

ITALY HAS QUIT

Unconditional Surrender By Junior Axis Partner; May Fight Germany Now

Eisenhower and Badoglio Call It Off

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 8 (CP) — General Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today the unconditional surrender of Italian armed forces. The commander of the Allied Forces in the Mediterranean and North Africa said he had granted Italy a military armistice.

Thus the minor member of the Berlin-Tokyo-Rome Axis met the stipulation insisted upon by Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt of unconditional surrender and nothing less.

The announcement came as dispirited Italian troops by the hundreds surrendered to British and Canadian troops advancing up the Calabrian Peninsula where the Allies landed last Friday on the heels of the thirty-eight day Sicilian victory which sent the Germans fleeing to the Italian mainland.

The capitulation came from the government of Marshal Badoglio who succeeded Premier Benito Mussolini when the junior partner of Adolf Hitler was ousted July 25.

Announcing the brilliant news Eisenhower declared: "The Italian government has surrendered its armed forces unconditionally."

"As Allied commander-in-chief I have granted a military armistice, the terms of which have been approved by the governments of the United Kingdom, the United States and the Union of Soviet Republics. Thus I am acting in the interests of the United Nations.

"The Italian government has bound itself to abide by these terms without reservation.

"The armistice was signed by my representative and the representative of Marshal Badoglio and it becomes effective this instant," Eisenhower said in a broadcast at 9:30 a.m. Pacific Daylight Time.

"Hostilities between the armed forces of the United Nations and those of Italy terminate at once. All Italians who now act to help eject German aggressors from Italian soil will have the assistance and support of the United Nations."

The truce was actually reached last Friday at Allied advance headquarters in Sicily — the very day that British and Canadian troops swept across Messina Strait to invade the Italian toe—but it was agreed, a special announcement said, that the armistice should come into force at a moment most favorable to the Allies. That moment has now arrived.

BADOGGIO'S PROCLAMATION

Marshal Badoglio issued a proclamation saying that an armistice had been requested and granted. He called on all Italian armed forces to "cease all acts of hostility against Anglo-American forces wherever they may be met."

Badoglio instructed the Italians, however, to "oppose attacks from any other quarters," warning that German attempts to interfere would be met by arms."

Water Mains To Be Installed

In future no water connections will be made to other than private homes in Prince Rupert unless a meter is installed, the applicant to pay either the entire cost of installation or a monthly meter rental. A recommendation to this effect from the utilities committee was adopted at last night's meeting of the city council.

YEAR'S FISH IS HEAVIER

The records of the International Fisheries Commission show that for the period from April 16 to August 31, 1943, the following amounts of halibut have been landed in Pacific coast ports from Area 3:

American Fleet	23,335,930
Canadian Fleet	1,427,135

Total 24,763,065

These figures have been corrected to date but are subject to further corrections.

In 1942 the landings from April 16 to August 31 amounted to:

American Fleet	Area 3 18,536,512
Canadian Fleet	1,144,747

Total 19,681,259

For the month of August, 1943, the following amounts of halibut were landed:

American Fleet	Area 3 5,991,930
Canadian Fleet	719,135

Total 6,711,065

August landings from Area 2 were restricted to that halibut caught incidentally during fishing with set lines for other species under permit and amounted to 183,837 pounds.

Evelyn Home Is Destroyed

SMITHERS, Sept. 8—Trygve Hallan, a farmer of the Evelyn district, had the misfortune to lose his house and all the contents by fire on Sunday evening.

Mr. Hallan had finished his supper and took a walk through his fields on the way to visit a neighbor about a mile away. When he got back home at 11 p.m. he found his house had disappeared during his absence and that his belongings consisted of what he stood in.

The loss was covered by insurance.

Governor General Princess Alice Hosts at Dinner

Mayor and Mrs. W. M. Watts and Commander D. E. Wallace, naval officer in charge at Prince Rupert, were dinner guests of the Governor General and Princess Alice in the private car of His Excellency and Her Royal Highness last evening.

During the evening the mayor received, on behalf of the city, autographed portraits of the vice-regal couple which will be duly framed and placed in a prominent position in the city council chamber.

Discuss Training Of Youth

"Thank you very much for so kindly inviting me this afternoon and for giving me this opportunity of meeting you during our short and busy stay in Prince Rupert.

"It is difficult in these days which are so pregnant with anxious thoughts, with new ideas, and with plans for the future of the world and for Canada in particular, to choose what is of the greatest importance or which plan to make a start with," said Princess Alice, wife of the Governor General, in speaking to Women's Auxiliary of Church of England in Canada at the home of Mrs. J. B. Gibson yesterday afternoon.

"As you are all church people, I think you will agree with me that in all our planning for the days of reconstruction and the days after that, if we do not approach each and every question as positive Christians we are bound to fail. And that is where we members of a church it seems to me, have a special duty to perform. We have no excuse that we do not know which way our duty lies and it's for us to act and to think courageously, to be, so to speak, personal evangelists. Our clergy can only go so far but it is we laymen who have to carry out Our Lord's teaching.

"Whatever way we look at it, it is quite clear there was something utterly false in our way of life and in our intercourse with our fellow men which landed us in this most terrible of wars and the unheard of misery it has brought to whole civil populations among the nations. It is true the initial crime was perpetrated by Germany but how did the German people come to such a pass as if they were verily possessed by the devil himself? Did they not begin by casting all religious education aside, by throwing contempt upon the Church and church goers, and finally making it impossible for the youth of the nation to enter a church for the worship of God? The German people have always been easy to regiment and so they were easily led and travelled fast down the road to destruction. Nevertheless, we of the United Nations have not such a good record to look back on. We, too, had gone very far along the path of apathy towards religion ourselves and that without any regimentation from wicked leaders.

"I think, and sincerely believe the shock of this second great war has pulled us up just in time and that men's minds are looking again to the true standard."

NAZIS HAVE HARD TIME

LONDON, Sept. 8 — Relentless aerial smashes Nazi war sinews and the that General George C. Marshall would command armies in the European theatre, shaped German fate today of an invasion from the west to add to the troubles in east and south.

In the east the Germans are falling back before dogged Russian attacks with the capture of Stalingrad expected momentarily.

The air war from Britain reached an unprecedented scale last night with the Royal Air Force and Royal Canadian Air Force blasting Munich on the heels of a big Sunday daylight blow by American bombers at Stuttgart.

Staggering Light Bills

The city council, by division last night, went on record as being opposed to a new accounting policy of the Northern British Columbia Co. whereby light accounts will be rendered to domestic consumers every second month instead of monthly as at present. It was felt that accumulation of accounts might make it more difficult for some people to pay than would be the case on the monthly basis.

The company's communication giving notice of the change said that certain difficulties had made necessary the adoption of a system of by-monthly meter readings and billing. Permission had been granted by the Public Utilities Commission to make the change.

Convention Is Reported On

A meeting of Labor Progressive Party, Sunday night at East End Hall with C. Vizer in the chair, had a discussion on "History of the Working Class Movement Since 1917" and a report by H. Mickleburgh on the national convention held in Toronto last month. Plans were made for a public meeting to outline the role of the new party.

21-GUN SALUTE

Prince Rupert garrison will celebrate the capitulation of Italy with the firing of a 21-gun salute at 5 o'clock this evening, it is announced from military headquarters. There will be a parade of all the services. Naval vessels' flags generally are being flown today in celebration of the victory.

A recommendation from the council as a committee of the whole that a three-ton truck be purchased for the garbage department was adopted by the city council last night.

HOW WOMEN MAY HELP

Princess Alice Gives Timely Address to Large Gathering

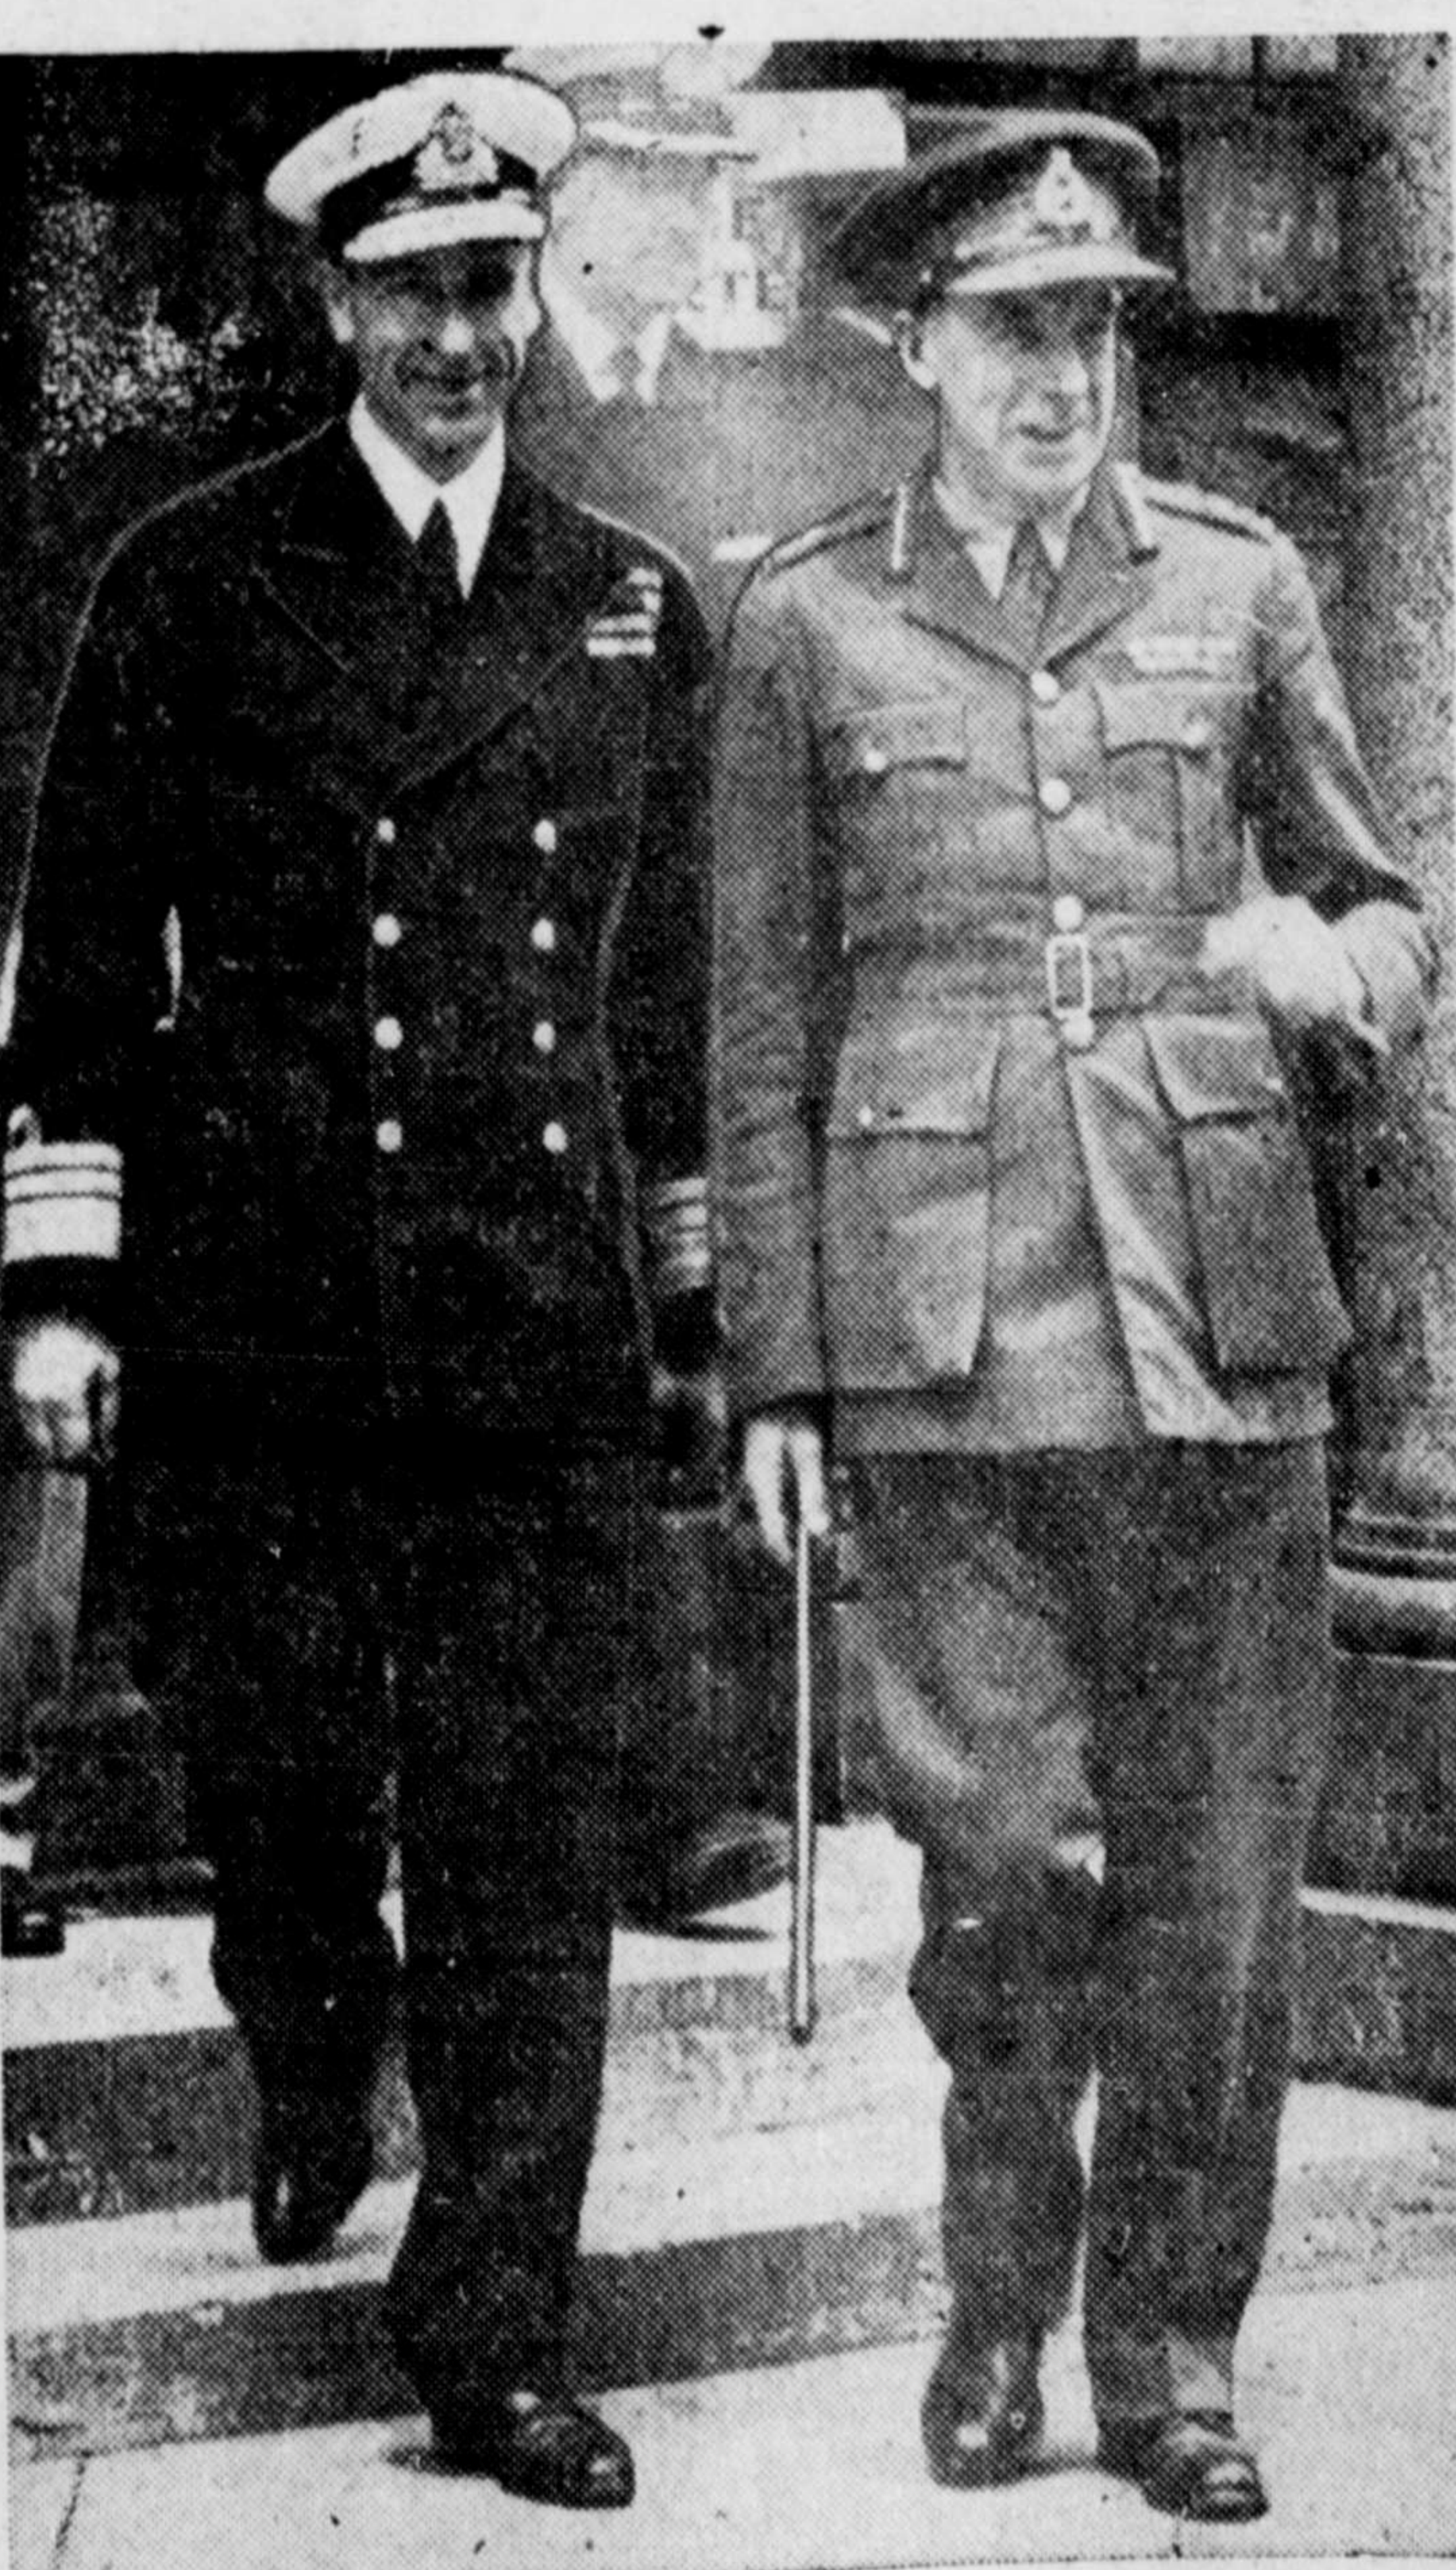

Many ladies of Prince Rupert had the opportunity yesterday afternoon at the I.O.D.E. Hall of hearing the charming Princess Alice, wife of the Governor General, deliver a patriotic address with special reference to war work and women's activities. It was an added privilege later of being presented to Her Royal Highness. With quite a few of them Her Royal Highness engaged later in informal chatting. The occasion was a gathering primarily arranged for members of the I.O.D.E. with members of the Women's Canadian Club and the Red Cross augmenting their numbers. The hall was attractively decorated with flowers.

Her Royal Highness was met at the entrance by Mrs. G. E. Moore, regent of Municipal Chapter; Mrs. J. A. Rutherford, president of the Women's Canadian Club, and Mrs. C. H. Elkins of the Red Cross. Accompanied by the standard bearers of municipal and subsidiary chapters—Mrs. S. V. Cox, Mrs. William Brass, Mrs. E. G. Kidd and Miss Muriel Vance, the party proceeded, while Mrs. C. E. Cullin played "Land of Hope and Glory," to the speaker's table which was profusely decorated with flowers. After the singing of "O Canada," dainty little Miss Georgina Mitchell, dressed in a pink frock of crepe-de-chine coyly presented Her Royal Highness with a beautiful bouquet of asters and gladioli, and the lady-in-waiting, Miss Vera Grenfell, with a corsage of gardenia and pale yellow roses. As a permanent memento of the occasion, Mrs. Moore presented Princess Alice with a slate totem. Princess Alice then delivered her address and, following the reception and the period of delightful informal chatting, the proceedings closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

Her Excellency spoke as follows:

Her Excellency's Speech
"It is indeed kind of you to have joined in welcoming me to your midst this afternoon, and thus offering me an opportunity of meeting you all if only for a brief moment. By now there is no one in however remote a part of Canada, who does not know about your three societies and thinks of them, or works for them, with grateful hearts. You would have been happy to hear what the W.D.'s of the R.C.A.F. had to say about the many kindnesses of the I.O.D.E. I am not going to say anything more in praise of your reputations, but just wish to touch upon a situation which has arisen in our midst almost entirely due to the urgent demands of war industries of every kind for more and more

Alone's Time Alaska

Excellency Pilots His Own Plane—Sees Allied Cooperation

Governor General of the Earl of Athlone, on his first visit to Alaska today when he personally part of the way north from Prince Rupert a amphibian bomber of the Canadian Air Force which him and his party to an outpost in southeastern Alaska. It was a fine and memorable day with the Air Force Excellency as he conducted his visit to the fighting in these parts. He expressed himself as being keenly interested in an aerial expedition which started in the morning and concluded with his return to Prince Rupert by early evening.

His destination for the day was a striking example of international cooperation between the United States and Canada in the defence of the Pacific Coast. He landed and lunched at a Canadian-managed air base on the Alaskan soil. For his benefit was a demonstration of a battery of Capt. S. F. Maun of Vancouver and Lieut. L. Hills, Ald. Elliot and Ald. Daggett voted against the change with Ald. Arnold and Ald. McKay opposing a motion to this effect.

The company's communication giving notice of the change said that certain difficulties had made necessary the adoption of a system of by-monthly meter readings and billing. Permission had been granted by the Public Utilities Commission to make the change.

The Governor General was met by Col. Samuel H. Gibson of San Diego, post commander, Lieut. Commander J. Gibson of Birmingham, Alabama, United States Navy, and Commander Gordon Diamond of Vancouver, commanding officer of the air base.

Prior to leaving for Prince Rupert His Excellency inspected the seaplane base under command of Wing Commander C. Tennant from which he made the flight and inspected the arrangements for the vice-regal flight from Prince Rupert were made and personally directed by Group Captain H. Foss of Montreal. Others to make the trip included Lieut. General H. N. Ganong, general officer commanding 14th Division; Col. D. B. Marshall, commandant of Prince Rupert area defences; Sir John Redfern, personal secretary to His Excellency; Wing Commander R. F. Douglas of Vancouver; Capt. L. H. McDonald, Halifax; Lieut. Charles L. Galt, Montreal, and G. A. (Continued on page two)

FAREWELLED AT CHURCH

Following the evening service at the First United Church on Sunday there was a meeting of members of the congregation at which opportunity was taken to bid farewell, on the eve of their departure for New Westminster, to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Wilding who for more than 20 years have been active in church activities.

Reference was made to the splendidly effective though unassuming work of both Mr. and Mrs. Wilding in various official capacities. They have left behind a fine record of achievement and Christian fellowship and they take with them the sincere wishes of all for their future happiness and prosperity in their new location.

Mrs. Andrew Thompson made the presentation of a handsome mantel clock and many of the congregation spoke in appreciation of the help that the guests of the evening had given in church work and as neighbors.

Reference was also made to the loss in the departure of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Barclay who left to take up residence in the south. Both Mr. and Mrs. Barclay had also been valuable members of the congregation and of official boards.

Rev. J. A. Dennell, who presided, stressed the debt that he owed to those leaving. Such members as they had been of very great help to him as a minister of the congregation.

HOW WOMEN MAY HELP

labor—labor, whose ranks have now to be filled by our women and young girls.

"This is another of those emergencies for which we were wholly unprepared with the result that no serious thought or preparation was made and in many instances has not even yet been made for their suitable accommodation. The consequence is that, quite apart from the natural fatigue of hard and unusual toil, is added a very real and unnecessary hardship in finding sleeping room which has to be shared with already over-crowded households. Many of these young people arrive straight from their own home surroundings in country districts and are quite unprepared to meet with the novelties and excitements of city life. There are so many temptations too for girls who for the first time are in possession of a large wage.

"I imagine I am only speaking of a state of affairs too much in evidence in your own over-crowded city although in the main it is the men who need accommodation here. I am not going to tell you hair-raising stories of the deteriorating effect of over-crowding and lack of any kind of restraint on our young girls. Your own Y.W.C.A. and Salvation Army workers, all your doctors and hospitals can give you all the desired information but it does not require a great deal of imagination to realize the harm that is being done. This state of affairs is certainly not peculiar to Canada for the same conditions have arisen both in Great Britain and in the United States, and so serious has it become in Great Britain, that special workers' hostels are being built and recreational centres opened in all centres of industry.

It is not sufficient to build a hostel, although these are the first necessities. On our drive yesterday through your city I noticed some excellent looking men's hostels—recreation centres and restaurants must accompany them if we really are to serve the men and women in our midst. Young people and even older ones will run wild unless they can find friendly helping hands to lead them into places and ways of wholesome happy recreation. My own past experience in "Y" canteens has shown me how quickly people respond when facilities are offered them of spending their spare time in surroundings that are at once free and easy and yet with a certain homelike restraint to the personality of the people in England they have so far as to oblige all young people over the age of 16 to register and to belong to a recognized recreational centre, or join a service unit such as air, army, or naval Cadets. It is meeting with a good response with appreciation of the young people themselves.

"Your sudden vast influx of population and to a certain degree a floating one at that must have taxed your canteen and hostel accommodation to their limits. It is therefore, I visualize the construction of large recreational centre combined with a restaurant, barber shop and so forth along with homes or hostels for the people who have come to work in Prince Rupert. I know you will at once say we can't get priorities but you always can if you are persistent enough and I would even say disagreeable enough. Sometimes it only means finding one man in high place who sees like you and it gets done. But your three societies comprise most of the women who are worthwhile in Prince Rupert and surely if you really set your minds to it, no one will dare refuse I venture.

There is a vulgar little rhyme which is not inappropriate here: 'The Lord gave us two ends to use. 'One to think with and one to sit with. 'The woe depends on which we choose. 'Heads we win, tails we lose' 'But please don't think I am being censorious for I know what your labors have been. Rather do I want to give you fresh courage to continue your struggle with the great odds you have to contend with by assuring you how much I understand your difficulties—yours which are merely different in kind from the same overwhelming difficulties we have to contend with throughout the length and breadth of Canada.

"You all have the weal of our great Dominion at heart, and it is for this reason I feel sure that you could arouse public opinion on behalf of the young people serving in your midst. Where conditions are still within control we must arouse the public conscience to their great duty in this respect. The greatest force of democracy is public opinion. We cannot look on this question from a money point of view. The men and women who are working so willingly and so splendidly who are contributing so essentially to Canada's huge war effort have got to be looked after or we shall reap a bitter harvest at the close of the war.

"I am afraid we all talk too flippantly about our plans for building a brave new world when the war is over. We are, of course, right to make plans and to lift our eyes to the light on the horizon but let's look carefully where we are placing our feet. We cannot reconstruct until the foundation is sound. Deplorable and congested dwellings places are not going to produce good Christian mothers or the fine healthy boys and girls who will have to carry out our plans for reconstruction. In all our planning we women as homemakers have a great part to play and it is my fullest conviction that it is in the strength of our spiritual life that the right rebuilding of our national, as well as our international life depends. Our men in the Armed Forces are being so well trained and educated that it will be a sorry disillusionment after all they have learnt and suffered on our behalf if they return to find their children are a lot of little hoodlums, and their relations, girls and friends left far behind them, both in education and in a sense of responsibility towards home and country.

"We must indeed labor with vision, not only to keep, but to make our homes fine, healthy and Christian. As H. M. Queen Elizabeth recently said: 'We cannot close our eyes to the fact that our precious Christian heritage is threatened by adverse influences.

"It does, indeed seem to me that if the years to come are to see some real spiritual recovery, the women of our nation must be deeply concerned with religion and our homes are the very place where it should start. It is the creative and dynamic power of Christianity which can help us to carry the moral responsibilities which history is placing upon our shoulders.

"If our homes can be truly Christian, then the influence of that spirit will assuredly spread like leaven through all aspects of our common life, industrial, social and political."

Take a clean white cloth. Dampen it. Wipe the bulb and reflector bowl of a lamp that's not in use at the time. Then take a look at the cloth. You'll be amazed at the black dirt it wipes off. This dust and grease film which constantly accumulates on lighting equipment robs people of a third to half of the electric light they pay for—light that is needed to protect precious eyesight!

By keeping all lamp bulbs and reflectors clean you get more light at no extra cost.

Italy Surrenders . . .

Italy has capitulated. That news flash arrived this morning to be followed by further particulars. It was electrifying news although possibly not surprising. Many had been expecting it for the last few weeks.

The significance rather than the act itself is the point about Italy's surrender. It is not likely she would have capitulated unless she was satisfied that Germany was most certainly losing the war. There may be painful days for Italy yet, particularly if she is made a battleground between the Allies and Germany, a situation which will probably yet occur.

The capitulation of Italy is the first real break in Axis solidarity. Of course, it constitutes by far our most important victory so far in the war.

Germany's days in the war are, of course, numbered now. She is losing heavily before Russia in the east and on the north. She has become extremely vulnerable on the south. The west is still the uncertain point. Important developments may reasonably be expected there in the very near future.

The capitulation of Italy is of utmost importance. Now the tide has turned for us, it appears to be surging more rapidly in our favor every day.

More days now may well alter the entire aspect and conduct of the conflict. We may well say that anything might happen now.

Our prospects are exceedingly good. Possibly it is a little optimistic to think about unconditional surrender of Germany and Japan for a little while yet. We must remember that we are pledged against any negotiated peace.

The psychological effect of Italy picking the winner is, of course, most important for us all.

Back to School . . .

The lad who leaves a war job to return to high school is not only making a wise investment in his own future, but he is also contributing very tangibly to the democracy in which he lives. While it is true that work in the war factories is of the greatest possible importance at this time, it is no less true that development of a better, more tolerant, more intelligent society for the future is one of the things we fight for.

It is easy to understand the thoughts of a 17-year-old boy in a war plant. He has a year or so to manage before his probable induction in the Army. Shall he reap the unprecedented wages now available to him and at the same time make a direct contribution to the war effort, or shall he return to school for a year? Seventeen is a bird-in-the-hand age. It takes a good deal of reasoning to show the wisdom of continuing that thread of self-improvement just as long as possible, of laying each foundation stone securely for the building of service through the later years. It requires some philosophizing to show that the democratic idea is that the mass is raised only as the individual is raised and that each individual, therefore, has a most solemn obligation to his fellow-democrats.

LETTERBOX

CONDUCT IN PARKS

Editor, Daily News:

May I find space in your columns to present and bring to the attention of the citizens of this town and to those in authority, some of the conditions existing in our very midst.

I am a parent, with active children, and with no yard in which they may spend their hours of play. As such I have been very grateful for the Gyro park with a supervisor conveniently near where the youngsters of the neighborhood may safely go for recreation. At least I thought they were safe.

But when my son (aged seven) came home Saturday afternoon, having been pined with liquor by two of the men in Army uniform, I began to wonder where safety might be found. When the very men being trained to go shoot and fight the battle of "right against wrong" find it uproariously amusing to give strong drink to a child, and then give necessary tests determining his state of equilibrium, it is time a battle is started on the home front.

As I have stated, the parks in this particular community are almost a necessity but when they are converted into grounds for illicit practices is it not a deplorable state?

I am not suggesting that anyone could keep a check on these public places at all times but I do maintain that during the hours of daylight (and children are on the playgrounds while it is light) the health and future of our children could and should be protected!

(MRS.) VERA MARTIN.

RUSSIAN FRIENDSHIP

Editor, Daily News:

You write warning us against Russia, quoting another very evident dihard of our late capitalist democracy with its dreaded method of showing the good things of this life. Writing such piffle at a time when we need Russia as a strong ally and when victory is still being weighed in the balance, you and your kind seem blind to the great achievement of a great nation both in the welfare of her people and her gallant defence of something worth while.

Americans and Canadians are not going to tolerate poverty amidst plenty any longer. We have learned the lesson from Russia.

The Russians do not need us to overlord them. Their attitude towards us is just friendly and it will be much to our interest to be the same towards them from now on. Our Fascists and Big Shots will fool us no longer.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Extension of Compulsory Employment Transfers.

To Employers and Employees:

THE 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order, issued under authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, requires compliance not later than September 8th, 1943. After that date no employer may continue to employ any man covered by this Order, unless under special permit.

The first five Compulsory Transfer Orders listed occupations, and required compliance by all male employees in those occupations if (a) in an age and marital class designated under the Military Call-up, or if (b) 16, 17 or 18 years of age. The Sixth Order repeats all occupations given in the five earlier Orders, and requires all other men from 16 to 40 years of age (both ages inclusive) to become available for transfer to higher priority jobs, by registering at the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Details of the Sixth Order were advertised in daily newspapers at the end of August. Copies of the Order may be secured from any Employment and Selective Service Office.

If in doubt as to the coverage of this Order, or the procedure under it, ask your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

All men, married or single, employed in designated occupations, aged 16 to 40, are now covered by the Orders. To avoid penalties, those who have not yet registered must do so by September 8th, 1943.

Owing to the difficulty of obtaining help to man the service, the city is seeking further cooperation from citizens in regard to placing of garbage cans more conveniently to the streets. A new schedule of collection services is to be issued tomorrow.

The city council was advised last night by the city engineer that W. H. Wilson had resigned as patrolman of the Shawatlans Lake pipe line. The position will not be re-filled by the city as the duties of patrolling the line are being otherwise handled.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean yesterday on a trip to Vancouver. Among those leaving town yesterday were Mrs. C. Collins and Mrs. Cy Kellett who are going to Victoria on a holiday trip.

In view of the Labor Day holiday Monday, the regular bi-monthly meeting of the city council was postponed to last evening. Business was not of a very important nature but the session took up a couple of hours' time. Ald. W. H. Brett presided in the absence of Mayor W. M. Watts. Other members of the council present were Ald. Norah Arnold, Ald. Robert McKay, Ald. George Hills, Ald. T. H. Elliott and Ald. H. M. Daggett.

▲ Further floral tributes at the funeral of the late Robert Carr on Friday last included pieces from Mr. and Mrs. Tattersal, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Robertson and Mary and Ina, Mrs. F. D. Sampare, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Stuart and Sheila and Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Hill-Tout and Phyllis and Jack, Miss Betty Payne, Miss Joy Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warne, Miss Helen Rushbrook, Mrs. M. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. J. Moraes (Port Simpson) and Mrs. J. J. Payne.

TRAINING OF YOUTH

ards of religion. But, unless we do something about it, some thing to keep the embers of a new fire alight, we shall lose this chance and just drop back into the old ways.

"I wonder if you are at all interested in the Youth Movement for Canada? I think it has within the compass of its program something for which we have been looking, something that will help our young men and women and boys and girls to attain to those standards of life and religion in life—that are so urgently needed if we are to rebuild a world which is going to live the ways of peace and not merely talk peace and live the old ways which lead once more to war. The Youth Movement is to embrace the questions of employment, health, education, recreation, citizenship and religion. Every society will be asked to co-operate but the chief aim is to get youth themselves to co-operate and to understand our purpose on their behalf. Of equal importance if anything so far reaching is to be carried out successfully must be the active support and collaboration of adult Canada. We will have to try by all means in our power to build a post-war Canada in which youth can find fulfilment on youth's own terms—vigor, initiative, self-reliance—the adventure of new horizons sated by a live measure of responsible Christian citizenship.

Training of Children

We want to look forward but we have also to look back to see where we have failed and how we have failed the youth of Canada. How far our own examples, our own slackness in the service to God, in service to our fellow men has reacted upon our young people in their formative years. I do think we have to take a pull on ourselves, change the habit of sending the children to Sunday School and remaining at home ourselves or never taking our children to church and forming that excellent habit when they are still young. Or, because it is a bore to ourselves not making our children help in the house, or to make them join some club or society which requires a little sacrifice on their part to help others. Children are so imitative and an early teaching of unselfishness in the daily things of life learnt at home are what really stamps their characters for after life. Then the admirable schemes for the development of their characters and their physical well-being is a valuable corollary to their early training as they pass from childhood to adolescence. That is what we want to aim at.

"We must take courage in both our hands and begin now—right away—to lead public opinion, for, without a sound public opinion at our backs we cannot hope to make any headway. Opinion is beginning to move, but it requires forceful, as well as thoughtful, leadership. We cannot wait till the war is ended and our men return, weary maybe, but with the knowledge of a great achievement greatly performed only to find that we are just as they left us, that we have not on our part dared to achieve something, that we had not labored greatly to better ways of life for their families. If our distressful world is to make a fresh start, if we believe that we are nearing the dawn of a new era, surely it is our duty to put our shoulders to the wheel, each one of us. Let us have faith that right is might, and in that faith let us dare to do our duty."

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. S. Peacock wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Mae Dorreen, to Hans Petersen, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Petersen. The marriage will take place September 23.

King's Sixpence In His Pudding

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 8.—During the King's visit to the Home Fleet he ate pudding at one meal and found two sixpences in it. He was told there were 25 sixpences in the cake, one for each guest. He learned only 21 had been recovered and ordered a second helping to be served every officer who had the Home Fleet he ate pudding not found a sixpence.

JAPANESE JUSTICE

(Fifth of a series by AP foreign correspondents on their biggest moments in covering the war.)

By MAX HILL

NEW YORK—Two guards stood beside the entrance to the courtroom, taking their duties very seriously. Another policeman sat beside me, his hands resting loosely on his legs. Obviously he was ready to thwart any attempt at escape.

My face and head were covered with the cone-shaped rice-straw dunce cap all prisoners wore every time they stepped out of their cells.

I was in the court for sentence, and had been waiting for hours in a damp and dark basement cell. All this happened in Tokyo, five months after Pearl Harbor, while I was a prisoner in solitary confinement.

Each time I was taken to the court, not far from the Imperial Palace, I rode from Sugamo prison with some forty Japanese prisoners who were roped together and handcuffed and then crammed into the bus.

Two weeks before I had been tried—and convicted of "sending stories detrimental to Japan's diplomacy" to The Associated Press in New York.

Japan's legal system is based on the Napoleonic code, and I was sure the chief of the three judges would follow the recommendation of the procurator, which was:

Eighteen months in prison! The officer rapped my leg, frowning at me. I stood up stiffly. The three judges filed in. In slow, dignified Japanese, the centre judge read the charge and his conclusions.

Then he quickly announced the sentence was to be eighteen months, as recommended, but that he would suspend execution of his order for three years.

Suddenly the sun seemed brighter—and it was worthwhile living, even in Tokyo, the key city of our enemy. I was taken back to prison, but was included in the diplomatic exchange a few days later.

I had returned to freedom from what accurately might be called a living death.

SCHOOL BOOK LINE-UP HERE

There was a new kind of line-up in Prince Rupert this morning. It was one of the healthiest that has been seen. Children were delighted for to many of them it meant another day's holiday from school. Mothers, however, thinking of pressing tasks at home, appeared somewhat impatient.

This line-up was in front of McRae Bros. Ltd. book and stationery store where at one time more than two hundred women and children were assembled on the street awaiting admission to the store so that school books might be bought.

In order that the clerking staff might handle the business in an orderly manner, thirty people were being admitted at a time through one door of the store which was then locked until the purchasers had been handled and let out by another door.

The stream of school book purchasers started yesterday and was undiminished today.

The city is deeding to War-time Housing Ltd. lot 6, block 40, section 7, which is required for school purposes.

SPEAKS OF ARMAGGEDON

Increased attendance was very noticeable at Evangelist Balmer's second lecture of the Bible Facts campaign series in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Sunday evening. His subject was "Armageddon's First Battle."

The present conflict was not the Armageddon of the Bible, Pastor Balmer said. In that conflict all nations would be destroyed, whereas in the present war the nations would not be destroyed. The Allies' chief aim was to liberate Europe and other countries from the tyranny of dictators.

Before the battle is fought, which is between the forces of heaven and those of earth (Rev. 19: 11-19, 16: 14-16) the Gospel must first be preached for a witness "to every nation, kindred tongue and people." (Rev. 14: 6). When this is accomplished the door of mercy will be forever closed. Then will fall seven destructive plagues such as the world has never seen. These are the wrath of God upon a rebellious sinful world.

The battle is fought during the seventh plague and, said the evangelist, not one Christian will fight in that battle. Thousands of Christians have fought in former wars but they will not do so in Armageddon, because it would be in opposition to Christ and His armies. The forces of heaven will rain down hailstones, everyone about the weight of a talent (56 pounds) upon those who do so. The destruction caused by this aerial bombardment will be the greatest ever known. Those of earth's unrepentant through that escape this catastrophe will not survive the rays of the brightness of Christ and His armies—the angels (2 Thess. 2: 8).

The speaker made applicable the prophecy of Jer. 25: 33 in describing the outcome of Armageddon's first battle — "The slain of the Lord shall be at that day from one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth."

The evangelist reminded his audience that it was Satan's studied object to incite the nations to war against one another, for he can thus divert the minds of the people from the work of preparation so needful against this dreadful day to come. Nothing should be allowed to so engross the mind as to exclude the most important thing—victory over sin in our lives whether inherited or cultivated.

Juvenile Now Is Grown-up

When Virginia Weidler sets out to capture the autographs of a quartette of screen stars and at the same time extricate her father from what she thinks is an affair with his pretty secretary, ludicrous results ensue in "The Youngest Profession," current feature offering this Wednesday and Thursday at the Capitol Theatre here. The comedy of adolescence is enhanced by the appearance of five guest stars—Lana Turner, Greer Garson, William Powell, Robert Taylor and Walter Pidgeon.

Virginia is said to be very charming in her most "grown up" role while Edward Arnold turns in a fine performance as her father. John Carroll, as a professional strong man, has an important comedy part and Agnes Moorehead is effectively vicious as a sharp-tongued gossip. Ann Ayers is the father's secretary and Marta Linden is Virginia's mother. Jean Porter also has an important part and a group of clever "teen age players includes Marcia Mae Jones and Scotty Beckett.

The picture is based on a successful novel by Lillian Day.

The Experts Say - - -

POTTERY PLENTIFUL—Good news to those who like their coffee hot is that cups may be again made with handles, and that the pottery plates they'll be using in future may be colored but not decorated—a small discomfort to those who think a heaped dinner plate is not enough. Three orders recently passed by the Prices Board specify the kinds, type and size of pottery which may be made henceforth. This standardization is planned to make as efficient use as possible of Canadian production, to compensate for the loss of pre-war imports from England, Japan and Central Europe.

PRESERVES NOW RATIONED—Jam, jelly, honey and marmalade are now on the ration list to ensure fair distribution of them. However, those who take their meals in restaurants as many war workers do, need not feel they are breaking the law if they find jelly on their toast. Restaurants are permitted to serve such trimmings as long as their quota stocks on hand last.

CHERRIES RIPE—With Canadian cherries on the markets once again, the consumer section of the agriculture department offers a tempting recipe for cherry cream pie. The recipe calls for two cups of pitted, sweet cherries; one-half cup water; one-quarter cup sugar; two tablespoons of cold water, and additional one-quarter cup of sugar; one-third cup of flour, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-half cup cold milk, one and one-half cups hot milk, one egg, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla, and baked pie shell. Cook the cherries with one-half cup of water for 10 minutes. Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt and mix with cold water. Add a little hot cherry juice to mixture and add to cherries; cook ten minutes longer and cool. Mix flour, addition-sugar and salt; combine with cold milk. Add hot milk and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly, for ten minutes. Beat egg, combine with a little of the hot mixture, return to double boiler and cook three minutes longer. Remove from heat, add butter and flavoring. Spread cooled cherries in the bottom of the baked pie shell and cover with cream filling. Cool and serve.

EAT FOODS IN SEASON—Those who take the advice of dietitians and eat fresh fruits and vegetables when they are in season will reap a two-fold benefit—not only will they enjoy a more healthful diet but also they will save canned, dried and preserved fruits for the time when the fresh foods will not be available.

Timely Recipes

GREEN TOMATO RELISH

1/2 gallon green tomatoes
1/4 cup salt
1/4 medium cabbage
2 green peppers
1 large onion
1 sweet red pepper
3 cups vinegar
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon mustard seed
1 teaspoon whole cloves

Put tomatoes through food chopper, using coarse blade. Combine with the salt and let drain overnight, in cheesecloth bag. Add cabbage, peppers, and onions, also put through chopper. Mix vegetables together and add vinegar, water, sugar, and the spices tied in a bag. Cook over low heat until the vegetables are tender—about 20 minutes. Bottle and seal. Makes about 3 1/2 pints.
