Impatient Over Roads

Impatience was expressed at the meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night over the continued deterioration of local street conditions, the outcome of discussion on the subject being the decision to take the matter up with the city with a view to increasing the pressure for immediate action.

J. E. Boddie referred to the "disgraceful condition" of the road between Hays Creek and Seal Cove. On the occasion of the recent visit of the Governor General some temporary patching up had been done in the way of filling up holes but now the road was, if anything in worse shape than ever. Mr. Boddie said that the machinery was available here to carry out the necessary improvement work.

W. J. Scott agreed that this road was in a deplorable condition. He wondered at traffic being maintained on it.

Opinion was expressed that traffic arising from the air base was responsible for the condition of the road.

One suggestion was that a public indignation meeting should be held. Another was that the editorial support of the press should be secured with a view to arousing public opinion in demand for action.

Question of Squatters Is City Problem

The city council last night had before it the matter of disposing of the military authorities of certain residents of Skeenaville along the waterfront beyond the elevator. Where they might be provided for in the future was the question. The problem in connection with the Skeenaville people also brought up the status of the residents of Wantage Road. The outcome was the decision to have a general survey made with a view to formulating some policy in regard to so-called "squatter." The finance committee was given the problem to follow up.

Frankfurt Set Afire

Mass Attack on Important German Industrial Centre Costs Twelve British Planes.

LONDON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Frankfurt, still smoking from an American daylight raid, was pounded by Royal Air Force and Royal Canadian Air Force bombers in a mass attack last night which left the Nazi war production centre so aflame that fires could be seen three hundred miles away.

Canadian air crews reported little opposition.

Twelve planes are missing, five of them Canadian.

More than five hundred tons of bombs were dropped on Frankfurt. Returning bomber crews reported large fires eating through sections of the city.

The Frankfurt raid followed Sunday night's attack on Kassel, ninety-one miles northeast of Frankfurt, where Canadian crews reported bombing was well concentrated with many large fires started.

New Highway Route North From Hazelton Strongly Endorsed by Local Board

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce last night gave its strong endorsement to a newly proposed Alaska Highway route running northward from Hazelton which has been brought forward by Walter Wilson of Burns Lake and already endorsed by the Smithers and Hazelton district boards of and west of the old Yukon Telegraph trail, which had been given a black eye on account of snow conditions, this route from Hazelton through the Naas River valley to the Stikine River above Telegraph Creek, gave better grades and less elevation and snowfall than the Telegraph trail route. Such old timers as George Belnes recommended the Wilson route.

In endorsing this new route, it was decided to enlist also the support of southeastern Alaska communities such as Juneau and Ketchikan.

The highway committee will actively follow up the matter, co-operating in any way possible with its promotion.

For Voters' Convenience

City Office to be Kept Open—Parks and Soldiers—Other Matters Up.

Recognition of correspondence and decisions in matters of lesser importance claimed the attention of the city council in session last night.

From October 25 to 29 the city office will be kept open in the evening from 7 to 9 o'clock for the convenience of voters who wish to place their names on the voters' list, it was decided.

A survey of the number of squatters' houses built on city property along Wantage road will be made to find out how many there are and their condition.

It was decided to repaint the street school signs and have them removed to places where they can be seen to better advantage.

A letter was received from the American Army stating that the city parks had been closed to all American Army personnel.

A letter from Col. D. B. Martyn, Canadian commander, on the same subject stated that the parks had not been declared closed to Canadian soldiers but that they would vigilantly supervised by military police. A decision to ask Col. Martyn to reconsider and have the parks closed to soldiers after dark was passed by the council.

A letter was received from the Northern B. C. Power Co. reporting that repairs had been made to the water pipe line as had been requested by the city, and one was received from Wartime Housing Limited, advising the council that the requested repairs had been made to their water system.

Post-war In Rupert

Canadian National Railways to Be Asked to Consider Proposals for Improvement of Local Facilities.

Post-war reconstruction came in for considerable discussion last night at the monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce after J. J. Little had submitted a proposal that, under this heading, the Canadian National Railways should be approached urging waterfront development, construction of a new station and building of a hotel. The outcome of the discussion was the decision to appoint a committee on post-war reconstruction with the suggestion that a joint committee with the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce be ultimately formed. The matter will be taken up with the Junior Chamber at the latter body's annual meeting this week. The committee of the senior chamber was named in the persons of S. E. Parker, J. J. Little, W. J. Scott and W. F. Stone.

Mr. Little said he had reason to believe that a suggestion for improvement of the railway terminal facilities at Prince Rupert after the war would be favorably received by the Canadian National management.

President R. M. Winslow was pleased with a practical proposal such as this. It would give a committee something tangible to work upon.

In addition to the Canadian National Railways management, the proposal will also be sent to the special provincial committee on post-war rehabilitation for inclusion in its proposals.

IS ADVISED TO STUDY LOCAL NEWS

Frederick William Rourke, a temporary resident here from Vancouver, admitted in police court this morning that he didn't read the local paper and that he did not know there was a drive on to eliminate the making of indiscriminate U-turns on Third Avenue. He had also failed to see yesterday a sign to that effect at the corner of Sixth Street and Third Avenue.

Under the very eyes of Constable Sam Ferguson Rourke executed a U-turn which headed him back in the direction of police court where he arrived this morning.

When Rourke said that the only papers he read were the Vancouver papers, Magistrate Vance replied that it was in his own interest to read the local news and keep abreast of what was going on in town. He fined Rourke $5 or two days in jail.

Aroused by False Alarm Epidemic

The epidemic of false alarms to the fire department recently came to the attention of the city council last night with the adoption of a recommendation from the utilities committee that the police department be asked to work in close co-operation with the fire department in an effort to locate those responsible for ringing in such alarms. A reward of $25 is being posted by the council for information leading to the conviction of those responsible.

Constable E. G. Kidd, of the wireless division of the B.C. Police, and Mrs. Kidd, left this afternoon on a trip to Vancouver.

Columbus Is Little World Series Winner

Two Cases In County Court

There were two civil cases before Judge W. E. Fisher in County Court yesterday. The case of Robert Scharffe, plaintiff, of Skidegate, against Adam Collins, also of Skidegate, for the return of a sum of money allegedly owed him for goods and services, was set over until the next sitting of the court. Plaintiff was represented by W. O. Fulton.

Set over until October 29 was the case of Ole Kildal, plaintiff, who is appealing a court order which causes him to assist in maintaining his wife, Signe Kildal, with a sum of money each week.

C.B.C. Is Desired

Corporation Asked to Definitely Take Over Local Radio Station as Part of National Network.

The Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce is still strongly in favor of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation permanently taking over the local station and operating it as a direct link with the national network. A resolution to this effect was passed at last night's meeting of the chamber to strengthen the hand of the radio committee of the chamber, the chairman of which committee is D. C. McRae. The committee will go ahead actively following up the case for improved radio service here which it is felt can best be achieved by the Corporation permanently taking over and operating the station.

In the course of discussion it was stated that the progress which had been made since the CBC had supposedly taken over the station almost a year ago could hardly be considered satisfactory. There had been reasons to expect that by this time the station would have become a live and direct outlet for the Corporation. The board of governors had been invited to come here but had found it impossible to do so. Two members of the board had been here and had been interviewed but they had little information as to future plans.

There was some discussion as to the actual intention of the Corporation to take over the station, this culminating in the resolution that the Corporation be requested to implement an implied undertaking of last year to take over and operate it on the national network basis as soon as possible.

Keep Open Waterfront Approaches

The city council is of the opinion that there should be no interference with the approaches in the station and docks here. The proper authorities will be approached to ensure that such approaches are kept open at all times.

Fifth Army Eighty-Five Miles Away

Allies Advancing in Italy despite Increased Resistance—Brenner Pass Pounded.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ALGIERS, Oct. 5 (AP)—Four to five German divisions along the line extending across the country from coast to coast in Italy are putting up increased resistance to Fifth and Eighth Army advances, it was reported officially today.

Meanwhile a powerful Allied air arm reaching from North Africa smashed at German reinforcements enroute into Italy at Brenner Pass rail city of Bolzano.

On the ground the Allied advance in Italy continued with the Anglo-American Fifth Army seizing Montesarchit, nine miles southwest of Benevento, and with reinforcements for the British Eighth Army pouring behind Nazi lines at Termoli on the Adriatic coast.

Radio France at Algiers reported the Fifth Army is now less than eighty-five miles from Rome. The radio said that the Nazis had abandoned hope of making a stand along the Volturno River and were withdrawing northward toward Rome.

Inquest Into Billmor Death Is Adjourned

Pending the return to the city of the principal witness who is now in Vancouver, the coroner's inquest into the death of Lee Jack, a Chinaman, as a result of injuries sustained recently at Billmor sawmill has been adjourned until October 13. In session yesterday afternoon before Coroner M. M. Stephens, the jury heard some of the evidence before the session rose for adjournment.

BATTLE FOR DODOCANESE

CAIRO Oct. 6 (AP)—British troops are still battling German invasion forces on the Dodecanese island of Kos, an Allied communique said Tuesday, but no indication of the trend of the battle is given.

In future garbage cans provided by the city must be paid for by those receiving them or before delivery. The city engineer and the city treasurer have been so instructed by the civic finance committee.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT

So much are we taken up with the wizardry of the performance when watching a Captain Armitage show, such as that of Sunday night at the Capitol, that we are learning a great deal about Dickens that we never knew before. Opening with an informal chat during which he moves freely through the audience, dispensing largesse of facts and purse (as witness the bronze medals of the society he gives out), he tells us briefly when Dickens was born, when he died, touching on his life, his poverty, his aspirations as an actor which came to nought because he had the "flu" the day of his audition. He explains the settings of his character sketches, that he uses candles to get in the mood because in Dickens' day candles were the only means of illumination. Electricity did not come until the eighties, the telephone in the nineties (I hope my memory serves me), the radio in 1922 and the talks in 1926. In Dickens' day the Great Western Railway was the wonder of the age. And by the time the evening is over Dickens has become very much alive for us, not merely through the vivid and realistic portrayal of his characters by the artist but by the very romance of facts and figures. If Dickens missed an alternative calling as actor I think indeed that Frank Guy Armitage missed one as a teacher but certainly not of the Schoolmaster Squeers variety.

A trilogy of characterizations, Uriah Heap, Grandfather Smallweed and Schoolmaster Squeers were first on this notable program followed by an astonishing ventriloquist act in which Master Johnny, presumably of the RCAF, quipped cleverly with his master and very cheekily with the audience, in particular Squadron Leader Foy and Major Parks. A dramatic vignette of the last hour of Sydney Carton from "The Tale of Two Cities" came next. After the interlude the Captain displayed some remarkable sleight of hand work aided and abetted by Private Don Stewart of the Acropolis. And in conclusion an extremely clever presentation of the regeneration of Scrooge from "The Christmas Carol." Truly, a night to be remembered.

Musical interludes were provided by Cpl. Walter Black who sang four songs accompanied by LAC Smith. Walter sings beautifully and gives his services generously for every occasion.

Show of Captain Frank Armitage Greatly Enjoyed

The characters of some of Charles Dickens most famous novels came to life on the stage of the recreation hall at Seal Cove on Saturday night. The man responsible for this incarnation was Captain Frank Guy Armitage, world war veteran, doctor, writer, lecturer, magician, ventriloquist, and, of course, one of the greatest authorities on Charles Dickens and fine impersonator of the characters created by the great English novelist.

Across the stage, in front of one's very eyes, walks "David Copperfield's" sycophantic Uriah Heap, one minute showing with flattery, and then, with one's back is turned, calling the vilest of names.

One saw, with menacing ease in hand, Squeers, the tyrannical school master in "Nicholas Nickleby," threatening and frightening the poor, wretched schoolboys who, due to circumstances beyond their control, were sent to this orphanage.

One looked compassionately upon Sydney Carton, dissolute but brilliant English lawyer, in "A Tale of Two Cities," who sacrificed his life on the guillotine so that his rival in love, who should have been beheaded instead, might marry the woman they both loved.

One also watched with interest the miserly Scrooge, in a "Christmas Carol," who, thanks to a dream, or rather a nightmare that he had experienced on Christmas Eve, became inordinately generous to those of whom he used to take advantage.

Captain Armitage depends mainly on facial expression and restrained gesticulations of his hands for dramatic effect. He uses no make-up whatsoever and a minimum of costumes and stage furniture.

In order to create an atmosphere indigenous to the times of Charles Dickens, he uses candles, a great deal of off stage lighting and also other little appointments such as quills which used to be employed in those days.

Captain Armitage also tells at the beginning of the show and before each act, something about Charles Dickens' life and times, and thus slowly envelopes one with the mood necessary for the enjoyment and appreciation of his subtle impersonations.

Too, Captain Armitage, with his informal speaking style, and humor, has the happy faculty of being able to break down the inevitable barrier between audience and artist, so much so that they soon find themselves becoming part of the stage portrayals and take a subjective, instead of the usually objective view of a performance.

For comedy relief, Captain Armitage and his little friend, Johnny, put on a ventriloquist act which, in parts, is even funnier than other well known prototypes of radio and screen. And to make his versatility

How Americans Won Softball

In Saturday night's Interservice League softball playoff, the Air Force Flyers started a

The Airmen started their comedy of errors in the very first act. That was good for two Complement runs. After Aubrey strolled, the clever Lancaster laid down the first of his neat bunts that caught the Blue Boys flat footed. Crymbal didn't exactly help his own cause when he errored Nigro's bounder, loading all stations. Anderson then bunted to Volsky who threw wild in an attempt to catch Aubrey at the plate. Ofsonka then hoisted one to Gestaldin in left, permitting Lancaster to count after the catch, with the second run.

Air Force awakened from its lethargy in the fourth. Bennes smashed the pellet through short for a single. Crymbal batted out an infield hit. With two on and none down, Volsky dribbled the ball to Nigro, who in an attempt to force Bennes at third, pegged badly, permitting him to come in with their only run of the game.

The Americans got it back in their half on a single, two errors, and some smart base running. Manders opened up with a clean knock to right and raced on to second while Anderson was handling the apple as if it were a hot potato. O'Leary, not to be outdone, over threw Manders' theft of third. There was a brief respite while Aubrey struck out. Then Lancaster planted another one of his short ones that was good for a base hit. And to complete the farce, he streaked for second on the next pitch and, while the airmen vainly tried to run him down, the long-legged Manders galloped home.

Complement got their last marker in the fifth. Ofsonka lined safely into centre for a one bagger and after Filson fanned, made second on a close play on Randall's fielder's choice. Carlson followed with a walk, making it three on and one away. Manders, next gunner, slapped one at Crymbal who tossed home in attempt to force Ofsonka at home. But O'Leary bobbled the pitch, to permit Ofsonka to count with the fourth and last tally.

The rubber match for the Area Softball Championship will be played at Seal Cove today.

KEEP SANITARY

Editor, Daily News

We presume that in this city, as in most cities, there are certain sanitary rules which the citizens are expected to keep.

The obnoxious habit of spitting on the sidewalks and steps of public buildings is not only filthy and nauseating but a very definite menace to public health. Now that the season for more frequent colds is approaching, it would be well if the health authorities were to take steps to curb this disgusting and unnecessary practice.

The building of the Alaska Highway was an epic war effort. Many of the workers who speedily completed this lifeline of Victory were protected by Stanfield's Underwear against the cold of the north country.

You, too, can get Stanfield's Underwear. In spite of large shipments to our armed forces, we are providing our dealers with a supply of good underwear for civilian use. You may not find all the styles and sizes formerly available, but you will find a Stanfield's garment to fit you.

Do not buy more underwear than you actually need. But, when you do buy, buy Stanfield's. Then you are sure of quality underwear that fits well, and wears longer.
