Battle is Not of Major Scale, Secretary of Navy Says in Statement Today

Conflict Off Solomon Islands is but "Process of Feeling Out"—Japan Puts on Exaggerated Claims
WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (CP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox describes a sea battle in progress off the Solomon Islands today as a "process of feeling out on both sides" but said there is "no really pitched battle as yet." Col. Knox told a press conference that "nobody knows what the immediate future holds but any assumption in a navy communicate last night that there is a major battle under way is incorrect." It was stated yesterday that Tokyo claims of two battleships and three cruisers being sunk were "grossly exaggerated."

Southeast Coast Town Bombed

LONDON, Feb. 3 (CP)—Four German bombers, flying so low that one scraped the roof tops, raided an inland southeast England town today, flattening many buildings and causing numerous casualties.

PAINT NOT SUCCESSFUL

Explanation Made Why It Did Not Function on Residential Lights Under Dim-Out
There has been some curiosity as to why the paint which had been applied on street lights in the residential areas to reduce the illumination in compliance with dim-out regulations failed to remain on the lamps. Explanation is made by J. J. Little, general manager of the Northern British Columbia Power Co. who is also chairman of the local Civilian Protection Committee.
The reason the infrared paint was not successful on these lamps was that the heat of the lamps caused it to blister and fall off. This is not the case with the standard lamps down town which do not heat up as much as the old kind of street lamps on the poles.
In order to reduce the illumination of these lamps in the residential section, it has been decided to use tin hoods which will fit on to the lamps.

GAOLOR IN THIS CITY

Commissioner of Provincial Police Would Increase Municipal Force
The police committee of the city council is considering a suggestion from T. W. S. Parsons, commissioner of British Columbia, through Ernest Gammon, local inspector, that a gaoler be appointed at the city jail here. It has also been suggested that another constable be added to the city force so that more attention might be paid to street traffic. This would make a total strength of thirteen instead of the present eleven on the city force. There would be added cost to the city including $1,748 salary for the gaoler. The appointment of a gaoler would relieve the police officers generally from inside duty and make more adequate patrol.
A report from the police committee on the matter is expected at next Monday's meeting of the city council.

No Restrictions On Canned Milk

This Commodity Is Now Moving Freely Again in Ordinary Way
The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has notified the city that restrictions on the sale of canned milk have been lifted and the product can now be sold under the ordinary conditions of supply and demand. The council had been in communication with the price board emphasizing the necessity of keeping canned milk available to the public.

BAD DEAL FOR CITY

Council Feels Too Little is Believed Received From Wartime Housing
The city council, at its meeting Monday night, gave considerable thought to possible means of improving the deal under which many city properties were turned over to Wartime Housing, for its industrial housing program. It was felt that remuneration for the city was inadequate to services given. Possibly little can be done about rectifying the deal but the council is resolved to see that something is done in the matter of sewerage disposal which is now very unsatisfactory and a menace to public health. The feeling was that Wartime Housing would do nothing better in this regard than it had to.
Members of the council were generally dissatisfied with the terms under which Wartime Housing had acquired lots from the city and built houses for local war workers. Such terms as "having been sold down the river" were heard.
Clauses of the agreement between the city and Wartime Housing which are taken as unfavorable to the United States are:
"The municipality agrees to furnish to the living accommodation and to the tenants all such facilities, privileges and services of the municipality as are furnished or made available to other properties or property owners and tenants in the municipality including without in any way limiting the generality of the foregoing fire protection, police protection and schools."
"The company agrees to pay to the municipality during the term of this agreement for services rendered and privileges and facilities made available the sum of $24 in respect of each house containing two bedrooms or in respect of each suite of two bedrooms in any house containing any more than one such suite and the sum of $30 in respect of each house containing more than two bedrooms or in respect of each suite of more than two bedrooms in any house containing more than one such suite."
"The company further agrees to pay the municipality each year the sum of $1 in respect of each such house in consideration of the municipality supplying the necessary street lighting."
"In consideration of the payments to be made by the company under these provisions the municipality agrees that it will not levy or assess nor permit to be levied or assessed any taxes, assessments, rates or municipal or school charges of any kind or nature on the tenants or occupiers of said living accommodation or the owners of the said lands."

R.C.M.P. To Do Examinations

MOSCOW, Feb. 3 (CP)—Premier Joseph Stalin congratulated the Red Army today for the liquidation of the last of Adolf Hitler's troops at Stalingrad and Soviet shock troops, flushed with this greatest victory of the war over Germany, plunged ahead on all fronts. The Soviet Information bureau announced late yesterday that the 162-day siege of Stalingrad was ended with more than 500,000 of the cream of Axis soldiery reported slain or captured since the Russian winter offensive was launched November 19. Seasoned Red Army divisions are now free to reinforce the offensives from the north Caucasus to Kurak concentrating on Khar'kov and Rostov.

COLOGNE IS HIT AGAIN

Big Assault on Important Germany City with Block-Busters and Incendiaries
COLOGNE, Feb. 3 (CP)—A heavy force of Royal Air Force bombers last night attacked Cologne, dropping one hundred two-ton block-busters on an average of one every twelve seconds or less and scattered thousands of incendiaries in the exploding ruins. At least one Canadian squadron took part in the raid and Royal Canadian Air Force members said the defences were more active than in any of the raids on Cologne last year including the 1900-plane blasting last May. Five bombers are missing, indicating that a force of one hundred planes took part.

A city manhole will be duly protected during the work.

Local Mail Service Up

City Council Joins in Demand For Improvement in Service at Prince Rupert
The city council is protesting to the Postmaster General at the inadequacy of the present postal service in Prince Rupert and is insisting that something be done as soon as possible to rectify the situation. A motion along this line was passed at Monday night's meeting of the council. The mover was Ald. H. M. Daggett and the seconder Ald. George Hills. Speeding up of the opening of the new Post Office to be established in the east end of the city and the institution of a street delivery system are being asked.
Ald. J. S. Black suggested that the council would be told nothing could be done about the street delivery system until there was an improvement in streets and sidewalks. Such a reply would be sidestepping the issue, Mayor W. M. Watts commented.

BONUS IS UNCHANGED

DAILY EDITION  Wednesday, February 3, 1943

EDITORIAL

Premier Churchill in Turkey . . .

The visit of Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain to Turkey at this time is a matter of much interest and possibly of great importance. The event is a sequel to the Casablanca rendezvous of Churchill and Roosevelt and, of course, has had to do with the Allied war plan. Just what the exact purpose of it was or the result of it may be are still obscure but may be clarified before long. Meanwhile, there will be plenty of speculation.

It is evidence of the importance that is attached to Turkey in the scheme of war that the Prime Minister of Great Britain should have gone there in person. Of course, all that is needed is a glance at the map of Europe and the positions of the contending forces to impress one of the key situation she occupies. She has managed to maintain her position of official neutrality so far but it may not be expedient or possible for her to do so much longer.

Sending Canadians Overseas . . .

Evidently, Canadian military policy is still key-noted by the prime factor of the necessity of sending her selected forces, particularly in the way of air strength, to Great Britain for use in the European theatre. That would appear to be the inference to be drawn from the announcement made by Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King speaking in the debate at Ottawa in the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne.

We on the Pacific Coast are naturally interested in the disposition of our trained forces. Undoubtedly, the general opinion is that the main issue of the war will be settled in Europe. There are some, however, who suggest that, because Europe was the main battleground of the last war, it does not necessarily follow that it will be the final one in this conflict. Our enemies were centralized in Europe in the last war. That is not the case in this.

Importance of Nutrition . . .

Much might be accomplished if the nutritionists could change the eating habits of workers and the people in this country. Nutrition does not mean the adoption of food fads. It is not a cure-all, but when literally one-fifth of our population is underfed, and when up to 40 per cent of recruits for the Canadian army have had to be rejected for medical reasons, it is time we set about eliminating causes which destroy the illusion of our being a young and virile race.

A concentrated and organized attack on the problem of poor nutrition, however, is under way. Government departments are vitally interested; so are business organizations. Internationally-known nutrition experts are directing a campaign. Industry and business have much to gain by any betterment in their workers' health. Unfortunately nutrition is not something which can be ordered or regulated. It is a propaganda problem; an educational job. Yet it is one in which business executives across the country can help.

THE EXPERTS SAY . . .

SIGNPOSTS for housewives along the front line:
SUGAR—Here is a tip from the ration administration of the Prices Board to guide you. It reports no extra sugar will be allowed for any purpose at all prior to the opening of the official canning season, which lasts from June 1 to October 31. Plans now are under consideration for the distribution methods to be used. Full details will be announced later.

SAVING—Now is the time to save your glass jars, wax and rubber rings for the next preserving season as the consumer section of the Prices Board warns there will likely be a scarcity of both. It says wax can be refined and used over and over again, and tests prove it gives the best sealing for foods against spoilage by air.

TABLECLOTHS—Here are some hints to remember the next time you wash your linen tablecloths which are daily becoming more precious. If you do starch them use very little. Fibres crack if they are too stiffly starched. Don't allow your linen to freeze while drying—frozen yarns are more brittle. Avoid the use of caustics and very hot water to wash, bleach or remove stains. Iron with a moderate to hot iron while tablecloth is still damp—first across the width of the wrong side, then along the length on the right side. If the cloth is linen damask this will bring out the pattern and give it a shimmering finish. Embroidered linens should be ironed on the wrong side on a well padded surface such as layers of bath towel.

READY-TO-EAT-FOODS—Laura Pepper, chief of the consumer section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, asks the housewife to start her own "back to grandmother's day campaign" and leave the ready-to-eat foods as much as possible for the women who work long hours on war jobs. This is one way you can free man-power for vital war jobs, she says.

ALUMINUM—Utensils made of aluminum need to be coddled these days. The experts suggest that for regular cleaning hot water and a neutral soap are best, avoiding the use of either soda or abrasives if possible. Soda has a slight solvent action on this metal but if badly burned pans necessitate its use, mix it with a little waterglass such as is used for egg preservation. This prevents the chemical action with soda. Abrasives scratch and wear the surface. Even if the interior of cooking pans is slightly discolored it is best to leave them for they acquire a slight protective surface coating. The outsides of the pans can, however, be cleaned and polished with fine steel wool.

LEATHER—To give new life to your chair covers or other morocco leather articles that have become discolored or faded, wash with milk and water and dab on a little castile soap. To remove grease rub over the leather when dry with carbon tetrachloride. Finally the leather can be stained with a spirit dye or if only slightly faded an application of a reliable colored shoe cream should do the trick.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.
 By DOROTHY GARBUTT
 The Hostess

When you come up to the Hut you will notice that the sign over the door of what used to be the family lounge has been changed to: Ladies' Lounge and Children's Corner—Open to men during the day for radio, piano and letter writing. I rather regret having to make this change but for two or three months now I have been hoping that the persons who used the room in the evenings would take better care of it. But it was no use. Morning after morning I would look in and see what the detective story magazines call a shambles, Coke bottles dribbling over on the tables and piano, staining them, cigarette butts left to burn into the edges of furniture. One day there was even a piece of pie stuffed into the sides of a big chair. The lounge will be used in the evenings for supervised card drives or orchestra and play rehearsals. Moreover, we will soon have the women's only with us and we need a pleasant place for them.

Today Frank Ryan showed me a very interesting "Guide to Companionship" distributed to the service men by the Baptist Church. In it there is the famous passage from 1: Corinthians, Verses 4-5, from the Moffatt Translation. It is as follows: "Love is very patient, very kind. Love knows no jealousy; love makes no parade, gives itself no airs, is never rude, never selfish, never irritated, never resentful; love is never glad when others go wrong, love is gladdened by goodness, always slow to expose, always eager to believe the best, always hopeful, always patient. Love never disappears."

Remember the old familiar translation of the same passage: "Charity suffereth long and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up. Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things. Charity never falleth."

LOCAL NEWS NOTES

▲ S.O.N. meeting Thursday, Feb. 4.
Latest recruits for the local reserve unit, are A. V. Dunnell, G. W. Wanstall, J. J. Goldberg and A. M. Curfman.

J. V. Neufeld of Vancouver arrived in the city this morning from the south, being here to join the staff of Booth Memorial High School as science teacher.

Rotary Luncheon

J. A. Collins left last night for Port Clements.

Allan Cormack of the local dry dock administration returned to the city this morning from a business trip to Vancouver.

Owing to frozen ground, it has been impossible for the city to get anything done in regard to repairing of a foot trail and bridge across Hays Creek, allowing a short route for pupils from the Sherbrooke Avenue area to King Edward School. After the weather moderates, it is planned to do something about it.

Ald. George Hills suggested at Monday night's meeting of the city council that something might be done to facilitate the cashing of checks for local industrial workers who were unable to get uptown during banking hours. Mayor W. M. Watts and other members of the aldermanic did not see that this was a matter for the city council. Ald. Thomas Elliott felt that it would become necessary to pay the workers in cash. Ald. J. S. Black saw as a solution of the matter a municipal co-operative bank which would give a service which the present banks were failing to render.

MEAT LOAF VARIETY

Here are a few suggestions for greater variety in meat loaves for the duration:

1. Mix half can of condensed tomato soup with the meat loaf mixture, pour remaining soup on top or over the loaf before baking. This adds flavor and color.

2. Spread meat loaf mixture in a square on heavy waxed paper, about 3/4 inch thick. Spread with a 1/2 inch layer of mashed potatoes mixed with an equal amount of cooked peas. Roll up like a jelly roll spread with catsup or roll in fine crumbs, and bake 45 minutes in a moderately hot (375 degree) oven.

3. Spread half the meat loaf mixture in the pan, then spread with a layer of bread dressing, seasoned to taste. Top with a layer of the remaining meat mixture. Serve with hot gravy made from the drippings, for a meat-and-dressing meal.

4. Divide the meat loaf mixture in half and between two layers of meat place a layer of leftover or canned vegetables—corn, hominy, beans, carrots—and serve with hot tomato sauce or brown gravy.

5. Place a layer of dried fruit—prunes, apricots, peaches or a mixture—in the bottom of the loaf pan, then serve the finished loaf upside down with the fruit for garnish.

Remember, when the meat loaf is cold it is good sliced between mustard-buttered slices of bread for a tasty lunch box sandwich. It's fine in stay-at-home sandwiches, too, especially if lettuce and salad dressing are added, and the bread is toasted.

STORY OF FAR EAST

Clark Gable, Lana Turner Co-Star in "Somewhere I'll Find You"

"Somewhere I'll Find You," co-starring Clark Gable and Lana Turner, opens at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow and runs through the week-end.

Gable appears in the role of a war correspondent. Miss Turner is a girl reporter in the war zone who falls head over heels in love with him as she leads terrified Chinese children to safety from the Japanese bombers. Robert Sterling, as Gable's brother, also a newspaperman, plays the difficult role as the unsuccessful suitor.

The supporting cast includes Patricia Dane, Tamara Shayne, Lee Patrick, Reginald Owen, Charles Dingle, Leonid Kinskey, Diana Lewis and Sara Haden.

The story presents Gable and Sterling as correspondents for a New York newspaper, just returned from the Far East. Their editor, Charles Dingle, is not yet awake to the danger of the situation there and by a ruse they get a story in the paper against his policy. Both are dismissed.

In the Greenwich Village home of an artist, Reginald Owen, where he once roomed, Gable discovers Lana Turner, a reporter on the same paper, occupying his former quarters. She is engaged to his brother.

When the editor assigns her to cover the Far East and she is among the missing, Gable and Sterling go after her. They find her at length, transporting Chinese children to safety. The Pearl Harbor incident flings America into the war and the trio becomes involved in real action abruptly, with dramatic results.

When the curtain went up, revealing Woolcott as Henry VIII the audience hissed for five minutes.

How unpopular Madge Kennedy must be," he muttered as he made his exit.

At odd intervals he took a curious interest in politics. He once entered himself as a candidate for county librarian of a New England precinct in which he did not live but was merely visiting. He was irked because every time he went to the library for a particular book he always found it "out." He wanted to be elected to make everyone return the overdue books. He lost.

He served in the American Expeditionary Force in the first world war and was a member of the staff of "The Stars and Stripes," a part of which, including Woolcott, returned to found the magazine "The New Yorker."

He never married. He had a home in New York city and a summer home at Moosehead, Vermont. He was famed for his hospitality to celebrities in both places.

His New York apartment, at the far end of a street overlooking the East River, was frequently the scene of breakfast parties that included as many as sixty guests, all famed in the theatrical or literary world.

Lived Free Happy Life

Alexander Woolcott Regarded Being Good Reporter Most Important

The ebullient Alexander Woolcott, who died in New York a few days ago, lived a happy, crowded life as newspaperman, actor, playwright, author, raconteur and radio commentator.

He always insisted that his most important job was that of being a good newspaper reporter. And he proved to be one of the most observing and interesting reporters of his time.

He radiated good humor. There were few things that he liked better than subtle humor and usually at the expense of himself. Once, when he was sailing for Shanghai, New York ship news reporters spied him strolling the deck looking a good deal like a Chinese junk with its fat sails full.

"I wish to emphatically deny," he beamed, pointing to his bulky figure, "that all rickshaw boys plan to go on strike when I arrive in China."

That particular voyage was being made merely to visit again with his long-time friend, Harry Kean Yuan, son of Yuan Shin-Kai, who was president of China from 1912 to 1916. The two had been students at Hamilton College. That is, they were students until Harry was expelled for throwing rocks through his classroom windows. Harry then went to Colgate university which Woolcott gleefully described as "an institution maintained for benefit of persons expelled from Hamilton."

A Cub Reporter

His newspaper career began as a cub reporter on the New York Times. One of his first assignments was as a rewrite man on the story of the sinking of the Titanic. As "a leg man" his reportorial assignments often took him to police headquarters and his work on crime stories gave him an enthusiasm for murder stories, fact or fictional, that he never lost.

A dramatic critic for the Times, Sun and World in New York, his reviews of Broadway shows were penetrating, witty and frequently devastating. When he was enthusiastic, as he always was for such actresses as Mrs. Fiske, Helen Hayes and Lynn Fontanne, no one could sound the drums of praise with such vigor.

And when he thought a show or performance was bad his pen dripped vitriol. The Shuberts were so angered by one of his reviews in 1916 that they banned him from all their theatres.

Playwright-Actor

In 1931 he made his first appearance as an actor in "Brief Moment," in which he played a humorously sardonic kibitzer who commented upon everyone's drawing-room behavior except his own. He was a suave, able actor, especially good in roles that needed a performance spiced with dry wit.

Acting Debut

His acting debut really was a sort of amateur performance when he played scene with Madge Kennedy from "Henry VIII" before an audience that consisted of Jascha Heifetz, Irving Berlin, Lady Diana Manners, Helen Hayes, Mrs. Fiske, Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

When the curtain went up, revealing Woolcott as Henry VIII the audience hissed for five minutes.

How unpopular Madge Kennedy must be," he muttered as he made his exit.

At odd intervals he took a curious interest in politics. He once entered himself as a candidate for county librarian of a New England precinct in which he did not live but was merely visiting. He was irked because every time he went to the library for a particular book he always found it "out." He wanted to be elected to make everyone return the overdue books. He lost.
