RECRUIT RESERVE

Prince Rupert Machine Gun Units To Start Enlisting Monday With First Parade Wednesday

Recruiting of Prince Rupert's militia reserve unit, the Prince Rupert Machine Gun Battalion, will commence on Monday evening next and the first parade will be held Wednesday evening. It was announced yesterday by the administrative officer commanding, Lieut. Col. G. C. Oswell, in speaking before the Prince Rupert Gyo Club at luncheon yesterday. Being organized solely for the defence of Prince Rupert in the event of attack or imminent danger of attack and not liable to removal elsewhere, the unit will consist of able-bodied men of at least C2 nominal medical category on the basis of cursory physical examination between the ages of eighteen and fifty years. Uniforms, rifles and full equipment will be issued to each man enlisted in the unit and there will be a minimum of two parades a week. Training will be of a practical and technical nature with a minimum of attention to straight drills. Machine gunnery, as suggested by the name, will be the specialty of the unit which will have its headquarters in the garrison armory on Sixth Avenue. Col. Oswell stated that leading military authorities considered that the presence of a trained and effective reserve at Prince Rupert was an immediate and absolute necessity. It would be a No. 1 priority unit as far as equipment was concerned. Japan was still a definite menace and this was a strategic point in the Pacific arena. It was considered quite possible that Prince Rupert might be called upon to defend its own back yard. A good deal of equipment was already here, Col. Oswell disclosed, and more was immediately available. The personnel of the permanent staff of officers had already arrived. In considering enlistment and active participation in the reserve, Col. Oswell asked local men to take into account the importance of the reserve in relation to other organizations which might claim attention. Of course, it was not intended that normal and legitimate vocations of reserve members should be interfered with under normal conditions. Col. Oswell declared that there could be no more procrastination in the matter of getting the reserve into preparation at Prince Rupert. It was important that local men should be equipped with uniforms and trained to man guns against the possibility of action here. Past President W. F. Stone, who occupied the chair at yesterday's luncheon, expressed the opinion that there was almost 100 percent support of the movement for the establishment of a reserve unit at Prince Rupert and, as far as the Gyo Club members were concerned, he believed there would be practically full enlistment.

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—The Department of Munitions and Supply has given final warning to owners of commercial and industrial buildings which have not converted from oil to some other form of heating. There will be no more temporary permits after January 15.

The fuel oil situation is described as "grave."

Great Concentration Of Jap Shipping and Naval Forces at New Britain Id.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 7 (CP) — Air reconnaissance over Japan's big base at Rabaul on New Britain Island has revealed that a concentration of Japanese shipping there has been augmented since Tuesday when it was first disclosed by an Australian government spokesman, it was said in government circles today. Pilots returning from missions over Rabaul were said to have reported that the amount of warship-protected shipping now gathered at Rabaul exceeds forces gathered by the Japanese for the first counter-attack on the eastern Solomons now held by United States forces.

Australian allied headquarters today reported that medium bombers and attack planes yesterday swept over the Japanese airdrome at Lae, New Guinea, destroying four anti-aircraft gun positions and a grounded bomber.

Meanwhile bombers and fighters hit enemy positions along the Sananda trail, last Jap foothold in northwestern New Guinea.

Street Delivery Service Cannot Be Started Now

The Junior Chamber of Commerce has been advised by the Postmaster General's department at Ottawa that it is not in a position to institute a street mail delivery service in Prince Rupert at the present time. Some time ago the Junior Chamber, with the support of other local organizations, requested that such a service be instituted as a means of relieving congestion at the Post Office.

BOARD HAS FIRST MEET

New School Body in Session Last Night—Deane Named Chairman Many Matters Taken Up

Considering in a preliminary way a wide variety of subjects having to do with the local educational machinery, the new board of school trustees had its inaugural session last night. The meeting lasted about two-and-a-half hours and the full board—Jack Deane, Mrs. George Hill Jr., J. T. Langridge, E. J. Smith and C. G. Ham—was in attendance. Considerable progress was made in organizing the work of the board which, for the time being at least, will meet Wednesday evenings of each week.

At the opening of the meeting Jack Deane, having headed the poll at the election, was named chairman of the board on motion of E. J. Smith and Mrs. Hill.

Considerable discussion ensued on the matter of finding a secretary for the board and it was finally decided to obtain, if possible, the services of some member of the City Hall staff, possibly Miss Audrey Wrathall, who has been acting as secretary of the school board under the commission. Failing that, the board will seek elsewhere for a secretary, a monthly salary of $30 being tentatively set. A committee consisting of the chairman and Trustees Smith and Hill was delegated to proceed with steps to obtain a secretary.

Committees Named
Committees of the board were assigned to the schools as follows:
Booth Memorial School—Trustees Langridge and Ham.

King Edward and Seal Cove Schools—Trustees Hill and Smith.
Borden Street School—Trustees Ham and Deane.

These committees will be responsible for the handling of problems of the schools they represent, reporting to the board as a whole.

The board as a whole is this afternoon paying a visit of inspection to all schools.

COASTAL DEFENCE

Lieut. General Stuart, Chief of Staff, is Coming to British Columbia

VANCOUVER, Jan. 7 (CP)—The Vancouver Daily Province, in a news page story yesterday, said that Lieutenant General Kenneth Stuart, chief of the Canadian general staff, was coming to the coast probably January 16 for important discussions with Major General G. R. Pearkes and other high-ranking military officials. No details can be disclosed on the discussions, the newspaper said, but problems relating to Pacific Coast defence would be under review.

The paper also said that for the first time it could be revealed that General Stuart made a fly-line trip to the Aleutians last year to obtain information on Japanese strength in Kiska and Attu and the possibility of an enemy push into Alaska and British Columbia. He also flew to San Francisco to discuss with Major General DeWitt, United States Pacific Coast commander, defence problems involving both countries.

KILLED BY BIG ROCK

Accidental Death Verdict Returned By Jury at Coroner's Inquest

Instant and accidental death as a result of a fractured skull and cervical vertebrae and other injuries on being struck by an 800-pound jagged rock in a quarry near Galloway Rapids where deceased was employed was the verdict of a jury which yesterday investigated a fatality which occurred at 3:45 yesterday morning when Arnold Swain, aged 27, lost his life.

The inquest was conducted by Coroner Norman A. Watts and the jury consisted of M. M. Stephens, foreman, W. C. Bacon, H. F. Glassey, D. C. Stevenson, James Park and C. L. Youngman.

TAKE BACK POSITIONS

Heights Which Were Captured by British Infantry Brigade Untenable

LONDON, Jan. 7 (CP) — Reuters News Agency reported from Allied headquarters in North Africa today that the Germans had recaptured positions on both sides of an important cross-roads fifteen miles south of Bizerte, important Tunisian port.

Heights, identified by a Columbia Broadcasting Service correspondent as Jebel Azzag, were taken the day before yesterday by a British infantry brigade and commando troops in a dawn assault. The Columbia Broadcasting Service said last night that the position was decided to be untenable and the Allies withdrew to positions from which the attack started.

Sfax and Sousse harbors in Tunisia have again been heavily bombed by Allied planes.

British submarines have sunk two more Axis transport vessels in the Mediterranean, damaging and possibly sinking two others.

REDS DRIVE ON—

ROSTOV IS OBJECTIVE OF DRIVE

Russians Have Pushed Forward Fifty Miles in Last Two Days

MOSCOW, Jan. 7 (CP)—The Red Army of the lower Don has broken through German lines on a twenty-mile front on both sides of the river and driven to within seventy-five miles of Rostov, key to the whole Nazi salient in the Caucasus, the Russians announced today.

Dispatches from the front said that Russian forces, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Rokossovsky, veteran of last winter's Battle of Moscow, had pushed forward fifty miles since capturing the Don River bridgehead of Tsimlyanski two days ago.

The most advanced point of the Russian thrust said to be reached yesterday was Bolshaya Orlovka on the Sal River just southwest of its confluence with the Don, midway between Tsimlyansk and Rostov. Twenty-six thousand Germans have been killed or captured since January 1 in the Stalingrad-Caucasus region, bringing the total of the enemy killed or captured there to 330,000.

Twenty-one more towns and two railway stations in the Middle Don and Caucasus area have been recaptured by the Russians including Miransk.

The Germans are abandoning tremendous quantities of equipment in their flight.

AID FOR RUSSIANS

Drive for Funds Launched Here Like in Rest of Canada

A local "Aid to Russia" committee is being organized with Mayor W. M. Watts as honorary chairman, Rev. A. F. MacSween as chairman and G. R. S. Blackaby as treasurer. A meeting to organize the local effort is to be held in the City Council Chamber next Tuesday. Representatives of various organizations have been asked to attend and an invitation is being extended to all interested. The meeting was called under the auspices of the local branch of the Canadian Ukrainian Federation before the Dominion-wide campaign became known locally but this organization has joined in the concerted campaign and the meeting will be held under the auspices of the local committee for the Canadian Aid to Russia Fund.

The "Aid to Russia" movement is now being organized across the Dominion under the sponsorship of leading Canadian business and professional men in all parts of the country. It is hoped to raise one million dollars during the month of January. This money will be used to procure relief supplies such as serum, drugs, surgical supplies, clothing, blankets, etc., to be shipped at the expense of the Russian government to the distressed areas.

The annual meeting of the local Deep Sea Fishermen's Union for the election of officers, which was to have been held this Tuesday night, was postponed until a later date to be set.

Reviews Progress of War, Reports on Mighty Arms Production, Russian Events of Great Importance

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (CP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt told a victory pledged Congress today that the cause of the United Nations was moving forward at last in Europe, Asia and Africa, backed by a "miracle of production" and said that 1943 carried the promise of a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin, Rome and Tokyo.

Delivering the annual message to the legislators in person, President Roosevelt called on them to put aside bickering over economic measures and strive to contribute to the national unity.

The President's address was divided into three main sections—a review of the progress of the war, a report on the mighty arms production of the United States and a general outline of his hopes for peace to follow the conflict and for the guaranteeing of freedom from want and fear. By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategy picture of 1942, the President said, were events on the long front in Russia—first the implacable defence of Stalingrad and, second, offensives by Russian armies at various points which started in the latter part of November and still roll on with great force and effectiveness.

The Capitol was the scene of unusual precautions. Hours before the arrival of the President, police and army threw a cordon around the hill and steel-helmeted soldiers stood on guard around the buildings.

This evening's train, due from the East at 7 o'clock, was reported this afternoon to be four hours and forty minutes late.

More Subs Being Sunk

OTTAWA, Jan. 7.—Canadian bombers have sunk two Nazi U-boats and possibly disposed of a third off the east coast of Canada recently.

Federal Salvage Official Coming

A. Sheline, Dominion government salvage organizer from Calgary, will be arriving in Prince Rupert Saturday night for the purpose of organizing salvage here of various materials useful in connection with the war. At the request of the local Red Cross Society, the Junior Chamber of Commerce recently interested itself in the salvage campaign and it is as a result of the Junior Chamber's representations that Mr. Sheline is coming here.

ANNOUNCEMENT « «

New Subscription Rates

Effective from February 1, 1943

Changing conditions due to the war and its effects are forcing newspapers throughout the country to increase their subscription rates.

Under prevailing conditions advertising revenues are falling off while costs of production and service are mounting.

In order for the newspapers to remain in business and maintain service to their readers, there is no choice but to ask readers to pay a higher percentage of the cost of the newspaper than they have been doing.

The Daily News has carefully considered the matter and finds reluctantly that it, too, must increase its subscription rates. The increase will be as small as possible.

We shall continue our policy of rendering the utmost possible service in proportion to the public support received.

In making the increase we are satisfied that the public, generally speaking, will understand our position. We believe the increased cost is far less than the measure of value and service given by our paper.

The new schedule of subscription rates will be as follows:

By City Carrier, effective as from February 1,
15c per week      65c per month      $7 per year
Mail Subscription Rates—40c per month,
$4 for twelve months

EDITORIAL

Post Office Congestion . . .

We had supposed that, after the holiday rush, congestion at the Post Office would have been to some extent relieved but, with two weeks now passed since Christmas, there seems to be little, if any, relief.

There is no intention of criticizing the Post Office staff. Doubtless, they have been carrying on a big job with all the dispatch and efficiency possible under very trying conditions.

The trouble is that the machine is too small to handle the greatly increased job to be done. Two principal proposals have been put forward to provide the necessary augmentation of machinery—one the opening of a new Post Office in the east industrial section, the other the institution of a street delivery system.

We understand that the new east end Post Office should soon be open for business. The street delivery service is said to be impossible just now.

Meanwhile, the public is becoming increasingly impatient and critical.

Local business and, no doubt, vital services are being slowed up by the inadequacy and slowness of the mail service.

It is naturally to be assumed that the authorities concerned are doing everything possible to remedy the situation as speedily as possible.

Policing of City . . .

It is to be noted with gratification that no proposal has been even mentioned in responsible quarters of making any change from the present system of having policing of Prince Rupert carried out by the provincial force. It might have been thought by some that, with the return of the city to local autonomy, a move would have been made to bring about the return of a city police force. Happily, no such idea appears to be developing.

Possibly, the time has come to acknowledge that the provincial police for many years now has been doing a good job in Prince Rupert—even in this more recent year or so during which conditions have arisen with which complete satisfaction certainly cannot be felt even by the police themselves.

The Daily News has actively criticized and deplored conditions of law and order here. Notwithstanding, we do not consider it inconsistent to say that the men of the provincial police—few enough in number—have been doing a real job in endeavouring to cope with these conditions. Possibly, it would not be amiss to stop and consider for a moment how much worse things might have been had we not had an honest, hard-working and conscientious local police force handling a big job under difficult conditions.

Things are indeed not as good as they might be—the police themselves no doubt are ready to acknowledge that—but they might be worse, too. To say that should imply no expression of satisfaction on our part or make it inconsistent if tomorrow we should again start criticizing and deploring the condition of Prince Rupert again from the standpoint of law and order.

In this spirit, gratification may be well expressed that there is no serious move to change the present system of local policing.

Increased Subscription Rates . . .

We have already explained why it has become necessary for newspapers generally throughout the country to increase their subscription rates.

Briefly, the situation is that production costs have increased and advertising revenues have commenced to shrink, making it necessary for the readers, if the newspapers are to keep on an even-keel financially, to bear a greater share of the cost of making the paper.

Today the newspapers of Prince Rupert reluctantly find it necessary to announce a relatively small increase in their subscription rates. We have no doubt that our readers will receive the announcement with full understanding of our position in the matter.

If you have something to sell, a classified advertisement in this paper will soon let you know if there is a buyer in the city.

WEATHER FOR YEAR

Sunshine Was About the Same as 1941 But Precipitation Much Less

Sunshine in Prince Rupert during the year 1942 totalled 1,526.4 hours as compared with 1,548 in 1941, a slight decrease being shown in a compilation of monthly records. However, 1943 was a considerably drier year than 1942 on the whole, the precipitation for the last year having totalled 82.96 inches as against 93.50 inches in the preceding year.

The year 1942 was a warmer year than 1941. The maximum temperature reading for the year recently ended was 84.5 on August 7 as compared with the 1941 maximum of 81.5 in July. The lowest thermometer reading for 1942 was 22 above on February 24 compared with the minimum in 1941 of 15 in January.

The sunshine for December, 1942, amounted to a scant 15.7 hours compared with 42.6 hours in December, 1941, while the precipitation this December was 7.92 inches as against 10.69 inches.

The weather summary for this December, as officially announced today, was as follows:

- Maximum temperature, 52 on December 12. Minimum temperature, 24 on December 9. Mean temperature, 37.4. Maximum barometer reading, 30.14 on December 10. Minimum barometer reading, 29.35 on December 9. Precipitation, 7.92 inches. Sunshine, 15.7 hours. Maximum wind velocity, 46 miles per hour on December 26.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

Queen Mary Chapter I.O.D.E. is in Session

The regular monthly meeting of Queen Mary Chapter Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, was held last night at the home of Mrs. William Brass with Mrs. W. C. Stuart, regent, presiding, nomination of officers for 1943 being of foremost importance in the evening's routine of business. Mesdames Keilbach, Lamb and Brass were elected as councillors and Mesdames Boddie and McKenzie were appointed scrutineers.

Mrs. E. V. Whiting and Mrs. Taylor were tendered a vote of thanks for their splendid work on the chapter's yearly round trip raffle. Results were very satisfactory.

D. G. Borland was thanked for the use of his theatre to conclude the raffle.

Letters were read from the Provincial Chapter appealing for more books for the armed forces and leather. These scraps of leather are made into jerkins for sailors at sea. The provincial chapter recommended the CBC Sunday evening broadcast of "Our Canada" to radio listeners.

One new member was welcomed into the Chapter. Next meeting (election of officers) will be held at the home of Mrs. A. T. Parkin on February 3.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUIT, Hostess

I've discovered a marvellous cook in the forces but it, or rather he, is a dead secret because he may get spirited away to another unit if I say too much. He makes buns, those lovely hot bread buns with rich brown syrupy tops, that melt in your mouth. If he is married and has children when they in turn get married I wonder if they'll say to their spouses: "You'll never be able to cook the way father did!"

Yesterday afternoon Bill Morgan, who is an officer's steward on one of the minesweepers, held me enthralled with his tales of roller skating activities. In civilian life he is a roller skating instructor and professional roller skating performer. He has his own act—and this will make the boys jealous—his own little lady partner. They do two-and-a-half turns, some sort of a waltz in 6-8 time and, what seems most intricate, a fourteen-step dance. The old march tune "Semper Fidelis" (Always Faithful) is the best music for this. He agrees with me that this town needs a roller skating rink but wonders if anyone would sink their money into what might be considered a money making proposition only for the duration. I may be a false prophet but I think Prince Rupert will be a good risk after the war with Alaska opening up and the North Country really coming into its own.

Show tonight at the "Y"—the show schedule has been slightly altered so it might be as well to take note and save yourself a lot of trouble by going out on a rainy—pardon—on some night when you thought there was a show on and, surprise, there wasn't. For the time being the first show of the week will be on Monday night instead of Tuesday as heretofore. The other two regular nights are Thursday and Saturday.

It's just three hundred and fifty-one more days until Christmas. Makes you think, doesn't it?

SPORT CHAT

The $1,250,000 National Hockey League celebrates its 25th anniversary this season amid wartime conditions recalling its stormy First Great War origin.

Born of adversity Nov. 22, 1917, the league which started as an all-Canadian circuit and gradually expanded into one of the world's greatest organizations faced its biggest crisis last fall before permission was obtained from the Canadian and United States governments to operate in 1942-43. But there were plenty of difficulties aheer. More than 90 former N. H. L. players had joined the armed service, leaving their teams to continue with players outside military age categories. One result was a new lease of life for veterans of the game and blossoming of rookie talent—where rookies could be obtained. There were transportation difficulties too. Early in the new season, overtime play was cancelled. The second pang of war-born retrenchment was experienced a few days later when the N. H. L. board of governors decided to reduce maximum player limits for each team from 15 to 14. Some technical rule changes were made.

In practise, pressure hockey remained the vogue. Emphasis on offence increased goal scoring to the extent that Toronto Maple Leafs became the first team in N. H. L. history to count 100 goals before the end of December.

Confounding popular theory, the league flourished financially. An unofficial survey showed attendance for the first quarter of the season only slightly lower than in the same period of 1941-42. Boston Bruins announced proceeds of four home games would be contributed to the Red Cross Society.

The same Bruins provided the season's outstanding surprise. Off to a shaky start, the 1940-41 Stanley Cup champions climbed from last to first place in 30 days by winning nine and tying two of 12 contests. They were promised plenty of competition in the Stanley Cup chase by Toronto, Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks. Leafs looked only slightly less capable than the Toronto team which ousted Red Wings in the seven-game Stanley Cup series last spring.

New York Rangers found many new adherents in Canada as the season started because most of their players are from Saskatchewan, but the N. H. L. titlists dropped almost out of sight in the early play. Steve Buzinski, 25 year old netminder from Swift Current Sask., intermediate ranks, allowed 55 goals in New York's first nine games before Manager Lester Patrick replaced him with Jimmy Franks of Melville, Sask.

Montreal Canadiens, selected for third place in the early-season forecasts, bogged down defensively and entered 1943 needing victory in a majority of their remaining games to reach the four-team playoffs.

Meanwhile, amateur hockey prospered. Service teams were represented in almost every senior league across Canada. It appeared almost certain another service team would succeed Ottawa R. C. A. F. Flyers, who won the Allan Cup last year after a five-game battle with Port Arthur Bearcats. Junior Leagues operated as usual.

Rev. C. A. Wright is Speaker at Week of Prayer Meeting

In spite of unfavorable conditions Wednesday evening, there was a good representation at St. Paul's Lutheran Church from several of the churches in the city for the third in a series of National Week of Prayer Services being conducted this week.

Rev. C. A. Wright of the First Baptist Church spoke on the subject "God's Answer to a War Divided World," challenging his listeners with the thought that they must be Spirit-guided and not carnally minded men and women. They must learn with the apostle Paul to "present their bodies a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable to the Lord."

Mr. Wright said people must decide whether or not they were going to be friends or foes of the Cross of Christ. "There is no room for lukewarmness in the Kingdom of God," he stated. "We cannot seek our own ends under the cloak of Jesus Christ."

A period of spontaneous prayer followed the message.

CHICKEN IN ASPIC

Cook a 6-7 pound fowl with 2 pounds of veal shank in 2 quarts of water. Add 2 stalks celery, a bay leaf and salt and pepper to taste. When fowl is tender, take from stock and remove meat from bones, keeping it in as large pieces as possible. Try to keep breast meat whole in removing from breast bone. Cook the stock, uncovered, with the bones and skin until it is reduced to half the original quantity. Strain and cool thoroughly. Skim off fat and clarify in the following manner. Beat one egg white slightly and add with the crushed egg shell to the stock and boil gently for ten minutes, stirring with a wooden spoon. Let stand till cool, strain through cheesecloth. Measure stock and reheat. For each quart of stock allow 2 tablespoons gelatine soaked in 1/2 cup cold water, and dissolve in the hot stock. Grease or oil a mould and pour in 1/4 inch of the gelatine mixture, chill till firm. Peel green pepper thinly and shape into holly leaves, using scissors. Berries may be cut from the red skins of thinly peeled radishes. Arrange leaves and berries on top of the jelly and keep the design in place by adding a few spoonful of the gelatine mixture and allowing it to set. When very firm, arrange the whole breast top side down in the centre of the mould. Fill the mould with the remaining pieces of chicken and pour on the rest of the gelatine mixture, covering all the meat. Let stand in a cold place till very firm. Unmould on a large platter and garnish.

Shortage is Now Relieved—Canned Milk Situation—How Other Lines Stand

Several Prince Rupert grocery stores were showing eggs in their windows yesterday, indicating that the egg shortage, which had been critical here for some time, is now to large measure relieved. Stocks of Grade A large eggs are rolling in from Vancouver and the present price of 60c per dozen is expected to drop shortly to 55c or lower.

Discussing the retail stock situation this morning, a local merchant said that the freezing for the time being of wholesale stocks of canned milk was producing a shortage in retail stores which, according to the individual stocks being carried by the individual stores, were limiting customers from two tins to a dozen on single purchases.

NEW KIND OF BOMBS ARE USED
 Far More Dangerous Than Old Ones
 —Methods of Attack Revised

According to the latest reports from Britain, the enemy is now making extensive use of several new types of incendiary bombs that are far more dangerous to deal with than any used in the past. Some of these contain powerful explosive charges which detonate on impact, while others are equipped with delayed action fuses so that they do not explode until some time after they fall. Some are of the ordinary magnesium type others are filled with live phosphorus or a phosphorous-oil composition. These explosive incendiaries have no great demolishing power, but, like fragmentation bombs, they are designed to kill or wound.

These new types of fire bombs not only create new and greater hazards, making the work of those who may be called upon to fight them more difficult, but necessitate radical changes in the general tactics of defence against incendiary raids. Even more important, these bombs compel radical changes in the actual methods of dealing with all incendiaries, and the discarding of some previously effective methods now become dangerous because of the explosive menace.

New Enemy Tactics
 In an attempt to defeat well organized civilian defence and start a large number of major fires as quickly as possible, the enemy is not only using explosive bombs in conjunction with the ordinary type of incendiary but is employing new methods of attack. When conditions make it practicable, enemy raiders may fly at low altitudes and drop explosive and ordinary fire bombs in relatively large clusters. Or, if forced to attack from high altitudes, they drop containers, each filled with from 10 to 120 fire bombs which burst at a low height or upon striking some object, and release their contents. In both cases, a large number of bombs fall within a small area and instead of one or two bombs penetrating a building, five or ten or even more may fall within a single room. This makes the task of dealing with them much more difficult and, if some of the bombs happen to be of the explosive type, the situation is definitely dangerous.

Many of the fire bombs that may be dropped by enemy raiders will be of the old kind, but on the other hand, any bomb dropped may be of the explosive type. Therefore, all bombs must now be treated as if they are of the explosive type.

Cover is Vital

The explosive extension of the new German incendiary bomb is, in reality, a small high explosive anti-personnel or fragmentation bomb. When it explodes, the steel casing breaks into countless small pieces which are propelled at exceedingly high velocity in all directions and are capable of killing or seriously wounding at a distance of 100 feet or more. These fragments will penetrate an ordinary lath and plaster wall, a wooden fence or door and most pieces of furniture which, therefore, do not offer full protection.

Complete protection from the blast of these new bombs is provided by a solid brick, concrete, or stone wall 4½ inches thick, while reasonably good protection is afforded by similar walls three inches thick.

When fighting a fire bomb the best available cover should be used. Cover should afford protection from any other fire bombs that may have fallen nearby.

A stream or jet of water is the best weapon against all types of fire bombs and is the only means by which both a burning bomb and any fires set by it can be attacked with equal effectiveness. It is also the only form in which water can be applied to a burning bomb and any fires set by it can be attacked with equal effectiveness. It is also the only form in which water can be applied to a burning bomb from a relatively safe distance.

Properly used, a stream or jet of water from a stirrup pump or garden hose will control a burning incendiary in less than a minute and, often, in only a few seconds—using less than two gallons of water.

Short-range methods previously recommended, that involve approaching the bomb closely in the open, should never be attempted. To try to deal with a burning

NEW THINGS AFTER WAR

Fashions of Future Will Differ Vastly From Today

After the war is over, it is probable that a standard sign in the stores will read "Revolutionary new designs."

On paper now—and ready to go into effect as soon as the armistice is signed—are plans for a plastic and synthetic world that will revolutionize post-war living.

Curtains made of milk . . . coats of coal tar . . . transparent refrigerators with separate doors leading to separate compartments . . . furniture made from beets and carrots . . . aluminum used in startling ways

Those are some of the wonders of an opening world of synthetics which chemists promise the Shoppers of Tomorrow.

Because chemists and engineers can see so plainly how things are shaping as a result of wartime production, that they say it is only a matter of time before merchandise undreamed of before the war become realities.

The plans are only on paper now. It will be merely a matter of months to translate them into action when the war is over.

New materials, and the new use of old ones, will literally transform living after the war. Household goods will be lighter, easier to clean, with more variety.

Clothing will go a long way on synthetic lines. Nylon stockings, just getting into their stride when the war began, are but a signpost pointing the way to nylon coats, suits, hats, dresses of a beauty which will take feminine breath away.

Going to get a lot for the money after the war, the manufacturers predict. New skills developed by the war, new manufacturing processes created out of what seemed a couple of years ago impossible, will give us greater service for our dollar than ever before.

Fascinating New World
 It's a fascinating new world. Curtains will be cheaply and beautifully made out of surplus milk. Wool synthetics will replace sheep's wool with warmth, lightness, beauty and lower cost. Soy beans will make beachwear and children's rugged play cloths.

No longer must rare woods be imported from half way round the world to make fine furniture. Beet and carrot pulp will make a new protein synthetic strong enough and beautiful enough to delight postwar homemakers. Already samples of furniture in this world of the future have been made; furniture men who have seen them proclaim them "amazing."

Cobwebby laces, once the product of long patient hand work at the cost of eyesight, will be within the reach of all when wood pulp gets into its after-the-war stride.

Most of these new plastics and synthetics have been worked out down to the finest detail. In many cases samples have been made which live up to everything the manufacturers promise.

Consumers in the post-war world will find them all.

Stores which are quick to adjust themselves to the new and wonderful regime to come, will be the stores of the future. Buyers who grasp the potentialities of the synthetic and plastic market will be in on the boom.

JACK LONDON STORY HERE

"Adventures of Martin Eden" Coming to Capitol Theatre

"Adventures of Martin Eden," thrill-teeming Jack London romance opens at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow with Glenn Ford in the title role, Claire Trevor, Evelyn Keyes and Stuart Erwin. Wind-lashed, terror-torn drama of a two-fisted he-man who made his mark from Tahiti to Singapore, Frisco to Cadiz, "Adventures of Martin Eden" has been hailed by Hollywood as one of the year's mightiest adventure pictures.

"Adventures of Martin Eden" captures in human, earthy terms all the exciting heroism of London's greatest character, a lover, fighter, adventurer who was hardened by the pounding fists of a hundred enemies . . . and softened by the beckoning warmth of a woman's smile!

Glenn Ford, in the title role, creates a breathless picture of a youth, poet and adventurer, whose savage love of life flames through his every motion and every word. Martin Eden is a two-fisted seaman and poet, determined to win world recognition of his literary ability, to smash the system which permits "death wagons" to sail the seven seas, brutalizing seamen and killing them.

Miss Trevor appears to advantage as Connie, the waterfront girl fiercely devoted to Martin Eden and to the battle he wages against social injustice.
