COURT OF REVISION

Many Adjustments on Municipal Tax Roll Order at Session Yesterday

The court of revision on the municipal assessment roll was in session for several hours yesterday and, after making a number of adjustments on various appeals, the court was adjourned until February 24. The court of revision consists of Mayor W. M. Watts, chairman, Ald. W. H. Brett, Ald. N. E. Arnold, Ald. George Hills and Ald. J. S. Black. The assessor, Arthur Brooksbank, was in attendance and Miss Audrey Wrathall acted as clerk.

Only in one appeal did counsel appear, this being in that of F. Miller Co. Ltd. which asked for a reduction of assessment on land and improvements on a waterfront block at Seal Cove where a cannery has just been established. A reduction of ten per cent on both land and improvements was permitted from $9,250 and $12,500 respectively. T. W. Brown appeared as counsel for the company and W. O. Fulton on behalf of the city.

Dr. Joseph T. Mandy, resident mining engineer, appeared with the request that the waterfront property where the ore sampling plant is located, valued at $3040, be exempted from taxation. The court reserved decision.

James Taylor appeared with a claim that $90 valuation on the land of lot 13, block 6, section 7, was too high at $90 but it was ordered to stand.

Oscar Larsen presented a claim from Erling Parkvold that assessment of $180 on land and $300 on improvements on lot 6, block 39, section 5, was too high. Decision was reserved by the court.

In the matter of a considerable amount of property which has been taken over on lease by the United States government, it was decided to place the property on the tax roll.

Other appeals and the disposition of them were as follows:

J. H. and Helen Hillman, lots 13 and 14, block 21, section 7, land reduced from $230 to $180.

R. L. McIntosh, lots 11, 12 and 13, block A, section 7, $485; lots 28, 29 and 30, block F, section 7, $435; reduced by 25 per cent.

Emil J. S. Solild, lots 17 and 18, block 13, section 7, improvements of $390 deleted, land at $275 unchanged.

W. and M. Smith, lots 5 and 6, block 2, section 7, building reduced from $2140 to $1900, land at $360 unchanged.

F. Chin and C. P. Moon (King George Hotel), land, $2640, improvements, $6,615, unchanged.

Pierre LeRoss, east half of lot 5, block 2, section 2, land valuation of $135 unchanged.

A. J. Daly, lots 17 and 18, block 27, section 8, improvements increased from $345 to $495.

Mr. Jackson, lot 21, block 38, section 7, improvements of $351 added to roll.

D. A. Lund, lots 23 and 24, block 2, section 8, improvements of $175 added to roll.

Raymond Scherk, lots 27 and 28, block 7, section 7, improvements increased from $620 to $1400.

Canadian National Land Department lease to Department of National Defence, waterfront block G, $400 on land to be added to roll.

Canadian National Railways, lease to Department of National Defence, block 8, waterfront, $100 valuation added to tax roll.

Train Subjected To Machine Guns

LONDON, Feb. 9 — Southeast coast towns of England were attacked last night by the German Luftwaffe. A train was machine-gunned but there were no casualties as the engineer drew it into the safety of a tunnel.

ASYLUM DESTROYED

All of 1200 Patients at Indiana Institution Are Believed Saved

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Feb. 9 (CP) — Fire destroyed Evansville State Hospital for the insane today. Most of the 1200 inmates escaped and were herded into an outdoor stockade with several hundred guards watching them. There is no known loss of life.

BARRICADE PROPOSED

Civic Board of Works Does Not Consider Recommendation of Jury Feasible

The recommendation of a coroner's jury following a recent inquest that a barricade be erected at the end of Fourth Avenue West at Agnew Place came before the city council last night with a report from the Board of Works that this would not be practicable unless the pathway which leads from there to Fulton Street be done away with. However, it was proposed that a reflector be put in as a danger signal at that point.

The reason that the barricade could not be put in without eliminating the pathway is that it would require so much bracing work down the side of the hill.

Second Doctors' Office Entered

Drugs Thought Objective of Two Nocturnal Visits Made During Week-end

Besides that of Dr. C. H. Hankinson, another local physicians' office was entered during Saturday night or Sunday morning—that of Dr. R. G. Large and Dr. J. J. Gibson in the Smith Block. Entry was made, it is believed, by way of a transom and exit by opening a door from the inside. A clock, but nothing else, was missing.

It is thought that drugs may have been the objective of the entrants.

Water Cut Off By Broken Main

Complaint Made to City Council Last Night But Nothing Could Be Done About it

E. A. Evans appeared before the city council last night stating that considerable inconvenience was being caused for the Salvation Army Hostel on Second Avenue where seventy service men were spending the night, owing to the water having been cut off while repairs were being made to a broken main. The water had been shut off without warning and Mr. Evans inquired if something could not be done about having it turned on again.

Mayor W. M. Watts and Ald. Thomas Elliott, chairman of the utilities committee, explained that there was nothing which could be done about the matter until repairs had been finished as the water could not be allowed to run out of a broken main, particularly during the present shortage and when residents of some of the higher parts of the city had been and were still without water.

Japanese Have Evacuated Guadalcanal—Position Of United Nations Is Better

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 9 (CP) — The apparent ending of the six months' campaign of Guadalcanal which has resulted in the wiping out of all enemy resistance there places American forces "within striking distance of some of the most important bases of the Japanese" said Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox today.

The secretary of the Navy talked to a press conference shortly after the Berlin radio announced Japanese Imperial headquarters had reported the withdrawal of the Japanese forces from Guadalcanal.

Berlin reports also told of the evacuation of the Japanese from the Buna area where final annihilation of a 15,000-man Japanese force by the Allies was accomplished some three weeks ago.

Secretary Knox expressed the opinion that it was possible the recent widespread sea and air activity in the Solomons might have been a demonstration to cover the withdrawal of the Japanese from Guadalcanal.

Meanwhile Allied headquarters in Australia report that Allied bombers destroyed Japanese occupied Doto in the Aroe Islands.

Gasmata and Rabaul have been bombed again.

CHURCHILL IN HOUSE

Prime Minister Will Make Statement Soon on War Situation

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP) — Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today that he would soon make a statement on the war situation including reference to creation of a United Nations war council and the shipping situation. He spoke in answer to a question.

The Prime Minister, who returned Sunday from his trip to North Africa and the Middle East, stopped the show in the House of Commons when he entered unobtrusively during the question period.

Cheering and applause broke out on all sides.

Eleventh Avenue Under Military

However, Public May Use it Until Such Time as Battle Positions Assumed

A letter from Col. D. B. Martyn, area commandant, read at last night's meeting of the city council, held that traffic was not being unduly retarded on Eleventh Avenue but said that, in the event of battle positions having to be assumed in this city, it would be essential to close the road to all but military traffic. Automobiles and pedestrians, Col. Martyn said, were now permitted to go through on presentation of national registration certificates and children were not interfered with.

At the suggestion of Ald. McKay it was decided to advise the local evacuation committee of the position of Eleventh Avenue with the suggestion that other plans be made not involving use of Eleventh Avenue should evacuation of the city become necessary.

Warned Against Damage By Guns

Department of National Defence Holds Itself Not Responsible

The city council was in receipt last night of a letter from Col. D. B. Martyn, area commandant, holding that the Department of National Defence could not be held liable for any damage done to the property of Albert Fern from firing of near-by guns since Mr. Fern had been warned against the possibility of damage if he persisted in building on the site in question. Mr. Fern himself had suggested a conference with the city commissioner but had failed to keep an appointment.

It was decided by the council to hear what Mr. Fern had to say now that the military had given its side of the case.

Military Would Take Control of Two Big Bridges

VANCOUVER, Feb. 9—In the event of a military emergency in this area, both the Pattullo and the Lion's Gate bridges, the former across the Fraser River at New Westminster and the latter across the First Narrows at the entrance of Burrard Inlet, would come completely under military control and would be closed to all civilian traffic.

LONDON HAS ALERT
LONDON — A brief air raid alarm was followed quickly today by the "all clear" in London.

RED ARMY SMASHES ON MOSCOW
MOSCOW — The Red Army smashed anew at sagging German lines in three sectors today after storming into Kursk, enemy anchor point on the Moscow-to-Crimea rail line, and destroying the German Kursk army commanded by General Schneider.

MESSINA IS OBJECTIVE

NAZIS EVACUATING LORIENT
NEW YORK — The Berlin radio said in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press that Lorient, Nazi U-boat base in France, had been dealt a heavy blow Sunday night by the Royal Air Force and is going to be "completely evacuated" by Wednesday.

In Conference With Military

City Council in Committee-of-Whole Session on Question Of Water

Following the regular weekly meeting last night, the city council went into committee of the whole to meet a delegation representing the military authorities here for the purpose of discussing the water situation. The purpose of the meeting was to devise some means of providing the military establishment here with a more adequate supply, particularly in view of recent rulings by the council with a view to conservation during the shortage including one that no new connections would be permitted. However, no arrangement was arrived at. Col. Martyn, area commandant, headed the military delegation.

AIR FIGHT KEEPS UP

New Attacks by United Nations in Ports of Tunisia and Italy—More Axis Ships Sunk

CAIRO, Feb. 9 (CP)—It is announced that Allied bombers hit two ships in a new attack on the Tunisian port of Sousse and set parked aircraft afire in a raid on the air-drome at Gabes.

It is also reported that a British submarine off the Italian coast sank four ships in a single day but it is said there is nothing to report from ground fighting.

A raid on Messina, following by a day a heavy raid on Naples, indicated a stepping up of the Allied plan to pound strategic Axis supply centres in the Mediterranean on regular schedule.

PLAYGROUND ACTIVITIES

Report for Last Year Presented To Gyro Club — To Formulate Plans for This Year

Total attendance for last season at Gyro Club playgrounds in Prince Rupert last year was 3,403, according to a report for the season which has been prepared by Frank Skinner, chairman of the club. The report was received by the executive of the club yesterday and will go before the regular monthly business luncheon tomorrow.

Activities on the grounds were somewhat curtailed last year but were of value to the goodly number of children. Miss Eleanor Moxley acted as instructress and her assistant directors were Miss Charlotte Dodimead at Westview, Miss Sheila McRae at Acropolis Hill, Miss Kathleen Doherty at McClymont Park and Miss Thomasina Krause at Seal Cove. There was a regular program of events. Fred Olsen did good work as caretaker.

The playground program last year cost the club $346.85.

Equipment has been in storage for the winter and a program for the coming summer will be formulated later.

There has been prospecting for herring recently at Laredo Inlet on the south end of Princess Royal Island but, while there have been some signs, the quantity of fish has not been sufficient for seining.

Another Important Point Taken From Nazis By Red Army In Great Campaign

Entire German Defensive Line in Soviet is Now Imperilled—Kharkov and Rostov Positions Are Sagging

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CP)—A special Russian communique announces the fall of Kursk, one of the principal bastions of the German 1941-42 winter line. The capture of Kursk imperils the entire German defensive line in Russia. The enemy lines are now sagging on three lines—west of Kursk, towards Kharkov and around Rostov.

Front line dispatches tell of the Red Army sweeping in on the German citadel of Kursk from several directions to overwhelm the garrison that had held Kursk since November 11, 1941.

Although not admitting the fall of Kursk, the German High Command reports that the Russians have renewed attacks on a broad front in that sector and "in a fierce defensive battle our units were standing ground against a numerically far superior enemy in unfavorable weather conditions."

GREAT AID OF CANADA

To Make Billion Dollars Worth of War Production Available To United Nations This Year

OTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP)—Hon. J. L. Hsley, minister of finance, told the House of Commons today that the government proposes to make one billion dollars worth of Canada's war production directly available to the United Nations during the next fiscal year either by outright gift, by loan or under replacement plans.

Mr. Hsley said that no financial impediment should be allowed to interfere with the sharing of the Dominion's war production.

MANY ARE ENLISTING

Considerable Activity Here Recently in Recruiting for Active Force of Canadian Army

There has been considerable activity lately in enlistments here in the active service force of the Canadian Army. Three recruits were dispatched to Vancouver last night and others were sent previously.

Those sent to Vancouver last night were:

Edward James, aged 22, moulder, Prince Rupert.

P. J. Raven, 19, machinist, Winnipeg.

Robert Wilson, 18, moulder, Hinton, Alberta.

Other new recent recruits have included the following:

K. S. Wood, 35, warehouse foreman, Ocean Falls.

Olof Nystrom, 29, driller, Product, Saskatchewan.

D. L. Sullivan, 29, steam engineer, Ashcroft.

COPENHAGEN PAID VISIT

No Official Explanation is Made in London as to Attack of Royal Air Force

STOCKHOLM, Feb. 9—German shipyards at Copenhagen, where are located the world's largest diesel works, were bombed last night, the explosions being heard on the Swedish side of Skagerack.

There was no official explanation in London of reports that the Royal Air Force had paid a visit to the big shipyards at Copenhagen.

Fire Destroys Seward Theatre

SEWARD, Alaska, Feb. 9 (CP)—Fire starting in the film room destroyed the Liberty Theatre block here with a loss estimated at between $100,000 and $200,000.

PROSPECT NOT ROSY

Public Works Department Has No Money, No Men and No Materials

No money. No men. No materials.

Such is the plight of the municipal public works department and it does not present a very rosy prospect for the carrying out of civic undertakings, said Ald. Robert McKay, chairman of the board of works, at last night's meeting of the city council.

Also the weather is not auspicious at this time for carrying out public works.

The skeleton crew of the public works department has been engaged pretty well lately in thawing out frozen water pipes and hauling coal to the schools.

Ald. McKay lists as the project No. 1 importance this year the proposed trunk sewer in Section 1.

Ald. Sorensen Chairman Of Reading Room

Mayor W. M. Watts last night appointed Ald. T. H. Sorensen as chairman of the city reading room committee. Other members of the committee will be appointed by Ald. Sorensen and the mayor.

For the time being the reading room remains closed as it is in need of renovation of repairs. When the fuel situation becomes less acute, it will probably be reopened.

German Deterioration . . .

Nazi strategy in the next few months may strengthen plans to hold out in the European fortress, attempt to split the unity of the United Nations and reach a temporary peace settlement before a further deterioration of the military situation makes this impossible. Some German military leaders are already worrying about the ability of the Third Reich to hold out long enough to reach a stalemate settlement and are, therefore, seeking formulas for a settlement that would end the war with the structure of the German Army left intact.

The present peace offensive is to be distinguished from earlier appeasement campaigns. Before, appeasement efforts were backed up by an army that had some claim to invincibility. Now most Nazi strategists have given up the belief that they can win the war on the military front but they still stick to the idea that they can gain a stalemate as a basis for peace negotiations. Diplomatic maneuvers are to make up for growing military weakness, and skillful use will be made of any grounds for disagreements among the United Nations. At the same time, German military experts are also reading the signs on the wall. They realize that German military strength is no longer what it was last year, and will no longer be at the end of this war what it is at present.

Contrast this situation with the one that existed less than a year ago. The original plan for the appeasement campaign that was to start this spring was based on the assumption that the Third Reich could end the 1942 campaign with two major successes: the conquest of Caucasus's oil fields; and the occupation of Alexandria. Then the German military situation would have been exceedingly strong, sustaining the claim that the Third Reich could hold out within the fortress of Europe almost indefinitely.

The bankruptcy of Germany as a strong and self-sustaining economic, industrial and military power may be approaching. The magic of German diplomacy, which before the war and in its early stages paved the way for easy victory, is evaporating, since the diplomacy of force must be able to threaten. Nazi political leaders, once consistently ahead of the game, must now run to keep up with it. If a year in which our main battle was that of production, in which the role of the United Nations was largely defensive, caused such a deterioration of German political and military prospects, then we may be justified in expecting far more sensational developments in 1943.

The high rate of United Nations' shipping losses must be considered; also the difficulties of invading a strongly defended coast; the problems of supply; and the dangers of easy over-optimism. Our shipping situation has become more serious and the Nazis' submarine campaign more successful than anticipated. To let down in our efforts would greatly increase the loss of life that must be paid before the war is won.

Some startling dramatic development in Germany and in Europe before the collapse of German militarism becomes an open fact may be expected. The Nazi hierarchy may try to make diplomatic moves that will strengthen its strategic position abroad and enable it to shorten its defense lines. Such dramatic moves are necessary if internal morale is to be revitalized. It is possible that they will involve or be initiated by changes in German leadership. We may soon be swept by wild rumors, many of which will be mere feelers of desperate politicians and leaders.

Hitler no longer dares to make a final all-out assault similar to the Kaiser's attempt to send out his fleet against the British Navy in 1918. He can prolong his existence only by shifting to a defensive strategy, limiting his aims to partial offensives and at the same time trying the old game of diplomacy and political maneuvers.

No one is safe in believing that the rapid and erratic development of internal difficulties—economic and moral—from the chronic to the acute to the critical stage can continue for long. Some German crisis, as yet unknown, probably this year and almost certainly next year, will probably be the last crisis before the final collapse.

BURNS KEEP BOWLS LEAD

Watts & Nickerson and Sav-Mor Tied for Second Place

Burns are still the hottest team in the Men's Five Pin Bowling League. By taking two games from All Stars last night they retained their hold on first place. Sav-Mor lost two games to Watts and Nickerson, thus dropping one point behind Burns while Watts and Nickerson came up to be tied with Sav-Mor for second place. Chinese Youth Association also closed in on the leaders by virtue of a clean sweep over Painters. In the other match, Air Force swept two games from Monarchs. The game between Stone's and Signals was postponed due to lack of pinsetters.

"Chuck" Lacroix of the Air Force team took the spotlight for high three, 745, and high single, 305.

SPORT CHAT

The career of Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League and for many years big-time hockey's outstanding executive, whose death occurred a few days ago, began in the stormy days before professional hockey had established itself as one of the major winter sports in Canada and the United States and continued through the years of hockey's greatest prosperity. In addition to guiding the major league for more than two decades, Calder became influential throughout the minor leagues affiliated with the N.H.L., whose problems were frequently brought to him for solution. Many of the rules he sponsored or introduced in his own league were adopted by minor and amateur circuits.

Calder was born in Bristol, England, of Scottish parents, on November 17, 1877, and was educated at English schools. He emigrated to Canada as a young man and became a teacher in a Montreal private school. Later he turned to newspaper work and was sports editor of the Montreal Witness and the Montreal Herald, and afterwards financial editor of The Herald. To his newspaper career Calder brought a board knowledge of all kinds of sport. He played cricket, soccer and rugby as a young man and in later life became a fair golfer and hand-ball player. But he never played hockey.

Calder's connection with the professional game began in the chaotic era of the National Hockey Association, of which he was the secretary. The circuit included two Montreal teams — Wanderers and Canadiens—one team from Ottawa and one from Quebec. In 1917, following a meeting in Montreal, a new group was formed, the National Hockey League, with Calder as its president. Calder ran into trouble immediately. The Quebec Hockey Club withdrew from the league, selling its franchise to Toronto Aenas for a mere $700. Calder ratified the deal, as he was to ratify later deals in which the transfer of one player involved figures as high as the $30,000 Ottawa Senators were paid by Toronto Maple Leafs for Frank (King) Clancy in 1930.

The young league suffered another blow in January, 1918, when the Montreal Arena, home of the Wanderers and the Canadiens, burned down. It was the only artificial-ice rink in the city, and the Wanderers withdrew from competition. Toronto also left the league, leaving Canadiens and Ottawa to finish the season alone. Calder started organizing all over again and the next season lined up Quebec, Toronto St. Patrick's—later to become Toronto Maple Leafs—Ottawa and the faithful Canadiens. Quebec once more left the league after a short stay but was replaced by Hamilton, Ontario. This combination held together for four years.

In 1924 sports promoters in the United States began to take an interest in the money-making possibilities of professional hockey, and Boston interests acquired a franchise. Montreal Maroons also entered the league in that year. The next season the Hamilton franchise was bought by the late Tex Rickard—the promoter who staged both the Dempsey-Tunney fights and realized the dream of a million-dollar gate. Rickard operated his team under the name of the New York Americans, and brought big-time hockey into Madison Square Garden. Later Americans experienced financial difficulties and the league took over the club, Calder acting as its president for several years.

In 1926 the league was entirely reorganized under Calder's guidance to admit New York Rangers, Detroit, Chicago and Pittsburgh. Ottawa, Montreal Maroons and Pittsburgh later dropped out of the league but the others carried on under Calder's presidency. St. Louis and Philadelphia each operated the Pittsburgh franchise for a season.

Calder's association with the National Hockey League is perpetuated through a cup—the Calder Trophy—which he donated to the league. It is awarded annually to the best rookie player, chosen by a poll conducted by The Canadian Press among sports writers around the circuit. Admiration which Calder has won among hockey men was given concrete expression in 1937 when a banquet was tendered him in New York on the occasion of his 25th anniversary as a professional hockey executive. He was toasted as "a firm, hard-headed Scot, a first-rank executive and a first-rank friend."

Petition For New Council

Residents of Sherbrooke Street Area Seeking More Direct Means of Communication

The first petition to be received by the new city council was presented at last night's meeting. It came from C. H. Loeing and other residents of the Sherbrooke Street area who asked for a connection from Eleventh Avenue to Eighth Avenue across Hays Creek between Cotton and Green Streets. Such a connection would provide a tour from Eleventh Avenue shorten the McClymont Park route and replace a present dilapidated footpath across Hays Creek which has been convenient to school children. A bridge across Hays Creek would be involved.

The petition was referred to the Board of Works.

NAZIS SEEK AVENUE OF ESCAPE FROM RED ARMY

German and Roumanian troops retreating in the Don area, look dubiously at their best means of escape, a railway right-of-way which had been effectively destroyed by the Russians. Latest dispatches from Moscow indicate that the advancing Russians are converging upon the key city of Rostov and are threatening to cut off and isolate a huge German army. The above photo was obtained in London through some neutral source.

At the suggestion of Ald. Robert McKay, the city council decided last night to notify citizens that any person seeing vehicles being driven in such a manner as to damage the streets should advise the authorities. Ald. ## SISTERS ABROAD— NURSES ON ALL FRONTS

Blue-clad Sisters of Canada Are Headed by Capable But Kindly Chief

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—The blue clad nursing sisters were on the job when wounded Canadian soldiers came back to Britain from the battle of Dieppe. They were on the job at Hong Kong.

They will be on the job when the hard-hitting Canadian army goes into action in Europe. They are there whenever disaster strikes, affecting the lives and health of Canadian servicemen at home or in war theatres around the world.

And all the patience, the gentleness, the sympathy that belongs to the nursing sister as she cares for the man in uniform in his hour of need is written on the face of their leader, Matron-in-chief Elizabeth Smellie.

Miss Smellie wears the crown and one pip of a lieutenant-colonel, and there's a double row of decorations on her tunic. But the kindly white-haired nurses' chief wears these honors lightly.

She doesn't want to be an executive behind a desk—not Elizabeth Smellie. She wants to be overseas, in England, rushing about a ward in a military hospital—or behind an Allied front somewhere at a base hospital, anywhere her strong capable hands can be doing the nurse's tasks she's loved since she was a child.

her teachers in the pioneer community of Port Arthur wouldn't let her appear in school plays. But she didn't mind—she had her own play, the play that she was a nurse, that she was risking her life, caring for the sick.

Her father was a classmate at Johns Hopkins of Sir William Osler. Her father was her guiding light, the sturdy Dr. Smellie who brought his bride to the rough and tumble construction camp at the head of Lake Superior before the railroad was through.

Life on the frontier was not hardship, but fun for the doctor's daughter. When the freezeup came the little community was cut off from the outside world until spring, but there was lots to do for energetic youngsters.

"We enjoyed ourselves—we skated, we skied, we snowshoed—and we read a lot," said Miss Smellie, closing her eyes, a way she does when she's remembering something. "We went to school, of course, but I was never a brilliant student."

Then came boarding school in Toronto—but the young Elizabeth still stuck to her resolve that she was going to be a nurse. Her father objected. Nursing was a hard profession in those days. But daughter stuck to her guns. And finally she arrived at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Those were happy days. "I simply loved every minute of it," said Miss Smellie. "But I was just a very average student." When she graduated she did private nursing, in Detroit chiefly, with trips home to Canada. Later she was night supervisor in McKellar Hospital, Fort William.

As soon as the First Great War began, Nurse Smellie enlisted, and by 1915 she was overseas, as a nursing sister, and later as a matron. She served in France, within earshot of the guns on the Western Front. In 1916 she was mentioned in dispatches. "Why," you ask her.

"No reason," she always replies. "Devotion to duty, I think they call it."

Took High Post
In 1918 she was posted to transport duty and while she was on this side of the Atlantic Miss Edith Rayside, head of the nursing sisters, wired Matron Smellie to become her assistant. That wasn't so exciting for the girl who liked action better than responsibility.

Like a great many nurses she turned her energy to social work when the war was over. She did public health nursing in Boston first, and then became assistant director of the school of graduate nurses at McGill University, Montreal. The Victorian Order of Nurses drew her interest and in 1942 she became superintendent of the order.

But she wasn't a stay-at-home. She was a member of the International Council of Nurses and travelled abroad often—to Finland, Geneva, London. In 1939 the Rockefeller Foundation sent her to England and Scandinavia to study their methods of maternal hygiene. In 1940 she became matron-in-chief of the R.C.A.M.C. Nursing Sisters.

Round and about she's picked up a lot of decorations. Miss Smellie flips them carelessly with her fingers.

"C. B. E.? Oh, I don't remember when I got that—when Mr. Bennett (former Canadian prime minister, now Lord Bennett) gave out the first lot I think." She's a fellow of the American Public Health Association. She wears the Agnes Snively Memorial medal, awarded by the Canadian Nurses' Association.

and the Royal Red Cross as well as service medals.

She was given an honorary doctor's degree by Western University, London, Ontario, last year. "Not because of my academic brilliance," she hastens to add.

But Miss Smellie is no ribbioned brass hat—rather she's the friendly glib sister for everyone of the 2,000 nursing sisters serving under her, at home and overseas.

"You should read the letters of appreciation from the boys after Dieppe—they said it was the nurses who helped pull them through," she said.

I wonder why it is that music hall jokes at the expense of deaf persons are always thought so excruciatingly funny and yet we can't see any particular reason for going into hysterics over the blind or the lame? I just mention it because it cropped up again in a recent program, the same old joke that P.O. "Bob" Hope used to tell about the two hearing people who mistook each other for deaf while at a party. I am not amused.

Another letter from Les Page who is a Leading Torpedo Hand—I hope I have the rating correct—on a destroyer out of Halifax. He seems settled down nicely to life on the eastern seaboard and writes—
 "Thanks for your letter and all the latest news of Rupert. There still seems to be lots of excitement in Prince Rupert. I'm glad the Hill-Tout's fire didn't materialize—I'm glad you enjoyed yourself at the Navy dance. They had one here, 300 couples, for Christmas. The canteen spent $2500. From what I hear it was worth it too. Have you seen Cliff Perry, Sig., lately? If you do, tell him I'm still of this world, even though a little distant and can be reached by mail. Well, Ma, I must close now and get back to work. Les."

We have a number of Air Force boys visiting in town for a few days each week, boys from the outposts, and any hospitality given them would be most appreciated.

Welcome to our new Navy Chaplain to H.M.C.S. Chatham—"Padre" Ivan Edwards who arrived yesterday from the East. Aren't the Navy lads going to get all mixed up in the two Ivans. Ivan Mallett of the Y.M.C.A. who is supervisor for the Navy and Ivan Edwards? Quite a coincidence isn't it?

And we were all sorry to see Padre Ernie Foote leave. Ah well, it's always good-bye in this business.

RUBBER — Keep your rubber
 "young" advises the consumer section of the Prices Board, especially those more - precious - than - gold foundation garments. Wash them with warm water and mild soap, handle gently and stretch as little as possible while wet. If the rubber is in good shape otherwise, try to mend small breaks or worn spots Never fold nor crease rubber articles unless absolutely necessary and then if you must fold them use a little talcum or cornstarch to prevent them from sticking and keep in a cool dark place, away from heat, oil, grease and tar.

IRONING—If ironing is your pet peeve try these tips to make it easier and to save energy, the Consumer Section of the Prices Board suggests. Don't iron seersucker, knitted cotton or rayon; don't iron terry cloth—remember you also save electricity; wring your clothes evenly and hang them straight on the line and you will have fewer wrinkles to iron out; start your articles according to those which require a hot iron and a cooler iron, ironing those that need more heat first; sprinkle garments carefully so that you do not require more heat and energy to iron them; last but not least, use a well-padded ironing board at the right height.
