Red Army Has Reached Rostov

IT WASN'T SUCH A GOOD IDEA, TOJO

When the Japs camouflaged this big transport with palms and other tropical foliage so that it could move through the island dotted waters of the South Pacific without detection, they failed to take into consideration the sharp sight of our airmen. American fliers spotted the transport near New Guinea and gave it the 'works.' The "clever" camouflage helped the bombers, for the highly inflammable stuff made a roaring furnace of the Jap vessel.

PERISHED ON BEACH

Body of Harold Gillam, Pilot of Seattle-Ketchikan Plane, Found

KETCHIKAN, Feb. 9 (CP)—The body of Harold Gillam, veteran Alaska pilot, whose plane had been missing for over a month on a flight from Seattle to Ketchikan, was found on Bocadequadra Beach near here Saturday. He had set out to get help after his plane had crashed but perished. He evidently died from shock and exposure.

Four of the passengers were rescued last week.

One passenger—a woman—Susan Batzer, aged 23, of Camas, Washington, died of injuries two days after the crash.

Four passengers who survived the crash of the commercial plane on a mountain peak at Smeaton Bay January 5 are on their way to Ketchikan aboard a coastguard rescue ship. They are Dewey Metzendorf of Anchorage, Robert Gebro of Seattle, Percy Cutting of Hayward, California, and Joseph Tippetts of Anchorage, all of whom reached the rescue ship safely.

Big Wheat Man Dead

John I. McFarland Controlled More Grain Than Any Other Man

VANCOUVER, Feb. 8 (CP)—John I. McFarland, aged 69, leading grain authority and former head of the central selling agency of the Canadian Wheat Pools, died in hospital here.

John I. McFarland, who learned his first lessons in the grain trade from a bookkeeper's stool, was born in Halton County, Ontario, in 1873 and step by step rose to control more wheat during the economic depression years than any other man in the history of the world. The estimates of wheat which he controlled through his post as directing head of the wheat pools varied from 100,000,000 to 225,000,000 bushels.

His early life was spent around Halton county but in 1898 he answered the call of the west and went to Winnipeg. He had a little knowledge about the grain trade gleaned in the east but that was before the grain trade amounted to much although the Dominion was recognized as an agricultural country. He spent two years in Winnipeg and then journeyed to the Alberta foothills.

He picked Edmonton as a home and became a bookkeeper with a grain company. The province at that time was not noted for its wheat. The southern areas were given to ranching and in the north farming was only on a small scale. As Alberta turned to wheat production, so did John McFarland's fortunes rise. Far-sighted, he kept close tab on Alberta's development. With his knowledge of marketing and his few savings, he became an important cog in the small machinery of the Calgary and Alberta Grain Company.

Humble Beginning
The nucleus of the Calgary and Alberta Grain Company was a single elevator which the youthful McFarland operated in Strathcona, now South Edmonton. Gradually others were added and Mr. McFarland became president of its extending operation. In 1912 he effected an amalgamation between his company and the Alberta Pacific Elevator Company to form the Alberta Pacific Grain Company. The new company had 113 country elevators with the Globe Elevator Company at Calgary operating the storage elevator. The latter company was absorbed by the Alberta Pacific quickly.

Prospects of Peace . . .

Talk of an early Allied victory is very much in the air these days. Even such responsible leaders as Joseph Stalin of Russia and Chiang Kai-Shek of China are indulging in it. Through devious other channels, some of which are supposedly Axis-inspired, peace rumors are emanating.

It is difficult for us to see at this distance how peace, dictated and insured by our side as it must be, can be possible in the very near future. Germany, to be sure, has been taking some heavy punishment lately but that she has by any means nearly spent all her resources does not seem likely. Any supposed internal collapse would have to be viewed with suspicion.

So much for Germany, then there is also the matter of Japan which some people think will be easy to dispose of once Germany is out of the way. Be that as it may, the fact remains that Japan has a lot of territory now that does not belong to her and that, by our resolution, must be restored to its rightful owners.

We might as well admit that both Germany and Japan need a lot of beating yet. How that is going to be accomplished in the very near future is a little difficult to visualize. We would not suppose, on the other hand, that Stalin or Chiang Kai-Shek would be indulging in wishful thinking.

The Situation Here . . .

Whether or not they may be justified in feeling that way, the people of Prince Rupert are feeling a good deal more secure these days than they did a year ago at this time in the matter of the possibility of an enemy attack. It should not, however, be assumed that, because an attack has not been made, it will not be.

No doubt we are justified in feeling that our defences are much stronger and better organized than they were and that any attack in this direction by the enemy might be very costly to him and not worth the candle. However, it is a war of surprises and the Jap has the way of striking where he is least expected and particularly at places where he thinks the guard is down.

While we do not expect that we will ever be taken here, we do not need to feel too sure that some move might not be made in this direction. It is fitting that we should remain careful, even though we may not need to be unduly alarmed.

Canadianizing Japanese . . .

Grant McNeill, C.C.F. member of the Legislature for North Vancouver, suggests that consideration should be given in the course of post-war planning to the question of the Japanese. Evidently, he does not take very seriously the proposals that have been made for the repatriation to their native land of the Japanese after the war is over.

There is very much difference of opinion in regard to the possibility of "Canadianizing" the Japanese. That difference of opinion probably exists just as much among the sympathizers with Mr. McNeill's line of economic thought as it does in the public generally.

No doubt Mr. McNeill is speaking from his personal conviction on the subject. He is known to be outspoken of his own views.

Dry Dock Loses First Game in Fourteen Starts

The mighty Dry Dock basketball team has at last fallen. The Yanks, under the skillful coaching of Sgt. Bob Thraikill, defeated the hither unbeaten Shipbuilders 33 to 27 in a bang-up melon fixture at Seal Cove on Friday night. Paced by Fernandez and Lefty Moline, the Yanks after being down 23 to 16, turned on the old scoring power in the third quarter and tied up the ball game at 25-all. But the Shipbuilders came right back with Angus MacPhee flipping in a couple of beauties to once more take the lead. It was short-lived, however. A determined Yank rally and Dominato's trip to the show-ers ahead and gave them a thrilling victory over the top-notch Dry Dock five. Angus MacPhee, as usual, led the scorers with 14 points, closely followed by Fernandez and Moline of the Yanks with 11 points each.

In the other games the Air Force took the measure of the Grocers 33-22, the High School edged out the Company B 34-27 after five minutes of overtime, and the Signals chalked up their second win with a close victory over the Ontario Regiment five, 37-33.

The High School game was a thriller with five minutes of overtime being needed to decide a winner. The scoreboard at the end of regulation play read 25-25. But the Bookworms pulled up their socks and flipped in nine quick points to two by the Company and, in doing so, chalked up their second win to tie with the Signals. Arney, led the High School with 14 points. Don McDonald pulled the blunder of the game with his easy toss into his own basket.

PRACTICE IN BUSH

Pacific Coast Rangers of Kincolith Get Training on Trip to Greenville

KINCOLITH, Feb. 8.—Two groups of Pacific Coast Rangers from Kincolith made a trip to Greenville recently and got some unexpected bush battle practice in the bargain.

The two groups, under command of Capt. A. E. Nelson, made the trip up river, a distance of twenty miles, without trouble in rainy weather.

Demonstrations of parade and battle drill, together with other aspects of Ranger training, were given for the benefit of the Greenville detachment, another object of the trip being to work out more effective means of co-operation between the two detachments.

As the manoeuvres were carried out at Greenville "battlefield," the Naas wind struck the combatants suddenly, blinding them with a whirl of snow. The result was a hasty retreat after dark by the Kincolith army, leaving a rearguard. The retreat was conducted in good order despite ice floes and freezing spray, one of the boats getting through to Kincolith.

The second boat was, however, frozen in, the temperature dropping to sub-zero. There was nothing for it but to start on a twenty mile hike home to Kincolith and this was attended with no little adventure. Ordinarily, the distance should have been covered with ease in a day out the terrain to be traversed was not ordinary.

There is a semblance of a trail from Greenville to Fishery Bay, a distance of some six or seven miles, and then no trail at all. The mountains drop steeply to the river, the undergrowth is dense and no bridges across the streams. At times it is necessary to use ropes to scale or descend cliffs. In other places it is necessary to wait for low water and travel across beaches, sometimes going a considerable distance upstream to find a suitable fording place. One advantage was that the snow was frozen hard so it was possible to cover the distance in two days.

The episode, it is pointed out here, demonstrates the need of a good trail along the Naas River and the need of some form of communications, possibly radio-telephone, to link up the Naas River villages.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Lemon Pudding

There are many ways of making sure your family gets nutritional foods

Every child needs more than a pint of milk a day and every adult half a pint at the very least. Many people drink and enjoy fresh milk, others prefer to camouflage it. If your family is "difficult" about milk, here are a few suggestions other people have found excellent. First, and one of the best, is cream soup. There are many kinds of canned condensed soups in the stores... Asparagus, Tomato, Corn, Celery and Pea soups are all even more delicious if they are made with milk instead of water. And a good hearty bowl of cream soup goes a long way to filling a man's daily need of milk. Milk puddings—cocoa—cereals, offer other ways of using milk: but sometimes these may be as hard to sell to a non-milk drinker as milk itself! That is where your ingenuity comes in. Here's a pudding that is tops nutritionally and which will be enjoyed by children of all ages, whether they like milk or not.

2 Brookfield Eggs, 3/4 cup sugar, 1 lemon (juice and rind), 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 3/4 teaspoon salt.
Beat egg yolks. Beat in sugar, lemon juice and flour. Add scalded milk. Fold in suitably beaten whites, lemon rind and salt. Pour into custard cups or baking dish. Place in hot water in shallow pan and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes for individuals, 1 hr. for large pudding. Chill.

Don't forget the other protective foods you and your family need every day... tomatoes, citrus fruits or their juices... green or yellow vegetables (frequently raw)... potatoes... Canada Approved bread... cereals, and, of course, meat and fish or poultry daily, with liver, heart or kidney at least once a week, and three or four eggs each week, too.

CHEESE IS MILK

Cheese, alone or in delicious cooked dishes, offers another way of seeing that your family gets plenty of milk.

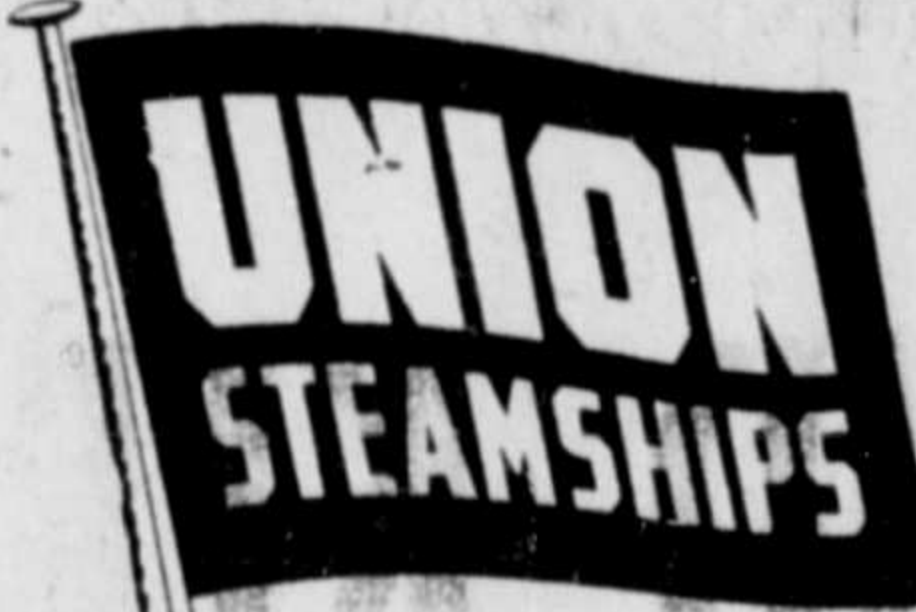

You will make your meat go further if you use Martha Logan's famous meat cookbook: "Meat Complete," 54 pages, stiff binding. Send 10¢ to Swift Canadian Co., Limited, Dept. NE4, Tor.

THE COLD FRAME

One Victory garden task which can be done in the winter is to construct a cold frame. This is a job for amateur wood workers.
 One cold frame may serve several small Victory gardens.

A small cold frame may be made to fit the standard sash, 3 by 6 feet. It may be made twice this size, 6 by 6 feet, but as a rule no larger. It may be made to fit a sash of any convenient size if a substitute for glass is used to cover the sash. A substitute for glass may be better because it is light and does not break. An ideal type is made of a wire screen or a cloth covered with a transparent plastic material.

The cold frame depends upon the sun for its heat, and should always slope toward the south and have uninterrupted sunshine all day. The frame should be made of 1-inch or heavier lumber which resists rot. The frame and sash can be built now and held until the first thaws make it possible to dig a pit in which to instal it.

Dig a shallow pit a bit larger than the frame, and set the frame so that at least four inches are below the surface. Then pile earth all around the outside, tamping it so that no drafts can enter. Earth should be banked against the frame several inches all around.

Soil should also be thrown in the pit inside the frame, so that the surface is level with the ground outside. While it is possible to sow seeds directly in the soil, it is better to use flats, or seed boxes, because they can be handled to better advantage when time comes for transplanting. The frame will serve the same purpose as a hot-bed, except that it is started later, since artificial heat is lacking.

ROMANTIC IN JUNGLE

Dorothy Lamour Coming to Capitol Theatre in "Beyond the Blue Horizon

The jungle romance, "Beyond the Blue Horizon," starring Dorothy Lamour, which comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here on Monday and Tuesday of this week, is replete with romance, thrills and comedy.

The villain of the piece is a man-killing elephant whose stamping ground is the jungle spot where certain papers have been lost which would prove that Dorothy is the heiress to a fortune in the United States. The elephant had killed the girl's parents, leaving her orphaned in the jungle with a friendly tiger as her protector.
 When she grows up, Dorothy returns to civilization but her right to the fortune is disputed and her statement that she has a tiger that swims is challenged by a jungle-bred lion-wrestler in a circus. Skepticism arises as to whether the girl was ever in a jungle. To prove the validity of her claim, it is necessary for her to return to the jungle. The papers are found after many perils, not the least of which is the man-killing elephant.

Handsome Richard Denning is Dorothy's new jungle sweetheart and others featured in the cast are Jack Haley, Patricia Morison, Walter Abel, Helen Gilbert and Elizabeth Patterson.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.
 By DOROTHY GARBUTT
 The Hostess

On Friday and Saturday nights I took a hand at chaperoning a couple of unit dances. They were small dances as dances go but all the nicer as there was room on the dance floor for the couples. The trouble that the entertainment committee went to in order to give everyone a good time was amazing.
 On Friday night at the Empress they enlivened the program with a floor show. Cleaver Wilson was master of ceremonies and co-ordinated one act with the other in a bright and breezy manner. First on the program was Fritz Mister who sang songs in the George Formby manner. Then Reg. Kings recited the touching ballad of "Who-Flung Mud," followed by Cliff Mc-Aree at the piano. He proved his artistry with a splendid interpretation of Liszt's "Polonaise." Corporal Al (Burlesque Queen) Allison gave a fan dance which brought down the house. The Ontario Regiment Band contributed the dance music for the evening and they are as smooth an organization as we have. Under the leadership of Sergeant Major Mills they divide their talents equally well between classical and dance music.

Saturday night the Sergeants of a regiment which shall be nameless, except that like Mart Kenny's band it is composed of "Western Gentlemen," held a unit dance at their own quarters. Here again was evinced a warm hospitality and kindness that made the affair a heart-warming event. As the roads were slippery they sent their best driver, the transport sergeant, for the hostesses, a very thoughtful gesture on their part. I for one was quite nervous as the night before we had a near go on the way home.
 Funny thing about a car accident, the queerest thoughts come into your head. Two things flashed through my mind—first, "Well, here it is!" meaning the crash and what goes with it, and the other was, "Damn it, and my sugar coupons aren't finished."

The Service Wives Club is holding a "Bring-a-Friend" bridgewhist drive at Mrs. Kimmel's, 345 Fifth Avenue East, on Tuesday afternoon.

For the past few weeks I have been giving you the list of dances scheduled for the coming week, so here it is for this week:

Tuesday, February 9 — Naval Communications dance, private, at the Eagles' Hall.

Wednesday, February 10—Regular weekly "Y" dance, Empress Hall.

Thursday, February 11—Regular weekly Ontario dance. Hostesses meet at the "Y."

Friday, February 12 — Artillery Unit dance, Empress Hall. Hostesses go directly there.

Monday, February 15—H.M.C.S.
 Chatham dance, Empress Hall.
 Hostesses meet at the "Y."

Miss La Pierre, U.S.O. hostess, has also asked me to say that they are holding a Valentine dance on February 15. Too bad it conflicts with the Chatham dance which was booked for hostesses earlier in the week.

And to all these dances I would once again urge the girls to come early.

STAGE SHOW FOR TROOPS

Edmonton Concert Party Enters at Capitol Theatre and In Camps

(By Dorothy Garbutt)

The Eighth Division Auxiliary Services officer, Captain D. L. Mac-Donald, and the War Services Entertainment Board of the Canadian Legion at Edmonton brought another entertainment troupe for the troops. There were shows yesterday afternoon and last evening at the Capitol Theatre and at various camps during the week-end. Every one of these entertainers gave their time and their services free to come on this trip.

The party consist of six girls and three men with a versatile repertoire of music and other lines. Avis Johnson, who is a real artist at the piano, as evidenced by her lovely accompaniments to the more serious number, is official accompani-list. And although Avis just sits and plays the piano quietly on the sidelines she is pretty enough and sweet enough to be right out front.

Bobby Englund, who was here last time, and Ida Sorenson were cleverly teamed together in accordion, song and patter numbers. Bobby is a born comedienne and Ida a dainty soubrette as pert as she is petite.
 These two were recalled time after time and were top numbers.

Lovely Jacqueline Driver tapped her way into the hearts of the boys and gave them the sunniest of smiles—and plenty of encores.

Betty Freeman, "Sweetheart of the Troops," whose fragile appearance reminded one of a little porcelain princess, belied her looks in an electrifying acrobatic contor-nist performance. And just to show how versatile she is she out later in a tap dance.

Edna Murray, the "Dream sang in her deep blues voice of popular songs and soon the audience singing right with her. The male members cast were few but acceptable tainers. Outstanding was Sergeant J. M. Lange of the Canadian Air Force who sang after song to a most enrapt audience who were sorry to go especially after singing "Home Sweet Home" and "The the Isles" always a sure fire number with the troops. As for tility, Chick Clifford has sang, he played—or almost —the concertina, he imand gave card tricks. He the two soldiers, Bill and who were his impromptu puzzled, and they were right spot.

The tableau number Always Be An England," the National Anthem, was a fine conclusion with giant Lange in the vocal entire cast appearing.

And the master of ceremonies was an old friend Wright, who managed to the numbers smoothly and just the right time—and out a single story in betwe-old was a performer in show from Edmonton.

Usherettes were provided Women's Red Cross Com-Misses Betty Miller, Jean ward, Peggy Dodimead, Ta-ton and Mary Hartin in ning and Mrs. Floyd Smith Victor King and Miss Eva O in the afternoon.
