Reich and Italy Hit

Cologne and Milan Principal Objectives of R. A. F. and R. C. A. F.

LONDON, Feb. 15 (CP)—Powerful aerial squadrons bombing Germany and Italy in a double-barrelled assault, attacked the Rhineland city of Cologne and the Italian arsenal city of Milan last night, it was announced today.

Squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force participated in the attack on Cologne where, despite clouds a great weight of explosives and incendiaries was dropped in less than half an hour. One Royal Canadian Air Force and ten Royal Air Force bombers are missing.

An Italian communique said the Milan attack was carried out by several waves of planes which caused heavy damage.

Last night's raids on Germany and Italy followed the two heaviest attacks yet made on Lorient Saturday night when Royal Air Force and Royal Canadian Air Force bombers unloaded over one thousand tons of bombs on the important U-boat base on the occupied French coast.

AMERICAN REVERSE

German Armored Units Score Break-through in Tunisia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 15 (CP)—German armored units, believed to be from the forces of Marshal Erwin Rommel, have smashed against American positions west of Faid Pass for a twenty-mile breakthrough, endangering the United States anchor of Gafsa, it was disclosed today.

Overwhelming American artillery positions, German tanks branched out to the northwest and southwest of the Pass yesterday.

Sources here said it was assumed Gafsa might soon be evacuated.

SECOND MAN IS MISSING

Third Victim Listed From Slide at Kwinitsa Camp at Week-end

An additional man, supposedly a third victim, is missing following the snowslide of last Friday morning which wiped out the Tomlinson Construction Co.'s Skeena River Highway camp near Kwinitsa. This man is George Balderchak, aged 41, Yugoslav from Egerton, Alberta, who was employed as kitchen help in the camp and had been there only a few days. He had his effects packed and was out of the camp, being told not to return. That is, evidently, the last that anyone saw of him. He was unmarried and had been in the country since 1926.

Men who had been employed in the Kwinitsa camp have now returned there and are digging in the debris for the bodies of Balderchak and Andrew Kirkup of Walberg, the original missing man.

The body of Reginald McClellan, who died of injuries sustained in the slide, leaves tonight for Walberg, Saskatchewan, where a widow and family reside and where the funeral will take place.

The eleven injured in Prince Rupert and Port Edward hospitals continue to recover.

WAR NEWS

GREAT RUSSIAN VICTORIES

Russian forces are closing their trap more tightly on the Nazis in the Ukraine and Caucasus. Another large railway town has fallen.

ADVANCING IN TUNISIA

Advancing along the coastal road, the British Eighth Army is reported to have made contact with Marshal Erwin Rommel's Nazi rearguard twenty miles within Tunisia to the north and sixty miles within in the south while on the central front there has been only partial patrol fighting. Both ground and air fighting has increased with an improvement in weather conditions. The enemy took advantage of the better weather to make an attack which was beaten back.

Fresh attacks by the Royal Air Force on Japanese in Burma are reported.

BIG FIRE IN PEACE

Five Dead, Six Missing, 150 Injured, $150,000 Damage at Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, Feb. 15—Five persons are known dead and 150 are injured as a result of a serious explosion and fire in this Peace River town—booming Northern Alberta railway terminus, supply base and Alaska highway jumping off place—Saturday night.

There was a great explosion in a warehouse containing dynamite and then cries of "Fire" were heard among the excitement-seeking Saturday night crowds. Many spectators were among the injured during the ensuing fire which raged almost uncontrolled for three hours.

An entire block of buildings was destroyed. The blast broke half the windows in town and shook Pouce Coupe, a few miles distant.

The damage is estimated at $350,000. Cause of the blaze has not been established.

The Dawson Hotel, principal stopping place of the town, was evacuated.

All but one building in the town's main block was destroyed before the blaze was brought under control.

Nine of the most seriously injured were flown to Edmonton by a United States transport plane. United States Army doctors—three of them—came from Edmonton to minister to the injured.

At least two are missing. Dozens are homeless. The dead include American soldiers.

WAR HERO IS AGAIN OVERSEAS

Gnr. John French Finds 14 Military Awards for Gallantry in 1914-18 "Embarrassing"

By WILLIAM STEWART Canadian Press Staff Writer

SCOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Feb. 15 (CP)—"It's all very embarrassing," says Gnr. John French when you ask him how he came to acquire 14 military decorations, 11 of which appear above the left breast-pocket of his battledress.

French whose army age is 47 won all 14 in the First Great War. Wherever he goes he promptly becomes surrounded by people who want to know all about his string of ribbons.

That's why he finds it so embarrassing and why he tells questioners that he won his honors for "bringing up the rations."

For the more curious, he reserves the reply that he owes the display on his uniform to "courage in face of the enemy." And on special occasions, French declares sternly that he hates "all this damned attention."

French was born in Grand Bank, Nfld., and went to Canada shortly before the First Great War. When war came he was studying to be a piano-tuner. He had forgotten about piano-tuning when the war was over and when the present war broke out, he was doorman at the Whitney Block, Queen's Park, Toronto.

"I was in line for the job of confidential messenger for the Premier of Ontario," he says. That was in July, 1940, when he enlisted and less than two months later found himself overseas. He's been in Britain ever since and during his stay took the opportunity to marry the English girl to whom he had become engaged when he was overseas during the First Great War.

French, though a King's sergeant and C.S.M. at the end of the First Great War, is perfectly happy with his present rank of gunner.

In the first place he never did want promotion in the first war. He wanted just to be "with the boys," he says. When his fame as "the man they couldn't kill" had started to spread, they made him take "stripes" and offered him the (Continued on Page Three)

RICHELIEU SAFE OVER

Great French Warships and Other Vessels Reach New York From Dakar

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (CP)—The French battleship Richelieu, crippled but still far from impotent, slid into New York harbor last Thursday after dodging a pack of submarines in mid-Atlantic and riding out the toughest gale many of the crew had ever experienced.

The French cruiser Montcalm which, like the Richelieu, had been based at Dakar, made the Atlantic crossing along with several French destroyers.

The transfer ended fears that the powerful French vessel might have fallen into Axis hands.

TWO GREAT CITIES IN RED HANDS

Rostov and Voroshilovgrad Fall—Kharkov Next

LONDON, Feb. 15 (CP)—Rostov fell before Red Army infantry and swarming Cossacks in a bloody struggle Sunday. Many of its buildings were ablaze and hundreds of corpses of German defenders littered the streets and alleys.

The British Broadcasting Co. said that Taganrog, forty miles to the west, already was under Russian artillery fire and the bulk of the Germans trying to flee from the Donets Basin had been trapped.

Soviet armies of the southern front also took Voroshilovgrad and Krasny Sulin, about fifty-two miles north of Rostov, and dispatches told of a Soviet column moving within seven miles of Kharkov. Their capture of Rostov gave the Russians back the southernmost anchor of the German defence line and of Voroshilovgrad, the most important centre of the Don Basin.

The German radio acknowledged the fall of both cities.

The whole German line in southern Russia is crumbling rapidly while the Russian troops menace Kharkov, the huge Nazi bastion to the north, fall of which would constitute even a greater victory for the Red Army. Indeed, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow says that the Germans appear to be already evacuating Kharkov.

Five Russian columns are closing on Kharkov which is surrounded on three sides.

The Germans were apparently preparing today to evacuate the Black Sea port of Novorossiisk, their last remaining stronghold in the Caucasus region.

Sixty-five miles north of the Black Sea coast, the Reds are reported today to have reached Stalino.

Taganrog is reported under fire.

Could Happen Here . . .

A commando raid such as was graphically portrayed in the picture which was shown at the Capitol Theatre here at the end of last week could conceivably happen at many maritime points in the world and one could not repress the thought that it might happen even at Prince Rupert. The picture should have been a good tonic for local people who may have been getting a little complacent lately about the position on this coast, particularly at the key points.

Maybe one does not need to be an undue alarmist by reflecting that even Prince Rupert might some day be the object of a sortie like that. Evidently, the defence authorities are not ignoring the possibility. All that would be needed would be a warship, a commando barge, a hundred or so well trained landing troops with possibly a few fifth columnists thrown in for good and effective measure. Although our defences are strong, they might get by in a suicide raid.

It is one of those things we would do well to be prepared against. Prince Rupert men do not need to be told how they could be playing their part in such preparations. It is surprising that so many supposedly responsible local men are still disinterested and permit much less important considerations to deflect their attention and activity.

It Has Been Done . . .

A few months ago when we advocated that measures be taken to clean up nocturnal roistering and disorder on the main streets of Prince Rupert, there were many who were inclined to ridicule us for talking about it because, they said, nothing could be done and no improvement was possible. However, what they said could not be done has been done. It is interesting to note how much more satisfactory conditions have become since the tightening up of the dispensing of liquor—both hard and light—even though conditions may not be all that could be desired by any means as yet.

Manpower Problem . . .

The federal minister of labor, Mr. Mitchell, as he has consistently been, seems to be more cheerful about the manpower situation in Canada than a lot of other people are. He expresses the belief that his department has things organized in such a way that the needs may be satisfactorily met. It is to be hoped that he is right.

Possibly here in Prince Rupert, where there is undoubtedly a bottleneck in manpower as well as other things, the situation may appear to be unduly serious. It is certainly none too satisfactory here and we had been led to believe that it was a critical problem at a good many other places and in various fields of industry.

Undoubtedly, the government has it in its power to improve the situation if it can resolve itself to take the steps necessary to do so.

Traffic Accidents . . .

Another condition incidental to Prince Rupert's increased population and more metropolitan state is the greatly increased number of traffic accidents. Already this year there have been several fatal traffic accidents. Prior to the past year, one might say, fatalities of this nature here were indeed a rarity. Now, unfortunately, they are becoming almost commonplace.

Traffic facilities, like other things in Prince Rupert, are not geared to the new increased population and industrial activity. The streets need improvements and the traffic regulations require overhauling. As long as conditions continue as they are we may expect more traffic accidents and fatalities. That is the reason why everything possible should be done to speed up action on these matters. Meantime the greatest of precautions are necessary both on the part of drivers and pedestrians.

POST-WAR PROSPERITY—

RISING STANDARD OF LIVING AND IMPROVED ECONOMY FOR WORLD

Annual Report of Bank of Canada Suggests Means for Keeping Up of Employment After War is Over

OTTAWA, Feb. 15—“After the war is over, the present driving stimulus to maximum employment and production will be removed,” said Graham F. Towers, Governor of the Bank of Canada, in issuing the annual report today. “If we are to maintain full employment in peace time, we must substitute other objectives for the current will to win the war. Broadly speaking, our goals should be to provide a rising standard of living and to contribute to the establishment of a world economy which will remove the threat of war. However, concrete and detailed consideration and approval of the specific measures which must be taken to implement a general program are necessary before broad policies can be effectively translated into action. Proper financial and economic policies can play an important part in the attainment of such peace time objectives. But if we are to achieve success, I feel that we must have the same broad measure of public support behind these objectives that is now back of our efforts to win the war.”

Over the past four years, total government expenditure (including provincial and municipal) has increased from about $1 billion a year to about $5 billions a year. At the same time, unemployment has virtually disappeared and the gross value of Canada's output of goods and services has increased from about $5 billions a year to more than $9 billions. Even after allowing for an over-all price increase of, say, 20 per cent, the figures indicate that the volume of output has shown a tremendous expansion, which has not yet ceased. “At the beginning of this period, much surplus capacity was available and rising war expenditures did not at first entail any net decrease in the volume of things which civilians could buy. Indeed, the production (and consumption) of these things expanded somewhat in response to the increased demand of those whose incomes were rising because of the war expenditures. In terms of employment and, to a smaller degree, standards of living, the contrast with the depressed years before the war was striking. In the later stages, of course, war expenditure has increased more rapidly than national production and average living standards are therefore declining. But the experience of the last four years has shown that government war expenditure on a sufficient scale can produce full employment.”

“These developments undoubtedly have made a deep impression upon the public mind. There may be a tendency to conclude that government expenditure for other purposes, at a high enough level, is all that is required to prevent depression in peace time. Such a conclusion does not give sufficient weight to the other important conditions which have existed during the war period. “The need for war goods and services has by common consent been given preference over every other interest. The public has been willing to do whatever is necessary to obtain the maximum output for military purposes. Individuals have worked, have shouldered tax burdens, and have put up with limitations upon their freedom as producers and consumers to a degree that would have been regarded as unthinkable before the war. The government's willingness to spend the large amounts of money involved in the war program has been a necessary and important feature but even more important has been the unity of national purpose which has produced such remarkable economic results over the past four years.”

New Arm Badge Cause Rumpus

LONDON, Feb. 15—Anti-Aircraft Command officials have created a minor tempest in their choice of a new arm badge for its gunners.

The new badge shows an arm bending a bow pointed skyward, with a hand holding an arrow about to be dispatched. The badge is replaces the sword of the City of London piercing a Heinkel bomber, an insignia in which considerable pride was shown by the Home Guard and Army gunners manning anti-aircraft posts in the London district. One Home Guard battery commanded said there was “general derision when new flash was distributed. Questions may be asked in the House of Commons about the change.”

Smiles For Today

Getting out this little paper is no picnic.

If we print jokes people say we are silly;

When we don't they say we are too serious.

If we clip things from other papers we are too lazy to write them ourselves;

If we don't we are too fond of our own stuff.

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius; If we do print them the paper is filled with junk.

Now like as not someone will say, We swiped this from some other publication—

WE DID.

Mrs. Grin: “My husband is an efficiency expert in a large office.” Mrs. Barret: “What does an efficiency expert do?”

“Well, if we women did it, they'd call it nagging.”

A salesman taking his bride South on their honeymoon, visited a hotel where they boasted of their very fine honey.

“Sambo,” he asked the colored waiter, “where's my honey?”

“Ah don't know boss,” replied Sambo, eyeing the lady cautiously, “she don't work here no mo’.”

Colonel: “Why didn't you salute me yesterday?” Lieut. Ben Dinkleman: “I didn't see you, sir.”

Colonel: “Good. I was afraid you were mad at me.”

“Dear Teacher,” wrote an indignant Mother, “you must not slap my little boy. He is a delicate child and isn't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self defense.”

Diner: “Bring me some lamb chops with French-fried potatoes, and I'll have the chops lean.” Waiter: “Yes, sir. Forward or backward?”

Sergeant: “Now take that rifle and find out how to use it.” Private Leo Schwartz: “Tell me one thing. Is it true that the harder I pull the trigger the farther the bullet will go?”

HI SCHOOL IS LEADING

Tops Standing in Service League Basketball League

Paced by the perfect melon tossing of Ted Arney, High School moved into first place in the “Y” Service League by defeating Signals 57-37. Arney had an on-night and just couldn't miss as he chalked up 18 well earned points. McMurchie, for the Signals, ran up 15 points and was ably assisted by Taylor the Signals' guard. This gives the High School three wins in as many starts.

The first game of the night saw the Co-ops suffer another loss, this time at the hands of the Company B boys. Shaw proved to be the shining light for Company B, flipping in 15 points, closely followed by McDaniel's with 10. The final score read: Company B 45, Co-ops 32.

The previous week the Yanks' downed the topnotch Dry Dock squad but fell before the high flying Airmen in the second game on Friday to the tune of 60-47. Jack Lindsay, after being absent for the last few games, stepped back into the picture and gave the Airmen that extra punch. Jack personally chalked up 28 points. The Yanks just didn't have that combination to break the Flyers' offensive and hence their passing wasn't up to the mark. Manders, the tall Yank centre, carried most of the weight, scoring 13 points. Fernandez had a decidedly off night.

The final game of the evening brought together the Dry Docks and the Ontario Regiment. This proved to be a wide open game with the score board taking quite a beating. The score keeper nearly had to send out for an adding machine to keep track of things. The final score was 72-47 for the Dry Docks. Again it was a case of too much Angus M'Phee. The lanky centre had a proverbial string on the melon, tossing in no less than 15 baskets for a grand total of 30 points. Not to be outdone by the Dry Dock ace, the Ontario's star guard collected, no less than 20 points.

Next Friday brings together the High School and the Dry Dock. A win for the scholars would put them well out in front in the league race.

chance, at which he balked, for a commission.

First Great War Record

Just now he's a batman and a good batman he figures. He has the patience a good batman needs on the one hand and on the other he feels that his battling releases a younger man for fighting.

French, an original of the old 2nd Machine-Gun Battalion, served overseas through the First Great War with a total of only 28 days' leave off the continent, though he spent other leaves in France.

When he made his way back to Canada he had the Distinguished Conduct Medal and bar, the Military Medal and two bars, the French Croix de Guerre and palm, the Belgian Croix de Guerre and palm, two mentions in dispatches, the Victory, Mons, and General Service medals. He doesn't wear the two palms nor the mentions.

He won his first D.C.M. in the Second Battle of Ypres when he sat in a house with five other machine-gunners and held off attacking Germans until he was the only one left.

By this time a counter-attack, in which he also took part, had been organized.

"Jerry hit everything in the house but me, that time," says French.

He got the M.M. just about a year later, but he doesn't say why, nor how he got two bars to the M.M. which is the equivalent of getting the decoration all over again twice.

French got the bar to the D.C.H. for holding up attacking Germans with a machine-gun whose tripod had been blown away and which had to be operated upside down.

His left leg was "smashed" during the performance when the Germans exploded two mines in the midst of the machine-gunners. Altogether he was wounded four times during the First Great War. One of his wounds was a bullet in the back of the head.

"My leg is a half-inch shorter from there to there," says French pointing from left hip to left knee.

A Modest Hero

Having told this much, French has little more to say apart from expressing embarrassment.

"I don't see that I did more than the other fellow. I always said after the war that any man who came back from overseas and got going."

Anyway, on this occasion, French said he was a hero is a damn liar. The fear of God was in all of us." He does tell how one time he captured a German machine-gun post after a dash across an area cut by railroad tracks.

"I never can remember crossing those tracks," he explains. "I was excited though. A soldier was pretty tense going over the top! Really he was more nervous awaiting the zero hour than when he went over the top, reached the German position and put two machine-guns out of action. An officer with him was killed.

The number of dead Germans found in that trench when the Canadians moved up behind French was 49. French had to hold the position for 12 hours until help did reach him. He accomplished that feat by turning the two machine-guns on the German lines and holding off attacks by moving from one gun to the other.

He was recommended for the Victoria Cross and it's one of his regrets that he didn't get it.

French returned to Canada in 1919 as one of the most decorated members of the Canadian forces, the most decorated Newfoundland-er, the reputation of being unkillable and engaged to the girl who now is his wife.

WEEKLY WARTIME NUTRITION HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed home economist, whose weekly wartime cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints each Monday

by Martha Logan

Use Variety Meats

Liver, kidney, heart, brains and sweetbread, are extra valuable foods, often available when other meats are scarce

Meat is a wonderful food! It contributes iron, thiamine, niacin and riboflavin as well as the most complete proteins to our diet. There is no other simple food that contributes all of those nutrients in the same degree. So that, with our accustomed meats and meat cuts not always available, we must—if our families are to stay healthy and well nourished—be prepared to use those that we can get.

Of these, the "Variety Meats" are likely to remain comparatively plentiful and are most valuable, nutritionally speaking. Many delicious ways of preparing these excellent sources of important values are described in my book "Meat Complete" (see below); young and tender meats may be grilled or fried—older or more muscular meats are popularly braised with flavourful vegetables. Some Variety Meats such as brains and sweetbreads are parboiled first and then may be prepared in a number of attractive ways. But the purpose of this week's column is to urge you all to be sure to buy and serve these delicious, economical and highly nutritious foods regularly. Though, of course, you mustn't forget milk, fruit, vegetables, eggs, Canada Approved bread and cereals as outlined in Canada's official food rules.

"Meat Complete," Martha Logan's new meat cookbook, is essential to every housewife faced with need of planning economical but nutritious wartime meals. 54 pages in full colour... sturdy binding. Send 10¢ to Swift Canadian Co., Limited, Dept. NE5, Toronto.

TO PARBOIL SWEETBREADS

Soak sweetbreads in salted cold water for 20 minutes. Drain, cover with boiling water, adding 1 tablespoon vinegar and 1 teaspoon salt for each quart. The sweetbreads—hot, or after cooling in their delicious stock—are ready to have tubes and membranes removed, and to be split or separated and fried, sautéed, creamed or made into an appetizing salad.

RUSSIAN RESOURCES

MOSCOW, Feb. 15 (P)—Colossal resources of oil, coal, iron, gold and other non-ferrous metals, rock and phosphoric fertilizers for agriculture, have been discovered in Russia since the Soviet revolution.

BIG SUM FOR DEFENCE

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 15 (P)—A little more than 48 per cent of the Swedish budget for 1943-44 is to be spent on defence alone. About $496,250,000 is set aside for defence.

Many People Attended Nuptials of Louise Wale and James Robinson

HAZELTON, Feb. 15—The marriage was solemnized recently at Hazelton in the Salvation Army Hall of Louise Wale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wale of Hazelton, to James Robinson jr. of Hazelton. Adjutant Goddie officiated.

People of four villages—Kispiox, Glen Vowell, Skeena Crossing and Hazelton—gathered for the occasion of the nuptials. There were 425 present. The wedding festivities were in progress from 2:30 in the afternoon until next morning at daybreak. There were two bands—that of Skeena Crossing, under Conductor David Williams, and that of Hazelton, E. Harris-conductor. Both bands played for a procession from the Salvation Army Hall to the Village Hall where a feast was held.

Six organizations joined in making a wedding presentation. A number of chiefs advised the couple.
