CIVIC CENTRE AWARD

THERE CAN BE little complaint at the award which has been made by the board of arbitration which settled the price at which the federal government turns over the former Y.M.C.A. war services building here to the people of Prince Rupert for permanent use as their Civic Centre. Undoubtedly there were some who might have hoped the building would be acquired at a lower price—even a nominal figure—but a fair reflection on the situation on its merits will, undoubtedly, bring one to the conclusion that the federal government itself was entitled to some consideration as well as this city. There is also the matter of precedent for there are other cases in Canada of somewhat similar circumstances.

The important thing is that the city of Prince Rupert has possessed itself; at ten times less than it would have cost to build, an eminently suitable structure for immediate use without having had any of the worries of having to erect the building itself.

The unanimity of the arbiters is also an indication of the fairness of the award. We think the arbiters are to be thanked and congratulated on the culmination of a good deal all around.

THE BIG FIGHT

THE KEEN INTEREST that was taken in the Louis-Conn world championship bout last night was indication, if any such were needed, that we are getting back to our peacetime attitudes again - even in the fighting game.

Yankee Stadium was crowded with the second largest paying crowd in pugilistic history. Even here in Prince Rupert many of us had been talking about the fight for days. Last evening we absorbed ourselves with the radio broadcast. And today our readers will be interested again in the newspaper accounts of the battle. There is something satisfactory and relaxing about getting down to such things as these again after the war years during which graver and more vital matters made prize fights seem so inconsequential and hardly

UP TO CITY NOW

THERE CAN BE NO complaining at the lack of co-operation on the part of the federal government in making readily available to the city of Prince Rupert facilities for the establishment of an essential local base for marine aircraft. Not only has the city been offered the multimillion dollar seaplane base of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Seal Cove but, in order that the overhead and insurance costs may be kept within due bounds for the city to handle, Mr. Howe, the minister of reconstruction, has agreed that it will be necessary for the municipality to take over only such part of the establishment as it feels it re-

As the situation of negotiation now stands, it is for Prince Rupert to decide just what portion of the buildings and facilities at Seal Cove it desires, to formally acquire same as soon as possible and take, without delay, the steps necessary to set up the air terminal which it is agreed must be provided here if Prince Rupert is to stay on the modern transportation map. No doubt the city will immediately set about to get expert advice upon which necessary action can be based.

THE 1946 BUDGET

CORECASTS that Finance Minister Ilsley, in his budget at Ottawa next week, will remove the excess profits tax from business and further relieve the personal income tax are reassuring. Of course, it is a foregone conclusion that something of a very substantial natúre must be done along these lines. In fact, the action now expected is due even by anticipation from the words of Mr. Ilsley himself who, in his budget speech of last year, said that it was imperative "we restore incentive and encourage investment in the expansion of the employing capacity of our industries whether in large or small enterprises." That incentive had been nigh stifled by taxation, the inordinately high level of which had as its only justification the winning and paying for the war which, since last budget, has ended.

Here is what a writer in the Financial Post has to say of the 1946 federal budget:

"No budget in Canadian history has paralleled in interest and portent the one which Hon. J. L. Ilsley must deliver shortly at Ottawa. Few, indeed, have been of such immediate concern and importance to business.

"What's at stake is business and personal planning, profit and expansion for many years to come.

Child Welfare and Youth Training Measures Depicted-Helping National Clothing Collection

Timely and impressive talking pictures dealing with the problems of child welfare and youth training in the unusual and abnormal times of war and its aftermath featured the program for the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at its regular weekly luncheon in the Civic Centre yesterday afternoon. What was being done in certain communities to meet these two situations and keep children and youths in the right direction towards proper life and citizenship was graphically depicted. In the one case healthy and profitable occupation for the hildren and adolescent was emphasized. In the other, there was a convincing illustration of how a well-organized and directed apprenticeship program in a certain city had produced highly beneficial and happy results for a large number of youths for whom there had at first seemed to be no employment or future

"3. The evidence given before the Board as set out in the minutes above referred to clearly showed that the sa:vage value of the property under review would be extremely low when consideration was given to the costs of taking down the building and disposing of the same. Estimates of the sum that might be realized from the salvaging of the property showed considerable variance. Buildings of a somewhat comparable class were shown to have realized only 3.16% of the original cost in the case of certain staff houses sold by the War Assets Corporation; 8% of the original cost was realized on the sales of approximately three hundred other buildings; and, in the case of a gymnasium building, the cost price of which was reported to be over $60,000.00 and the currently appraised value $30,000.00, the City of Prince Rupert paid a total of $5,000.00, which included equipment valued at around $2,000.00 in addition to the building.

HOME-MADE CAR DOES 70 MILES TO GALLON-Jack McGrath, of Lowestoft, England, is shown with the 21/2 h.p. car which he built himself. It does 70 miles to the gallon and could be mass produced, says McGrath, for £100 ($450). A 180-mile test run was trouble-free, but took seven hours because curious crowds held up the car at every halt.
