An Official Retires . . .

Twenty years is a substantial portion of a man's life and a long time in the service of an institution so we think it fitting to pay tribute to D. J. Matheson on his retirement as city commissioner and treasurer. Mr. Matheson, for a score of years has been a valued, esteemed and also a popular official.

While he has had his share of difficulties to contend with during good times and bad, Mr. Matheson has made many friends both in the course of and outside of his official duties. He has won a complete modicum of respect for his fairness and ability as a specialist in municipal affairs.

While he is now officially retired, it is possible that his advice and counsel may yet be made use of by the new administration which now assumes office following the return of the city to locally autonomous government.

Honor For Prince Rupert . . .

It is a pleasure to salute Nursing Sister Edith Kergin who has brought honor to Prince Rupert and to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Kergin, on being awarded the Royal Red Cross in the King's New Year honor list as a recognition of distinguished service overseas with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

Word of the fine work Miss Kergin did during the hospitalization of the men who came back from Dieppe had already been received here and it is not surprising that this coveted official recognition should now have been made.

It is a bright event for us to mark in the record of war which is so full of dark and tragic incidents. It is the first active service award to come to Prince Rupert in this war and it is interesting enough that a young woman, so well known and popular, should have brought it.

Post-War Problems . . .

While the war shows no signs of an early ending, neither side being near military defeat unless one is inclined to wishful thinking in the matter, there is, nevertheless, an increasing tendency in high places to more than ever direct attention to post-war problems and to consider what is going to happen to the world when the guns cease firing and the fighting is over. The latest to be heard from is Vice-president Henry A. Wallace of the United States who prescribes for the era after the war as much home rule and as little centralized authority as possible, meaning that every nation or group of people should have the maximum say possible in the governing of their own affairs with a minimum of exterior control.

Mr. Wallace's prescription is, of course, based on the ability of groups of people to keep within bounds of themselves, the effects of their living and their acts to be in a greatest degree of harmony with the interests of others. Developing the theory, there must not only be no active aggression but there must be a tempering of the acts and customs of all groups to keep them in compatibility with the interests of the others.

Possibly the exigencies and emergencies of war itself may have their effect in bringing about the attitude of consideration and compromise one for the other that is necessary to ensure the most effective of effort towards achieving an aim upon which all are agreed. Today we see among our people a near perfect agreement on the necessity of winning the war. There are few people who do not agree that the first war aim is winning the war. Certainly, if there are any who are not agreed about it they are not audible.

The difficulty now is that, while we are all agreed upon the necessity of winning the war, there are a great many of us who are not backing our agreement with the necessary action—that is, doing everything we can to win the war. Personal interests are probably holding back a great many from getting in and making that maximum war effort. Even though we may be doing better these days, there will have to be a change in this respect before the war will be won and the active attitude towards the war that may, like it or not, be ultimately forced upon us for our own preservation, will have to be maintained after the war if the successful peace is to be the sequel to the successful fight.

It is significant to notice the ever-increasing interest that our leaders are taking in the problems that the peace will bring—problems that may be even more perplexing than those of the war. It is a heartening sign and something in which we should all be personally interested for there is no doubt we will all be personally affected.

ACTIVITIES OF Y.M.C.A. AND Y.W.C.A.

By DOROTHY GARBUTT, Hostess

A Happy New Year to all our "Y" friends from all the "Y" workers! We've gone a long way together and now it begins to look as though the end of the road were in sight. We've shared happiness and pleasure and perhaps we may yet be called upon to share danger and sorrow but whatever is in store the memories of friendships made will go all the way and beyond into civilian life with us and we shall all be the better for them.

As you know I have often given you extracts from letters that I receive and which I think might interest you. Yesterday I received one from one of my "Poison Pen Pals" which I feel you ought to share. As the boys say, it's a dilly. It refers to a clipping enclosed from a recent item in which I remarked on the fact that I had given the Navy Boys some red and white tissue as they couldn't get any in town and that they were making daisy chains out of it to help out with their Christmas decorations. Here is what my chum says:

"Woman:
"This makes any red-blooded man see red when you read the bunk that you write to the paper about us men. I like to know how many men joined the Navy to cut out paper rings. Making saps out of us, we don't like it, Bob Turner." Also attached is a clipping from a Vancouver paper about the wonderful work done by the Russian women at the Port of Murmansk where every able-bodied man is away at the front and the port is entirely run by the women. On top of this interesting article he has written "Compare this with the BUNK you hand out." To which I reply:

"Dear Bob:
"The word is BILGE, not BUNK. With love and kisses."

Steel Still Tops In War Materials

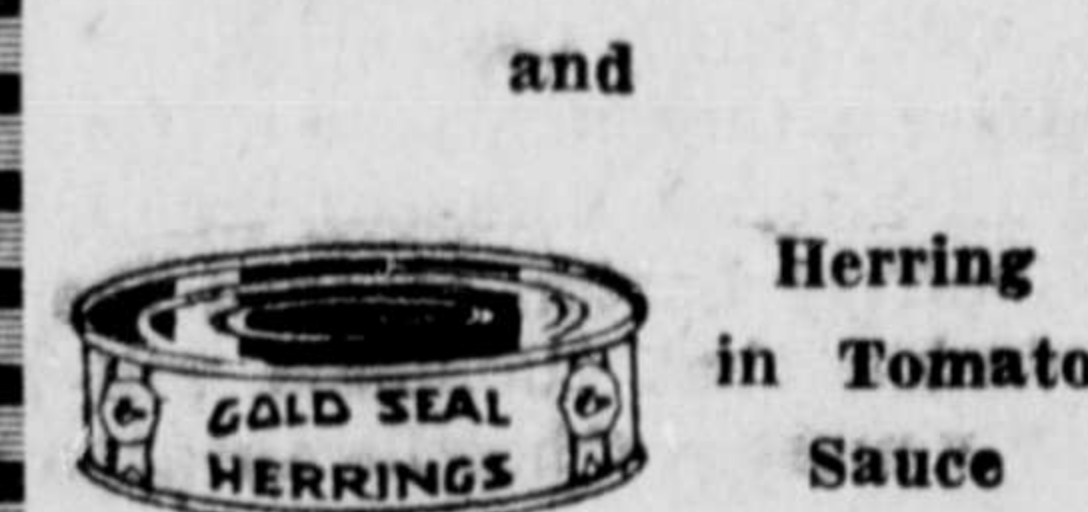

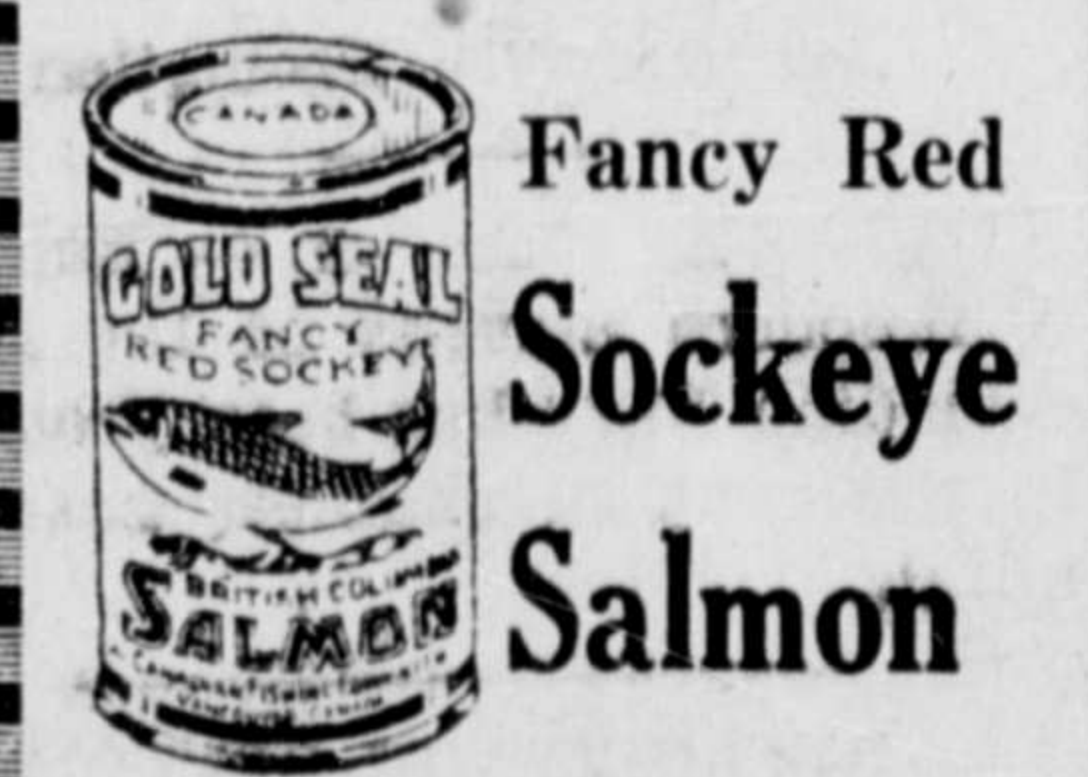

Is Master Commodity in Military Requirements

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 — While aluminum, magnesium and plastics made great contributions to the war during the past year, steel is still the master war material and electric furnace steels are the finest of its alloys.

U. S. electric furnace capacity at the beginning of 1939 was around 1,700,000 tons a year, but under the impetus of war orders it grew to 4,200,000 tons by mid-1942, and is still growing.

AMERICANS LOOK AT JAPANESE BOMBER

SPORT CHAT

Charles Christian Hoyer Miller, who held the strangest appointment in cricket—Honorary Weed-Killer at Lord's—died at the age of 81 after accounting, by his own computation, for nearly 1,000,000 weeds on the famed grounds. There was nothing frivolous about the appointment. It was seriously proposed, seconded and carried unanimously at a committee meeting in 1920 on these terms: "Lord's Cricket Ground, Oct. 22, 1920: Know all men by these presents that Mr. Hoyer Miller is and is hereby appointed honorary weed-killer to the Marylebone Cricket Club, in consideration of his untiring labors and penetrating skill in dealing with the intrusions of plantains and other unsightly and unwanted vegetation that appear from time to time on the historical and far-famed turf at Lord's Cricket Ground."

Hoyer Miller kept a tally of every weed destroyed. Asked how it all started, he said that "every lover of a lawn knows the temptation to stoop and pick out a disfiguring invader." "Well, I love Lord's and that's how it all began." For 55 years, until he retired in 1939, he was president of Rosslyn Park Rugby Football Club which he founded when he was 18. He played three-quarter in early games but retired because "it was not the thing" in his day to continue in rugby after marriage.

It's only natural, of course, that in such a clean-limbed bunch of fellows as the men of the R.C.A.F. serving in Britain there should be a goodly number of prime athletes. As it happens you can scarcely go to any station in Britain without rubbing elbows with lads who played well, and liked playing, when they were back home. One of these is Cpl. Milk Kilroy, serving on a Royal Air Force Station after being a maintenance man with a Canadian fighter squadron. Mike was known in Montreal circles as a wrestler of sorts and now his R.A.F. mates look on him as a figure typifying physical well-being. To get in shape for a field meet and some shot putting, discuss tossing and hammer throwing he rigged up a heavy set of pulleys. His enthusiasm for physical fitness was as contagious as his grin. Nearly all his station friends went in for the same sort of stuff. Kilroy, a big, good-natured fellow who was a policeman in Montreal before joining the air force, has remustered for aircrew.

Oxford and Cambridge are matched for a second wartime boat race at Henley, Feb. 13. In their last struggle—March, 1940—the Light Blues beat Oxford by five lengths over the 1 1/2 miles course.

Badminton Club Dance at Cove New Year's Eve

One of the many New Year's Eve events in Prince Rupert was a happy dancing party at the Parish Hall of St. Peter's Anglican Church Thursday night by the Badminton Club. A large crowd filled the hall and a happy time was spent by all. The New Year was fittingly ushered in. Delicious refreshments were served.

Terrace Enjoys Xmas Weather

Outside Conditions Were Beautifully Typical of Season

TERRACE, Jan. 2—Christmas Day was favored with perfect Yuletide weather. There had been during the preceding days a considerable fall of soft snow—just like the goose feathers of the fairy tales—and the sun shone at intervals, bringing an answering gleam and sparkle from the rows of icicles which hung from the eaves of all the houses. Recent weather had been of light frosts and warm enough in the daytime to produce a wonderful display of these pretty adjuncts of winter.

A little later high winds caused a lot of snowdrift which completely blocked some of the roads hereabouts. Although the snowploughs have been out it was impossible to keep pace with the conditions. Fortunately, temperatures were mild throughout.

NEW STORY; FINE CAST

"Sundown" is Featured at Capitol At First of Week

With a star-studded cast, boasting such names as Gene Tierney, Bruce Cabot, George Saunders, Reginald Gardiner and Cedric Hardwicke, "Sundown," coming to the Capitol Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, is based on the Saturday Evening Post serial by Barre Lyndon. "Sundown" pictures an entirely new background, the hinterlands of Britain's Kenya Colony in Central East Africa.

The picture revolves around a small group of white men who rule over several hundred thousand blacks and are in constant danger of annihilation by semi-savage tribes, especially when the latter are provided with fire-arms by enemy agents. Zia, the stellar character, is played by Gene Tierney. Supposedly the half-caste daughter of a rich Arab trader, the hauntingly beautiful Zia and her mysterious actions provide the story with spirited romance and breath-taking suspense.

To obtain locations duplicating the fantastic terrain of the isolated Kenya borderland, the company spent many weeks at Acoma Rick, New Mexico; At Red Rock Canyon in the heart of the Mojave Desert; and at Crater Lake, Oregon. "Sundown" is reputed to be wholly unlike any other picture previously filmed, with a locale that is off the beaten track and with a story that moves across the screen at a thrilling and suspense-packed pace. Strictly a story of today, "Sundown" reveals the efforts of enemy agents to break Britain's hold on her strategic stronghold in Africa.

WEEK OF PRAYER

In the imperishable words of Tennyson "more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Let us go forward together in a firm resolve that it may not be said of us here in Prince Rupert, in one of the foremost danger zones of the Pacific, that we, as one, loved revelry and gaiety more than we loved service and devotion to the One Supreme Ruler.

In days when destructive and demonic forces have been let loose in the world all Christian peoples must unite in prayer that the vitalizing and redeeming forces of the Gospel of Jesus Christ may be given free course. There is no way in which we can render greater service to this needy and stricken world than to come to a common reservoir of power to be recharged. Throughout 1943 may we carry the true banner—the Cross. Justice, fair-dealing, and honor among the nations will not return automatically to mankind. There will have to be much agony of spirit, much wrestling, much prayer. Forget not that "Prayer is the soul's sincere desire" and that this Universal Week of Prayer in the New Year will fall at a time of special need and special opportunity.

Therefore
 "Let us kneel before the Lord our Maker,
 For He is our God, and we are the people
 Of His pasture and the sheep of His hand."
 Our boys are fighting and they need our support in every way. Shall we make this coming week one of confession and humble petition to Almighty God that here in Prince Rupert we may be protected and reborn to the life of Christ. Attendance will be indicative of heart's desire and interest in "your neighbor."
 An advertisement will appear in this paper each day stating the place of meeting.

UNLUCKY FOR JAPS
 The number four is considered unlucky in Japan because it is the same word as "death."
