

Staff College Training

Gen. Simonds returned to Britain before the war, first for a gunnery course in 1932, later for a course at the Staff College at Camberley. He was attached to Sandhurst and Woolwich after the second course.

He sailed to Britain a third time as General Staff Officer (Grade II) with the 1st Division in 1939. His rise started the following July when he was pro-

Women Call-up In Australia

Those Who Disobey Order Are Liable to Six Months Imprisonment and Fine

CANBERRA, July 21 (C)—Call-ups of Australian women recently represent the first mass direction of female labor, but estimates of women who could be diverted to war work have been greatly exaggerated. So far of all the women interviewed, only about 15 percent have been added to the national labor pool, according to the Director-General of Manpower.

Many women have been called up for work in canneries. Women who do not obey the order are liable to six months in jail or a fine of $450 or both.

ALL READY FOR RAIDS
Housewives of B. C.'s Defence Lines Know Their A. R. P.

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, July 21 (C)—Memo to Mr. Tojo: You may think you have measure of our Canadian air Force, our defending army, our navy—but how do you think you can beat our Mrs. Boltons?

Mrs. W. J. Bolton and hundreds of other housewives like her are Vancouver's secret weapon, and they're ready for you, Mr. Tojo. She isn't a bit unusual—there are thousands like her in Vancouver. She lives in a little stucco bungalow in the suburbs. She has a husband who's an A. R. P. warden, a pretty 10-year old daughter, an elderly mother, a show dog and a canary. These are her treasures and here's how she's going to defend them:

"It's a woman's job to look after her own home first," said Mrs. Bolton, smoothing down her apron and sitting down in her sunny living room. "By staying at home we can cut down the fire hazard and fight small fires ourselves. We can keep the members of our family from getting panic-stricken and becoming a public nuisance."

Reserve Water Supply

So Mrs. Bolton is going to sit tight in her own home—ready for anything. Out buried in the back yard are three sealed jars of sterile water, wrapped in newspapers. "You do it like preserving fruit," said Mrs. Bolton. "And it will keep indefinitely. This is in case the water mains are hit."

Mrs. Bolton and her family would see the siege out in the hallway of their home. As it has five possible exits she considers it the best spot. Three more jars of sterile water are stored in a linen cupboard along with first aid supplies, cans of beans and other things to be eaten cold if necessary. Many housewives, Mrs. Bolton explained, also keep tins of canned heat in their "shelter," so they can make tea and coffee or have hot water.

Also tucked away in the linen cupboard is a suitcase of warm clothing—sweaters, a blanket

Children Ready

The children wouldn't have much time to get frightened. They have their A. R. P. rules laid down. Rhona, for instance, knows exactly what to do.

"When the alert goes she's to skin for home and climb into some warm clothing—even if it's summer," said her mother. "Then she turns on the taps and fills the wash tubs with water, ready for an emergency. The chow, is here. She has to see that the drink and dog bowls she settles herself on in the hall with her prepared," added Mrs. Bolton. "but I know we can't let the men and women neighborhood to themselves."

WOMEN PRAISE OUR EVERY DAY LOW PRICES!

So many women are tired of the old scheme designed to lure them in to buy that they are unstinted in their praise of our policy of presenting every item in our store at a price that is a real bargain. Instead of the customary few "bait" prices that are advertised again and again!

In the long run you save more at THE VARIETY STORE because you save ALL THE TIME—not just occasional savings. Come buy what you need from our stocks of notions, cleaning supplies, moth preventatives, closet accessories, many other needfuls, and prove it!
