Germans Fighting Like Beasts in Cage in Stalingrad Area

MOSCOW, Jan. 9 (P)—Battlefront dispatches declare that the Germans are fighting desperately in an effort to keep open the corridor into the Caucasus but that the Red Army is battering its way steadily through hastily massed tanks and forces of motorized infantry. Smashing through a wall of German resistance across the lower Don with tank attacks and planes, the Russians reported yesterday that their forces had driven to within 65 miles of Rostov, the fall of which would trap the Nazis in the Caucasus. This represented a gain of ten miles since the Red Army reached Bolshayla Orlovka on the Sal River Thursday.

The leading edge of the Russian offensive down the Don River passed Strakhov, west of Bolshaya Orlovka and sixty-five miles east of Rostov, dispatches said. Two villages on the northern bank of the Sal River between Bolshaya and Strakhov were also reported taken.

Despite cold rains and melting now that converted roads into bogs, four Russian armies plunged steadily forward today in a giant enveloping movement against the Germans in the entire lower area of the eastern front. Red Army technicians followed the retreating enemy closely and removed thousands of land mines.

.Fog reduced the visibility in some sectors but the Russians were reported to be advancing town ds
